TOURISTS FROM THIRTY STATES VISIT OAKLAND AND GARRETT COUNTY DURING MONTHS OF JULY, AUGUST

Strange as it may seem to the citizens of Oakland, this thriving agricultural community has been visited by tourists and commercial men from thirty states of the Union and from territories of Hawaii and Alaska during the months of July and August.

A Republican reporter obtained this information by examining the register of one of Oakland's leading hotels. Through inquiry he found that the majority of these tourists are greatly impressed by the scenic beauty which abounds in this section of Maryland Deep Creek Lake naturally draws the attention of our summer visitors and it is said that they marvel at the fact that this beautiful lake lies directly on top of this mountain plateau which has an altitude of 2462 feet. It seems rather unusual to all that the Lake is 62 feet higher than the town of Oakland. Many of the vacationists who return year after year continue to visit Muddy Creek and Swallow Falls and they all join in praising the work of the CCC boys who have made this spot one of the truly beautiful camping and picnic spots of the nation. The view along the mountain ranges and in the fertile valleys attracts many, and local hotel and tourist home owners tell us that many reservations have already been made for the month of October when throngs will come to Garrett County to view the foliage as it turns from the green of summer to the vari-colored beauty of autumn.

In looking over the register a bit further we found that the majority of our summer guests are from the neighboring states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, District of Columbia and Ohio and that they are, for the most part, week-end visitors who come to the mountains for a bit of relief from the sweltering heat of the city.

Every section of the country has been represented during the past two months, those traveling the greatest distance to view lovely Garrett county having come from Houston and Dallas, Texas, California and from Canada, Hawaii and Alaska.

This bit of information should prove to the citizens of Oakland and of Garrett County that the summer tourist trade is an economic asset and as such should be catered to and built up to a point where vacationists will want to return not only for the climate and the scenery but because of the warm hand of welcome which is extended to them by the natives who should be true Southerners in their hospitality.

Girl Scouts Carry Off Honors In Zinnia Show

Members of the Oakland Girl Scout troop carried off most of the prize awards in the zinnia show competition held last week-end in the Dr. Broadwater building on Third street.

The show was held under the auspices of the Oakland Civic Club and was in charge of Mrs. Harold H. Harned. Early this spring packages of zinnia seeds were furnished by the Fraser Seed Company and distributed to Girl Scouts, members of various Homemakers Clubs, the Mothers' Club and members of the local Civic Club.

There were twenty entries. In class two prizes were awarded to Mary McRoble, 1st; Mrs. N. I. Broadwater, 2nd; Kathryn Butt, 3rd.

Class three, Vera Welch, 1st; Martha Mitchell, 2nd; Betty Ann Miller, 3rd.

The show will probably be made an annual affair, Mrs. Harned stated. Quite a number of people visited the show on Saturday.

HUNTING SEASON TO OPEN IN COUNTY SEPTEMBER 1

Only Game Hunted at That Time Are Railbirds and Doves

The hunting season will begin on next Wednesday morning, September 1, although there will not be much activity for sportsmen until later in the season. The only game to be lawfully hunted at that time will be railbirds, September 1 to November 30, inclusive, and doves, September 1 to September 30, inclusive.

Other open seasons announced by the game division of the State Conservation Department include the following (all inclusive):

Wild geese, wild ducks, jacksnipe and coot, November 27 to December 26, with exceptions of snow geese, Brant, Ross's Goose, wood duck, ruddy duck, canvasback duck, redhear duck, bufflehead duck and swans.

Squirrels, October 1 to October 15.

Woodcock (male), English ringnecked, Mongolian or Mutant pheasants, ruffled grouse, rabbit or hare, wild turkey, partridges (quail), November 15 to December 31, except in Garrett and Allegany counties, the open season is November 1 to November 30.

Male deer, with two or more points to one antler, December 1 to December 5.

Only a few licenses have been issued at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court in Oakland.

Nine Counties of Maryland, Including Garrett, In Red On Lateral Road Funds

Nine of Maryland's counties, including Garrett, on the basis of the July 31 balance sheet of the State Roads Commission, will close this fiscal year "in the red" in their lateral road fund accounts.

The funds are those allocated to the various counties and Baltimore City from that part of the gasoline tax dedicated to lateral or dirt roads. The shares to the various counties are made on the basis of road mileage in each unit.

The July 31 statement shows that Garrett county is estimated to wind up the year in the red. On the June 30 balance sheet, Garrett county was shown in the black for September 30.

The figures show that Garrett county is in the red $29,813.84, with estimated revenue $14,527.92, making the condition on September 30 still $15,285.92 in the red.

Miniature Circus Comes To Oakland

The circus came to town last Saturday, but it was only a miniature affair, with total rolling stock consisting of a gaudy yellow, streamlined truck that contained the whole show—monkeys, elephants, members of the cat family, denzens of the deep, seals, crocklidiles. However, inside the glass-inclosed truck, which is owned by a chewing gum company, is a tiny replica of a complete three-ring circus, with all the trappings. There are trapeze artists gayly-bedecked elephants and all the other things that go with a great American circus of the present day. Around the rings parade many performers and clowns and each small display advertises a different company product.

The miniature circus was visited and admired by many, old and young. At the performance, which was very unusual, in that the public was invited free of charge, two attractive lassies gave away samples of chewing gum.

900-FOOT PLUNGE IN CAR FATAL TO LESTER BARNARD

Car Rolls Down Mountainside To B. & O. Tracks; Death Comes Following Day at Hospital

FUNERAL HELD MONDAY

Lester Harrison Barnard, 27, near Bloomington, died Saturday in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, West Va., from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Friday afternoon when the automobile he was driving plunged over the side of the mountain a distance of 900 feet to the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near Luke, Md.

Barnard, who was thrown clear of the vehicle just before it crashed on the tracks, fell to the railroad right-of-way, where he was found in an unconscious condition by workmen from the near-by pulp mill, who were sent to the scene. The man suffered a broken back and concussion of the brain and multiple lacerations of the face and body.

S. T. Stullenbarger, switch board operator at the pulp mill gate, was probably the only witness to the accident. He said that Barnard was just about to enter the Piedmont-Elk Garden road coming from Beryl, W. Va., when suddenly the car left the road. It overturned many time, Stullenbarger said, before Barnard was thrown out of the battered machine. Barnard was employed in the chipper house of the paper mill and was on his way to work from his home.

In its descent down the mountainside the car carried away every telegraph and telephone line skirting the railroad right of way and for some time no telegraph service was available for the routing of trains or commercial work.

Barnard is survived by his wife, Mrs. Angie F. Barnard; his father, Washington Barnard, of Bloomington; six brothers, Earl, Garland, Pershing, Richard and Russell, all of Bloomington, and Loyal Barnard, with the U. S. Marines in the Hawaiian Islands; two sisters, Mrs. Martha Wilt, of near Swanton, and Miss Olive Barnard, of Bloomington.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the United Brethren church at Edinburg, Va., the remains having been taken to that place on Sunday.

Looking for a Larger "Largest" Tree in Maryland

State Forester F. W. Besley is making his annual tour of Maryland in search of the largest and most unusual trees.

After a swing down through the lower Eastern Shore he found several trees which he believed will excel the ones which have been listed as the largest of their species.

The Wye Oak, near Wye Mills, Talbot county, is not expected to be surpassed by any tree known to be growing in the state. It is a white oak, 95 feet tall with a spread of 165 feet and a trunk circumference of 27 feet, 8 inches at a height of 4½ feet above the ground.

The size of trees is figured on the height plus the spread plus the trunk circumference. The Wye Oak is not the tallest, being surpassed by a white pine in Garrett county, near Merrill. The latter is 157 feet high but has little spread.

Louis-Farr Fight On The Air At 9:00 Tonight

The world heavyweight scrap between Champion Joe Louis and the Welchman, Tommy Farr, will get under way at Yankee Stadium tonight at 9:00 o'clock, with most of the world tuned in.

Clem McCarthy will broadcast the round by round description with Edwin C. Hill doing the between rounds.

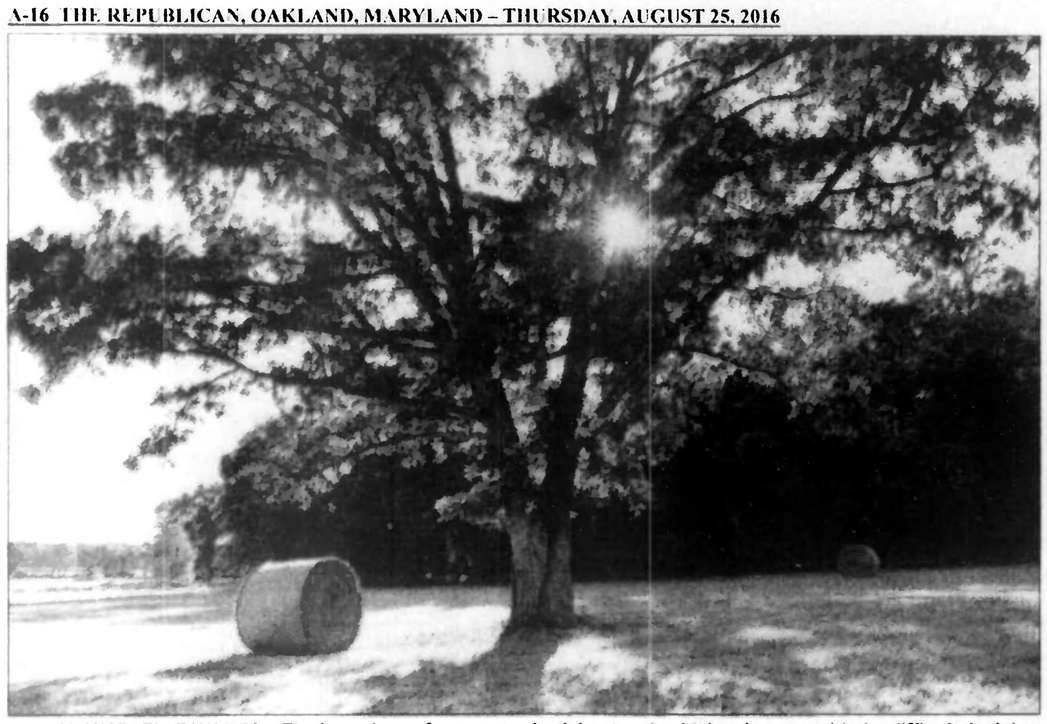
The odds are now 5 to 1 on Louis with most of the experts picking the Brown Bomber.

The champion is scheduled for 40 percent of the gate, while the challenger and the milk fund each draw 10 per cent.

Hutton Camps Closing Today

Camps Minnetoska and Whitethorn, near Hutton, are closing today after having been open for two months or more.

The camps are under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hansen, of Baltimore, who have been operating them successfully for several years. Today brings to a close the largest camps Mr. and Mrs. Hansen have ever operated here.



SUMMERTIME WANES – The long days of summer, when the sun drifts down with patience and leisure, are indeed on the wane. Harvests are underway, hay is being made, and apples are nearly ready for pies and cider. The growing season in Garrett County is short but sweet, and autumn is lovely. The cusp of those two seasons brings both heat and cold, leaving one with the difficult decision each morning: Shorts or pants? Soon there will be no question. Photo by Lindsay Mulliken.

Guitar, Mandolin, Violin Classes To Begin In September

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will offer guitar, mandolin and violin courses at the GC Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, beginning on Monday, Sept. 14, in the evening. Classes are offered in 10, half-hour individualized segments by appointment.

The courses will provide instruction of fundamentals, as well as music theory for beginning, intermediate, and advanced students.

Beginning students will develop skills in reading musical notation and basic technique playing melody and chords. Intermediate and advanced students will further develop their technique through scales and etudes, and explore a variety of literature, as well as learn to improvise and compose their own works. In addition, intermediate and advanced students will gain knowledge to analyze music, compose, and transcribe their own works.

Prior to registration, the student will need to discuss his/her proficiency with the instructor. Students must have access to an instrument to practice assignments on a daily basis. The age range for the course is 5 and older.

The course is being instructed by local musician Robert G. Wallace, who earned an associate degree in secondary education from Allegany College of Maryland, as well as a bachelor's degree in music education from Frostburg State University.

While a student at FSU, he was appointed the position of music theory tutor for 2012 and is now certified to teach music to students in kindergarten through 12th grade.

"Robert's teaching background is impressive, having taught private lessons for seven years," a GC spokesperson said.

He is currently teaching at the Cumberland Music Academy. He has taught students ranging in age from 4 to 70 years old, from beginners through advanced players.

For additional information, persons are invited to contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Ruth Enlow Library To Host Lecture On George C. Marshall

The Ruth Enlow Library will host a lecture about George C. Marshall and his leadership model, presented by Dr. Gerald Pops, professor emeritus of public administration at West Virginia University, where he taught from 1974 to 2010.

The lecture is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 12, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at the Oakland library. It is free and open to the public. To register for this event, persons are asked to contact Bonnie at 301-334-3996, ext. 117, or bonnie@relib.net.

Dr. Pops, who is the author of Ethical Leadership in Turbulent Times: Modeling the Public Career of George C. Marshall, will cover Marshall's achievements, attributes, leadership style, and historical connections in his lecture at Oakland.

"Marshall was the major military leader during World War II," noted Pops, "the glue that held the entire operation together, and the designer of the famous Marshall Plan – the economic recovery plan for Europe. President Harry Truman referred to him as 'the greatest American of the age.'"

Marshall "was one of the most decorated military leaders in American history," states History.com. "A graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, he was a World War I staff officer and later became assistant commandant at the U.S. Infantry School. Named chief of staff when World War II began in 1939, Marshall was responsible for exponentially increasing the size of the U.S. Army, and he helped devise Operation Overlord in 1944. After the war, he came out of retirement to serve as President Harry Truman's secretary of state . . . He was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1953."

"In Ethical Leadership in Turbulent Times, Pops draws on the career of Marshall as a case study, focusing on his style of effective, ethical leadership to answer questions such as what is leadership and what makes leadership good or bad," said a library spokesperson.

Pops attended the University of California at Los Angeles, graduating in premedicine. He received his law degree at the University of California, Berkeley, and a doctoral degree in public administration from Syracuse University

He served as an Air Force judge advocate and a legislative analyst with the California legislature, taught political science at Northern Arizona University before joining the faculty at West Virginia University, and was a Fulbright Lecturer in 1993 and 2001.

His writings and teachings extend beyond Marshall and ethical leadership to labor relations, administrative justice and ethics, and, more recently, writing plays and stories with his daughters and granddaughters.

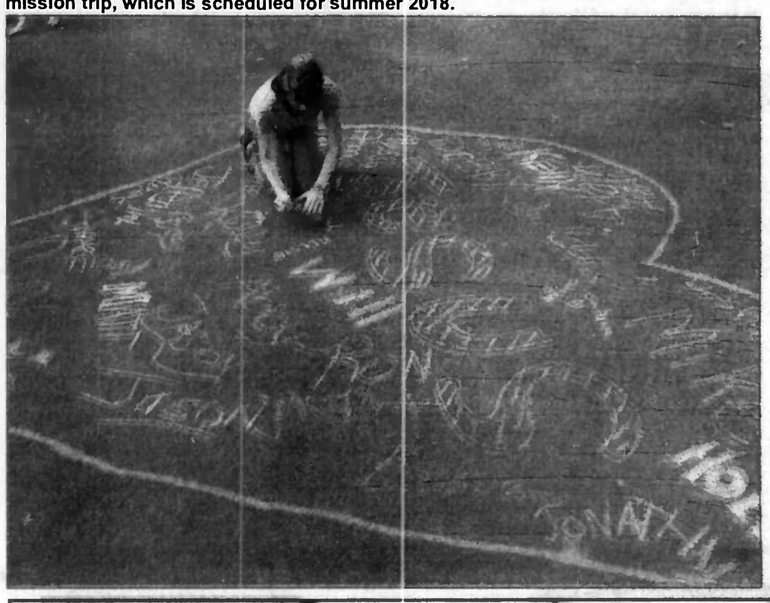
LOCAL YOUTH TAKE MISSION TRIP – Members of Divine Hope Church of Oakland recently went on a mission trip to Staten Island, N.Y. The church's youth group, Inside Out, had been holding and participating in various events since spring of last year to raise money for the excursion. Nine teens and 14 adults made the trip and stayed in a hotel on Staten Island. The 23-member group was divided into two teams each day to work on a variety of projects. The main project involved working at a house that was flooded by Hurricane Sandy in October 2012. The team replaced or repaired drywall, framing, and insulation, as the homeowner has not been able to live in the house since it was flooded. The other Divine Hope team worked on outreach projects around Staten Island, which included community lawn care, working with children at an elementary school, and various projects at a local church. Both groups were involved with evangelism in a Staten Island neighborhood, as well as at a community park with children and youth. Youth group members pictured above left are, front row, from left, Jordyn Thomas, Kayden Avona, Aiddan Tippen, and Will Gearhart; second row, Tiffany Longacre, Jonathan Nazelrod, and Abby Buckley; and third row, Brysen Cowgill, Holly Buckley, Sofi Gearhart, and Katie Catulle. Above right, from left, Abby Buckley, Jonathan Nazelrod, and Kelly Buckley rake, mow, and clean up along a street. Below left are Mike Avona and Jonathan Nazelrod suited up in protective gear while doing insulation work. Below right, an unidentified Statin Island teen adds her name to the youth group's large chalk-drawn heart on the pavement. "We had a great week of serving others and helping with Hurricane Sandy relief efforts, while at the same time experiencing a different way of life than what we're used to here in Garrett County," said a group spokesperson. "Mission trips help open up our eyes to the needs of the world and allow us to serve others, even if it's brief. This was a great opportunity for our youth." The youth group plans to begin raising funds early next year for its next mission trip, which is scheduled for summer 2018.



Mon General Hospital Gets High Ranking

Mon General Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., has captured the #2 spot on U.S. News & World Report's 2016-17 ranking of Best Regional Hospitals in West Virginia.

Mon General is also rated as "high performing" in five "Adult Procedures and Conditions" – more than any other hospital in the state. These are chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), colon cancer surgery, heart failure, knee replacement, and hip replacement.

Of the 70 hospitals in West Virginia, only four meet the high standards to be ranked. Mon General shares the #2 spot with WVU Hospitals, also in Morgantown. Charleston Area Medical Center is ranked #1, while St. Mary's Medical Center in Huntington was ranked in fourth place.

U.S. News & World Report has been publishing its annual Best Hospitals list for the past 26 years, and began publishing a regional list in 2011. It uses a proprietary ranking methodology utilizing publicly-available safety, quality, and patient satisfaction data to devise its Best Regional Hospitals list and Adult Procedures and Conditions rankings.

Demos To Meet, Hear Steve Fratz

The Garrett County Democratic Club will hold its monthly meeting next Thursday, Sept. 1, at 7 p.m. in Room 211 in the Continuing Education Building of Garrett College, McHenry.

The featured speaker will be Steve Fratz, director of the Garrett County Board of Elections. His topic will be "Early Voting."

All are welcome to attend, regardless of party affiliation.

HomeSchooler Series To Resume At Local Library

The Ruth Enlow Library will resume its HomeSchooler Series programs every month during the school year except for December, beginning this September at the Oakland and Accident branches.

HomeSchoolers meet in the Oakland library from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., usually on the first Friday of the month. The Accident series is held on the third Thursday of the month from 1 to 2 p.m.

Program are free, and registration is required. To sign up for the Accident programs, persons are asked to contact Crystal at 301-746-8792 or crystal@relib.net. To sign up for the Oakland programs, persons may contact Julie at 301-334-3996, ext. 104, or julie@relib.net.

Oakland's first event – "LEGO Education WeDo 2.0" – is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 9, with Karen Wood from the University of Maryland Extension.

"Because of the Labor Day weekend, the program is being held on the second rather than the first Friday of the month," a spokesperson noted.

Accident's first event – "Osmos & IPads, Oh My!" – is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 15, with Woods.

A listing of events and services at the Ruth Enlow Library is available at relib.net. The public is invited to follow the library on Facebook at facebook.com/RuthEnlowLibrary.

On Being Humble

We all know that self-praise stinks, or to quote Jesus, "those who exalt themselves will be humbled, and those who humble themselves will be exalted." (Matthew 23:12 NIV) This is an astute observation, and one which has many applications to life. Jesus made this statement while pointing out how religious leaders or teachers often desire to be exalted by fancy titles and seats of honor. Little has changed in two thousand years; people still like fancy titles and "seats of honor" (e.g., the corner office). Perhaps we are hard-wired to respond to hierarchies and pecking orders, and we all know people who just can't stand it if they aren't the top dog. Jesus' statement appears to be a recommendation to humble ourselves so that others will then exalt us, and in the social realm, this frequently happens—we praise others precisely because of their humility. But the more important lesson here concerns the spiritual realm. In the kingdom of heaven, he who is least among you will be the most exalted. Pope Francis is frequently praised for his genuine humility, just as his namesake St. Francis was, earning him the nickname "il Poverello" or the little poor man. There is no better example of this than that of God becoming man, and Jesus's greatest acts were his acts which showed the most humility, for example when he washed his disciples' feet (John 13). So humble yourself, and genuinely strive to put others first, seeing them as better than yourself.

– Christopher Simon

LOOKING BACK

Grantsville's Black-Widow Murderess Goes On Trial

by James Rada Jr.

Editor's Note: This is the second of two articles about Grantsville's alleged black-widow murderess Nancy Hufford.

Nancy Hufford had been married three times and all three of her husbands had died, two of them within a short time after marrying Nancy. However, it wasn't until a young mother whom Nancy had cared for died that people began to wonder why death seemed to follow Nancy closely.

When Rebecca Engle died a week after childbirth, Rebecca's husband Samuel was quick to assume that not only had his wife been killed, but Nancy was the murderess. Some researchers have suggested that, given how Nancy had benefitted from the deaths of her previous husbands, she was on the lookout for wealthy husband #4 and had chosen Samuel Engle. It is not known whether Nancy moved too quickly after Rebecca's death and said something or had done something to bring suspicion upon herself, but it came quickly and Samuel was adamant in his convictions.

He convinced Rebecca's doctor, J.H. Patterson, to disinter Rebecca's body and perform an autopsy. Patterson did so, and sent the stomach to Professor Atkin in Baltimore for examination. He could find no evidence of any poison, which is not surprising since Rebecca had been dead for weeks by that time.

In the meantime, Nancy was arrested and placed in the Allegany County Jail in September. The following month, she was indicted in Allegany County Circuit Court since Grantsville was still part of Allegany County at that time.

The trial began in November 1851 before Judge Wiesel. State's attorney and former Maryland governor Francis Thomas prosecuted the case. Thomas J. McKaig and George A. Pearre defended Nancy.

During the trial, 23 witnesses were called, including five doctors. The state's evidence was called circumstantial. It rested on the fact that Nancy had purchased a lot of arsenic from a store in Grantsville, with the remark that she wanted to make a salve for her sore leg. Prosecutors pointed out that she never had a sore leg.

On the other side of the table, the poison could not be found, and Professor Atkin testified that he had found no arsenic in Engle's stomach.

"Who can say the verdict would have been the same if the remaining poison had been produced at the trial? She was acquitted according to the rules of law; but there was hardly one in the whole neighborhood believed her to be innocent," wrote the Cumberland Evening Times.

The arsenic Nancy purchased eventually was found hidden in a bureau in the Engle house after the trial had ended. This spurred people to look more into why Nancy had been widowed three times. Two of her four husbands died under mysterious circumstances.

Meanwhile, Nancy disappeared from the public eye. If her goal had been to marry Samuel Engle, she had failed miserably. She had even lost most of her own property to pay for the legal defense that had kept her free.

Nancy made one more appearance in the public record when she and Holmes Wiley got a marriage license in 1862.

"The irony was that through his first wife, Elizabeth Yeast, daughter of John Yeast, Nancy had been Holmes Wiley's stepmother-in-law!" Mrs. John A. Cupler Sr. wrote in Journal of the Alleghenies.

When Wiley died in 1878, there was no mention of Nancy in his will, which led people to believe that she had already died. According to Findagrave.com, Nancy is buried in a grave marked with a field stone in the Wiley Family Cemetery in Grantsville. It appears that Nancy actually outlived her last husband by two years and died in 1880 at the age of 77.

The fact that Nancy lies in an unmarked grave and Wiley didn't leave any part of his estate to his wife makes one wonder what Holmes and his family thought of Nancy. We will likely never know.

James Rada Jr. is the author of seven novels, including Looking Back and Looking Back II, collections of interesting stories about western Maryland. His articles appear regularly in a variety of regional and national magazines. A freelance writer who resides in Gettysburg, Pa., Rada has received numerous awards for his work.

4-H Club News

BITTINGER

by Anna Major, reporter

The Bittinger 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting on Aug. 5 at the Garrett County Fair. A total of 12 members and one guest were in attendance at this informal meeting.

Members discussed their fair experiences, as well as other topics, including the Livestock Olympics.

Club members purchased gifts and prepared for each club member's market animal buyer. Members were reminded to pick up their buyer's gifts in the dairy barn, and also to prepare a written thank-you for buyers and trophy/banner award providers.

Changes to the club's annual pig raffle fundraiser were discussed. Two pig halves will be raffled at the October meeting. Tickets will be sold at a cost of one ticket for $2 or three tickets for $5. Because this is the only club fundraiser, each member is encouraged to sell at least 20 tickets. As in past years, Sharon Lohr provided the pig for the raffle that she bought at the Garrett County Fair Livestock Sale.

Changes to the club's regular monthly meeting day and time will be discussed and voted on at the next meeting, Sept. 13 at 6:30 p.m. Any member who would prefer a different time should attend this meeting.

The meeting ended with cake and ice cream provided by Samantha Wilt and Anna Major to celebrate their birthdays during the fair week.

A.A. Meetings Slated Weekly In Local Area

Alcoholics Anonymous meetings are currently held at several locations in the area.

Into Action meets at Christ Lutheran Church, 180 Main Street, Grantsville, on Tuesdays from 8 to 9 p.m.

The Freedom Group meets at Oak Dale Community Church, 9201 Mason Dixon Highway, Salisbury, Pa., on Wednesdays from 8 to 9 p.m.

Another group meets at St. Paul United Methodist Church, 122 Main Street, Grantsville, on Thursdays from 8 to 9 p.m.

69th Annual Murphy Family Reunion Slated

The descendants of John Henry and Phoeba Ann Murphy, who moved from Schell, W.Va., to the Dry Run area of Garrett County in 1892, will hold their 69th annual family reunion on Sunday, Sept. 4, at New Germany State Park.

The Welcoming Committee will greet relatives and guests in the Recreation Hall, beginning at noon.

Participants are asked to bring their favorite dish. Eating utensils, supplies, and drinks will be furnished. The meal will commence at 1 p.m.

A short business meeting will follow the meal. Prizes and gifts will be given, and there will be games for the children.

"Haven't been to the reunion for a while?" asked a spokesperson. "Then it's time to reconnect and meet the new additions. We'd love to see you again."

For additional information, persons can call 814-842-9641 or 301-729-3888.

RECOGNIZED FOR 40 YEARS OF SERVICE – At a recent summer picnic for Casselman Inn staff members, employee Linda Kline (pictured) was recognized for serving as a waitress there for 40 years. She first began work for Casselman Inn on May 19, 1976, and she continues to serve guests in the historic inn located on Main Street in Grantsville. "Her restaurant co-workers, local residents, and travelers enjoy her steady, friendly presence," said a spokesperson. Merv Brenneman, general manager of the restaurant, inn, and motel, presented Kline with a gift of appreciation.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It's still not known who made the following sage observation: "Thousands of years ago, cats were worshipped as gods. Cats have never forgotten this."

* You probably won't be surprised to learn that 92 percent of teens say that they use social media -- the only question there is why the other 8 percent aren't using it. It is surprising, though, that, according to a recent survey, 54 percent of teens feel their teen years would be happier if social media didn't exist.

* This contentious election season is a good time to increase your vocabulary. Between now and Nov. 8, you may find ample opportunity to use the word "calumniate," which means "to maliciously make false statements about someone."

* President Lyndon B. Johnson owned four beagles while he was in the White House: Edgar, Freckles, Him and Her.

* In 2011, a Denver woman named Susan Cole went to great lengths to avoid jury duty. When she arrived at the courthouse -- with curlers, mismatched shoes and deliberately botched makeup -- she handed District Judge Anne Mansfield a sob story about domestic violence, military service and post-traumatic stress disorder. She was excused from jury duty, and if she'd been smart, that would've been the end of the matter. However, a few months later, a radio talk show's featured topic was avoiding jury duty, and Cole couldn't resist telling her story in detail. Unfortunately for her, Judge Mansfield also was listening, and Cole was charged with first-degree perjury.

* Sometimes a group of rabbits will get really excited and start to jump around wildly. When that happens, it's called a binky.

Thought for the Day: "Men rarely (if ever) managed to dream up a god superior to themselves. Most gods have the manners and morals of a spoiled child."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Sept. 4, 476 A.D., Romulus Augustus, the last emperor of the Western Roman Empire, is deposed by Odoacer, a German barbarian, who proclaims himself king of Italy. Although Roman rule continued in the East, it marked the end of the original Roman Empire.

* On Aug. 29, 1533, Atahuallpa, the 13th and last emperor of the Incas, dies by strangulation at the hands of Francisco Pizarro's Spanish conquistadors. The execution of the last free reigning emperor ended 300 years of Inca civilization.

* On Aug. 31, 1897, Thomas Edison receives a patent for his movie camera, the Kinetograph, which used celluloid film. In 1898, Edison sued Biograph Pictures, claiming patent infringement. However, in 1902, the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that Edison only owned rights to the sprocket system that moved perforated film through the camera.

* On Sept. 2, 1959, Henry Ford II introduces his company's newest car, the Falcon. The compact car was an overnight success. In just one day, dealers had snapped up every one of the 97,000 cars in the first production run.

* On Aug. 30, 1967, Thurgood Marshall becomes the first black American to be confirmed as a Supreme Court justice. He would serve for 24 years before retiring for health reasons, leaving a legacy of upholding the rights of the individual.

* On Sept. 3, 1982, Apple co-founder Steve Wozniak's US Festival opens in San Bernardino, California. Entertainment included The Police, The Kinks and Fleetwood Mac, along with games for the Atari Video Computer System. The Apple Macintosh was still 18 months away.

* On Sept. 1, 1998, the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 finally goes into effect. The law required that all cars and light trucks sold in the U.S. have air bags on both sides of the front seat.

Food Recalls Are on the Rise

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have five dogs, varying in age from puppy to senior, and three parakeets, and because of their very different dietary needs, I'm careful about what I buy and what they eat. I've seen many more product recalls of pet food than there used to be, even just a few years ago. What is going on? -- Daniel, via email

DEAR DANIEL: What you're seeing is the result of the Food Safety Modernization Act, which was signed into law in 2011. It gave the Food and Drug Administration more authority to improve food safety, including mandating pet-food recalls. Before the law was passed, individual pet-food companies could recall foods at their discretion. Because of this -- and because the regulations were finalized in September 2015 -- we are seeing a lot more pet products being recalled. For pet owners, this sudden increase is certainly alarming. However, it's also an indication that some of the new regulations are beginning to work. Companies are complying with the recall mandate, and hopefully the same companies also are working to improve their pet-food products so that they are safe to eat. As a pet owner, you can help keep the new FDA regulations moving forward. Go to www.FDA.gov and search for "pet food." There you'll find detailed instructions on filing a complaint about a pet food, along with information about the latest recalls. If you want to take more direct action, The Association for Truth in Pet Food, founded by Mollie Morrisette and Susan Thixton, is directly tackling product labeling and advocating for owners of pets sickened by manufactured food.

Collecting

Q: I have inherited my mom's cookbook collection. There is one book that I think might be valuable. It is a 1900 edition of the "White House Cook Book" by Fanny Lemira Gillette and published by the Saalfield Company. In addition to recipes and several engravings of first ladies, there are two pages featuring titles of other Saalfield books. Although I have no plans to sell this book since it is a family heirloom, I am curious about how much it might be worth. -- Susan, Metarie, Louisiana

A: The first edition of the "White House Cook Book" was published in 1887 and was based on recipes gathered by Fanny Lemira Gillette. Subsequent editions were co-authored by Hugo Ziemann, White House steward, and featured interesting facts such as seating plans and etiquette for state occasions. There also were illustrations of the White House kitchen and dining rooms. These cookbooks were extremely popular and updated through the 1930s. According to the "Collectible Cookbooks Price Guide" by Patricia Edwards and Peter Peckham and published by Krause Books, your cookbook is valued in the $50 to $100 range, depending, of course, on condition. Most of the editions of the "White House Cookbook" I have spotted in shops and at antique malls have been priced in the $35 to $50 range.

Q: I have a vase that an elderly lady gave me. She called it "Goofy Glass." It features rose-like blossoms all around the outside. I wonder if you have any knowledge of this type of glass and could clue me in. -- Shirley, State Center, Iowa

A: I think your vase could be a piece of Goofus glass. I can't find anything about goofy glass. According to "Glass A to Z" by David J. Shotwell, Goofus glass is a type of luster-painted glassware, spray-painted prior to firing. It was originally painted in colors that included gold, red, green, blue and combinations. Even though bowls and trays are the most common pieces of Goofus, vases also were crafted. Designs often featured flowers of all types.

Shotwell's book is one of my favorite references about glass, and I always keep it handy because of questions like yours.

Birdseed Tips

1 Freeze seed for a full 24 hours to kill bugs, moths and other creepy-crawly things and their eggs.
2 Use hulled sunflower hearts or chips to avoid messy hulls and sprouts under your feeders.
3 Don't stockpile. Seed that sits around for long periods of time can attract bugs, moths ... even rats. Keep it fresh!

DOVE CENTER BOOSTED BY CIVIC CLUB – As part of Civic Club of Oakland's annual non-profit campaign, a donation was presented to the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence prevention and resource center. "The Dove Center does a tremendous job of taking care of its clients and the club is extremely happy to be one of its partners," a spokesperson said. "The club members are delighted to know that the donation will serve the community through education and awareness." Throughout the year, the Civic Club raises money through various fundraising events, the largest being the Autumn Glory Antique Show and Sale. The dates for the show this year are Friday, Oct. 14, through Sunday, Oct. 16, at the Oakland Community Center. In addition to the AGF show and sale, the club also operates a café with soup and baked goods, all made by members. For more information about the club, persons may visit its FaceBook page (Civic Club of Oakland) or email gfwc.oakland@yahoo.com. FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

Friend Family Association of America

The Friend Family Association of America is sponsoring a Sunday Afternoon Storytelling event this Sunday, Aug. 28, at 1:30 p.m. at the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad on First Street in Friendsville. The topic will be "Tool Time with Dave Sisler," who will show old hand tools of the carpentry trade and share how they were used. The public is invited to attend and may bring their own tools from the past of any trade to show and share.

Benefit Dinner/ Gospel Sing

There will be a benefit dinner and gospel sing at Asher Glade Church of the Brethren this Saturday, Aug. 27, from 3 to 7 p.m. The meal will consist of creamed chicken and biscuits, green beans, mashed potatoes and gravy, dessert, and a drink. Donations are appreciated, as all proceeds will benefit the Samaritan's Purse Operation Christmas Child. Gospel groups to perform are Steve Smith, Rodney Durst, Nicki Skidmore, Second Wind, and Heaven's Mountain Band. The public is invited to attend.

Hoyes Spaghetti Dinner

The monthly spaghetti dinner held at Hoyes Church will be held this Friday, Aug. 26, from 5 to 7 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Asher Glade Church of the Brethren

There will be an anointing service for students and employees of the school system this Sunday, Aug. 28. Laity Sunday is Sept. 11.

Shrimp Feast

The Northern Garrett Rescue Auxiliary will be hosting an "all-you-can-eat" shrimp feast this Sunday, Aug. 28, from 1 to 5 p.m. Shrimp will be served from 2 to 4 p.m. The cost is $20 per person, and the event will be held at the Grantsville American Legion. The menu will consist of steamed shrimp, fried chicken, french fries, coleslaw, and soda/water. There will be musical entertainment, tips, and raffles. There will be no take-outs. A cash bar will be available to those 21 and older.

Town News

We have recently experienced some vandalism in the community park. Anyone who witnesses vandalism in the park or around town is call the Maryland State Police at 301-387-1101 or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911. The park belongs to the entire community, and resident help is needed.

No new pavilion rentals will be accepted for the remaining 2016 summer season. The town will be having electrical upgrades made throughout the park.

The Honor and Remembrance Ceremony held by the Friendsville Woodmen Life, Chapter 45, that is normally held in Friendsville Community Park will be held at the Friendsville fire hall on Sunday, Sept. 11, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The next meeting of the mayor and town council is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 12, at 7 p.m. There will be only one meeting during the month of September.

In Loving Memory of
CONNIE HUMBERSON
January 30, 1947 - August 23, 2004

Connie, Darling, we were entwined just like the Bible said we would be. Connie, you were A-B-C-and D. You loved A - angels, B - butterflies, C - carousels, and D was your dogs, and you cannot forget your grandkids. The day Jehovah God took you, He took you very kind, gentle, and sweet. I have thanked Him for that. Darling, you were always here for me. You would always make everything OK. Darling, the tears won't stop. Yes, my beautiful Connie Sue, your earrings are still in and your hair looks great. Darling, our bags are still packed for Boston. Connie, Darling, Happy 53rd Anniversary to you, my "Golden Lady," "Earth Angel," fairest of them all. Darling, you keep talking about getting our vows renewed, this is the year, let's get it done. Darling, I say please and thanks to God a lot. Darling, I am still waiting and looking for one of your notes sealed with a lipstick kiss. Sweetheart, I know you're watching me from a faraway place. Darling, you always said to keep the lights on for you. Sweetheart, the lights just keep getting brighter. Love you, hurry home.

Love Always,
Richard

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

SEPTEMBER SUN AND MOON – As September opens, the sun is in Leo. Around Sept. 17, the sun moves into Virgo. Virgo is the widest zodiac group; the sun takes about six weeks to cross Virgo. (The Earth's motion about the sun makes it appear that the sun is moving eastward about 1 degree each day in front of the stars.) At the start of September, Garrett County's sunrise is at 6:46 a.m., with sunset at 7:49 p.m. Fall begins on Sept. 22 when the sun's vertical rays cross the Equator moving south. On this day, the sun shines equally on the north and south hemispheres. The sun rises due east and sets due west over much of the world at the start of fall and spring. On Sept. 26, both sunrise and sunset are at 7:09, with day and night each exactly 12 hours. The end of September has sunrise at 7:13 a.m. and sunset at 7:02 p.m. So in September, we lose 1.2 hours of daily sunlight, the biggest drop of any month.

September opens and ends with a new moon. On Sept. 3, a slender crescent moon will appear near the brilliant planet Venus very low in the western dusk. On Sept. 8, the nearly half-full moon appears above the planet Saturn in the southwestern evening sky. On Sept. 9, the evening moon appears half-full (first quarter), with its right side lit by the sun and the left side in lunar night. The straight line between bright and dark areas on the moon is called the terminator, where the sun is rising on the lunar surface. Here the crater rims and mountain ridges catch the sun's rays. On this same evening, the moon appears above the yellowish planet Mars.

The harvest moon (full moon closest to the start of fall) is on Sept. 16. As the moon slides east and north, it rises about a half-hour later each night, bringing extra evening moonlight on the following 3-4 nights. Colonial farmers could gather their last remaining crops in the early evening by moonlight. In the late evening hours of Sept. 21, the moon appears very close to Aldebaran, the bright star marking Taurus' eye. On Sept. 23, the moon appears half-full in the southern dawn (last quarter). At month's end, the moon disappears at dawn (new moon).

SEPTEMBER PLANETS – At the start of September, the brilliant planet Venus can be seen within a half-hour of sunset. During September, Venus' angle to the sun grows, so by month's end, Venus will be higher and easier to spot in the western dusk. Jupiter is at too low an angle to the sun to be visible.

Yellowish Mars and Saturn are in the Southwest in the early evening. At the start of September, Mars, Saturn, and the bright star Antares form a triangle easily seen. But during September, Mars moves eastward among the stars and the triangle gets stretched. The planet Mercury can be seen low in the eastern dawn at month's end.

SEPTEMBER STARS – In the evening, the Big Dipper with its seven moderately bright stars is striking in the north northwest. The Dipper's handle extended to the left brings you to the bright golden star Arcturus (means "bear driver"). The two lowest stars of the Dipper's scoop points rightward to the North Star. Nearly overhead at twilight is the bright white-blue star Vega, now the brightest star in view. Late in the evening, the 7 Sisters star cluster can be seen low in the east. This star cluster, resembling a tangle of fireflies, was used by many early cultures to set their calendars.

SEPTEMBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium will resume its weekly public planetarium presentations. Shows will be on Wednesdays at 6 and 7 p.m. The planetarium is in Room 186 of the Gira Center.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet on Friday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. Besides a discussion of sky events, there will be a video on the Hubble space telescope. All interested are welcome to attend.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

LITTLE CROSSINGS DIPS, which opened in June of this year, recently hosted a ribbon-cutting ceremony at its location just around the corner from Cornucopia Café and across the path from Grant's Mercantile along Cassleman Road in Grantsville. Its hours are Mondays through Thursdays from 4 to 9 p.m. and Fridays through Sundays from noon to 9 p.m. Dips uses ice cream from Trickling Springs Creamery of Chambersburg, Pa., which features "clean" artisan food, grass fed cows, non-GMO, farm to table products. "We know how much people loved The Dip, so we're really excited to bring back hand-dipped ice cream to Grantsville," said owner Jan Russell. Ground-breakings, grand-openings, and ribbon-cutting ceremonies are just some of the benefits offered to members of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Any member who would like to arrange such an event or those interested in becoming members may contact Nick Sharps, membership manager for the chamber, at nick@garrettchamber or 301-387-5237. "BOOKS ARE OUR FRIENDS" – Ronald McDonald entertained the crowd at the Oakland library's final 2016 Summer Reading Club gathering with a demonstration of his juggling skills. "He kept the kids enthralled for an hour with magic tricks, games, and a sock puppet named Bookworm, ending the program with the juggling performance," said a Ruth Enlow Library spokesperson. "He reminded the kids that 'books are our friends, but they can't help us if we don't read.'" More than 750 children and 340 adults participated in the 2016 Summer Reading Club. This year's theme was "On Your Mark, Get Set . . . Read!" See story for details.

More Than 1,000 People Participate In Library's Summer Reading Club

Numerous children and adults filled local libraries this past July for the Ruth Enlow Library's 2016 Summer Reading Club. The attendance for the REL system, as a whole, totaled 756 children and 341 adults, according to a spokesperson.

Children tracked the books they read during Summer Reading Club in a reading log, and this year the total reached 2,003 books. Completed reading logs were entered into a drawing for winning prizes at each branch.

Participants also enjoyed a number of programs related to the theme "On Your Mark, Get Set . . . Read!" They learned about eating right and building strong bones, keeping their bodies in shape with exercise and fun outdoor activities, staying focused, and developing confidence and leadership qualities.

The presenters for these programs included the Adventure Sports Institute at Garrett College, Garrett County Health Department Outreach, Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Jazzercise Garrett County, Kickmasters Karate, "Ronald McDonald," the Steel LEGOs Robotics Team, Samantha Wilt (Garrett County Dairy Maid), Bethany Meyers (Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau), Jennifer Pletta, and Pat Shelton.

"The library thanks the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library, Western Maryland Regional Library (WMRL, and all other local presenters, supporters, and volunteers who helped to make Summer Reading Club a success," the spokesperson said. "Without such help, this popular and valuable program would not be possible. The library thanks the statewide supporters as well."

The Baltimore Orioles donated tickets to a home game, and the Maryland Science Center donated several sets of family admission tickets, which were awarded by a drawing of entries from interested reading club participants.

Summer Reading Club is a yearly, cooperative project between the local Maryland Public Libraries and the Maryland State Department of Education's Division of Library Development and Services. The state also is a member of the Collaborative Summer Library Program, a grassroots consortium of states working together to provide high-quality summer reading program materials for children at the lowest cost possible for their public libraries.

August 27 – September 2

Season 3 of 'The Strain' premieres on FX

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

It's fun to be scared, ask any thrill seeker. It must be, given the recent surge in popularity of horror-drama series in prime time. From zombies to vampires and even serial killers, scary TV seems to equal good TV for millions of viewers.

The latest such series to capture the attention of TV audiences is FX's "The Strain," which returns Sunday, Aug. 28. The return marks the beginning of the third season of the acclaimed series based on Guillermo del Toro ("Hellboy," 2004) and Chuck Hogan's ("The Town," 2010) trio of novels of the same name.

"The Strain" stars Corey Stoll ("House of Cards") as Dr. Ephraim "Eph" Goodweather, former head of the Center for Disease Control Canary Team in New York City. He and his allies investigate a mysterious outbreak caused by parasitic worms that cause a form of vampirism. Dr. Goodweather's saga has captured the attention of millions of fans, who are no doubt anxious for season 3.

Unfortunately for fans, season 3 is comprised of just 10 episodes, instead of the usual 13. However, executive producer and showrunner Carlton Cuse ("Lost") isn't daunted. At this year's San Diego Comic-Con, the executive producer explained this season would have a faster pace.

"We wanted to increase the narrative velocity of the show," said Cuse. He went on to say: "This season is really an all-out battle for the soul of New York."

As the season opens, New York has become a battleground where humans must fight just to survive. The federal government soon turns its back on the Big Apple, leaving humans to face off with the strigoi — the show's vampire-like creatures — on their own. As the war rages on, Eph and the other heroes win some battles, but it remains to be seen who will ultimately prevail.

This season, loyalties within the group fracture when betrayal and paranoia threaten to tear them apart. As Eph struggles to cope with the reality of Dr. Nora Martinez's (Mía Maestro, "Alias") death, he resolves to get his son, Zach (Max Charles, "The Lion Guard"), back from the Master (Jack Kesy, "The Throwaways," 2015), an ancient evil being who controls the strigoi. Eph manufactures massive quantities of his bioweapon while experimenting on strigoi and even considers betraying those closest to him.

Neither human nor strigoi, the origins of the mysterious Quinlan (Rupert Penry-Jones, "MI-5") are explored this season as well, and fans are eager to discover more about the intriguing figure. Quinlan hopes to lure out the Master and take him down, which allies him with Eph, for better or for worse.

Samantha Mathis ("The Good Wife") returns as Justine Faraldo, Special Director of Security for New York City — a.k.a. the "Security Czar" — a zealous, power-hungry politician who believes she's the only person willing to do what it takes to win the war. When her plans go awry, though, she's knocked off balance, which could have serious ramifications for everyone in New York.

Fan favorite Kevin Durand ("Lost") also returns this season as Vasiliy Fet, who teams up with a group of Navy SEALS looking for the Master. He also rebounds from his breakup with Dutch (Ruta Gedmintas, "The Incident," 2015), thanks to a beautiful police captain, (America Olivo, "Friday the 13th," 2009).

All the while, the Master continues his quest to transform the world.

"The Strain" has amassed a loyal following, no doubt thanks to the talented team both in front of and behind the camera. Stoll came to the attention of TV audiences thanks to roles in "Law & Order: Los Angeles" and "House of Cards," the latter of which earned him a Golden Globe nomination in 2013. Moviegoers may recognize him as villain Darren Cross in "Ant-Man" (2015).

Cuse is the mastermind behind such other successful series as "Bates Motel" and "Colony," not to mention ABC's legendary ratings juggernaut "Lost," on which he also served as screenwriter. His work on the critically acclaimed series landed him on Time magazine's list of the 100 most influential people in the world in 2010. With nine Emmy nominations — including one win — and countless other industry honors, Cuse knows a good series when he sees one. Luckily for fans of "The Strain," he's also touted as a pioneer of cross-platform promotion, but viewers will have to wait to see what he has up his sleeve for season 3.

Mexican-born del Toro started out in the industry as a special effects makeup artist, which explains why "The Strain" has such killer special effects. He's honed his craft as a director, screenwriter and producer on such films as "Hellboy" (2004), "Pan's Labyrinth" (2006) and "Pacific Rim" (2013).

Hogan's works include the Hammett Prize-winning novel "Prince of Thieves: A Novel," which was made into the film "The Town," starring Ben Affleck in 2010. He's also credited as a writer of the 2016 Michael Bay flick "13 Hours: The Secret Soldiers of Benghazi."

All things considered, season 3 of "The Strain" has a lot to offer viewers, particularly those thrill-seeking souls who love to be scared. With strigoi taking over the Big Apple, Eph and the gang have their work cut out for them. Find out how it all unfolds Sunday, Aug. 28, on FX.

Bad romance

'You're the Worst' says 'I love you' with a third season

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Bad romance: What happens when two selfish, horrible people end up together? Well, it certainly isn't pretty. FXX's "You're the Worst" has spent two seasons exploring this exact phenomenon, and the result, it turns out, is hilarious.

The third season of the critically acclaimed comedy premieres Wednesday, Aug. 31, on the cabler, and is picking up exactly where the last season ended: with Jimmy (Chris Geere, "Waterloo Road") and Gretchen (Aya Cash, "The Wolf of Wall Street," 2013) exchanging "I love yous" for the first time.

The first exchange of those words is usually a turning point in any relationship, and it's no different for these two characters. Jimmy is a selfish jerk who met Gretchen while being kicked out of his ex-girlfriend's wedding for causing a disturbance; Gretchen is a depressed PR executive with an overly cynical attitude who was sneaking out of the same wedding at the same time, trying to steal one of the wedding gifts (which turned out to be a blender, much to her disappointment).

Their one night of post-wedding intimacy has turned into two seasons of hilarity, and there are numbers to prove it. The show has earned two Critics Choice Television Awards nominations for Best Comedy Series, and attracted a sizable cult following, appearing on many critics' "top 10" lists along the way.

Along with the established series regulars, a new face joins the cast for the third season. Samira Wiley ("Orange Is the New Black") guest stars as Gretchen's therapist. Catch the premiere of "You're the Worst," airing Wednesday, Aug. 31, on FXX.

Where no series has gone before: Seth MacFarlane has animated and voice acted. He's written and directed hit movies, sung for audiences at some of the country's most prestigious venues, and even peered into the depths of time itself with famous astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson.

Next up, the two-time Emmy winner is taking on a role for which he's not quite as well known: acting.

MacFarlane's latest project has been ordered straight to series by Fox, even though it doesn't even have a title yet. The unnamed series is an hour-long dramedy executive produced by — and starring — the comedy legend as the captain of the Orville, an exploratory ship traveling the universe 300 years in the future. It's expected to premiere in the 2017-18 television season.

That premise should sound a tad familiar — "Star Trek," anyone? It's no surprise that MacFarlane and Fox would be working on a "Star Trek" spoof: CBS All Access is launching "Star Trek: Discovery" early in 2017, and this summer's Hollywood blockbuster "Star Trek Beyond" has been a critical darling.

Although the new series is still pretty far from a completed pilot, let alone a full series launch, MacFarlane already has company on the cast list. Adrianne Palicki ("Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.") has been cast as the Orville's First Officer, a weighty position made all the more trying by the fact that the captain happens to be her ex-husband.

Frequent MacFarlane collaborator Scott Grimes ("ER") is also an early addition to the cast. He is set to play the Orville's pilot, and the best friend of MacFarlane's captain.

It's in its early days yet, but with MacFarlane's history of success, Fox's upcoming space-exploration comedy seems to have a bright future ahead of it.

Saturday

The Barclays
(5) (5) (5) (19) 3:00 p.m.
Some of the best golfers in the world travel to Farmingdale, New York, to play the third round of The Barclays tournament. This PGA Tour event has been around since 1967, when it was known as the Westchester Classic.

Jurassic World
(300) HBO 5:50 p.m.
Chris Pratt stars as Owen Grady, a Velociraptor trainer, in this reboot of the ground-breaking film franchise. When dinosaurs break free and begin hunting humans, Grady must use his skills. Bryce Dallas Howard, Jake Johnson and Nick Robinson also star.

UFC Fight Night
(3) (4) (5) (53) (10) 6:00 p.m.
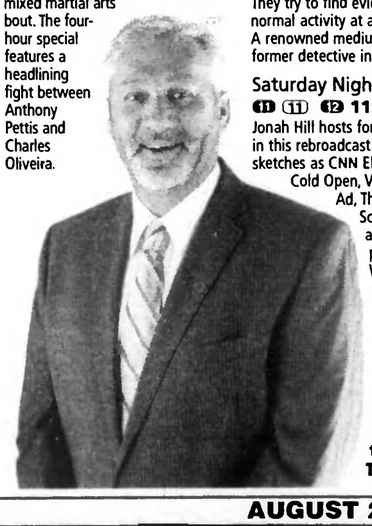
The world's best fighters go head-to-head at the Rogers Arena in Vancouver, B.C., Canada, in another mixed martial arts bout. The four-hour special features a headlining fight between Anthony Pettis and Charles Oliveira.



Last Man Standing
(3) (4) (4) 8:00 p.m.
When Mike (Tim Allen) discovers Kyle (Christoph Sanders) is worried about meeting with the church's new minister, he tells Kyle to use his marriage as an example. However, an argument sends them to the minister instead.

Summer of Dreams
(43) HALL 9:00 p.m.
Debbie Gibson stars as a fading pop star who moves in with her sister when her record company drops her in this premiere movie. There, she snags a job as a substitute high school music teacher and learns that fame isn't everything.

The Dead Files
(49) TRAVEL 10:00 p.m.
Steve and Amy travel to Tennessee to investigate claims of chilling phenomenon in this new episode. They try to find evidence of paranormal activity at a family's home. A renowned medium works with a former detective in this series.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY KNOWN AS
NO. 4229 CHESTNUT RIDGE ROAD
GRANTSVILLE, MD 21536
CASE NUMBER 11-C-16-014552

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Merrill T. Bittinger, Tammy A. Bittinger, recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1064, folio 0571, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting Mark S. Devan, Thomas P. Dore, Brian McNalr, and Angela Nasuta as Substituted Trustees, the Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse Door-Alder Street Entrance, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, 21550 on Monday, September 12, 2016 at 12:30 PM:

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, as described in the Deed of Trust recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liber 1064, folio 0571, also being further described in a Deed recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1009, folio 0088. The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to any existing building violations, restrictions and agreements of record. The purchaser assumes all risks of loss for the property as of the date of sale. Neither the Substituted Trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representations or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property. The Substituted Trustees shall convey insurable title.

TERMS OF THE SALE: A deposit in a form acceptable to the Substituted Trustee in the amount of $7,000.00 will be required of the purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, at the time and place of sale. Any amount tendered at sale in excess of the required deposit will be refunded and not applied to the purchase price. Unless the purchaser is the Holder of the Note or its assigns, the balance of the purchase price shall be paid immediately with available funds within ten (10) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Time is of the essence. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, shall pay interest at the rate of 6.50000% per annum on the unpaid portion of the purchase price from the date of sale to date of settlement. Real property taxes and assessments shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Ground rent, water and/or sewer charges public or private, if any, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property.

In the event settlement is delayed for any reason , there shall be no abatement of interest. If the purchaser defaults, the entire deposit is forfeited. The Substituted Trustees shall resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, all other charges due, and incidental and consequential damages. Defaulting purchaser also agrees to pay the Substituted Trustees' attorney a fee of $250.00 in connection with the filing of a motion to resell.

In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of the deposit. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney. The Substituted Trustees shall have the right to terminate this contract in the event the Holder or its Servicer has entered into any agreement with, or accepted funds from, the mortgagor. Upon termination of the contract, Purchaser's sole remedy shall be return of the deposit.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
36 FERN LOOP
MCHENRY, MD 21541

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Michael D. Caudill and Eric E. Lane, dated January 26, 2007 and recorded in Liber 1284, folio 305 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

AUGUST 31, 2016 AT 1:14 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett Co., Maryland and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, easements, encumbrances and agreements of record affecting the subject property, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit in the form of cashier's or certified check, or in such other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine, at their sole discretion, for $22,000 at the time of sale. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid within fifteen (15) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Maryland. Interest is to be paid on the unpaid purchase price at the rate of 6.75% per annum from date of sale to the date the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees, if the property is purchased by an entity other than the noteholder and/or servicer. If payment of the balance does not occur within fifteen days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event settlement is delayed for any reason. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, and all other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, and front foot benefit charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to the date of sale, and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowners association dues, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale. The purchaser shall be responsible for the payment of the ground rent escrow, if required. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, and all settlement charges shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, the sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

SEPTEMBER 7, 2016 AT 1:30 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with any buildings or improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, and any improvements thereon, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $12,000 in the form of certified check, cashier's check or money order will be required of the purchaser at time and place of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year's real property taxes are adjusted as of the date of sale, and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Taxes due for prior years including costs of any tax sale are payable by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for any recapture of homestead tax credit. All other public and/or private charges or assessments, to the extent such amounts survive foreclosure sale, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale to be paid by the purchaser. All costs of deed recordation including but not limited to all transfer, recordation, agricultural or other taxes or charges assessed by any governmental entity as a condition to recordation, are payable by purchaser, whether or not purchaser is a Maryland First Time Home Buyer. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, subject to order of court, purchaser agrees that property will be resold and entire deposit retained by Sub Trustees as liquidated damages for all losses occasioned by the purchaser's default and purchaser shall have no further liability. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Sub. Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if ratification of the sale is denied by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
4866 CRANESVILLE RD.
OAKLAND, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Richard Perron a/k/a Richard F. Perron, dated February 22, 2005 and recorded in Liber 1107, folio 350 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

AUGUST 31, 2016 AT 1:20 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and described as Tax Id #06-008909 & Tax ID #06-033385 and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $9,000 by cash or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. There will be no abatement of interest in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement or if settlement is delayed for any reason. The noteholder shall not be obligated to pay interest if it is the purchaser. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of all real property taxes, including agricultural taxes, if applicable, and any and all public and/or private charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges and ground rent, to be adjusted to date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowners association dues, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale forward. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Additional terms to be announced at the time of sale.

If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit without interest. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited, to the Trustees for application against all expenses, attorney's fees and the full commission on the sale price of the above-scheduled foreclosure sale. In the event of default, all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Trustees may then re-advertise and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser or may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser without reselling the property. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to receive the surplus, if any, even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulting purchaser and the defaulting purchaser shall be liable to the Trustees and secured party for reasonable attorney's fees and expenses incurred in connection with all litigation involving the Property or the proceeds of the resale. Tucker Community Foundation Taking Grant Applications

Grants totaling $75,000 will be awarded to benefit projects and programs in the region served by Tucker Community Foundation this fall. The grant cycle opened on Aug. 1 and continues through mid-September.

Applications can be downloaded or picked up the TCF development office in Davis, W.Va., or the main office in Parsons, W.Va. Applicants should use the mini-grant application for requests under $500. All applications are due (postmarked) by 4 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 16.

Grants supporting youth, historic preservation, the arts, senior citizens, education, health, libraries, literacy programs, and other charitable causes will benefit nonprofits in Barbour, Grant, Mineral, Preston, Pocahontas, Randolph and Tucker counties in West Virginia, and Garrett County in Maryland. Awards are based on a competitive application process. Grant funds are provided by donors who have established endowed funds and other unrestricted income of the foundation.

Preston County nonprofit organizations can apply for grant support from the Preston Community Fund, an unrestricted endowment that generates awards based on recommendations from the Preston County Advisory Committee and approval by the Tucker Community Foundation Board of Directors.

New funds that will generate additional competitive grant awards this year include the Tucker County Economic and Community Development Fund (aka TED Fund), the Ryan Patrick Gosa Fund, and the Albert and Frances Kerzic Fund.

The TED Fund was established on a dollar-for-dollar challenge-match by the foundation.

"Donors quickly met the challenge and as a result, the first grant will be awarded this fall," noted Diane Hinkle, TCF development director.

The TED Fund supports activities related to job creation, job retention, and general improvements to the business climate of Tucker County. TED grants may be used for community development activities, construction of public facilities, and improvements, preservation and restoration of historic properties.

The Ryan Patrick Gosa Fund is a donor-advised fund that supports liberal arts projects and programs in Tucker County related to journalism, theater arts, physical arts, STEAM (science, technology, engineering, arts, and mathematics) education, the social sciences, etc.

The Albert A. and Frances M. Kerzic Memorial Fund is intended to promote education, recreation, historic preservation, beautification, and economic development for Davis, per recommendation of the donors.

Mini grants under $500 and other grants ranging from $500 to $5,000 will be announced after the foundation's Oct. 19 board meeting. Projects that are innovative and demonstrate impact are of particular interest to the committee.

Applications can be downloaded at www.tuckerfoundation.net/grants. Completed applications should be dropped off before 4 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 16, at the TCF office, located at 100 Education Lane, Parsons, the TCF development office at 737 William Ave., Suite 1, Davis; or mailed (postmarked by 9/16) to Tucker Community Foundation, PO Box 491, Parsons, WV 26287.

For more information on the grant process, persons can contact the foundation office at 304-478-2930 or 304-259-5008.

GRMC Opens New Family Centered Maternity Suite

Obstetrical physicians at Garrett Regional Medical Center recently joined together to cut the ribbon for the new Herbert H. and Dorothy B. Leighton Family Centered Maternity Suite. The new unit is named in honor of Dr. Herbert H. Leighton for his long-term tenure as a physician at the hospital, primarily in the area of maternity and delivery services.

"This unit will be such a blessing to the families of Garrett County and surrounding areas for years to come," said Sotiere Savopoulos, MD, chief of obstetrical services at GRMC. "We are so thankful for everyone who helped make it possible to continue to provide quality, passionate care to families."

The second floor of Garrett Regional Medical Center was full of local residents, family, friends, colleagues, and staff, who gathered for the event to recognize Dr. Leighton and celebrate the opening of the new unit with him. Leighton was the only delivering physician at the hospital for many of his early years in practice. Throughout his career, he delivered a record total of 6,510 babies.

"My family is very happy that my parents are receiving this well deserved honor," said Barbara Leighton, MD.

The new unit houses five LDRP (labor, delivery, recovery, postpartum) rooms, an exam room, and four private patient rooms. The unit is fully equipped with state-of-the-art equipment and patient-centered accommodations. The large, hotel-like rooms are all designed with efficiency and patient and family comfort in mind, according to Kathy Greaster, GRMC director of marketing and public relations.

"Garrett Regional Medical Center is a great facility, one that continues to grow and improve services to meet the health needs of the Garrett County region," said Sen. George Edwards. "I am proud of what the medical center has available and provides in the local community. People here deserve quality care, state-of-the-art care, and we're pleased that they do have access to it, right here at home."

Also on hand for the celebration were many individual donors who helped to make the new unit possible. Among those were volunteers from the hospital's Loar Auxiliary, which contributed a total of $30,000 to fund new rockers and infant cribs for the all the rooms.

BACK TO THE ROUTINE – Alarm clocks are going off a little earlier now across the mountaintop, as Garrett County's kids, with backpacks loaded and lunches packed, get back into the swing of school. Vava Recker is pictured above, about to step onto her bus, with her own backpack and new headband. All drivers are urged to be alert and aware of the buses on the roadways every morning and afternoon. When the lights are flashing yellow, all drivers are to stop immediately. The lights will change to red, and the "precious cargo" will board. There is no meeting important enough nor appointment too urgent to cause any driver to risk the safety of school children on the roadways. Patience should always be the word of the day. Garrett County To Receive $27,000 For School Bus Safety Enforcement

Gov. Larry Hogan announced on Friday that the state is providing more than $540,000 to local law enforcement agencies to help them enforce Maryland school bus safety laws in 22 counties. Garrett County will receive $27,000.

The grants will be used to pay for overtime for police officers who patrol streets when school buses are on the road, and for public education programs to inform the driving public about Maryland's law requiring drivers to stop when a school bus has stopped to pick up or drop off passengers.

"Maryland children are back to school, and many ride school buses every day to get to class," said Hogan."It's our job – as parents, grandparents, and government leaders – to be sure they are safe on their way to and from school."

Maryland law requires motorists to stop 20 feet behind or in front of a school bus that has its "STOP" arm down and lights flashing while loading or discharging students. Drivers who ignore the stop arm and illegally drive past school buses could be fined and receive points on their driving records.

A one-day survey completed by the Maryland Department of Education last April found that school bus drivers recorded a total of 4,334 times that drivers illegally drove past school buses that had stopped on the road with the stop arm down and lights flashing.

"You may be late for an appointment, you may be rushing to work, but there's no excuse to drive past a stopped school bus," said Glenn Fueston, executive director of the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention, which administered the funding through the School Bus Safety Enforcement Fund. "Drivers must remember that speeding past a stopped school bus risks the lives of innocent children and bystanders."

Following the 2016 legislative session, Hogan signed Senate Bill 83, which renamed the School Bus Safety Enforcement Fund to the School Safety Enforcement Fund. The legislation will expand the purposes of the fund, provide localities with additional flexibility to address school safety needs, and allow county boards of education, in addition to law enforcement entities, to apply for the grants, according to the governor's office. The changes will take effect Oct. 1, and will be incorporated into the next notice of funding availability for the program.

State Auditors Give Circuit Court Clerk's Office A Favorable Report

The Garrett County Circuit Court clerk's office received a favorable report from a recent audit conducted by the Office of Legislative Audits, Department of Legislative Services, Maryland General Assembly. The audit covered the period from May 13, 2013, to June 12, 2016.

The audit team released its report on Aug. 16.

"Our audit did not disclose any findings," wrote Thomas J. Barnickel III, CPA, in the a cover letter addressed to the General Assembly's Joint Audit Committee. "We wish to acknowledge the cooperation extended to us by the office during the course of the audit,"

The report notes that Circuit Court clerk Tim Miller and his staff perform a variety of functions for the public, such as filing, docketing, and maintaining various legal records; recording documents involving title to real estate; collecting the related fees, commissions, and taxes; and issuing certain licenses. In performing these functions, the office collect funds on behalf of the state, county, and local municipalities, and distributes those funds to the applicable entities.

"Our audit did not disclose any deficiencies in the design or operation of the office's internal control," the audit team wrote in its report. "Our audit also did not disclose any significant instances of noncompliance with applicable laws, rules, or regulations."

According to the state's accounting records, the clerk's office's fiscal year 2015 revenues totaled $6,450,319. These revenues were distributed in the following manner:

- $3,400,529 was distributed to Garrett County and its incorporated municipalities.
- $3,049,790 (the remaining amount) was represented revenues to the state for purposes specified by various provisions of state law.

The office's FY 2015 operating expenses, which were paid primarily from a general fund appropriation, totaled $746,389.

According to the report, the office also maintained custody of certain funds that had balances totaling $19,865 as of May 31, 2016.

The report is available for viewing at https://www.ola.state.md.us/Reports/Fiscal%20Compliance/GarrettClk16.pdf

Route 219 PEL Study Finished, Workshops Set

The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration and the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, in coordination with the Federal Highway Administration, have completed the Planning and Environment Linkages (PEL) study for U.S. 219, from I-68 in Maryland to Meyersdale, Pa.

The PEL reviewed the entire corridor to determine if any smaller stand-alone projects could be identified. One project was identified from the I-68 interchage in Grantsville to a connection with existing U.S. 219 near Old Salisbury Road in Maryland.

"This stand-alone project will foster transportation access to the proposed Casselman Farm Development of Garrett County's Chestnut Ridge Development corridor, a progressing economic devleopment area,'" a study brochure noted. "This project will address potential safety concerns along existing U.S. 219 without requiring any further extensions or enhancements. At the same time, construction of this project will not restrict future completion of the corridor to Meyersdale, Pa."

Two informational public workshop sessions will be held to gather public comments on the project's purpose and need, and draft concepts for potential alternatives. Both sessions will have the same format and content.

Public workshop sessions are scheduled for the following dates:

Thursday, Sept. 8, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Grantsville Elementary School;

GC Commissioners To Hold Next Public Session On Sept. 6

The Garrett County commissioners will hold their next public meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 6, beginning at 4 p.m. at the courthouse in Oakland.

Action items on the agenda include issuing a proclamation for Economic Development Week, signing a resolution for interim funding for the West Conveyance Sewer Project at Deep Creek Lake, awarding a bid for a healthcare plan for Garrett County employees, appointing a member to the Local Government Justice Reinvestment Commission, and reviewing a Maryland Environmental Services Waterway Improvement Fund application.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce officials will also give a presentation on their fiscal year 2017 Tourism Marketing Plan.

Hogan Mandates Post-Labor Day Start; Objections Swiftly Follow

Larry Hogan, governor of Maryland, stood with Comptroller Peter Franchot yesterday, Aug. 31, in Ocean City to announce that he has signed an executive order mandating a post-Labor Day start for all of Maryland's public schools beginning in 2017. The order further mandates that the school year end by June 15.

Citing what he maintains are the benefits of a post-Labor Day school start for Marylanders and the economy, the governor made the announcement on the Ocean City Boardwalk, where in addition to the comptroller, he was joined by Ocean City mayor Rick Meehan, Sen. James Mathias, Del. Mary Beth Carozza, education advocates, and other supporters.

The executive order will require that Maryland's public schools begin after Labor Day, complete the 180 days that are required under state law, and adjourn by June 15, beginning with the 2017-2018 school year.

The governor said yesterday that starting Maryland public schools after Labor Day "is not just a family issue – it's an economic and public safety issue that draws clear, strong, bipartisan support among an overwhelming majority of Marylanders." He went on to say that the executive order "puts the best interests of Marylanders first," especially the well-being of students.

"This action is long overdue, and it is simply the right thing to do," Hogan said.

The executive order does permit for a waiver to be applied for with the Maryland State Department of Education to be exempt from the post-Labor Day start date. For the 2017-2018 school year and beyond, local school systems will have to apply annually for the waiver based on "compelling justification." The Maryland State Department of Education will establish procedures and standards for school districts and individual schools seeking special waivers to accommodate non-traditional schedules.

Franchot has been a champion of the post-Labor Day start proposal for several years, and tried for the past two years to pass the law through the General Assembly. But the bills were rejected and died in committee in both 2015 and 2016, as they were met with strong opposition by the state's educators, including the Maryland Association of Boards of Education (MABE), representing all 24 of the state's local boards of education, the state superintendents association, and a wide range of education professionals as well as parents and students.

The reaction from the professional organizations was swift and condemning yesterday, with press releases sent out within minutes of the governor's ceremonious announcement at the shore.

"The Maryland Association of Board of Education supports the right of local boards to adopt school calendars, including when the school year begins," the MABE announcement stated. "MABE strongly opposes this initiative as contrary to the principle of local governance, and the traditional role of boards of education and their communities in setting school calendars. The strict limitation of ending school on June 15 will require not only new school calendars but new teacher and employee contracts. The time and money spent on these negotiations would be better spent on educating our 870,000 public school students."

Garrett County's interim superintendent Barbara Baker released a statement yesterday as well, voicing the concerns of the local educators and elected board. Baker said it will be "very difficult" for Garrett County Public Schools to attain all three requirements of the new law (to open after the holiday, complete 180 days of instruction, and close by June 15).

"Garrett County Public Schools faces some of the worst weather in the state and averages 12 snow days a year," Baker said. "While the executive order includes a provision for waivers to be exempt from the mandate, any adjustments that shorten the 180-day requirement would put students at an instructional disadvantage.

"In addition," the superintendent continued, "the order takes away from the local autonomy for school boards to set a school calendar that is in the best interest of the students in the district."

In Garrett County, the school calendars are drafted by a committee made up of teachers, students, school administrators, parents, and community members. The GARRETT REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER OBSTETRICAL PHYSICIANS recently cut the ribbon for the Herbert H. and Dorothy D. Leighton Family Centered Maternity Suite. The new unit is named in honor of Dr. Herbert Leighton, who delivered a total of 6,510 babies during his tenure at the hospital. See story. From left are Sotiere Savopoulos, MD, chief of obstetrical services; Daniel Buckingham, MD; Barbara Leighton, MD, daughter of Herbert and Dorothy Leighton; Rebecca Crowell, DO; Steven Peterson, GRMC vice president of operations; Kenneth Buczynski, MD; Charlene Bennett, RN, director of the Family Centered Maternity Suite; William Pope, MD; and Mark Boucot, GRMC president/CEO.

IT WAS STANDING ROOM ONLY in the Garrett College auditorium Tuesday evening, where hundreds of people filled not only that room, but also lined the lobby and hallways at GC to hear comments and give testimony to members of the Maryland House of Delegates Environment and Transportation Committee. Nearly a dozen delegates came to the county to hear first-hand the opinions of local citizens about the prospect of hydraulic fracturing – fracking – being permitted in the state of Maryland. Garrett County and parts of Allegany County would be the locations of the first fracking sites in the state by the fall of 2017 if the state legislature decides to issue permits for the industrial practice. While the meeting was initially scheduled for 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., the delegates listened to testimony until after 9:30 p.m. It was estimated that approximately 70% of the scores of persons who made comments voiced opposition to fracking, citing a myriad of concerns, including air, land, and water pollution, devalued properties, destroyed roadways, and significant damage to the tourism industry, while those who spoke in favor said that fracking can be done safely, would create jobs, and would be a good investment in the struggling local economy. Earlier on Tuesday the delegates heard similar testimony from 10 local citizens who are pro-fracking, and 10 who are opposed.

Clear Mtn. Bank Annouces Death Of CEO Thomas

Clear Mountain Bank has announced the death of its president and chief executive officer, Brian F. Thomas. He was 52, and reportedly had cancer.

"We're all very saddened to learn of Brian's passing," said Roger Hardesty, chairman of Clear Mountain Bank's board of directors. "Brian's impact on Clear Mountain Bank, as well as the communities that the bank serves, cannot be overstated. He instilled core values of caring for our customers, caring for our employees, and caring for our communities. We've lost a great leader and friend, and we'll miss him greatly. Our thoughts and prayers are with his wife, Sandy, and the Thomas family during this difficult time."

A native of Bruceton Mills, Thomas earned a business administration degree from West Virginia University with cum laude distinction. He was also a graduate of the University of Virginia's Darden School of Business with a master's degree in business administration.

Thomas began his career with Clear Mountain Bank in 1988. He worked in various capacities at the bank, including assistant vice president and vice president, before being named president and CEO in 1997. He also served on Clear Mountain Bank's board of directors.

Since 1998, Thomas also served as president and CEO of State Bancorp Inc., which operates as the bank holding company for Clear Mountain Bank, and formerly Bruceton Bank and the Terra Alta (W.Va.) Bank.

During his time as president and CEO, Clear Mountain Bank grew substantially, according to Hardesty. He guided the bank as it expanded from four locations in 1997 to 13 locations today. Thomas oversaw the creation of Clear Mountain Bank in 2005 when two locally owned community banks, Bruceton Bank and the Terra Alta Bank, combined. He championed the ban"s introduction of electronic banking products, its expansion into supermarket banking, and the addition of a loan production office in Bridgeport, W.Va., last year.

Thomas also served as president of Insurance Centers Inc., a local independent insurance agency.

Thomas served many professional and community organizations in numerous capacities during his career.

He was a member of Avery United Methodist Church, and served on many of the church's operating committees.

In 2008, Thomas was recognized as a recipient of The State Journal's Who's Who in West Virginia Business award. He was named Monongalia County Citizen of the Year in 2012.

"Brian was the definition of a true community banker," said Roger Metheny, Clear Mountain Bank's executive vice president and chief financial officer. "You don't have to look very far in this community to find a school, youth team, hospital, or charitable organization that Clear Mountain Bank has supported. That's due to Brian's vision and commitment. Personally, Brian and I worked together for almost 30 years. He was a great colleague and also, more importantly, a great friend."

Hardesty stated that the bank has a succession plan in place, and that announcements will be forthcoming regarding the president and CEO role.

"We have a dedicated board of directors, and a very skilled and experienced senior management team," he said. "Clear Mountain Bank is an independent community bank, and rest assured it will remain that way for many years to come."

A PRE-MEETING TAILGATE PARTY was held Tuesday evening at Garrett College by a large contingent of people – both from Garrett County and many other areas – who are, as revealed in the banners they displayed, adamantly opposed to the industrial drilling practice called fracking: the extraction of natural gas from the Earth via horizontal drilling. The meeting was scheduled by members of the Maryland House of Delegates Environment and Transportation Committee, who came to Garrett County to collect opinions about fracking from local residents. A two-year moratorium on fracking in Maryland will expire next month, which will pave the way for the first permits to be issued in the fall of 2017 unless the state legislature acts to either ban the practice altogether or further delay its legality in Maryland. Va. Motorcyclist Ejected From Bike Along I-68

A Virginia man was transported to the Western Maryland Regional Medical Center Friday afternoon following a motorcycle accident along I-68.

Glenn Forney, Orange, had been traveling west near the 27-mile marker, when the motorcycle he was operating got a flat tire. He was ejected from the bike and came to rest on the right shoulder of the road.

He was transported by ambulance to the Cumberland hospital for treatment of his injuries.

Park Boat Ramp To Be Closed For Savageman Race

Because of safety concerns surrounding the 10th annual Savageman Triathlon, scheduled for the weekend of Sept. 17-18, the public boat launching ramp at Deep Creek Lake State Park will be closed for portions of both days of the race.

According to Al Preston, park manager, the ramp will be closed on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., and on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"Typically, we would leave the boat ramp at the park open as usual so that people would be able to access the lake to launch or take out their boats," said Preston. "But with several near misses involving the Savageman racers and boaters, we have decided that we are going to close the ramp to boat traffic during these hours. By doing so, we hope to provide a safer environment for the racers. Boaters will be able to access the ramp prior to and immediately after these hours."

Preston invited those who have questions about this plan or who desire more information to call the park office at 301-387-5563.

Voices Of Women Forum Slated By Women's Comm.

The Maryland Commission for Women is holding a series of public forums across the state titled Voices of Maryland Women. One such forum will be held in Garrett County, in partnership with the Garrett County Commission for Women. It is slated for Tuesday, Sept. 20, at Ace's Run Restaurant & Pub, 20160 Garrett Highway, Deep Creek Lake, from 4 to 6 p.m.

"We want to hear from the women of Maryland, in their own words, about the needs and concerns they face in their everyday lives," a commission spokesperson said. "We will develop a report with recommendations for improvements in programs, legislation, and policies that impact the lives of Maryland women, from the western panhandle to the Eastern Shore.

Maryland women across the region are invited to speak to members of the Maryland Commission for Women and their county commissions for women about the challenges they face as women, and what would make their lives better.

Registration is encouraged but is not required. Persons may call 301-610-4523 to register or to obtain more information. More details may also be found online at www.eventbrite.com (then the user should click on the Voice of Maryland Women, Garrett County block).

Swanton Man Faces Assault, DUI Charges

A Swanton man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Saturday night after a reported domestic dispute at the 2200 block of Walnut Bottom Road.

Investigation revealed that Tyler Arnold, 25, had been engaged in an argument/physical altercation with an adult female, who was operating a vehicle transporting herself, Arnold, and a 4-year-old child. She reportedly stopped the vehicle and attempted to remove herself and the child from the back seat, when Arnold allegedly moved to the driver's seat and drove away with the female still partially inside. She was reportedly dragged a short distance before she could free herself.

According to the report, Arnold then sped away and struck a utility pole, breaking if off at ground level, causing the pole and lines to block the roadway. He was located a short distance away and was placed under arrest. He is charged with first- and second-degree assault, reckless endangerment, driving under the influence of alcohol, DUI per se, driving while impaired, DWI while transporting a minor, negligent driving, reckless driving, and failure to stop at an accident with physical injury and/or damage. Arnold was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Walnut Bottom Road was closed for a period of time following the accident. Southern Garrett and Bloomington rescue squads, the Garrett County Roads Dept., and Verizon personnel also assisted at the scene.

Judge Moylan Hears Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past week, with sentences handed down by Stephan M. Moylan for a variety of offenses.

James Yoder, 35, Grantsville, entered an "other" plea to four counts of animal cruelty for failure to provide sufficient food, proper drink, air, space, shelter, and/or protection from the weather for his animals.

Yoder was charged in April after officers and volunteers with the Garrett County Humane Society responded to a report of dogs that appeared to lack food and water at the Smokey Pines Kennel, which was owned by the defendant.

According to the release, investigation and consultation with a veterinarian led to the removal of 30 dogs and puppies, which were all taken to the county animal shelter and local veterinarians for further evaluation and documentation.

Moylan sentenced the defendant to 90 days in the GCDC for each charge to run consecutively and fined him $1,000. He then suspended the fines and sentences in favor of probation.

During the period of probation, Yoder may not apply for a kennel license and must complete community service. He was also ordered to pay over $5,400 to the Humane Society as restitution for expenses incurred in providing care for the animals seized from his premises.

Ashley Lynn Whitacre, 25, Kitzmiller, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of less than $1000.

Whitacre was charged on June 27 by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office when Deupty J. Guy was contacted about a theft which occurred at Wal-Mart two days earlier.

According to the report, Whitacre loaded a cart full of items and proceeded to load them into a truck. Surveillance video confirmed the theft of various hardware items.

Among the stolen items was a Bostitch 18-Volt Impact Power Drill valued at $87, and a Black & Decker 201 Piece Tool Set valued at $29.44.

Moylan ruled the defendant guilty on Aug. 17, and sentenced Whitacre to nine months in the Garrett County Detention Center, eight months and 23 days of which were suspended. Moylan also ordered that a restitution of $261.56 must be paid to Wal-Mart by Nov. 17.

Todd William Riley, 41, Oakland, entered a "not guilty" plea for a charge of theft of less than $100.

Riley was charged by the Oakland Police Department on May 3 when Chief William C. Thomas responded to Walgreen's for a shoplifting complaint which occurred a day earlier.

According to the report, Riley had attempted to steal earphones valued at $9.99. The theft was witnessed by an employee.

Moylan ruled the defendant guilty on Aug. 3 and sentenced Riley to 90 days in the GCDC, 80 days of which was suspended, and ordered one-year of unsupervised probation.

Angelica Marie Thayer, 43, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of unauthorized removal of property.

Thayer was charged by the GCSO on June 28 after Dep. Rhodes was dispatched in response to reports of motor vehicle theft.

According to the report, Thayer wrecked at the intersection of Md. Hwy. and Sand Flat Rd. following a chase. The defendant denied the theft, but the victim said that she stole the vehicle to sell prescription pills and flee the area.

Moylan ruled the defendant guilty on Aug. 17 and sentenced Thayer to 18 months in the GCDC, all suspended, and ordered three years of probation to be supervised by the Division of Parole and Probation. Moylan also issued a criminal fine of $100, all suspended.

Melanie Dawn Beitzel, 34, Grantsville, entered an "other" plea for a charge of second-degree assault.

Beitzel was charged after a statement from the victim was filed about a report of an assault.

According to the statement, the defendant hit the victim eight times after luring the victim into a room.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws, complete 40 hours of community service within six months, and must have no contact with the victim.

Christopher Joel Wilt, 34, Grantsville, entered an "other" plea to a charge of second-degree assault.

Wilt was charged by the Maryland State Police on May 13 when Ofc. Lemay responded to reports of assault.

According to the report, Wilt had caused bruising to the victim before the victim was able to flee. The defendant fled shortly afterwards.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict on Aug. 17 with the condition that the defendant must obey all laws.

Michael Keith Gruel, 35, Friendsville, entered an "other" plea for charges of second-degree assault, and malicious destruction of property valued less than $1000.

Gruel was charged by the MSP on June 8 when Ofc. Rodehaver responded in reference to reports of domestic assault.

According to the report, the victim had been hit by the defendant several times a week earlier after a verbal altercation had escalated. There were noticeable older bruises on the victim.

Gruel had also thrown the victim's phone across a room, causing it to break. The broken phone was valued at $189, according to the report.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict on all charges with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws, have no contact with the victim, and must pay $200 restitution to the victim within two months.

Trsitan Douglas Baker, 19, Oakland, entered an "other" plea for a charge of second-degree assault.

Baker was charged by the GCSO on July 6 after Dep. J. Guy contacted the victim in the GCSO about an assault.

According to the report, a verbal altercation escalated and then Baker began striking the victim multiple times while the victim was driving. Several bruises were visible.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws, have no violent contact with the victim, and he must complete a program at the Dove Center.

Keith Patrick Steyer, 33, Oakland, entered an "other" plea for charges of fourth-degree burglary, trespassing, and theft of less than $100.

Steyer was charged by the GCSO on June 14 when Ofc. Adam Rounds responded in reference to a burglary.

According to the report, Steyer had broken into the victim's garage and drank most of their beers. He had previously been warned that he wasn't allowed on their property.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws, abstain from alcohol, not return to the victim's house, and continue treatment.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following cases are DUI/DWI traffic violations that took place throughout the month of August.

Samuel Fheg Polce, 45, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Moylan found the defendant guilty and sentenced Polce to three years in the Garrett County Detention Center, 18 months of which were suspended, and ordered three years of probation to be supervised by the Division of Parole and Probation. Moylan also issued a fine of $500, all suspended.

Logan Thomas Osekowski, 29, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Moylan found the defendant guilty and sentenced Osekowski to six months in the GCDC, five months and 24 days of which was suspended, and ordered 18 months of probation supervised by DP&P. Moylan also issued a fine of $500, $250 of which were suspended.

Christopher Thomas Bern, 35, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a DWI charge.

Moylan found the defendant guilty and sentenced Bern to six months in the GCDC, five months and 26 days of which was suspended, Moylan also issued a fine of $500, $300 of which was suspended.

It's a Lie...

"We can't find anybody who's opposed to starting school after Labor Day. Everybody wants it."

The above words were uttered publicly by Maryland comptroller Peter Franchot just this week, and just for the record, they compose an unadulterated, complete, utter, bald-faced lie. Mr. Franchot clearly knows of many people, particularly Maryland educators, who are absolutely opposed to the mandate that was handed down by Gov. Larry Hogan yesterday. In fact, two years ago he sat across the table from the writer of this column who said he adamantly opposed it.

Hogan, by executive order, ruled that all school districts in the state of Maryland will not start school each fall until after Labor Day. He brazenly usurped the control of each county's school calendar from their boards of education with his blanket mandate that is going to create absolute havoc in many counties, including Garrett. He succumbed to the multi-year push – yes, and the lies – of Franchot and went along with his idea that the stage legislature has over the past two years soundly rejected.

The reason that it has been rejected is that the vast majority of our superintendents, principals, teachers, and others in the system – those who are trained to know what is in the best interest of our children; those who are primarily responsible for making Maryland schools among the absolute best in the nation; those who know and understand education standards and testing requirements; those who are responsible for the safety of our children. In fact, 83% of Garrett County's educators and 69% of Allegany County educators opposed the legislation last year.

Most of the nation's school systems in recent years have done just the opposite – the majority of them not only start their school year prior to Labor Day, but a number of them start in early to mid-August. There are a lot of reasons for this, including giving our children adequate time in the classroom to absorb the huge amount of education/information that teachers are required to teach, meeting various state and federal guidelines for required standardized testing, and meeting the 180-day requirement, especially in counties such as Garrett, where winter weather always plays a huge factor.

The mandate also includes the requirement that the school year must end by June 15. That leaves about a dozen days that can be missed in Garrett County's school calendar for bad weather, a number that is routinely exceeded. This will likely result in Garrett students being required to attend school on various holidays (as they already often do), and they will almost never have a spring break, as do most jurisdictions. It could also become a safety issue, as our local decision makers might be bit more likely to try to have school when weather conditions suggest otherwise.

There will be, the governor said, an opportunity for counties to apply for a waiver to exempt them from this requirement. Presumably Garrett County educators will apply for the waiver and, more importantly, be granted it.

Regardless of what proponents of this mandate say, this is all about money, folks, and what is truly in the best interest of our children – as expressed by educators – is being ignored by Franchot and Hogan. And frankly, the majority of parents – and even many of our students – are ready and even excited for the opening of schools before Labor Day. Just ask them.

To the Editor:

The health department wants to inform Garrett County elementary school parents of some major changes this fall. First, Flu Mist®, the nasal spray flu vaccine, will not be available this season, so this year's flu vaccine will be injectable (a shot).

Second, after careful consideration, the health department and the Garrett County Board of Education have decided not to hold the school-based flu vaccine clinics at the elementary schools this year. Instead, as a pilot project, we will hold flu vaccine clinics at the middle and high schools, offering flu shots to those students who wish to participate. Informational packets with consent forms will be sent home with middle and high school students in the next few weeks.

Elementary school parents are invited and encouraged to accompany their child to one of the health department's upcoming walk-in community clinics to receive their flu shot. Schedules will be posted soon (watch for articles, listen to local radio, or visit our website at garretthealth.org). Parents are asked to bring an insurance card for their child if insured, but those without insurance or whose insurance does not cover flu vaccine will have no out-of-pocket costs at the health department clinics. Or, students may receive their flu shot at their doctor's office or a participating local pharmacy (where there may be a cost).

The health department takes the health and well-being of every person in our community very seriously, so we encourage everyone to get a flu shot this season. Flu vaccine remains one of the most effective means of preventing influenza and the potential serious health complications that may occur. It has been shown to reduce illness in the community and to decrease school absenteeism rates.

We thank you for your understanding in light of the changes to our school-based flu clinics this year. You may call us at 301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111 for additional information.

Sincerely,
Cynthia Maukamyer, RN

Health Department

To the Editor:

In response to your editorial "The Feds Must Act..."

It seems ironic that you call for the same big government that created the high cost to save people from the high cost?

The only reason that Mylan is able to sell EpiPens for such a high mark-up is because there's no competition. The reason that there's no competition is because big government created a monopoly through protectionism (patent). For those who would defend the patent system: Should the first caveman to make fire be able to prevent the second caveman from making fire?

Then big government did Mylan a big favor by mandating that the overpriced EpiPens be kept on hand in schools.

In my day the school nurse gave shots. Generic epinephrine is injected in the muscle and doesn't take any special skill to administer. Even young children can use a preloaded syringe. A vial of epinephrine and a syringe cost less than $2, and free-market competition will keep prices down.

Then once again you give big government a pass on another problem it created when you stated: "This is downright immoral, despicable behavior on the part of this corporation, which is also known for dodging paying federal taxes by acquiring a foreign firm in the Netherlands and moving its tax domicile there." Our big government has raised corporate taxes to some of the highest of any country in the world. Is it "immoral" to lower your operating costs and be able to save consumers money? Is it "immoral" to want to stay in business?

Big government knows that corporations don't pay taxes, people do. Corporations must pass corporate tax expenses on to consumers if they want to stay in business. Politicians love corporate taxes because they can launder money. They can claim they held the line on taxes, while raising them through the back door. Corporations get the blame and politicians skate. So, corporations that save money on corporate taxes save consumers by being able to operate at a lower cost.

"Name-giving" donors were recognized on plaques that have been placed in certain areas of the suite. They include Clear Mountain Bank, Donald and Elizabeth Morin, Timothy Sines and daughter Myla, and Daryl and Dorothy Walters in the birthing rooms; James and Shirley Bailey in the nursery; GCC Technologies in the exam room; and Laurel R. Grant in the waiting room.

"I'm proud to work at a hospital that really cares about people and their families," said Charlene Bennett, RN, director of obstetrics and the Family Centered Maternity Suite. "We have the opportunity to provide the same great care in this beautiful new unit, with larger, more patient-friendly rooms, allowing us to serve our patients better."

"We are pleased with the new Family Centered Maternity Suite," said Mark Boucot, president/CEO of Garrett Regional Medical Center. "We want to ensure that all of our new moms and babies have a positive birthing experience at GRMC. We are honored to be a part of these blessed events in the lives of our patients."

LAKE NEEDWOOD, located in Rockville, was recently dredged of several feet of sediment that had acquired over the decades, and a video program produced by the engineer who was involved with that effort was part of the agenda of a recent community forum hosted by Friends of Deep Creek Lake. The presentation not only explained the methods of dredging, but also the entire process from the time the decision was made until it was implemented, and the various obstacles in that process. See story for details.

Lake Needwood Dredging Effort Suggested As A Model For DCL

Andrew Frank, an engineer with the park development division of Montgomery County Parks, was not able to attend a recent local community forum that centered on the need for dredging sediment from various Deep Creek Lake covers, but he did provide forum organizers, Friends of Deep Creek Lake, with a video that covers both the basocss of dredging and specifics of dredging project at Lake Needwood.

Lake Needwood is 74-acre lake located in Rockville, owned and managed by the Montgomery County Parks Department. It lies on the main stem of Rock Creek, and was created in 1966 in order to provide for flood and sediment control, watershed protection, and recreational uses.

A smaller lake – Lake Frank – was created at the same time. It has not been dredged and is thus in the process of filling in with sediment and returning to wetland conditions.

Needwood has several sources of sediment inflow from agricultural and urban runoff, stream bank erosion, and drainage from construction sites, according to Frank. He explained that this sediment is not wanted because it creates poor aquatic habitat and is nutrient-rich, which leads to eutrophication – a measure of water-quality decline, along with algal blooms and microcystins, some of which can be toxic to animals and humans.

"All man-made lakes need some sort of sediment control," said Frank, "and the way this is done is by dredging, which is the physical removal of sediment from the waterbody."

He said that there are two general approaches -- hydraulic and mechanical dredging.

In the early years, the parks department used hydraulic dredging, but as a cost-cutting measure, coupled with the aging of the department's equipment, all sediment removal stopped in the 1990s.

Within less than two decades, Frank said it became evident to the department that it was necessary to recommit to a sediment removal/ sediment management plan. The pontoon boat which took visitors on tours had increasingly less area to navigate, and fishermen were complaining about reduction in areas for fishing as a result of shoaling of the lake.

The department selected the mechanical dredging approach almost by necessity. In hydraulic dredging, a barge with a pumping mechanism is used to suck sediment from the bottom of the lake and pump it to a nearby site, where is it temporarily held while the water seeps out.

With mechanical dredging, cranes are used to scoop sediment which is then either held in dewatering areas, as with hydraulic dredging, or hauled elsewhere to dry out.

Experts at the Montgomery County Parks Department chose mechanical dredging because there was so much sediment in the lake they could not float a barge. The sediment had compacted over time, and pumping would not provide sufficient force for effective removal.

From the presentations at the forum on sediment removal, it appears that mechanical dredging in lakes is the preferred method, as well as most cost-eflective approach.

Frank said that the engineers at Lake Needwood set the goal for sediment removal project to achieve a minimum of four feet of water depth, which was deemed sufficient to float the tour-boat pontoon, kayaks, and paddle boats used at the lake.

"The process of going from the decision to undertake dredging to implementation is long and demanding," he said.

The department had to secure a substantial number of permits from both the state and Montgomery County. There was also a range of design challenges faced in developing the preliminary plan, which included the following:

1. Multiple stakeholders with many different interests – from local citizens to various county and state agencies – needed to participate in plan development. Frank commented that though this involvement took considerable time, it was probably the most important component of the whole effort.

2. Dealing with storm events during dredging. The ability of controlling lake levels was of critical importance.

3. Transportation of wet materials. The sediment was carried to a nearby site, necessitating everything from water-tight dump trucks to preparing the site to serve as a decanting basin, allowing for eventual drying out of sediment materials.

4. Dam safety requirements as defined by the Maryland Department of Environment regulations.

The timeline for the Lake Needwood project suggests the complexity of the process – design and permitting took one year, and construction began six months later and took nine months to complete. Park staff are now actively monitoring the health and sediment accumulation at the lake.

The department has also committed to ongoing watershed improvements in stream restoration, and storm water management efforts to reduce flows into the stream which feeds the lake.

Frank concluded his presentation with lessons to Deep Creek Lake policy makers and stakeholders, noting that for up to two decades, the park department did not invest in the lake because pf cost-saving policies. The result of this neglect became obvious as sediment accumulation started to impair recreational use of the lake. At that point the situation became urgent, he said, the department decided it had to act, and Montgomery County agreed to provide the funds to save Lake Needwood.

The other lesson Frank says they learned at Needwood is the importance of stakeholder involvement and engagement by the various state (DNR and MDE) and local agencies.

Frank's full video presentation is posted on the Friends of Deep Creek lake YouTube Channel https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jSaYBtUGLOw.

Oakland Man Facing Two Sex Offense Charges

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on several sex offense charges last Thursday morning.

Robert Ernest Coffren III, 25, was taken into custody at a Corona Bayard Road residence following an investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Coffren reportedly had engaged in a sexual relationship with a 15-year-old female. He is charged with two counts of third-degree sex offense and three counts of perverted practice.

He was taken to the Garrett County Jail, before being released the following day.

Pa. Driver Ejected In Single-Vehicle Accident Saturday

A Pennsylvania driver was transported to the Western Maryland Regional Medical Center after he was ejected from his vehicle in an accident along I-68 early Saturday.

Maryland State Police troopers responded to the 25-mile marker along eastbound I-68. Investigation revealed that Joshua Pritts, 29, Salisbury, had been operating a Saturn Ion, when for unknown reasons, the vehicle left the roadway and struck the guardrail. Pritts, the sole occupant, was not wearing a seatbelt and was ejected.

He was taken to the Cumberland hospital for treatment of his injuries. Alcohol is believed to be a factor in the accident, which remains under investigation.

Northern Garrett and Frostburg rescue squads and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene at the scene.

Fairview Church Of The Brethren To Hold Revival

Fairview Church of the Brethren will hold revival services beginning on Sunday, Sept. 11, through Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m. each evening. Evangelist Lynn Rohrbaugh will be the guest speaker.

The church is located at 1101 Fairview Church Road, Oakland. The directions are as follows: turn onto Table Rock Road off Rt. 50, and then go onto Fairview Church Road. The red brick church will be on the left.

CCC Veteran To Visit New Germany Park

New Germany State Park will host an informal meet and greet with Walter Atwood, a distinguished veteran of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), on Monday, Sept. 5, at 6:30 p.m.

Atwood, 93, served in the CCC in Basin, Wyo., in 1940, and later served as president of the National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni and chairman of the board of the Civilian Conservation Corps Legacy.

The CCC was a program developed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to create jobs and help restore the nation's struggling resources during the Great Depression. The program provided jobs for more than 3 million Americans ages 17 to 25, who lived and worked in camps supervised by the U.S. Army.

Although the program only lasted from 1933 to 1942, the CCC is credited with developing 800 state parks, building 3,980 structures, blazing 13,100 miles of trails, and planting between 2 and 3 billion trees.

During his visit to New Germany, Atwood will stay in one of the cabins built by the CCC. He will be at the New Germany Lake House from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. to answer questions about his experience as a "CCC boy."

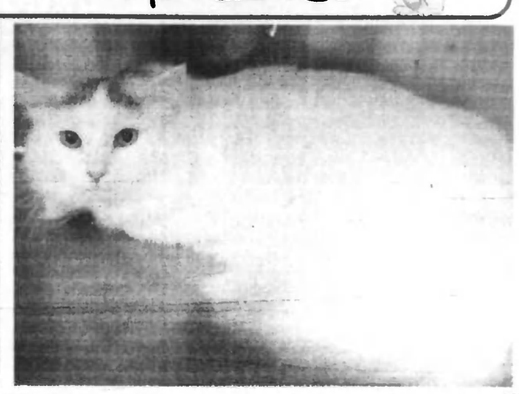
Rabies Vaccination Clinics To Be Held At Six Local Sites

The Garrett County Health Department has announced its last low-cost rabies clinics for 2016 for the vaccination of dogs, cats, and ferrets, beginning on Monday, Sept. 12, and concluding Saturday, Sept. 17. The dates, times, and locations are as follows:

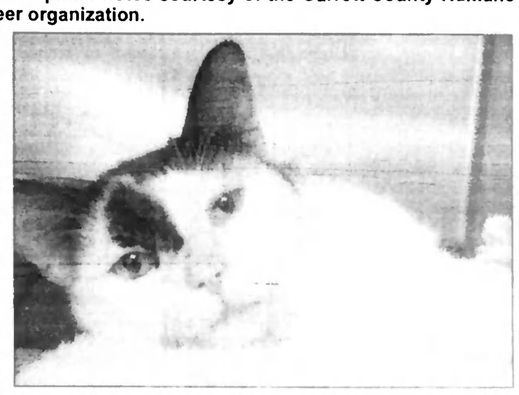
- Grantsville Elementary School, Monday, Sept. 12, 5–6 p.m.
- Swanton Community Center, Tuesday, Sept. 13, 5–6 p.m.
- Crellin Elementary School, Wednesday, Sept. 14, 5 –6 p.m.
- Friendsville Elementary School, Thursday, Sept. 15, 5 –6 p.m.
- Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department, Friday, Sept. 16, 5–6 p.m.
- Garrett County Health Department, 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland, Saturday, Sept. 17, 10 a.m.–noon.

The cost of the vaccination is $5 per animal at the clinics. Dogs must be on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats and ferrets must be brought to the clinic in a cage or a tightly secured box with air holes. If a cage or carrier is not available, the cat must be carried in a pillowcase or suitable cloth sack. Close contact of animals at the clinics increases the risk of bites or scratches.

Adorable Adoptables



PLENTY OF FELINES ARE AVAILABLE for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Oreo, above left, is a 10-year-old neutered male with one eye. "He is very sweet," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. His friend Doc, pictured above right, is a spayed longhaired female. They are looking for a new home together. Below left is Reese, a spayed snowshoe Siamese mix. "She is very shy," the spokesperson said. "Her owner had too many cats." Leo, below right, is a stray neutered male. "He is wondering where his owners are," the spokesperson said. "HART recently took several kittens from the shelter to rescue facility; three dogs were returned to their owners; and recently featured Luna and Casey were adopted!" For more information about these and other cats and dogs at the shelter, persons are invited to call 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Photos courtesy of the Garrett County Humane Society, a nonprofit volunteer organization.



County dog and cat licenses will be available at each clinic for those that are interested in obtaining them. License cost is $3 per year for a spayed/neutered animal and $15 for non-spayed/neutered. If a three-year rabies vaccination is received, pet owners may purchase a three-year county dog or cat license.

Last year Garrett County experienced 15 confirmed rabies cases. As of this year, Garrett County has experienced three laboratory-confirmed rabies cases, all in raccoons, according to the GC Health Department.

"The necessity of destroying family pets that are unvaccinated can be avoided by keeping vaccinations current," the spokesperson noted. "Due to the wide geographical distribution of documented rabies cases, no dogs or cats being kept in Garrett County can be considered safe from exposure to the disease."

While Maryland law requires dogs, cats, and ferrets over 4 months of age have the necessary vaccination against rabies, animals at least 3 months of age can be brought to the clinics and adequately protected by vaccination. Dogs and cats need to be revaccinated every three years, while ferrets need to be revaccinated yearly. Puppies and kittens vaccinated between the ages of 3 and 12 months, and dogs and cats receiving their first vaccination must be revaccinated 12 months later.

To Hold Session

Prior to the meeting, the commissioners will hold an administrative session at 3 p.m. They will appoint a member to the Garrett County Department of Social Services board of directors and discuss issues regarding Garrett Medical Transport. The administrative session is open to the public.

The commissioners will also conduct a work session on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. with the Garrett County Board of Education to discuss healthcare funding and capital projects.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 20 at 6 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Requests to be on the meeting's agenda must be made to Carol Riley-Alexander, executive assistant to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners/county administrator, by 1 p.m. one week prior to the public meeting day.

eBay, PayPal Class To Be Held At GC Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on computer course titled "eBay and PayPal for Buyers and Sellers" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Mondays, Sept. 12 and 19, from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

This course is for the individual who wants to learn how to buy and sell on eBay. Participants will go through the process of registering on eBay and PayPal all the way through to collecting funds. Bidding and selling strategies will be discussed.

Participants will learn about different auction types, fees, writing effective descriptions, shipping options, setting up an eBay buyer and/or seller account, using PayPal payment service, uploading digital images, etc.

Participants can bring a small item to sell, such as a watch. The class will add items for sale and watch the auctions end the following week.

Students will need a digital camera for photographing items for sale.

The prerequisite for the class is GC's Intro PC Plus class or equivalent internet and Windows knowledge.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

QuickBooks Class To Be Offered At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on, introductory course on QuickBooks. The course will be held on Tuesdays, Sept. 13 and 20, from 6 to 9:15 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville.

The class will provide an introduction to the computer program for participants with little or no experience in using QuickBooks. Topics will include creating a new QuickBooks "company," modifying the preset chart of accounts, adding information to company lists, opening and using registers for balance sheet accounts, and reconciling a QuickBooks checking account.

The course is being instructed by Sarah J. Wilt, who is a certified bookkeeper, QuickBooks ProAdvisor, and a licensed tax preparer with her own firm in Grantsville for the last 10 years. She has worked in the accounting field for 18 years and consults with new and seasoned business owners with business plans, marketing plans, cash flow issues, and general needs.

Successive courses, QuickBooks II and QuickBooks III, will follow in April, along with QuickBooks Payroll to be offered in November and December.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one may call Continuing Education and Workforce Development at 301-387-3069.

Zumba Fitness Course Slated In Grantsville

The Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College will hold Zumba® toning classes at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Grantsville, on Tuesdays, Sept. 13–Oct. 11, from 6 to 7 p.m.

"Zumba toning is the perfect way for enthusiasts to sculpt their bodies naturally while having a total blast," a GC spokesperson said. "Zumba toning is designed for all ages and raises the bar (or rather, the toning stick), as exercise in disguise. The class combines targeted body-sculpting exercises and the same high-energy cardio work with Latin-infused Zumba moves to create a calorie-torching, strength-training dance fitness-party.

Students will learn how to use lightweight, maraca-like toning sticks to enhance rhythm and tone target zones, including arms, abs, glutes and thighs.

Weights are optional and can be purchased or rented from the instructor, or students can bring hand weights weighing 3 pounds or less.

The instructor will be Melanie Lombardi, a licensed Zumba instructor since October 2011. She has taught at several locations in western Maryland, including Energy Health and Fitness and Life Fitness Management and its satellite site at the Western Maryland Health System.

Additional information is available by contacting Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register, persons can contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

4-H Club News

BEAR CREEK
by Rachel Bowser, reporter

The Bear Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on Aug. 21 at the Accident Fire Hall. A total of 11 club members were present.

The meeting was called to order by club president Adam Diehl. Emma Carr read the secretary's report, and Brooklyn Tasker gave the treasurer's report. Old and new business was discussed. Members also discussed their Garrett County Fair entries, and achievements were acknowledged.

The Maryland State Fair was discussed, which will be held from Aug. 25 through Sept. 5 in Timonium.

Brooklyn Tasker brought her three-week-old border collie puppies as a follow-up to her previous demonstration. The Bowser family provided a snack after the meeting.

The next meeting of the Bear Creek 4-H Club will be held on Sept. 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the Accident fire hall.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

After Labor Day, the center will change to the winter schedule: open on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 2

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Sang Run. Guest are invited to come learn tips to birding by ear and to listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through Friend's Delight. All should meet at the kayak launch with binoculars and waterproof hiking boots. This walk is of medium difficulty and will last approximately 2 ½ hours.

• 11 a.m. – Creating an Owl. Guests can join the naturalist and discuss the adaptations and secrets of owls. Then meet one of the Discovery Center's owls up close and create a model of it. Develop nature journaling skills through observation and drawing or just come for fun.

• 2:30 p.m. – Magical Monarch Butterflies All are invited to join the naturalist on the deck for a look at the life of a monarch butterfly. The monarch migrates 1,880 miles from the local area to Mexico each year, and that the butterfly that returns has never been there. Guests will learn about the center's tagging program with a hands-on demonstration. If possible, guests will also be able to help tag and release some from the display.

Saturday, Sept. 3

• 11 a.m. – Hungry Critters. Guests are invited to meet the naturalists inside the Discovery Center as they feed the center's animals. Participants may be able to touch a live reptile or amphibian. Free.

• 2 p.m. – Tie Dye on the Beach. Meet on the beach to make a personal tie-dyed shirt with an original conservation message. Cost is $12 per shirt. (1 hour)

• 8 p.m. – Scales & Tales Campfire Program. The naturalist will be on hand to let guests meet a few of our resident animals, hear their stories, learn facts, and take pictures. Afterwards there will be free marshmallows for roasting.

Sunday, Sept. 4

• 11 a.m. – Aquatic Adventures. Guests are invited to join the naturalist in the Discovery Room of the center for this activity. The group will head to the docks to use the aqua scopes and dip nets into Deep Creek Lake to catch fish and other animals that live there.

• 1 p.m. – Story, Craft, and Animal Meet and Greet. Local author Deborah Bienneman will be on hand to read from a favorite book, Fidget's Foley, about peregrine falcons. Guests will make a craft and meet the center's falcon. Free.

• 3 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to learn about the center's birds, and watch the raptors eat.

Monday, Sept. 5

• All-Day Scavenger Hunts. Guests may come to the Discovery Center desk for instructions.

• 2:30 p.m. – Magical Monarch Butterflies All are invited to join the naturalist on the deck for a look at the life of a monarch butterfly. The center's tagging program will be presented with a hands-on demonstration. If possible, guests will also be able to help tag and release some from the display.

PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971

GC Staff Attends Third Annual CC Cyber Summit

Staff and faculty from two western Maryland colleges, including Garrett, recently attended the third annual Community College Cyber Summit, held last month at the Community College of Allegheny County in Pittsburgh. The three-day event, known as 3CS, is devoted to expanding the role of community colleges in cybersecurity education. Since its inception in 2005, the National CyberWatch Center (CyberWatch), headquartered at Prince George's Community College, is the organizing force behind the creation of 3CS.

In partnership with five other Advanced Technological Education (ATE) centers funded by the National Science Foundation (NSF) which focus on cybersecurity, CyberWatch established 3CS to meet the perceived need for a national academic conference that focuses exclusively on cybersecurity education at the community college level.

According to a GC spokesperson, community colleges are increasingly aware of the growing demand for a workforce prepared to secure and protect the nation's computer networks from cyber threats, and to respond to and investigate computer security breaches.

3CS encourages community collaboration to address the institutions' evolving role in educating and training students for that preparedness. Faculty, administrators, students, and other stakeholders in community college education are invited and encouraged to attend the yearly event.

This year's summit host, the Community College of Allegheny County in Pennsylvania, is known as the "Silicon Valley of the East." The summit featured more than 60 cybersecurity-related workshops and presentations, along with a series of roundtables and vendor exhibits.

Representing Garrett College at the summit were Dr. Qing Yuan, director of of business, information technology, and engineering; Jill Horner, Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training (TAACCCT) cybersecurity grant coordinator; and Richard Lewis, assistant professor of computer science.

"Back To School With Essential Oils" Workshop Slated

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will offer a class titled "Make & Take Workshop: Back to School with Essential Oils" at the main campus in McHenry. The course will be held on Monday, Sept. 12, from 6 to 8 p.m.

"It's back-to-school time and homework isn't the only thing kids bring home," said a spokesperson. "Come learn natural ways to promote a healthy lifestyle for children, especially during the change of seasons and school transition.

Participants will make a variety of ready-to-go and easy-to-apply rollerball remedies in this make-and-take essential oils workshop, including blends for "cool kiddo," "growing kiddo," "healthy kiddo," "happy belly," "homework helper," "soothe & ease," "sweet dreams," and more.

The course is being instructed by local resident Kearstin Hinebaugh, a doTERRA wellness advocate. In her quest to "reduce the toxic load" for her and her family, she began researching various natural solutions. That research quickly led her to essential oils.

"Since uncovering their diverse applications and uses, she has become an essential oil enthusiast, learning everything she can about these gifts of the Earth," the spokesperson said. "These days, she's admittedly, a bit obsessed with transforming her routines and making over her medicine, beauty, and cleaning cabinets with oil-based products, and wants to assist others in doing the same."

Hogan Mandates

proposed calendars are then reviewed and voted upon by the education board. Many other Maryland counties follow this procedure as well.

Baker concluded her statement by noting that at this juncture, there is no benefit to speculating on the application for waivers, as the guidelines for the application have not yet been determined.

In a statement by Franchot, he said he applauds Hogan for signing the executive order, maintaining that the action will result in an economic boon across the state.

"This sensible, long-overdue adjustment of Maryland's public school calendar will be a lifeline for those small, locally owned businesses that are the backbone of our state's economy and have struggled in the midst of the slowest economic recovery in our nation's history," said Franchot. "It will generate new state revenues that can be reinvested in our classrooms and for other vital priorities. It will spare tens of thousands of teachers, students, and school employees from having to return to sweltering, unhealthy classrooms in the hottest days of August.

"And finally, it will give families throughout our state time to enjoy those final days of summer the way they were meant to be enjoyed, whether it is taking that final vacation to the beach or the lake, visiting the Inner Harbor, or catching an Orioles game, enjoying an evening at the Maryland State Fair, or just relaxing a bit at home," Franchot said. "The action taken today by Gov. Hogan will give our families the priceless gift of time, and for that I am personally grateful."

According to Franchot, a 2013 economic impact study by Maryland's Bureau of Revenue Estimates found that a post-Labor Day school start could generate an additional $74.3 million in direct economic activity, including $3.7 million in new wages and $7.7 million in state and local tax revenue.

The perception of the action is different for the Maryland State Education Association (MSEA), which issued a statement yesterday, saying in part that "Hogan joined Comptroller Peter Franchot in Ocean City to announce a new executive mandate forcing all school districts to delay the start of school until after Labor Day in order to benefit the bottom line of the tourism industry."

Sean Johnson, MSEA director of government relations, said, "forcing all schools to begin after Labor Day won't help students do better – and research shows that it can worsen summer 'brain drain' among students from poor socioeconomic backgrounds. It's abundantly clear that Gov. Hogan is more interested in grabbing headlines than employing research-backed solutions that could make a difference for students.

"Cutting back the school year and extending summer is not a solution to any education problem – it's just another Gov. Hogan school cut," Johnson continued. "And it's not only a cut – it's a summer tax on the thousands of working families who don't have the extra money or vacation time to spend in Ocean City but who will now be forced to scrape together hundreds or thousands of dollars annually to cover additional child care costs from a longer summer.

"When it comes to our public schools, there's one word that Gov. Hogan thinks of: cuts. Cuts to school funding, cuts to the school year," Johnson said. "He prioritizes cuts over developing real, detailed strategies to reduce over-testing, close achievement gaps, and expand proven reforms like pre-kindergarten, after-school programs, and community schools.

"Instead of focusing on unproven distractions that benefit private entities like parochial schools, national charter school operators, and the tourism industry, we urge both Gov. Hogan and Comptroller Franchot to focus more on addressing the 47% teacher turnover rate within their first three years in the profession, the over-testing that takes away hours of instruction every year, and how we can better support the 45% of Maryland students who are low-income with proven reforms like expanding pre-K, after-school programs, and community schools," he concluded.

Warner Sumpter, president of the MABE and president of the Board of Education of Somerset County, said yesterday that MABE and local board members from across the state "have historically joined forces" in Annapolis to oppose a statewide mandate to start school after Labor Day.

"We have emphasized that first and foremost, school calendars support classroom instruction and student learning, and reflect the input of local communities," Sumpter said.

Local school officials, teachers, and parents taken part in the effort in Annapolis as well, giving testimony as to why the mandate would cause hardships in Garrett County. However, the leadership of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has been staunchly supportive of the action since it was first proposed. Nicole Christian, the president/CEO of the chamber, was present at yesterday's announcement in Ocean City. Chamber of commerce representatives have also participated in the hearings on the issue, testifying in favor of the action.

"We're ecstatic," Christian was quoted. "We believe this is a great day. This has been the chamber's number one priority for years and we are so excited. For communities that have a significant amount of tourism the economic impact will be significant. It will help the businesses and it helps on the work force side."

Franchot and Hogan have maintained that the proposal has garnered "overwhelming" support across the state, citing two independent polls by Goucher College in 2014 and '15 that reportedly showed 70% of Marylanders support the initiative. Opponents claim that the survey did not specifically note the possible drawbacks for the education system.

A survey taken among the public schools staffs of Garrett and Allegany counties in February 2015 revealed that 69% of Allegany members polled were not favorable to the post-Labor Day start, and 83% of Garrett members were not favorable. This information came from Evan West, the uniserve director for Allegany and Garrett counties, at the time of the poll.

Currently, there is only one school district in Maryland (Worchester) that has not yet reopened for the school year. All other schools in the state are in operation, and have been for at least a week.

A strong response is now expected, according to the MABE release, from local boards, educators, parents, and many others concerned with impact of the executive order on school calendars and contracts.

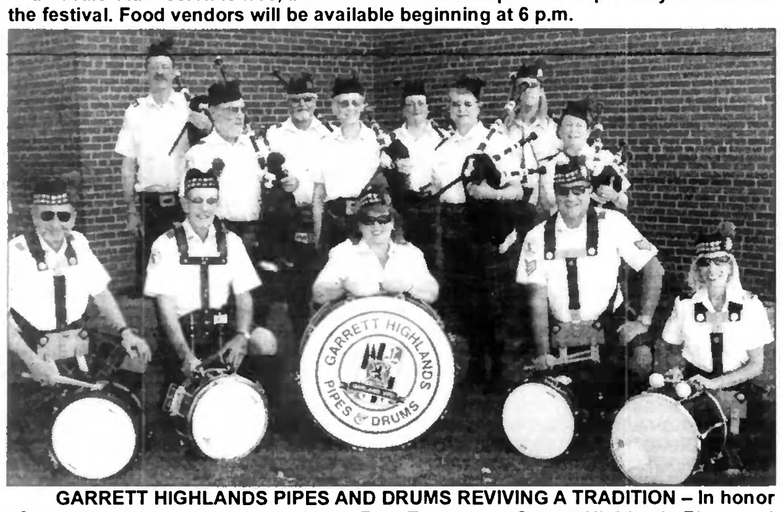
TO PERFORM LITTLE YOUGH'S FINAL CONCERT – The Remedy will present the final concert of the 2016 Little Yough Summer Music Festival Series this Friday, Sept. 2, at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. Members of this popular local band like to unwind from their stressful jobs in health care, education, and business on weekends by playing a wide variety of energetic music at area events and fundraisers. In the front, from left are, Bob Browning, bass and backup vocals; Kim Grimm-Weimer, vocals; Renita Hershman, guitar and vocals; and Dr. Jim Jones, guitar and vocals. In the back are Fred Jacoby, percussion; Dr. Charles Walch, percussion; and Gino Mauricci, saxophone and clarinet. Not pictured is Monty Pagenhardt, keyboards and vocals. Admission is free, but donations are accepted to help defray the cost of the festival. Food vendors will be available beginning at 6 p.m.



GARRETT HIGHLANDS PIPES AND DRUMS REVIVING A TRADITION – In honor of a tradition begun by the late Judge Fred Thayer, the Garrett Highlands Pipes and Drums will cruise around Deep Creek Lake on pontoon boats this Friday, Sept. 2, from 6.30 to 8 p.m. Weather permitting, the GHPD will perform on the lake at Uno's, Will O' the Wisp, the Dutch's/silver Tree landing, and finish at the Deep Creek Yacht Club. Now affiliated with the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, the band was established by Thayer, Chip Evans, and Rev. John Grant in 1979. The GHPD will also perform in Oakland during the 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival's Firemen's Parade, slated for Thursday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m., and the Grand Feature Parade, set for Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. In addition, the GHPD and several other bands, including the acclaimed Carneige Melon University Pipes and Drums, will present a free concert prior to the Grand Feature Parade at the Oakland fire hall at 10:30 a.m. More information about the local band can be found at garrettpipes.com. In the front, from left, are drummers Mike Kozier, Alan Arnson, Alma Glotfelty, Rick Kutchman, and Barbara Kutchman. In the back are pipers Paul Browning (pipe major), Kenny Braitman, Cecil Glotfelty, Annie Bristow, Maureen Moore, Sue Judy, Jimmy Zoller, and Marci McClive. Not pictured are piper Mary Alice Reesman and drummer Rich Moore.

EXHIBITS

The Garrett County Arts Council's Pop-Up Gallery Shop. This temporary home for the GCAC and its many artists is located at 25227 Garrett Highway in McHenry, next to Archie's Barbeque. The hours are Monday to Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Guests are invited to stop by and see artwork created by Gallery Shop artisans. Stuck Enterprises is allowing the GCAC to use this space as a temporary home from now until Dec. 31. Carriage House Antiques has provided the antique furniture for displaying the artwork.

Now through Sept. 3: The Art Of Dan Helsel, on display at the Saville Gallery of the Allegany Arts Council, 9 N. Centre St., Cumberland. Helsel, who is a member of the Garrett County Arts Council, paints in oil in the style of the old masters. This includes mixing his own gesso from a Renaissance era recipe. He works with actual setups in the studio, not from photographs. His paintings can be found in private and public collections throughout the U.S. Helsel has taught several oil painting workshops in the local area.

Sept. 3 to 23: On and Off the Wall Exhibit, Stephanie Roper Art Gallery of Frostburg State University, 101 Braddock Road, opening reception on Sept. 3, 2 to 4 p.m.; regular hours: Sunday through Friday, noon to 4 p.m., through Sept. 23. Sponsored by the Allegany Arts Council and organized by the FSU Department of Visual Arts, this is an exhibition of paintings by Jim Germaux and pottery by Charles Stump.

11th Annual Appalachian Festival Slated At Frostburg State University

Frostburg State University's popular Appalachian Festival will return for its 11th year from Thursday, Sept. 15, to Saturday, Sept. 17.

"This free, family-friendly event brings together artists and craftspeople to celebrate all that makes the region unique – its history, culture, music, food and more – with performances, workshops, displays, discussions and activities," a spokesperson said.

The capstone of the festival is the concert on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Palace Theatre. Three ensembles will be featured: the Grammy-winning duo Cathy Fink and Marcy Marxer; a bluegrass group, The Barefoot Movement; and Footworks Percussive Dance Ensemble. Tickets are $20 for adults and $5 for FSU students and youth 18 and under. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

This year's event will focuses on the theme of "Appalachia: Obstacles and Opportunities," featuring stories of Appalachian residents using their ingenuity and expertise to overcome challenges to create a strong sense of community and place.

Exploration of the topic will begin Thursday with the film After Coal at 7 p.m. at the Palace Theatre at 31 E. Main St. in Frostburg. The film profiles inspiring individuals who must abandon traditional livelihoods and build a new future in the coalfields of eastern Kentucky and South Wales. Ex-miners use theatre to rebuild community infrastructure, women transform a former coal board office into an education hub, and young people strive to stay in their home communities.

The theme of overcoming challenges will continue Friday on FSU's Upper Quad with the Appalachian Symposium, beginning at 1 p.m. with a presentation by John Temple, journalist and author of American Pain, which investigates how opioid addiction became such a daunting challenge for the region.

Following his presentation, health department staffs from Allegany and Garrett counties will detail the growing heroin crisis affecting local communities. From there, the symposium will shift to focus on new opportunities in Appalachia, including an emergent medical cannabis industry, regenerative farming, and a movement to combat the "brain drain" in the region.

The last event of the day at 7:15 p.m. is dinner on the grounds and evening entertainment with Dr. Doug Hendren, a retired orthopedic surgeon in Virginia who writes songs and blogs about the broken political and economic systems.

On Saturday, the Session/Jam Tent will return, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the Upper Quad. Musicians of all levels will have a place to gather and play Appalachian music in the genres of bluegrass, mountain music mix, Celtic, and old-time.

Throughout the day, two stages will host 21 musical groups from across the region. The Frostburg Arion Band will perform in the center circle on the Upper Quad. Blue Hill Bluegrass, Dearest Home, Highland Grass, Allegheny Drifters, Davis Bradley Band, Barnstormers and RockCandy Cloggers, Lickety Split Banjo Boys, Old Pitch, and Black Diamond Bluegrass will perform on the Compton stage.

On the Sowers stage will be On the Run, New Creek Station, Time Travelers, Rachel Eddy, Sam and Joe Herrmann, Sparkey and Rhonda Rucker, Loretta Hummel and Robert Broadwater, Twang, Pete Hobbie and Jim Morris, Jay Smar, and Cory and Heather Wharton.

Those interested in stories and music are invited to storytelling from 12:45 to 1:15 p.m. in Cook Chapel. Storytellers Sparky and Rhonda Rucker, Thomas Burnett, Katie and Otto Ross, Stas' Ziolkowski and Suzi Whaples will provide stories and lore inspired by their Appalachian upbringings. Then at 3:30 p.m., Hendren, Michael and Carrie Kline, and Ray Owen will lead some singing, with a focus on renewing the world for the children, the spokesperson said.

Throughout the day, attendees can check out the Explorations Tent. Topics include resurrecting the American chestnut; Scales to Tales, an educational program using non-releasable birds of prey and reptiles; local fracking bans and the status of Maryland's moratorium on high-volume hydraulic fracturing; saving the Jane Gates house, a home that is important to early African-American Cumberland; Engage Mountain Maryland, which is dedicated to mindful growth of the area; and growing the economy with the Great Allegheny Passage.

In the Folkways Tent, festival goers can also learn how to play the dulcimer and clog, as well as learn about early American folk songs and the folk tradition surrounding the African-American experience.

In addition to food and entertainment for all ages, the festival will provide activities and programming specifically for children, who can paint goat-shaped silhouettes at the Capering Kids 4-H Goat Club display; make traditional Appalachian toys at Hands-on Art; join in sing-alongs with multi-instrumentalist Ray Owen; join the Sunnyland Band and play along on spoons, jugs, washboards, and instruments from other countries; and watch an interactive performance by Grammy winners Cathy Fink and Marcy Marxer.

A variety of artisans are also featured throughout the festival, offering tatting, pottery, mountain dulcimers, jewelry, knitting, baskets, stained glass, portrait art, nature photography, decorative gourds, fiber arts, woodworking, hooked rugs, quilts, pewter, beeswax items, and natural personal and home care products.

Also on the grounds will be representatives from the American Chestnut Foundation, Western Maryland Chapter of the Archeological Society, Nature Conservancy, Home Ground, Engage Mountain Maryland, New Meadow Run Community, Wynter's Haven, Frostburg Museum Association, Citizen Shale, Queen City Film Festival, and Rebound Rob's Rollin' Records.

To learn more about the FSU Appalachian Festival, person may visit www.frostburg.edu/events/afestival or email Dr. Kara Rogers Thomas at krogersthomas@frostburg.edu.

ACCIDENT CONCERT BAND TO GIVE 28TH CONCERT IN THE PARK – This will be the 28th year that the Accident Concert Band will present its Concert in the Park, to be held on Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Accident Town Park West. The show will begin at 5 p.m. Picnic tables and benches in the pavilion are available to guests, although attendees may bring their own lawn chairs or blankets. Cookies and lemonade will be provided. The concert will include patriotic numbers, hymns, marches, and popular tunes. There is no admission fee. The Accident Concert Band originated around the time of World War II, and was reorganized on Jan. 12, 1989, through the efforts of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society and the Mayor and Town Council. At one time, the band had its own bus for transportation to local events, its own uniforms, and majorettes. The band uses the original bass drum that is more than 130 years old, recently repainted by Whitey Beck. The group also has the banner carried during parades in the early 1900s, an early uniform, and an early trophy. Anyone who has older pictures of the band or mementoes is asked to bring them to the concert to share. The group welcomes all members regardless of experience or age. Practices are held at the Accident town hall at 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays of the month. For more information, persons may contact Keith Carrington at 301-746-8768 or Rosanne Sherwood at 304-749-8774. In the front row, from left, are Rodney Glotfelty, Jim Fox, Rosanne Sherwood, Scott Schwing, Fred Fox, and George Keller. Second row, same order: Whitey Beck, Lillian Reckner, Charee Reckner, Shari Beitzel, and Keith Carrington. Not available for the photo were players Rebecca Fike, Harold Hudnall, and Annette Keller.

Choral Society To Begin Practicing Handel's Messiah

The Garrett Choral Society will begin rehearsals on Sunday, Sept. 11, for this year's Christmas concert by the local group, which will be a performance of George Frideric Handel's masterpiece, Messiah.

The presentation will feature accompanying string players and guest vocalists, and will be given on Friday to Sunday, Dec. 9, 10, and 11, with the first two shows at 7 p.m. and the Sunday matinee at 2 p.m., all at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland.

The rehearsals are also held at St. Mark's each Sunday evening from 6 p.m. until about 8 p.m. The choral group is made up of singers from across Garrett County, and is under the direction of Jim Tong.

There is no audition for those wishing to sing with the group. A commitment to regular rehearsal attendance is the only requirement, Tong said.

All singers are welcome. Each singer is asked to pay the annual dues of $10 for the group, and $10 for music rental.

For more information, persons may contact Tong at garrettchoralsociety@gmail.com or at his workplace (Jan Florist) at 301-334-9404.

Aurora Project Offering Class In Printmaking

The Aurora Project will offer an advanced printmaking workshop taught by printmaker Mike Costello on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 10 a.m.to 2 p.m. at the Aurora (W.Va.) General Store.

Costello will cover complex, hand-carved, linocut printing techniques.

"This will be a great class for anyone who participated in our basic printmaking workshop in July, or who may already have prior printmaking experience," a spokesperson said.

Admission to the workshop is $30 and includes all materials. For more information and reservations, persons may contact the Aurora Project at 304-735-3620 or info@auroraproject.org.

I WILL SEND RAIN
by Rae Meadows
C. 2016, Henry Holt, $26, 272 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

"Rain, rain, go away." That never worked, did it? You could chant those four words all you want, trying to keep your picnic, reunion, or party from being ruined, but the sky opened up and there you were. Rain, rain, go away – unless, as in the new novel I Will Send Rain by Rae Meadows, that's the kind of storm you really need.

Another day of 100-degree weather. That was Annie Bell's second thought, as she eased herself out of bed, off the sweat-soaked sheet and, away from her sleeping husband, Samuel. It would be a 100 degrees again today, just like it had been for weeks.

Her first thought had been of the baby she'd lost 10 years before. Annie often wondered what Eleanor would be like, and it confounded her that Samuel never thought about their second-born. Then again, a lot about Samuel confounded her.

And then there was Birdie. Annie worried about her first child. At 15, Birdie seemed to be on the edge of all kinds of possibilities, and none at all. Birdie thought she was in love with Cy Mack, and Annie knew that Birdie dreamed of life in a city, but Cy Mack was never going to take her away from the Oklahoma panhandle, that was for sure. Escape was what Annie wanted for Birdie more than anything.

And Fred – sweet, mute Fred, 7 years old, frail and rather sickly. Nobody knew exactly why Fred couldn't – or wouldn't – talk or why he never had, but Annie figured he'd say something when he was good and ready. She worried about him, too, but in the meantime, he was a good help for Samuel.

And, oh, Samuel! There were times when Annie remembered what she gave up to love him, and she wondered how they'd lost that love. Was it the hardship? The isolation? The farm, the draught, the loss of crops, or children?

She wasn't sure of that, or anything, except that they needed rain. So when the sky turned black that hot afternoon and electricity filled the air, there was hope…

But, of course, you know better. You know what happened to the Dust Bowl during the Dirty Thirties, and in I Will Send Rain, anticipation is half the story.

From the very first paragraph, author Rae Meadows makes it difficult not to become mired in the Bells' lives, and impossible not to watch in steely dread as each character in this book falls apart slowly or becomes slightly insane (or both). Our sentry duty's complicated by creeping dust and dirt that almost seems alive and that nearly becomes a sinister character in itself, giving the story a rubber-band tightness that runs snapping and sparking on every page.

This dark novel felt Armageddon-like to me, and I was wrung out by the end, but it's been awhile since I've been as satisfied with a story as I was with this one – therefore, I highly recommend it. In a good way, reading I Will Send Rain will leave you in a puddle.

Zentangle Instructor Slates Course On "Watercolor Basics"

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a class titled "Beyond the String: Watercolor Basics with Mary Kay Barnes – Zentangle®" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Wednesdays, Sept. 7–28, from 6 until 8 p.m.

In this course, students will explore the properties of transparent watercolor paints and compositional design for paintings, watercolor sketching, and use with the Zentangle method of drawing.

Techniques such as wet on wet, dry brush, and washes will be explained and demonstrated. Values and composition will be discussed and defined. Physical properties and composition of watercolor papers and how this determines a paintings outcome will also be demonstrated.

All the basics of watercolor media will be highlighted and explained: paint, paper, brushes, plein air painting, and studio painting.

Barnes is a certified Zentangle teacher, a lifetime signature member of the West Virginia Watercolor Society, and a juried member of Tamarack, where she exhibits her watercolor notecards and copper enamel jewelry in the gallery. She paints and exhibits in Florida and West Virginia, and specializes in plein air painting.

Supplies for this course will be provided. No previous experience is required in Zenangle or watercolor. For more information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, persons may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Hand Drumming Course Scheduled At Garrett College

Garrett College will hold a hand drumming class at the main campus, McHenry, on Thursdays, Sept. 15–Nov. 17 from 7 until 8 pm. The class is appropriate for ages 10 and up.

"Hand drumming has been known to be quite therapeutic and relaxing," said a spokesperson. "This course will focus on the fundamentals of rhythm, including tempo, note values, and meter."

Students will learn a variety of hand drumming techniques and rhythms found in cultures throughout the world.

Students are required to provide their own hand drums.

"Although the djembe is one of the most common hand drums, students may also use a tubano, doumbek, or ashiko drum," the spokesperson noted.

The course will be taught by Dr. Sean Beachy. He earned an undergraduate degree in applied music with an emphasis in piano from Alderson-Broaddus College. He also has earned a master of music degree in composition from Shenandoah University and a doctor of musical arts degree in composition from West Virginia University.

For additional information, persons are asked to contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling the GC Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Dr. Jay DeWire To Present FSU Faculty Concert

The Frostburg State University's Department of Music will kick off the semester with a performance by pianist Dr. Jay DeWire in a Faculty Artist Series concert on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of FSU's Performing Arts Center. The recital, titled "Time and Again," is free and open to the public.

The presentation will feature the music of Johannes Brahms and Sergei Rachmaninoff, two composers who dealt with time and history in ways that made their music unique, DeWire noted.

"Brahms was the first composer to treat all of history as a palette from which he could choose whatever color he wished, while Rachmaninoff sailed unscathed through the stylistic turmoil of the early 20th century and managed to fuse a Romantic spirit with modern lyricism to create a wildly popular body of music," the musician said.

Selections will include Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel, Opus 24 by Brahms; Prelude in G-Sharp minor, Op. 32, No. 12, and a number of other works by the two composers.

DeWire, a frequent solo performer and member of the West Shore Trio, has appeared up and down the Eastern seaboard and is known for his dynamic interpretations of 20th-century works and his "old world flair," an FSU spokesperson said. Recent highlights include The Kirchner Project, a tribute to Leon Kirchner and his music, and the Aspen Music Festival.

DeWire has recorded three live performance solo CDs, including an all 20th-century concert that includes works by Ravel, Debussy, Bartok, Rzewski, and Messiaen. He has also recorded an all-Brahms concert featuring the recently discovered Gavottes, which he arranged and completed for concert performance.

For more information, persons may contact FSU's Department of Music at 301-687-4109.

"School Of Rock" Course Slated At Garrett College

Garrett College has scheduled a course titled "School of Rock" at the main campus in McHenry for Fridays, Sept. 16–Nov. 18, from until 5:30 p.m. This course is for students 10–17 years of age.

"Love rock 'n roll and pop music?" asked a GC spokesperson. "Play electric guitar, bass guitar, keyboard, and/or drum set and want to collaborate with others in a group? If the answer to either of these questions is yes, then, the school of rock class is for you."

This course focuses on learning popular music in a rock-band setting. Students will need to have some experience (either formal training or self-taught) on their instrument of choice, and will need to provide their own instruments.

Topics include the following: history of rock, instrumentation, and song literature. Students will work toward presenting a concert at the end of the semester.

The course is being instructed by Dr. Sean Beachy. He earned an undergraduate degree in applied music with an emphasis in piano from Alderson-Broaddus College. He also has earned a master of music degree in composition from Shenandoah University and a doctor of musical arts degree in composition from West Virginia University.

For additional information, persons are invited to contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling Garrett College Continuing's Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Piano Studies, Composition Course Slated

The Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College will be offering two musical courses at the college's Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, and at the McHenry campus on a continual basis.

The are piano studies and composition/songwriting for the musical enthusiast. Both are offered in 10 half-hour individualized segments by appointment.

The piano studies course allows for individual studies in piano and music theory for beginning, intermediate, and advanced students. Beginning students will develop music reading skills and basic piano technique. Intermediate and advanced students will further develop their technique through scales and etudes, and explore a variety of piano literature.

Students must have access to a piano or electric keyboard to practice assignments on a daily basis. The age range for the course is 5 years old and up.

In composition/songwriting for the musical enthusiast, students will learn various compositional techniques and develop an approach to creating new compositions. Students will also develop a basic understanding of music notation software and should be able to discuss various aspects of composition, including form, instrumentation, melody, harmony, rhythm, meter, and dynamics.

Students must have a fundamental understanding of music theory and be proficient on an instrument before enrolling in this class.

Both courses will be taught by local composer and musician Dr. Sean Beachy of Grantsville. He earned an undergraduate degree in applied music with an emphasis in piano from Alderson-Broaddus College. He also has earned a master of music degree in composition from Shenandoah University and a doctor of musical arts degree in composition from West Virginia University.

Beachy's pieces have been performed and premiered throughout the United States and Italy. Most recently, he was commissioned to write a new piece for the Frostburg Arion Band in celebration of its 140th anniversary.

Beachy is currently an adjunct instructor of music at Garrett College, as well as director of GC's Mountain Maryland Music Institute. He has also been a collaborative pianist for the past 10 years, working with local public schools and universities. Most recently, he and his wife Debi presented a four-hand piano concert for the Music at Penn Alps Summer Concert Series. He is also organist at Frostburg United Methodist Church.

For additional information, persons are invited to contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Prior to registration, the student will need to meet with Dr. Beachy to discuss his/her proficiency.

GCEMA Code Update Seminar Slated In Oct.

The Garrett County Electrical Mechanical Association will host a code update seminar on Oct. 21 from 4 to 7 p.m. and Oct. 22, 2016 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Garrett Community College McHenry campus GIEC building, room 111.

Marty Schumacher will be the instructor for this 10-hour course. Mike Holt's Understanding the 2014 NEC books are available at an additional cost of $65 each. Members should note whether or not they want the book during registration.

Each student will receive a CEU (continuing education unit) certificate approved for Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and Delaware.

The CEU (continuing education units) certificates are valid for 2 years. The cost of the course is $180 for members and $200 for non-members. Persons should contact Sandra Blamble at 301-334-4728 or 301-501-0786 to register. The deadline to register is Sept. 15.

There will be light meals provided on both days.

Schumacher worked as a Howard County electrical inspector for 17 years and currently is an electrical plans examiner. He holds a Maryland master electrician license and a journeyman's license, and is a member of the NFPA, IAEI, IEC, AFAA and is a IAEI Certified Master Inspector(CEI-M), ICC certified commercial electrical inspector, residential inspector, and electrical plans examiner.

He serves on four United Laboratories (UL) technical panels, and, in 2013, the Chesapeake Chapter of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors voted him in as its next president.

Schumacher has taken numerous electrical courses and seminars since 1983. As a trained electrician and former electrical contractor, he brings his lifetime of learning and nearly 20 years as a code instructor into all of his classes.

He is active on numerous electrical boards and committees nationally, as well as in the state of Maryland.

A lifelong Marylander, he lives in Westminster with his wife Trish and their three children.

HUSKY GRIDDERS TO KICK OFF SEASON – The Northern High School Huskies, pictured above, hope to return to the playoffs, as the team prepares for its season opener tomorrow at Smithsburg. See story for details.

Husky Gridders Aim For Third Consecutive Playoff Season

The Northern High School football team aims to return to the Region Class 1A playoffs for the third straight year after coming off a 6-4 regular season.

Seventeen players, including five starters on defense and seven on offense, return from last year's team to provide veteran leadership and experience for the varsity roster.

The added experience could provide an extra boost in close games as last year the team was just a few plays away from a 9-1 regular season, with three losses coming by seven points or less.

The Huskies look to do damage on the ground as a senior-laden backfield and offensive line look to carry the team in the trenches.

"This year's strength will be our offensive line and its depth," said Head Coach Phil Carr. "We are two-deep at each position on the O-line."

The five-man front will feature three seniors, Denver Glotfelty, Nick Harris, and John Brennenman, and two juniors, Travis Georg and Bryce Jones, who will fill in at center.

Senior halfback Nate Durst, who also was selected to the all-state football team as a punter, looks to benefit from the deep line and provide consistent damage running the ball alongside senior quarterback Logan Yommer and senior fullback James Lewis.

"We will need to stay healthy in our skill positions to have any success," said Carr.

Should the offensive attack move to the air, Yommer will have returning senior wide receiver Colton Houser and senior tight end Ryan Weimer as viable options on the receiving end.

On the defensive side of the ball. Keygan Broadwater and Durst will return at linebacker, Lewis at defensive end, Cayleb Broadwater will move from end to linebacker, and Houser will move from safety to corner.

Other starters on defense will be Brenneman at noseguard, Georg at tackle, Eli Eggleston or Jones at tackle, and Riley Brick as the other defensive end. Spear, Ravenscroft, and Yommer will all be filling in positions in the secondary.

One of the major replacements on defense will be the absence of long-time defensive coordinator Frank Ewing, who retired at the end of last season.

"We are not making many changes, just a few little things here and there," said Carr. "Coach Ewing's philosophies will still be in place."

With the pieces nearly set, the Huskies look forward to the beginning of the season after a productive preseason.

"We have had a good preseason and two scrimmages," said Carr. "Our leadership has been good to this point and needs to continue throughout the whole season."

Much of the schedule remains the same from last year, but a few new additions will provide opportunities for important wins.

"New additions to the schedule are Moorefield, who went to the state semifinals a year ago, and Brunswick from Frederick Co.," said Carr.

This Friday night, the wait will finally be over for the team as they travel to Smithsburg looking to avenge last year's 9-7 loss.

"Our offense has looked good and our defense is learning a few new things, " said Carr. "The kids have been working very hard in their preparation for the season."

Coaching alongside Carr are Jamie Workman, Bob Moranduzzo, Steve Savage, Jay Stewart, Jon Houser, and Scott Jones.

Southern Golf Extends Unbeaten Record, Sweeps Four Toumaments

The Southern High School golf team extended its undefeated campaign to 24-0 after topping a tournament at Canaan Valley, two at the Cumberland Country Club, and one at The Pines Country Club.

The Rams carded the top four individual scores at Canaan Valley on Aug. 25 to score a 159, finishing ahead of Trinity (183) and Tucker (188). Union High School brought three individual players, but didn't have enough to compete as a team.

Zach Wesolowski led the Rams with a tournament-best score of 37, followed by Zack Harvey who carded a 40.

Kulen Flanigan and Christian Jordan each scored a 41 to complete Southern's top four.

Brady Merrick (42) and Brandon Green (53) completed the Rams' scorecard for the Canaan Valley tournament, with Merrick finishing tied for the fifth-best overall score.

Lance Smith knocked in a 47 to represent Northern High School.

The same top four almost perfectly replicated their efforts in the event at the Cumberland Country Club on Monday, as the Rams cruised with a score of 167 ahead of Allegany (206) and Mountain Ridge (217).

Wesolowski achieved back-to-back tournament-best scores, this time carding a 40 to lead the team.

Harvey finished just behind Wesolowski with a score of 41, and Flanigan and Jordan once again tied each other, this time with a tally of 43.

Merrick (44) just missed Southern's top four, but finished tied for the tournament's fifth-best overall mark. CJ Davis (50) completed their scorecard.

Northern once again was represented by Smith, who scored a 48, but this time he was also joined by Shaun Zimmerman, who knocked in a 59.

The Rams returned to the Cumberland Country Club on Tuesday and carded a 167 to enjoy a comfortable victory over Bishop Walsh (200).

Harvey and Jordan each knocked in a 40, which was good enough for the top score in the event.

Brandon Hill followed with a 43, and Merrick worked his way into the top four with a 44.

Wesolowski and Flanigan filled out the Rams' scorecard with scores of 46 and 48, giving Southern six of the top seven individual scores in the tournament.

Northern's Smith and Zimmerman tallied totals of 46 and 61.

The Rams traveled to Morgantown yesterday and topped three more teams at The Pines Country Club, carding a 162 ahead of Notre Dame High School (165); Trinity (197), and Tucker County (197).

Jordan and Wesolowski finished tied with Notre Dame's Austin Wilson for the tournament-high total, each tallying 40 strokes.

Harvey and Merrick each knocked in a 41 to help the Rams squeak by the Fighting Irish. Hill also finished with a 41, and Flanigan completed Southern's scorecard with a 43.

The undefeated Rams will compete in the Appalachian Athletic Conference Tournament on Sept. 8 at 1 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

Oaks Fall Short In Maryland Semi-Pro Semifinal Game

After nine innings of a low-scoring pitching duel, the PenMar-WV champion Oakland Oaks fell 2-1 to the Susquehanna Assault in the Maryland Semi-Pro State Semifinal match at Memorial Field at the Hot Stove Complex, Cumberland, on Saturday.

The game began with three scoreless innings, highlighted by Nathan King's seven strikeouts for the Oaks.

Susquehanna dealt the first blow in the fourth inning when K.J. Hockaday hit a two-out single and Gilbert Peralta doubled to move Hockaday to third. Three pitches later, Hockaday stole home to give the Assault a 1-0 lead.

Oakland's Tristan Lucas helped prevent further damage after making an over-the-shoulder catch in center field to end the inning.

The Oaks answered in the top of the seventh to tie the game when Corey Helbig smacked a double to right-center field to bring home Fraser Brown with two outs.

However, Susquehanna ended Oakland's brief moment of celebration quickly with a go-ahead run off a Timmy Heller single in the bottom of the seventh to take a 2-1 lead.

The Oaks had one final chance in the top of the ninth when they got a runner on first, but a pop fly in foul territory ended the season for Oakland.

King finished with eight strikeouts and gave up only eight hits.

Winning-pitcher Steve Cooke struck out 14 Oaks and held the team to just two hits.

The Assault would go on to win a fifth-consecutive state championship that evening after disposing of the Hagerstown Braves 7-5 in 10 innings.

The Oaks finished with a record of 20-3 .

WGA DONATES $2,300 TO GRMC – The Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club recently presented a donation of $2,300 to the Garrett Regional Medical Center Foundation. The July Invitational, chaired by Becky Glotfelty, raised the funds for the new cancer center at the hospital. A total of 60 golfers participated in the annual event, with a different local charity voted on each year by members. The WGA plays golf from April through September. New women golfers are welcome. In the front row, from left, are Glotfelty, Daryl Walters (GRMC), Barbara Frantz (WGA), Steve Bortz (GRMC), and members Sue Bredel, Janice Larue, Jean Thagard, Marie Dray, Sandy Bello, Betsy Polce, and Barbara Levin. Back row: members June Bray, Judith Evans, Gisele Mohler, Julia Hoffmann, Sue O'Neal, Sherry Grant, and Cindi Cramer.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

SATURDAY BOOM, SUNDAY BUST
by Dan Muss

Saturday was another perfect sailing day, but after a very good start, I fell way back and finished last by a 500-yard margin. Either I'm losing it or there's something wrong with my boat. I'm going to check it out during the week.

But Ed Peters had a very good race:

"Saturday was a beautiful day with a nice 5-to-8-mph breeze from the southeast. A longtime friend, Barbara Elster, was visiting from Dayton, Ohio. Barbara is an accomplished sailor who was very successful in our Masters Fleet and moved to Dayton to be close to family. She was thrilled to be asked to crew for Ray Gauthier, and to my surprise, they announced they were going to race in the Masters Fleet. Also, longtime sailing racer Peter Salmon-Cox was visiting and was going to race with us.

"It looked like there would be fierce competition in the Masters Fleet. PRO Bruce Spmnenweber set up a very nice triangle/windward leeward course in the main part of the lake off Holy Cross. The start was near North Glade and the windward mark between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres.

"With Jean Thagard as crew, we got a decent start in the center of the line. I noticed that Gauthier, Salmon-Cox, and Gregory were down at the pin end of the line, and it looked like a port tack was going to be the favored tack giving them the advantage. Jean and I started on starboard tack, but went to port right away, which we held for a good 10 minutes making good progress upwind.

"Off to our left, the boats that had started at the pin were making even better progress, staying in the center and tacking on every shift. As we approached the windward mark, Gauthier and Salmon-Cox were well ahead of us. It looked like we had little hope of catching the leaders and it was becoming a race between Riebel, Meehan, and ourselves for third place.

"On the downwind legs, we had to jibe several times in order to stay in the competition, and on upwind legs were involved with staying with Riebel and Meehan. I lost track of the lead boats. On the last upwind leg, I noticed that Salmon-Cox had dropped back and was now behind us, but Gauthier was still ahead. Somehow I was able to get ahead of Riebel and Meehan on that last leg, and it became a chore covering two boats on the way to the finish.

"In the meantime, as he so often does, Gregory came out of nowhere and beat Gauthier at the finish line for first place. Jean and I were successful in our battle with Riebel and Meehan, and came in third. Note that both Gauthier and Salmon-Cox are Gold Fleet sailors, which shows that the Masters Fleet is a very competitive fleet."

There wasn't enough wind to sail on Sunday ... so it was back to the crossword puzzle.

Northern Maddawgs Open Season With Cumberland Raiders

The Northern Maddawgs opened their 2016 season at Northern High School as their A, B, and C teams took on the Cumberland Raiders in a full day of football on Saturday.

The event kicked off with a flag football game between squads consisting of 4- and 5-year-old players.

Northern's senior A team took down the Raiders after scoring 21 unanswered points, thanks to rushing touchdowns by Myles Uphold and Ethan Schold and a 25-yard receiving touchdown by Tyler Hawk.

Hawk led the team's defensive efforts with 11 tackles, followed by Sebold's 10. Macy Pagano also recorded her first career sack.

The B-team Maddawgs also enjoyed a win over the Raiders with a stalwart defensive performance in an 18-0 shutout.

The game remained close, but Northern put the game away after capping off a scoring drive with a touchdown with two minutes to play.

Hunter Livengood and Haiden Stein led the team on defense throughout the game, while TJ Wilson and Shane Bates made some key stops to keep the Raiders at bay.

All three touchdowns came on the ground for the Maddawgs, as Devon Opel, Laudon Yoder, and Tim Folk each found their way into the end zone.

The C team did not have the same success, falling 41-0 to the Raiders.

Despite the loss, Aydan Gale, Paxton Julio, and Luke Ritchie turned in solid games for the Maddawgs.

The season continues this Saturday as the Maddawgs visit the Cumberland Saints at 9 a.m. The next home game takes place on Sept. 24. at 5 p.m.

Northern Soccer To Open Season Against Fort Hill

The Northern High School boys' soccer team will kick off the season this Saturday when the team hosts Fort Hill at 7 p.m.

The Huskies hope to have a strong start to the season despite replacing four seniors from last year, three of whom were primarily in the defensive third of the field.

"We graduated four players last year. Jake Vernon, at midfield, and Zach Voelkel, at center back, will be hard to replace," said head coach Lynn Lais. "They were both very capable of playing the college game."

The Huskies will also look to replace Nick Ahern at left back and David Becker at goalkeeper.

The open spaces provide opportunities for the younger players to come in and make an immediate impact as the team prepares for a tough schedule.

"Our goal is to be competitive in every match, regardless of the opponent," said Lais. "The Maryland teams will all be tough again this year, and the West Virginia teams in the league have all been improving."

The Huskies will have little time for recovery, as the team has to play five matches within a 10-day span.

"Our numbers are down and we have some back-to-back games, so injury and illness will play a big role in the ability to field teams that will compete every game," said Lais. "We have some young players who lack game experience as well, so the poise of the upperclassmen will be key."

The Huskies are coming off a scrimmage against North Marion, where they tied 4-4 on Aug. 24. The first three matches of the regular season are at home.

Study Finished

and Friday, Sept. 9, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center.

The project's Purpose & Need and concepts are available on the project website, www.US219NorthMD.com. Paper versions may be obtained by contacting the project manager. The project team is also available to attend community, business, or other meetings to talk about the project.

According to officials, Pennsylvania does not have the funding available for project phases beyond the PEL Study. However, the PEL document will be the foundation for a future NEPA project and will put Pennsylvania in a strong positon to move forward should funding be identified.

The PEL study reportedly evaluated 16 alignments to determine which alignment(s) "would improve the regional/local economy and address mobility and safety deficiencies, while minimizing overall environmental impacts."

The study recommends Alignments E and E-Shift as reasonable to move forward to be evaluated under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA).

According to officials, Alignments E and E-Shift meet the study vision and goals and are collectively the least impactful of all alignments. The two alignments are projected to add more than 500 jobs and approximately $60 million in total economic benefits.

Alignment E is reportedly the most publicly favored alignment, followed by Alignment E-Shift.

While the PEL study recommended alignments for advancement or elimination, the final determination on a selected alternative will reportedly be made during the NEPA process evaluation of the stand-alone project.

Following the informational workshop, plans are for a public hearing to be held in the winter of 2016/17. Other projections are for design build advertisement to be made in April 2017, NEPA Clearance to be in the spring of 2017, final design completion in the winter of 2017/18, and construction to begin in the spring of 2018.

Southern Rams Football To Kick Off Season Tomorrow

The Southern High School Rams football season begins tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 2, as the team hosts the Allegany Campers at 7 p.m.

Though the two teams did not meet last season, the Rams are hoping to avenge the loss from their last meeting with the Campers, in which Southern lost 51-6 on the road.

The Rams will also look to start 1-0 for the first time in over a decade.

Southern will field a team with very few seniors, but the younger Rams look forward to seizing the opportunity to take the field and gain valuable experience moving forward.

Editor's Note: The newsroom did not receive preseason information from the Rams.

Steelers Fall To Patriots In Youth Football League

The Cumberland Area Youth Football League season kicked off Saturday as the Northern Steelers fell to the Personal Best/Hartley's Pizza Patriots 30-12 at Allegany College.

Paxton Wertz led the Patriots' running attack by running for 61 and 28-yard touchdowns to give the defending champions a quick first-quarter lead.

Hunter Hamilton added another touchdown in the first quarter before the Steelers could find its first answer in the form of a Jake Rush 49-yard touchdown carry to close the gap to 18-6.

Wertz would score his third rushing touchdown of the day in the third quarter before Rush took the ball 59 yards for a score to make it 24-12.

However, that was the closest the Steelers would come, as Sheldon Walsh all but ended Northern's comeback hopes when he plunged into the end zone from the 2 yard line to extend the lead to 30-12.

Rush had over 100 yards on the ground to lead the Steelers' offensive attack.

Northern resumes action on Sunday as they host the Rams.

AMONG THE BEST IN U.S. – Isabella "Bella" Woods, daughter of Josh and Christina Woods of Parkersburg, W.Va., and granddaughter of Tom and Debbie Woods, Mtn. Lake Park, recently earned recognition as one of the top 100 gymnasts in the United States of her age. Bella, who is 8 years old, competed for a spot in the national TOPS (Talent Opportunity Program) program sponsored by the USA Gymnastics Program. Gymnasts from all over the country participated in state testing during the summer months in their attempts to qualify for national testing. Receiving a national qualifying score in state testing gives Bella the opportunity to travel with her coach to Huntsville, Texas, in October for a two-day evaluation at the Bela and Marta Karolyi Ranch. Marta Karoiyi was this year's gold-medal-winning Olympic women's gymnastics team coach, and the ranch is the official U.S. Women's Gymnastics Olympic training facility. The most outstanding gymnasts from each age group (8, 9, and 10) will be named to the USA TOPS national team, which will be invited to future camps held by the major coaches and individuals in USA gymnastics. Bella, who is a member of the Gymniks Gym in Parkersburg, has won three W.Va. state all-around titles. She is the only gymnast from West Virginia to be named a TOPS national finalist.

Northern Cross Country Begins Season With High Expectations

Northern High School's girls and boys cross country teams, led by head coach Jaron Hawkins and assistant Shaun Peck, look to build on last season's state meet success after returning several key runners and adding quality depth.

Girls XC Preview

The Huskies' girls' team is coming off a third-place finish at last year's state meet, and is aiming to finish higher despite losing two of the team's four all-state runners to graduation, Tiffany Warnick and Michaela Vitez.

Seniors Hailey Yommer, Rebecca Meyers, Abby Burdock, and juniors Faith Parandhamaia and Ana Rhoten all ran in last year's state meet and are returning this season. This has led to an increase of quality depth for Hawkins.

"I cannot even begin to guess who will be varsity," said Hawkins. "This team is stacked.

"We have 10 girls, which is a low number for us, but every one of our girls would make varsity on any other team."

Hawkins describes the team as a "three or four-headed monster," and is expecting that there will be three or four girls near the front of every race.

"Not only have we added some speed, we've added depth as well," said Hawkins.

While Hawkins believes this could be the Huskies' best girls, cross country team in the program's history, powerhouses Boonsboro and Smithsburg are still the perennial favorites to take the state championship.

"They both have a storied history and finished first and second last year," said Hawkins. "I think we are definitely overlooked, but we are the ones that have to step up and beat both of those teams."

Hawkins also believes the spread (time difference) between the first and fifth runner could be a weakness for the team and could be what keeps the Huskies from grabbing gold.

"This is where the 'meat' of the runners finish and that can hurt us in the team score," said Hawkins. "If we can get our fifth runner within 1:00-1:30 of our first runner, we will be competing very well at the championship meets."

Despite the obstacles, Hawkins believes that even in a sport defined by individual performance, their team chemistry will be what takes them to the next level.

"The best part is that these girls are so competitive with one another, but are truly a team," said Hawkins. "They care about each other and want every teammate to do their best. That is rare to find in a good team."

Boys XC Preview

The Huskies' boys look to have similar success after coming off a seventh-place state meet finish while returning its all-state runner Robert Walker.

Like the girls, the boys will also return five state-meet runners from last season, including seniors Walker and Nathan Sines, along with juniors Caleb Barclay, Jaden Lais, and Reed Stolzenfels.

Even more so than the girls, however, the boys' biggest strength is going to be their quality depth.

"We have 14 runners on the boys' side this year," said Hawkins. "That is the largest team we've had since cross country restarted four years ago.

"The team should have much success running as a pack, as [Kole] Bennett, [Dylan] McCann, Lais, Barclay, Walker, Sines, and Stolzenfels are all on the same level," said Hawkins.

With the amount of depth at their disposal, Hawkins believes the competition for the final two varsity spots will be compelling.

"Our returning runners should all be varsity, so the competition to fill out the last two varsity spots should be tight," said Hawkins. "McCann will split time with soccer, but should have an exceptional season based off an excellent outdoor track season, Bennett is coming, and [sophomores] Nick Opel and Cody Eyler could fight it out for a varsity spot."

However, the team's biggest strength could also be its "Achilles heel," as the team has no standout runner.

"All of our guys are really good runners, but we struggle year after year to have one jump out of the pack and be up front in most races," said Hawkins. "Having a guy who can run with the leaders really jump starts the team to a good score.

"We will have to rely on having our pack of guys positioned well to offset this hole," said Hawkins.

Southern, Fort Hill, and Allegany will look to fight with the Huskies to go to states, where Hawkins believes that it will be anybody's game.

"Bohemia Manor and Boonsboro are far and away the favorites to win the state meet," said Hawkins. "Do I think we can finish that high? I'll just say that I think this boys team isn't on anybody's radar, but we'll show up when it counts, and we like it that way!"

The Huskies will begin the season in the Interstate Classic at Clear Spring High School on Saturday, Sept. 3.

GO WITH GOD'S FLOW

A spectacular waterfall often starts as a small stream. By the time it comes cascading over the precipice, the water is a big river flowing fast and strong. Everything in its path goes with the flow. Our faith starts small like a stream and grows bigger and stronger along life's way. Life is difficult and has many challenges to tempt us away from "God's flow". Visit your house of worship and learn about the power His word can provide. Find the right direction for your life and it will get easier to go with God's flow.

Hasty Judgements

It is almost always a mistake to jump to conclusions about other people's motives. We may think that someone is doing something for the worst of reasons, but we really do not and cannot know with certainty why people do the things they do. Scrutinizing our own motives and judging ourselves can often be valuable for our own spiritual progress, but judging others is almost always a mistake because we simply can't know someone else's motives. So why do we do it? Why are we so quick to judge other people? Perhaps part of the reason is simply that to get along with others it helps to be in tune with what others are thinking and feeling. We can't be blind to the fact that other people have feelings and motives for doing what they do. But by judging others charitably, and assuming the best of them rather than the worst, we usually get along much better. In fact, sometimes the charitable judgement becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy. So if you are going to be hasty in making judgements about others, at least be hasty in making charitable judgements. All it takes is a bit of kindness, empathy, and perhaps a smile to get others to act with kindness, empathy and a smile of their own.

— Christopher Simon

"Do not judge, or you too will be judged. For in the same way you judge others, you will be judged, and with the measure you use, it will be measured to you."

— Matthew 7:1-2 NIV

Discovery miniseries shines light on the men behind Harley-Davidson

By Cassie Dresch
TV Media

When you think of Harley-Davidson motorcycles, what springs to mind? Powerful, durable and loud? Beards and leather? What about a game-changing, boundary-pushing dream that started in a small shed in Milwaukee, sprouting from the minds of two close-knit schoolyard pals?

That's where Discovery is taking viewers — on a journey back in time to the turn of the 20th century, when Bill Harley and Arthur Davidson took an idea and built it into the legendary product we know today. The premiere of the three-part event series "Harley and the Davidsons" airs Monday, Sept. 5, on the cabler, with the final two installments running Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 6 and 7.

Starring Robert Aramayo ("Game of Thrones") and Bug Hall ("The Little Rascals," 1994) as Bill and Arthur, respectively, "Harley and the Davidsons" is based on a true story — one that makes for compelling TV, even if you're not a motorcycle aficionado. Two pals embark on a risky adventure, go up against seemingly insurmountable odds (and tough competition), and fight and claw their way to success and recognition. In this case, we know the outcome — Harley-Davidson has been around for more than 100 years, and has grown into a way of life for generations.

But, as Aramayo and Hall told TV Media during a roundtable interview, the focus isn't just on motorcycles. "This story is about people," Aramayo said. "It's about the development of a motorcycle, but it's also about the people who created it."

"At the end of the day, nobody actually watches a show about motorcycles, they watch a show about people," Hall added. "In real life, these guys had a great love for each other, and their story as human beings was just exceptional, and that's what's really appealing about this."

Michiel Huisman ("Game of Thrones") rounds out the big three as Arthur's older brother, Walter Davidson, who was also a company founder. Walter was the daredevil of the bunch, but with Arthur's salesmanship and Bill's creativity, they grew to be an unstoppable and inseparable team — which is something that Hall said also happened among the three actors.

"I can say with absolute certainty that, in 25 years of doing this job, I've never been as close with anybody as I was with Rob and Michiel," said Hall. "We had a name we called ourselves, the Bottom Button Brothers, because Arthur, Bill and all those guys in the photographs always had their bottom button buttoned on their suit jackets. We really, really care about each other, and I think that translates on the screen as well."

For Aramayo, the connection with Hall was practically instantaneous and mirrored the story "Harley and the Davidsons" is looking to tell. "What was so enjoyable for me was the way in which things developed [with Hall]," he said, "because it seems similar to the timeline that we were portraying. Me and Bug struck up very immediately an instant friendship, and I think that was lovely, but it was also very useful when telling the beginnings of the [show's] story because it's two young lads in Milwaukee who get one another into trouble."

Of course, it can't be all fun and games for the three young Wisconsinites — there's always some sort of adversity lurking around the corner. Whether it's proving the critics wrong, going up against a big-name corporation that already has a strong foothold in the motorbike market or facing the dangers that motorbike racing and motordromes inherently pose, Arthur, Bill and Walter ultimately have to lean on each other to ensure their budding business survives. The boys also have to lean on a few other friendly (and some not-so-friendly) faces in "Harley and the Davidsons." British actor Daniel Coonan ("EastEnders") stars in the miniseries as William "Big Bill" Davidson, the eldest brother and final founding member of Harley-Davidson. Annie Read ("Cheny Red Kiss," 2014) plays the eventual Mrs. Harley, Caroline Jachthuber, and newcomer Essa O'Shea stars as Clara Beisel, Arthur's future wife. Gabriel Luna ("Wicked City") also appears in the miniseries as Eddie Hasha, a motorcycle racer also known as the Texas Cyclone who rides on an Indian bike, a Harley-Davidson archrival.

So many different things come to mind when you think of an iconic brand like Harley-Davidson. Whether you think of its cultural impact, its classic design or its legion of dedicated fans, it always comes back to one thing: motorcycles. The company's humble beginnings, rich history and longevity make for a great story, especially on the small screen, but you don't have to be a part of biker culture to enjoy Discovery's latest offering.

"You don't have to know anything about Harley-Davidson to watch the show," Aramayo said. "This is a story about adversity, this is a story about creation, and this is a story about people and families."

Glover goes home

Former 'Community' star is heading back to 'Atlanta'

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Glover goes home: Donald Glover's entertainment career continues to expand. The former "Community" fan favorite is finally headlining his own show, and it's no wonder he has the starring role: he also created the show.

"Atlanta" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 6, on FX, with Glover starring as a young music manager who is helping his cousin (Brian Tyree Henry, "Boardwalk Empire") get his career up and running in Atlanta's legendary music scene.

It's a semi-autobiographical dramedy straight from Glover's mind, with an array of talent backing him and Henry up. Zazie Beetz ("Applesauce," 2015) and LaKeith Stanfield ("Straight Outta Compton," 2015) round out the main cast.

It's an idea that Glover would know a lot about. While these days he's probably better known for his acting career, he's also a talented musician and DJ who was raised in an Atlanta suburb. Under his stage name, Childish Gambino, his second album, "Because the Internet," was nominated for two Grammys. It was these influences that inspired him to write "Atlanta's" pilot.

Even writing the pilot wasn't outside of the actor and rapper's comfort zone. After all, he hasn't always been an on-screen presence. His television career started in 2006 behind the scenes of NBC's "30 Rock" as part of the writing team (with occasional on-screen cameos), and he helped the team take home three Writers Guild of America Awards for their work.

But it hasn't been just small-screen laughs and on-stage raps for this multitalented man. His silver screen career is taking off, too, with major roles in Hollywood blockbusters "Magic Mike XXL" (2015) and "The Martian" (2015) splashing his name across yet another entertainment realm.

While "Atlanta" isn't just the Donald Glover show, his stamp on the comedic drama is unmistakable. The semi-autobiographical look at The Big Peach's music scene launches Tuesday, Sept. 6, on FX.

Funny with Fillion: "Castle" may have been canceled, but Nathan Fillion didn't stay unemployed for very long. The former star of the ABC comedy-drama has booked a spot in the upcoming season of "Modern Family," and he's not the only famous guest star popping up.

Comedian Martin Short ("Maya & Marty"), who will be starring later this year in NBC's "Hairspray Live," is also guest starring, showing up in the season's second episode as a promotional expert. The Emmy-winning comedy is set to return Wednesday, Sept. 21, on ABC.

Fillion's role is a bit more substantial. He's scheduled to guest star in multiple episodes as a weatherman, with what may be the profession's most appropriate name: Rainer Shine. The character is set to appear in three episodes.

Of course, "Castle" isn't Fillion's only claim to fame. He starred in the short-lived science fiction show "Firefly" and its spinoff film "Serenity" (2005), worked on his voice acting in the animated film "Monsters University" (2013), and is set to appear in next year's "Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2."

The "Modern Family" appearance indicates that there's no bad blood or hard feelings from Fillion towards ABC about "Castle's" cancelation. Earlier this year, it was announced that Fillion's co-star Stana Katic ("CBGB," 2013) would not be returning for the show's ninth season. It was canceled shortly thereafter, despite several cast members signing on for another season.

Saturday

The Henry Ford's Innovation Nation

5 (5) 10:00 a.m.

Mo Rocca presents the stories behind some of the world's greatest inventions as he hosts this Emmy-winning series. The show takes a look at the passion, perseverance and price required to bring such inventions to life.

The Pioneer Woman

(60) FOOD 10:00 a.m.

Ree Drummond and her family throw a joint birthday party for Todd and his cousin Caleb in this new episode. She prepares Caleb's favorite barbecue dish: spicy pulled pork sliders piled high with fixings, along with make-ahead slow cooker baked beans.

Power Rangers: Dino Charge

(47) NICK Noon

Beauticruel believes Poisandra's magic paint and brush could be just what she needs to make any guy she desires fall in love with her in this new episode. Meanwhile, Heckyl comes up with a plan to make the Rangers fall in love with her.

Valerie's Home Cooking

(60) FOOD Noon

As summer winds down, Valerie Bertinelli commemorates the end of the season with one last backyard soirée in this new episode. The guest list includes Chef Stuart O'Keeffe, actress Mackenzie Phillips and Larry and Angela Robinson.

Hotel Hell

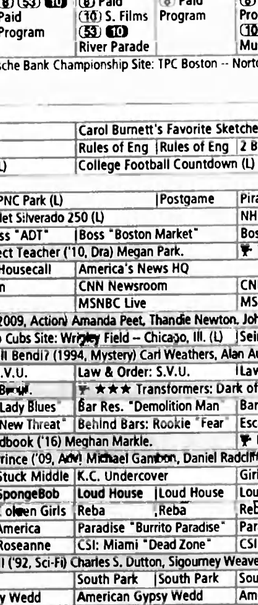
5 10 (53) (10) 8:00 p.m.

The famous chef heads to Newtown, Pennsylvania, in a rebroadcast of this reality series. There, Ramsay tries to light a fire under an owner and her unmotivated son who seem blind to the problems that plague their establishment.

America's Got Talent

(11) (11) (12) 8:00 p.m.

NBC treats viewers to a rebroadcast of this week's Live Results episode. Find out which five recent performers get to move on to the next phase of the competition. This season, viewers were able to send their favorite act directly to the finals.



Beachfront Bargain Hunt: Renovation

(55) HGTV 9:00 p.m.

Leslie and Kris have fallen in love with the crystal waters of Emerald Isle, North Carolina, and set out to find a beach property big enough for their family of four in this new episode. They find a place, but need to spruce it up.

Gordon Ramsay as seen in "Hotel Hell"

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was 19th-century French poet Charles Baudelaire who made the following sage observation: "What's irritating about love is it's a crime that requires an accomplice."

* In 2012, a Swedish man named Henrik Ismarker was fed up with people speeding down the road in his Stockholm neighborhood, so he went to the local police department and asked them to crack down on drivers going too fast. In response, a speed trap was set up, and Ismarker himself got a speeding ticket the very next day. He was embarrassed, he said, but added that he was "very satisfied with the police response."

* Thanks to extremely flexible jaws, the African egg-eating snake can swallow an egg that's much larger than the diameter of its head. It also can tell with a flick of the tongue whether an egg is fresh or not.

* Those who study such things say that if you start to lose your hearing, it's more than likely that you'll lose high notes before you lose low notes.

* According to a recent study, kids in the South have more playtime with their parents than kids in other parts of the United States. In a nationwide survey of parents with children ages 2 to 8, 76 percent of Southern parents say they play with their kids at least once a day. Compare that to the West at 46 percent, the Midwest at 40 percent and the Northeast at just 38 percent.

* I imagine that if someone screamed, "Eeek! A foggy-toddler!" you wouldn't have any idea what was going on. If you'd studied the vernacular of 18th-century England, though, you'd know to watch out for a bumblebee.

Thought for the Day: "You don't know how much you don't know until your children grow up and tell you." -- S.J. Perelman

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Sept. 9, 1776, the Continental Congress formally declares the name of the new nation to be the "United States" of America, replacing the "United Colonies" that had been used in Thomas Jefferson's version of the Declaration of Independence.

* On Sept. 10, 1833, President Andrew Jackson announces that the government will no longer use the Second Bank of the United States, the country's national bank, and withdraws all federal funds. Jackson resented the bank's lack of funding for Western expansion.

* On Sept. 7, 1911, avant-garde French poet Guillaume Apollinaire is arrested and jailed on suspicion of stealing Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa." No evidence surfaced, and Apollinaire was released. Two years later, a former employee of the Louvre, Vincenzo Perggia, was arrested while trying to sell the famous painting.

* On Sept. 11, 1921, Fatty Arbuckle, a silent-film era performer at the height of his fame, is arrested in San Francisco for the murder of aspiring actress Virginia Rappe. After two mistrials, the jury in Arbuckle's third trial found him not guilty and even issued him an apology.

* On Sept. 5, 1958, Boris Pasternak's romantic novel "Dr. Zhivago" is published in the United States. The book was banned in the Soviet Union, but still won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1958 after admirers smuggled out the manuscript.

* On Sept. 6, 1972, a West German police attempt to rescue nine Israeli Olympic team members held hostage by Palestinian terrorists ends in disaster. All nine hostages were killed. Terrorists from Black September had stormed the Israeli quarters in the Olympic Village in Munich early the previous morning.

Does Dog Stink... Or Not?

.--DEAR PAW'S CORNER: After we played with my dog "Jerry" in the backyard, a friend who was visiting told me that he stank. She said dogs should get baths every week. I don't think Jerry smells bad, just sweaty, and my mom doesn't give him a bath very often. Is what my friend said true? -- Sara in Madison, Wisconsin

DEAR SARA: What one person thinks is a bad smell, doesn't smell like anything to another person. This often can be true with dog owners, who are a little more accustomed to how their pet smells. This can be especially noticeable to visitors (and even owners) after a dog has been out romping in warm weather, or in the rain. Dogs don't have a lot of sweat glands, but their undercoat and fur retain oils, dirt and other things, creating a somewhat distinctive funk. Does that mean your dog needs frequent baths? Not really. Too many baths can dry out their skin, leading to irritation and potentially infections that can make your dog really stink -- and be utterly uncomfortable. After playing in the yard, you can rub Jerry's coat with a spare towel to knock off excess dirt. Check him over for burrs and ticks, and look at the bottom of his paws to make sure nothing is trapped between the pads. Then let him relax and cool off. Jerry should get a bath -- using lukewarm water and non-perfumed pet shampoo only -- a couple of times a month, or whenever his coat gets too muddy to easily rub off.

Send your pet tips and questions to ask@pawscorner.com.

Collecting

Q: I have inherited my mom's cookbook collection. There is one book that I think might be valuable. It is a 1900 edition of the "White House Cook Book" by Fanny Lemira Gillette and published by the Saalfield Company. In addition to recipes and several engravings of first ladies, there are two pages featuring titles of other Saalfield books. Although I have no plans to sell this book since it is a family heirloom, I am curious about how much it might be worth. -- Susan, Metarie, Louisiana

A: The first edition of the "White House Cook Book" was published in 1887 and was based on recipes gathered by Fanny Lemira Gillette. Subsequent editions were co-authored by Hugo Ziemann, White House steward, and featured interesting facts such as seating plans and etiquette for state occasions. There also were illustrations of the White House kitchen and dining rooms. These cookbooks were extremely popular and updated through the 1930s.

According to the "Collectible Cookbooks Price Guide" by Patricia Edwards and Peter Peckham and published by Krause Books, your cookbook is valued in the $50 to $100 range, depending, of course, on condition. Most of the editions of the "White House Cookbook" I have spotted in shops and at antique malls have been priced in the $35 to $50 range.

Q: I have a vase that an elderly lady gave me. She called it "Goofy Glass." It features rose-like blossoms all around the outside. I wonder if you have any knowledge of this type of glass and could clue me in. -- Shirley, State Center, Iowa

A: I think your vase could be a piece of Goofus glass. I can't find anything about goofy glass. According to "Glass A to Z" by David J. Shotwell, Goofus glass is a type of luster-painted glassware, spray-painted prior to firing. It was originally painted in colors that included gold, red, green, blue and combinations. Even though bowls and trays are the most common pieces of Goofus, vases also were crafted. Designs often featured flowers of all types.

Shotwell's book is one of my favorite references about glass, and I always keep it handy because of questions like yours.

Birding BITS

BY Cindy Brook

Window Strikes

Prevent birds from flying into windows by placing strips of tape, vertically, at least 1-inch wide and 10 inches apart on the outside of your window. I like the blue tape from the local hardware store. This breaks up the reflection, and birds are less likely to hit the glass.

Maryland Schools Open Year With Record Numbers

Maryland public school systems are poised to set another new record number for student enrollment, as the 2016-17 academic year gets underway.

By the time Worcester County Public School System opens its doors on Sept. 6, more than 880,000 K-12 students are expected to fill classrooms, and another 250,000 children will be involved in some form of pre-kindergarten, Head Start, or licensed childcare program.

"Maryland schools are some of the best in the nation, and this time of year is an exciting time for both students and teachers," said Governor Larry Hogan. "We wish Maryland's students, educators, and parents a safe, productive, and successful school year."

Schools this fall begin the fourth full year of implementation of the stronger academic standards designed to better prepare students for both college and career.

"Our goal is to provide students with a foundation for what lies ahead, be it college or career," said Dr. Karen B. Salmon, state superintendent of schools. "We need Maryland high school graduates to be prepared for the jobs of tomorrow."

Enrollment in Maryland public schools appears primed to surpass its record of 879,601 students, set last year. Maryland school enrollment has been steadily increasing since 2009, when the student population stood at 843,861.

Maryland's student population also has experienced major demographic changes over the past 20 years. The state has educated a majority-minority student population for a decade. White students represent nearly 40 percent of the student population, followed by African-American students, who make up 34 percent of the student population. Both the white and African-American student populations have been in decline as a percentage of the student body in recent years.

Hispanic students represent 15 percent of the student body, while Asian students account for approximately 6 percent. Percentages of Hispanic and Asian students have been steadily rising. Also increasing is the percentage of students identifying themselves as two or more races, which is at 4 percent.

PENNY LANE FINALLY BECOMING A REALITY – The final phase of the long-anticipated 250-foot Cherry Commercial Access Road Project at the former Garrett County Roads Garage property is nearing completion. Last week, Beitzel Corporation workers began installing a concrete arch over Cherry Creek (pictured), in preparation for completion of the road, which has been named Penny Lane. The Garrett County commissioners awarded Beltzel's bid of $1,046,886 last November for Phase II of the project. Construction began this spring. Appalachian Regional Commission grants will cover about $950,000 of the work. Once completed, motorists will have access to businesses in North Oak Plaza from Garrett Highway and North Fourth Street. The county began selling commercial building lots at the 6.31-acre site in 2009 after it demolished its old roads garage and built a new one near Mountain Lake Park. Clear Mountain Bank and a Dairy Queen Grill & Chill bought the first two lots. A Ponderosa Steak House and a motel are planned for the remaining sites. For about six years, motorists have only been able to enter the plaza from Garrett Highway, as Penny Lane was only half completed. Construction of the rest of the lane was delayed, primarily because of stream mitigation Issues involving Cherry Creek. Photos by Art Hanlin.

"Extending The Growing Season" Class Scheduled

Garrett College, in coordination with the University of Maryland Extension, is sponsoring a one-session course titled "Tools for Extending the Growing Season" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Thursday Sept. 15, from 1 to 3 p.m.

This course is designed for participants to learn some common tools and ideas for getting his or her vegetables started earlier in the spring and how to keep them growing longer into the fall.

The course is being instructed by Ashley Bodkins, who received her bachelor of science degree in agronomy from West Virginia University and her associate of arts degree in horticulture from Potomac State College.

She works for the University of Maryland Extension, where she answers home horticulture questions and coordinates the Maryland Master Gardener Program for Garrett County.

Anyone with a disability who requires special assistance for participation in the class is asked to call the Extension office at 301-334-6960.

For more information on this course, persons can contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling the Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Canine Massage Class Scheduled At Accident Ctr.

The Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will offer a class on canine massage, on Wednesday, Sept. 14, from 6 until 9:15 p.m. at the GC Career Technology Training Center in Accident.

"Canine massage therapy is beneficial for all types of dogs, from pets to dogs active in obedience, agility, search and rescue, police K-9 units, and guide dogs," said a spokesperson. "The massage sequence and benefits are the same for both types of dogs."

Participants will learn about the 26 muscle groups on each side of a dog's body.

"Massage causes an immediate effect on dogs – noticeable relaxation at first, followed by increased exhilaration," said the spokesperson. "Medical science is making it possible for dogs to live much longer lives; however, with that comes some problems that are associated with aging."

Massage therapy can help dogs recovering from injuries and surgeries, and help older, less active dogs live more comfortable lives.

The class will be taught by a certified pet first aid/CPR responder Debbie Daniels. She grew up around animals, worked in a veterinarian hospital for a year, and is the owner of Your Happy Tails LLC.

Additional information about the class is available by contacting Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, persons can contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony Held For Greene Turtle

A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held recently to celebrate the opening of the Greene Turtle Sports Bar & Grille, 75 Visitors Drive, McHenry. But the business's owners describe it as "more than a sports bar and grille." They believe in being a "community hangout for all ages that serves great food and drinks in a fun, casual atmosphere."

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Diplomats Committee chair Sarena Rodeheaver presented the investors with a First Dollar of Profit certificate.

"The Greene Turtle is a great addition to the dining options in the area," said co-owner Dorothy Walters. "The fun and family friendly atmosphere, along with excellent food and service have been very well received. With over 50 televisions, 28 beers on tap, free Wi-Fi, music, and daily specials, we have options for most every diner. The outdoor patio is a popular spot on pleasant days. We are proud of our management team and staff, and grateful for the support of our guests."

The Greene Turtle is located at the former Santa Fe Grille site.

"We are very excited to welcome the Greene Turtle to Garrett County," said Nicole Christian, chamber president/CEO. "It's a great addition to our restaurant lineup. A vacant facility with a large footprint has been filled by a new business that has created more than 100 jobs. That was some heavy lifting and we thank the owners for their investment in our community."

Ground-breaking, grand-opening, and ribbon-cutting ceremonies are just some of the benefits offered to chamber members. Those who would like to arrange such an event, or become a member, are asked to contact Nick Sharps, membership manager, at nick@garrettchamber.com or 301.387.5237.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is the largest professional business association in the region, with 600 members representing every industry in the community. The mission of the chamber is to organize, support, and represent Garrett County's business community in advancing common interests, and to promote Garrett County's hospitality and recreation industry by attracting visitors to the county through comprehensive marketing.

NEW RESTAURANT OPENS IN McHENRY – A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held last month to celebrate the opening of the Greene Turtle Sports Bar & Grille, 75 Visitors Drive, McHenry. "The Greene Turtle Is a great addition to the dining options In the area," said co-owner Dorothy Walters. "The fun and family friendly atmosphere along with excellent food and service have been very well received. Cake Decorating Course Slated At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on cake decorating course, Cake Decorating I – Building Buttercream Skills. The course will be held on Wednesdays, Sept. 7–28, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville.

"Experienced Wilton cake decorator and instructor Bonnie Goebel will guide students through this fun cake decoration class for beginners," said a college spokesperson. "Get in touch with your creative side and learn to make beautiful, custom-designed cakes that look and taste amazing."

Instruction is given in the basics of cake decorating: how to bake a great cake; icing ingredients, preparing and filling the decorating bags; the various decorating and texturing tips; piping gel pattern transfer; making a sunflower, zinnia, daisy, star, rosette, wavy line, and loops; filling cupcakes; torting leveling the pulled dot, creating a zig-zag pattern, an easy ruffle, shell and bead borders, leaves, grass, the star drop flower, and the ribbon rose, and writing and printing.

Lesson one will involve decorating cookies. Lessons two and four will be decorating a cake, and lesson three will be filling and decorating cupcakes. A supply list will be provided upon registration.

Successive courses – Cake Decorating II: Flowers and Cake Design and Cake Decorating III: Gumpaste and Fondant will follow in May and June respectively.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register, one may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Forklift Training Class Scheduled At Northern Ctr.

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a forklift certification course for Friday, Sept. 9, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville. The time frame may be lengthened or shortened because of class size, a GC spokesperson noted.

This course is designed to teach the student how to properly operate an industrial powered forklift. The course satisfies 29 CRF 1910.178 of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's (OSHA) Powered Industrial Truck Operator Training Standard.

Students will receive formal training in the classroom, practical training with hands-on instruction, and an evaluation upon completion of training, with successful participants receiving a certificate of training and a wallet card.

Topics will include the following: preinspection, loading and unloading, maneuvering and operational skills, rules and regulations, and safety.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator at 301-895-4700 or terry beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Pet First Aid, CPR Class Scheduled At GC Tech Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will hold a course titled "Pet Emergency Preparedness and Pet First Aid & CPR for Small and Large Pets" at the GC Career Technology Training Center, Accident, on Wednesday, Sept. 7, from 6 to 9:15 p.m.

"Pets enrich many of our lives in more ways than we can count, and are members of the family," said a spokesperson. "In turn, they depend on us for their safety and well-being. The best way to ensure the safety of your entire family is to be prepared with a disaster plan, have knowledge of what to do in case of minor and major injuries, and have the knowledge in dog and/or cat CPR. Being prepared can help save lives."

This course is taught by Debbie Daniels, a Garrett County resident, who is a certified pet first aid/CPR (cardiopulomary resuscitation) responder. She grew up around animals, worked in a veterinarian hospital for a year, and is currently the owner of her own business, Your Happy Tails LLC.

This class is for handlers only, no pets. For additional information, persons are asked to contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

COORDINATOR SPECIAL PROGRAMS, HEALTH SERVICES II
Recruitment #16-002818-0010

The Garrett County Health Department has an opening for a full-time, contractual Coordinator Special Programs, Health Services II. TThis position will plan and manage a local interagency service delivery system for children, youth and families through coordinated efforts to achieve designated performance measures established locally and/or state wide. The performance measures are assessed through monitoring and utilization of a Results Scorecard. The data is utilized in making programmatic recommendations to move the curve in achieving the expected results as related to the Governor's Strategic Goals and Maryland's Results for Child and Family Well-Being.

Minimum Qualifications:

Education: Possession of a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university in nursing, social work, psychology, education, counseling or a related field.

Experience: Two years of professional experience in health services, one year of which must have been in the option for which application is made.

NOTES:

1. Applicants may substitute a master's degree from an accredited college or university in a health or human service field for one year of the required general experience.
2. Experience in the option must be as follows: professional clinical or administrative work in health or medical services in areas other than Mental Health, Developmental Disabilities or Addictions.
3. A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university in another field plus one additional year of professional experience in health services may be substituted for the specific degree.
4. Candidates may substitute U.S. Armed Forces military service experience as a commissioned officer in Health Care Administration classifications or Civil Affairs Specialist specialty codes in the health related field of work on a year-for-year basis for the required experience and education.

Rate: Salary $17.53-$21.36 per hour based on experience. Contractual employees may be eligible for benefits.

To Apply: Interested applicants can apply online at http://www.jobaps.com/md/jobs/dhmh. On-line application process is STRONGLY preferred. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

SEPTEMBER 7, 2016 AT 1:30 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with any buildings or improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, and any improvements thereon, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $12,000 in the form of certified check, cashier's check or money order will be required of the purchaser at time and place of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year's real property taxes are adjusted as of the date of sale, and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Taxes due for prior years including costs of any tax sale are payable by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for any recapture of homestead tax credit. All other public and/or private charges or assessments, to the extent such amounts survive foreclosure sale, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale to be paid by the purchaser. All costs of deed recordation including but not limited to all transfer, recordation, agricultural or other taxes or charges assessed by any governmental entity as a condition to recordation, are payable by purchaser, whether or not purchaser is a Maryland First Time Home Buyer. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, subject to order of court, purchaser agrees that property will be resold and entire deposit retained by Sub Trustees as liquidated damages for all losses occasioned by the purchaser's default and purchaser shall have no further liability. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Sub. Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if ratification of the sale is denied by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

DEODORIZING A REFRIGERATOR

by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. From a chemistry perspective, how exactly does a box of open baking soda deodorize a fridge or something else?

A. Baking soda is one of the most common chemicals that humans use. Baking bread goes back thousands of years. Baking soda has many applications, going well beyond just baking. Deodorizing an "ice box" goes back a couple centuries. Only in modern times, when the field of chemistry became an organized science, have scientists understood the electrical and chemical properties of the class of compounds known as bicarbonates.

Baking soda is also called bicarbonate of soda, because the chemical formula is $NaHCO_3$, meaning sodium-hydrogen-carbonate. It's important to distinguish sodium bicarbonate from sodium carbonate (Na_2CO_3), which is a considerably stronger alkaline chemical used in washing and some industrial chemical reactions (like making paper pulp from wood).

When dissolved in water, $NaHCO_3$ breaks into the ions Na^+ and HCO_3^-. The bicarbonate radical has many interesting chemical properties, especially neutralizing acids. Whenever $NaHCO_3$ combines with something to form a new compound, a molecule of carbon dioxide (CO_2) is released.

Baking soda is the foremost ingredient in baking powder, which is used to leaven bread. The reason that bread "rises" is that, upon heating, CO_2 is given off and forms little bubbles in the mixture, which then cause expansion of the batter being cooked. This is really easy to see when cooking pancakes.

The role of baking soda as a deodorant, something that absorbs and holds bad smelling gases, is more subtle. A molecule of $NaHCO_3$ is a "polar" molecule, meaning that there is a slight positive charge on one end and a slight negative charge on the other. That's not the same as a free ion in solution, but the polarized molecule has a weak electric field. That won't influence the motion of nitrogen or oxygen in the air, but some more complex odd-shaped molecules will be attracted by it.

It is just such molecules that are associated with odors. An open box of baking soda allows such gases to come in contact with the solid powder. That powder surface is highly porous, with myriads of microscopic channels and crevices, into which odor molecules can diffuse, and in which they become trapped. Such trapped molecules are held in place by various mechanisms, both mechanical and chemical, operating singly or in combination. The forces are weak, but sufficient to hold on, preventing those molecules from escaping into the air where you could detect the smell.

Baking soda has some medicinal uses, too. It's used as an antacid to overcome an upset stomach. In toothpaste, it's a whitener. There are many other good uses of sodium bicarbonate, such as in removing stains or other cleaning. It's such a gentle chemical that it doesn't harm clothing. As people try new applications and discover more useful properties, stay tuned.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may email them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Town Hall

OAKLAND

The town of Oakland will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 6, beginning at 5 p.m. Agenda items include a discussion with Rodney Durst, recognition of Lowe's, bills for payment, financial reports, and the mayor's update.

A discussion is also planned about document scanning and speed cameras.

The Daughters of the American Revolution will present a proclamation for Constitution Week, which is Sept. 17 to 23.

The meeting will close with a request from the softball league, committee reports, and executive sesssion.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

The office of the town of Mtn. Lake Park will be closed on Monday, Sept. 5, in observance of Labor Day. The office will also be closed on Friday, Sept. 9.

Open burning is not permitted in Mtn. Lake Park. The only fires that may be permitted are for preparing food while the food is cooking, and the fire must be contained in a fire pit. For additional information, residents may review the Open Burning Ordinance available at Town Hall or online at www.mtnlakepark.org.

Grass and leaf pickup will continue every Tuesday and Friday until the fall leaf pickup, when pickups will be done more frequently. Leaves and grass must not be bagged. Yard debris may not be put by the street until the day before the scheduled pickup. This policy is subject to the Debris and Trash Ordinance. Violators will be ticketed and fined without further notice. Brush pickup and bulk collections will resume in 2017.

A yard sale permit is needed to have a yard sale at any Mtn. Lake Park residence. Each home is allowed only one yard sale per year. The cost of a permit is $10.

Catholic Daughters Slate Evening Of Dance And Music

Catholic Daughters of the Americas, Court Oakland #2209, will host entertainer Johnny Moore and his accompanist for an evening of dance and music on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 8 to 11 p.m. in St. Peter the Apostle parish hall, 408 South Fourth Street, Oakland.

The event will feature a live performance of songs from the 1940s through the 1980s, plus audience requests, for dancing and listening enjoyment.

"Johnny has been playing in the local are for many years and worked in Atlantic City, playing with Frankie Avalon and Bobbie Darin in numerous performances," said a court spokesperson.

Advanced ticket sales are available through the St. Peter's Parish office, 208 South Fourth Street, Oakland, and by calling Joyce at 301-334-4804.

The cost is $15 per person, which includes light foods and drink setups. Gift basket raffles will also take place. Profits will be used for such CDA charitable projects as nursing home holiday gifts, scholarships, and other community giving.

The local CDA chapter has previously donated to the House of Hope and Northern and Southern after-prom events, collected canned goods for the Garrett County food pantry, and sponsored a service club basketball team, Apostleships of the Seas, SOAR, and many others.

Vision and Hearing Screening

New students from outside the Garrett County school system and students referred by teachers or parents/guardians are screened for vision and hearing. Those interested in getting their child screened may contact the school nurse Becky Aiken at 301-746-8668 or 301-895-5434 or via email at raiken.aiken@garrettcountyschools.org. Screenings will take place beginning Friday, Sept. 16.

NHS Relay for Life Committee

The first meeting of the NHS Relay for Life Committee will be held on Monday, Sept. 12, during enrichment period (1:15 to 1:50 p.m.) It takes a lot of planning and commitment to put this event together. Those seriously interested in being a part of the committee should see Mrs. Ahern in the Counseling Center or send her an email.

School Store

The NHS school store is located in the Counseling Center and is open every day from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Items in the store can be viewed by going to the NHS web site under "School Store."

Merit/Honors Science Course

If a student is taking a merit or honors science course this year they are required to do a science fair project. They are not automatically competing for one of the 20 slots that will be taken to the 2017 Pittsburgh Regional Science and Engineering Fair. Last year, Northern brought home around $80,000 dollars worth of scholarships. Alex Miller was one of four students to be chosen to represent the Pittsburgh area at the International Science and Engineering Fair in Phoenix. Any student who is in a merit or honors science course in his/her second semester and he/she wants to be considered for PRSEF, then his/her science fair project must be completed during first semester. Those interested should contact a science teacher or Mr. Price before the end of September. Some teachers are allowing team projects.

Senior Photos

Strawbridge Studios will be at Northern High School in the auxiliary gym all day next Friday, Sept. 9, to take senior drape and tuxedo pictures for the yearbook. The class composite photo that will be displayed in the school hallway will also be taken that day. All seniors will be given an appointment card during the first few days of school and should arrive promptly in the auxiliary gym at their scheduled appointment time that Friday. Each will need to pay a sitting fee of $15 and may do so with cash or a check made payable to Strawbridge Studios. Those with questions may email Mrs. Fleming at april.fleming@garrettcountyschools.org.

Underclassmen Photos

Underclassmen pictures will be taken next Wednesday, Sept. 7.

FFA Notes

Any student interested in joining FFA has until Sept. 30 to sign up and pay chapter dues to Mrs. Yost. Dues are $20 and cover local, state, and national dues, as well as a subscription to the New Horizons magazine, which is published for students. Students who completed a summer SAE project need to have their records updated by Friday, Sept. 30.

Fabric Donations

The NHS theatre department is looking for fabric donations to use for various productions throughout the year. This year they specifically need sheer fabrics, as well as light weight fabrics, for the school's first production of Aladdin. Those willing to donate are asked to email Jen Virts at jennifer.virts@garrettcountyschools.org or call the school at 301-746-8668.

THERE WAS A CONFLAGRATION on Monday evening, but fortunately it occurred at the Garrett County landfill off Oakland Sang Run Road. While most of what was consumed was garbage/trash, some heavy pieces of equipment used on the site were in jeopardy for a while. The first arriving units from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department found heavy fire conditions with exposure issues on heavy equipment. Oakland chief John Feather immediately requested a tanker task force, bringing tankers and personnel from the Deer Park, McHenry, Accident, Gorman, and Terra Alta fire departments. With the use of multiple hand lines, master streams, and heavy equipment, the blaze was brought under control in approximately four hours. Chief Feather, who provided the above photos, noted his appreciation to all of the neighboring departments for their assistance.

Deep Creek Art & Wine Festival Benefit Slated

The annual Deep Creek Lake Art & Wine Festival benefiting HART for Animals and the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will take place this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 9 and 10. The event will feature handcrafted works by local and regional artisans, wines from more than 200 Maryland and national wineries, live music, activities, and wine pairing dinners.

The proceeds will benefit HART, a local nonprofit organization that operates a no-kill animal shelter and adoption center, and rescues stray animals across the county; and GLAF, an arts presenting organization.

The Art & Wine Festival begins Friday night with area restaurants offering special pre-fix wine pairing dinners. Several restaurants are taking part. For a list of those participating, persons may go to www.deepcreekwinefest.com.

Saturday's events at the fairgrounds will begin at noon. Events will be held throughout the day until 6 p.m., and the wine store will be open until 7 pm.

The work of more than 30 professional artists and craftspeople will be on display and for sale. There will be handcrafted jewelry, wood carvings, oil paintings, hand-painted furniture, and more.

Food artisans will also take part, offering homemade products such a cheeses, bakery items, and more.

National distributors and Maryland wineries will offer samplings of a variety of over 200 wines. The premium

MES To Prepare Waterway Improvement Grant Application For Deep Creek Lake

The Garrett County commissioners unanimously approved a contract during their public meeting Tuesday afternoon at the courthouse that could lay the groundwork for a much anticipated improvement to Deep Creek Lake.

County administrator Kevin Null said a memorandum of understanding between the county and Maryland Environmental Services (MES) had been reached in preparation for a Waterway Improvement Fund grant application for the potential dredging of Deep Creek Lake.

"The agreement calls for some specific criteria," Null noted.

This includes MES conducting a dredging evaluation. The application itself also has several specific issues that must be evaluated by MES, including expansion and improvement of public boating access, improvement of boating safety, a cost benefit analysis, environmental and regulatory issues, and the impact of boating congestion

"In addition," Null said, "we've asked MES to include the environmental impact to shallow water habitat, the release of organic materials into the water, the economic impact, the lake-water level impact, the recreational activity impact (boating, fishing, swimming), community support, current and historical cove depth dredging engineering logistics, and the permitting and litigation process."

He noted that it will take MES approximately one year to prepare the application and the cost of the agency's work is not to exceed $161,390.

"We have money from DNR (Maryland Department of Natural Resources) that was allocated for this," Null said. "It's a reimbursement contract."

Board of Garrett County Commissioners chair Paul Edwards said the MES contract is available for public

Loar Auxiliary Funds Purchase Of Rockers, Cribs

Mark Boucot, Garrett Regional Medical Center president/CEO, recently recognized the volunteer members of the hospital's Loar Auxiliary for their "generosity and support." The group donated $30,000 to purchase new rocking chairs and cribs for each of the patient rooms in the Dr. Herbert H. and Dorothy B. Leighton Family Centered Maternity Suite.

"The Loar Auxiliary is an amazing group of people who dedicate untold hours and energy to making the hospital gift shop incredible," said Boucot. "Their generosity and kindness have paved the way for many hospital improvements."

The obstetrical department has been a favorite of the Loar Auxiliary throughout its history. In previous years, the auxiliary has funded numerous projects for the betterment of care and services in the Family Centered Maternity Suite, including an infant security system. Auxiliary volunteers currently provide new clothing for newborns to be discharged in, as the need arises.

"The Loar Auxiliary volunteers have always been willing to step up and help with funding for the Family Centered Maternity Suite projects," said Charlene Bennett, director of obstetrics and the Family Centered Maternity Suite. "They are a wonderful, caring group of volunteers. We truly appreciate all their generosity and support."

Loar Auxiliary funds are primarily raised through the day-to-day operations of the Gift Shop, located in the hospital's lobby. The volunteers also operate the Cup O' Joe coffee shop and vending area.

In addition, the auxiliary periodically holds various special fundraisers, including bake sales and jewelry sales,

10th SavageMan Triathlon Festival Set; Hundreds Expected To Compete

The 10th anniversary of one of the most challenging triathlons in North America, the SavageMan Triathlon Festival, is set for the weekend of Sept. 17 and 18 at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The multi-sport festival, referred to as a "bucket list" event for triathletes worldwide, is produced by the Virginia-Maryland Triathlon Series (VTSMTS) and will involve competitors from 33 states and Canada.

Local drivers are advised that some nearby roadways will be either closed or partially closed during portions of the event. The places and times are noted below.

"We're excited to welcome all the athletes of all abilities and their families who come here for the legendary experience, including the infamous bike ride up the Western-port Wall and Killer Miller Hill," said race director Greg Hawkins. "We are proud to partner with an outstanding community that continues to support and embrace this event."

New this year is the 20.0, also known as a Sprint Distance Race, designed for first-timers or those who wish to participate as a relay team. There is also the Aquabike race, which is the swim-bike only contest.

Among the 2016 field vying for a portion of the $2,700 prize purse are professional triathletes Iain Alexandridis, 23, from Princeton, N.J., and John Kenny, a five-time national champion.

Another noteworthy competitor is adaptive triathlete, Hector Picard. A double-arm amputee who has completed more than 130 triathlons, Picard will be racing the SavageMan 70.0 event.

In the women's competition, Maryland masters triathlete Kirsten Martin, 45, from Silver Spring, is looking to improve on last year's 30.0 top five overall finish. Lucy Moore, 58, a grand-masters triathlete from McLean, Va., will be competing in the double (20.0 and 30.0) this year.

The SavageMan 20.0 Sprint race kicks off on Saturday, Sept. 17, at 9 a.m. with athletes competing in a .45-mile swim, followed by a 15.5-mile bike ride, and finishing with a 3.1-mile run.

The SavageMan 30.0 will start at 9:30 a.m. and consist of a .9-mile swim, 22.9-mile bike ride, and a 10k run.

Local residents are advised that there will be minor delays when the cyclists are traveling along State Park Road and Rock Lodge Road during the hours of 9 a.m. until about noon on Saturday.

Moylan and Price Hear Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past week, with sentences handed down by Judges Stephan M. Moylan and H. Jack Price Jr. for a variety of offenses.

Paul James, Oakland, pleaded "not guilty" for a charge of allowing an animal to run at large.

James was charged after a statement from the victim was filed on June 23.

According to the report, James' dog was not contained, entered the victim's yard, and started attacking the victim's dog. The defendant's dog then tried to enter the victim's house, and proceeded to bite the victim on the left wrist.

James reportedly has had to retrieve the dog several times from the victim's property.

Moylan ruled the defendant guilty on Aug. 22, and ordered James to one year of unsupervised probation, and he must pay a restitution of $545.45 to the victim by Feb. 22, 2017. Moylan also issued a criminal fine of $250, $225 being suspended.

Rachel Shahan, 23, Oakland, entered an "other" plea for two charges of issuing a bad check of less than $100.

Shahan was charged after a complaint from Browning's Shop N Save was filed at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

According to the report, the defendant unlawfully obtained merchandise using a bad check on Jan. 12, valued at $39.46. The store was notified by Clear Mountain Bank about the bad check on Jan. 21.

Shahan also issued a bad check on Jan. 18, this time for a value of $45.97. The bank notified the store about the second bad check on Jan. 25.

Moylan issued a "stet" verdict on Aug. 22. with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws and pay a restitution through a senior accounting officer.

Marilyn Lee McGehee, 28, Oakland, entered an "other" plea for a charge of second-degree assault.

McGehee was charged by the GCSO on Feb. 22 when Ofc. Adam Rounds responded to a report of domestic assault.

According to the report, the defendant had struck the victim on the top of the head and scratched the victim's neck during an escalating verbal altercation.

Price issued a "stet" verdict on Aug. 24 with the condition that the defendant must obey all laws.

15th Anniversary Observance Event Set Sept. 10/11

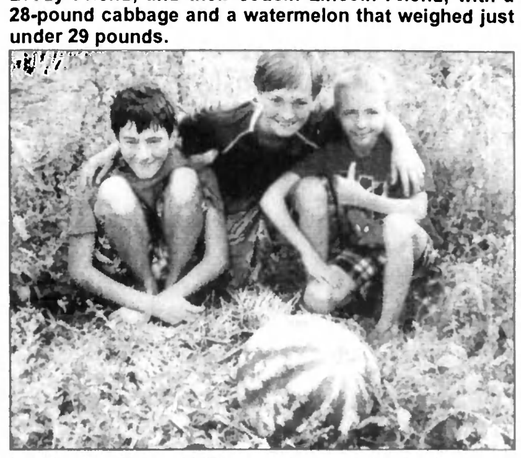
A Sept. 11 luminaria and observance event will be held in Shanksville, Pa., where 44 people lost their lives in the 2001 morning airplane attack by four Al-Qaeda terrorists on board Flight 93. A Luminaria ceremony will be held on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Memorial Plaza at the Wall of Names.

The event is free and open to the public and is sponsored by the Friends of Flight 93 National Memorial. A total of 40 lanterns will be carried to the wall and placed below the names of each of the passengers and crew members who died that day. The memorial will have special late hours on this evening only, and the memorial will close at 10 p.m.

The following day will begin with an observance at 9:45 a.m. at the Visitor Center Complex, which will last approximately an hour. The 15th Anniversary Observance will be held adjacent to the visitor center and will include brief remarks, special music, reading of the names of the fallen, and the ringing of the Bells of Remembrance.

A full schedule of events can be found at /flni/playourvisit/september-11-observance-media.htm.

BIG FRUIT AND VEGGIE – The growing season in Garrett County has been good this summer, despite being a tad on the dry side. Pictured here with fine specimens of both cabbage and watermelon are the grandchildren of Darve Friend, whose residence and pristine garden are located along U.S. Rt. 219 north of Oakland near the intersection with Foster and Spring Glade roads. Pictured from left are Darve's grandsons, siblings Chance and Brody Friend, and their cousin Lincoln Friend, with a 28-pound cabbage and a watermelon that weighed just under 29 pounds.



Business & Industry Appreciation Event Slated For Sept. 20

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and Garrett County Department of Economic Development will hold their fifth annual Business & Industry Appreciation program at the chamber's Business Before Hours on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

Sponsored by Clear Mountain Bank and Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, the event will be held in the Lodge at Wisp Resort, beginning with networking and a breakfast at 8 a.m., and the program at 8:30 a.m.

"The chamber is very pleased to be working with Garrett County Economic Development to present the 5th annual Business & Industry Appreciation to help emphasize all of the growth and development in our community," said Nicole Christian, chamber president/CEO. "This program helps to create awareness and promotes the potential for future economic development in Garrett County. And it affords us the opportunity to recognize those companies and entrepreneurs that are investing in our community and providing jobs for local residents."

Director Alex McCoy, GC Department of Economic Development, will present an update on local development.

The program will also feature a recognition of new businesses, growing/expanding companies, and businesses that have hit milestones of 50, 75, or 100 years in operation.

This year, the chamber and Economic Development will recognize 50 new businesses, seven expanding companies, and one business for reaching a notable milestone for continuous operation.

"We believe that the number of new and expanding businesses in Garrett County is greater than most people imagine it to be," said Christian. "It is a positive sign of the continual innovation taking place in our community."

Reservations for the event can be made by contacting the chamber at 301-387-6171 or online at www.visitdeepcreek.com. The cost to attend for members is $15 in advance or $20 at the door; the cost for nonmembers is $30.

For more information about the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, persons are invited to call 301-387-4386 or go to visitdeepcreek.com.

GCSO Seeking Info On Theft Of Firearms, TV

Garrett County sheriff's deputies are currently investigating a recent burglary that reportedly occurred near Accident.

Unknown suspect(s) gained entry to a home in the 900 block of Rabbit Hollow Road sometime between Aug. 21 and Sept. 2. Once inside the home, the suspect(s) removed a Vizio brand television and three firearms. The guns are described as follows: one antique unknown make bolt action 30-06 rifle with a modern scope; an older model unknown make 22 magnum pump action rifle; and one antique Browning brand pump action 12-guage shotgun.

A reward is being offered by the victim for information leading to the arrest of the persons responsible. Anyone with information concerning this burglary or any other crime is asked to contact the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911 or online at www.garrettcountycrimesolvers.org. Tipsters may remain anonymous.

Garrett County Education Board To Meet Tuesday

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at the central office, Oakland, in the Board Room.

The Board of Education will meet in executive session from 4 to 5 p.m., followed by the work session from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m., and then the business portion of the meeting from 7 to 7:40 p.m., approximately.

The open portion of the meeting will begin around 5:30, with recognitions of the Northern Garrett High School JROTC and the PBIS Gold Award recipient schools, which are Northern Middle and Broad Ford Elementary.

The Career Technical Education: Entrepreneur and Computer Science program update will be given at 5:45 p.m. New business items will be taken up around 6 p.m., starting with the Food and Nutrition Service's bid orders for fiscal year 2016-17, along with a report on the food and nutrition summer feeding program.

The Comprehensive Maintenance Plan for Educational Facilities of Garrett County will be discussed next, with public comment to be heard around 6:35 p.m.

The work session is to adjourn at 6:45 p.m.

The business session will be called to order at 7 p.m. (all times are tentative). The superintendent will give a report, followed by announcements and public comment around 7:10 p.m.

Various administration policies will be acted upon, followed by the ratification of employee contracts. The student board member will give a report, followed by the Maryland Association of Boards of Education report. September 2016 school activities will be discussed, followed by the 2016-17 Student Handbook: Rights, Responsibilities and Discipline.

Adjournment is to take place at about 7:35 p.m.

The agendas for the work and business sessions can be accessed on the Garrett County Public Schools website at www.garrettcountyschools.org (users should go to the Board of Education page and select the links to Agendas). They can also be accessed at BoardDocs: www.boarddocs.com/mabe/garrett/Board.nsf/Public.

Agendas are not considered final until the board takes action to accept them at the start of each meeting. Part or all of the meeting may be closed, as is dictated by state law.

Two Face CDS Charges After Stop On I-68

A West Virginia woman was arrested by Maryland State Police on multiple drug charges following a traffic stop along I-68 last night.

Troopers conducted a stop at approximately 11 p.m. on a 2005 Chrysler Sebring that reportedly had an obstructed windshield view. During the course of the stop, an odor of marijuana was detected. Before a search could be conducted, driver Rarkia Lanai Smith, 30, Charleston, fled the scene. She traveled approximately 13 miles before stopping on I-68W at the 1-mile marker.

While fleeing, Smith reportedly discarded a bag from the Chrysler, which was found by a witness along the side of the road. The bag was found to contain 99.9 grams of cocaine, 29.3 grams of heroin, 100 oxycodone tablets, 31.2 grams of marijuana, and trace amounts of an unknown controlled dangerous substance. All of the CDS was packaged in amounts and materials consistent with distribution. The drugs were estimated to have a street value of approximately $16,000.

Smith and a front seat passenger, Kevin Lorenzo Jackson, 38, Suitland, were arrested. Smith and Kevin were each charged with three counts of CDS possess-not marijuana, three counts of CDS possession with intent to distribute narcotics, CDS possession of marijuana, and CDS possession with intent to distribute marijuana. Both were taken to the Garrett County Jail to await bond hearings.

REL To Present "Get Empowered, Job Hunter's Expo"

The Ruth Enlow Library, along with the Western Maryland Consortium, the One-Step Job Center, the Garrett County Health Department, and the Maryland State Library Resource Center are partnering to bring the "Get Empowered! 67th Harvest Sale Slated At Swan Meadow School

Swan Meadow School PTO's 67th annual fundraiser, the Harvest Sale, will be held on Friday, Sept. 16, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, south of Oakland.

This traditional celebration of the local harvest will begin when concession stands open at 5 p.m. The students will sing at 6:25 p.m., and an auction will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The PTO's auction of farm produce, handmade items, and baked goods features items provided by families and students of Swan Meadow School, many of whom are Amish or Mennonite.

Glazed doughnuts made the morning of the sale, as well as caramels, taffy, cookies, fudge, and cinnamon rolls, will go on sale at 5 p.m.

Half and whole dozens of doughnuts and cinnamon rolls and gallons of apple cider will be sold under the white tent located by the entrance of the Pleasant Valley Community Center. This way, people who come to the Harvest Sale for homemade items have the option of purchasing them outside the community center, then taking them to their vehicles before going inside for dinner and the auction. When the doughnuts are sold out under the tent, gallons of apple cider will be sold inside the community center.

Inside the center, participants can buy taco salad, fruit salad, chili dogs, sloppy joes, hot dogs, and coffee, chocolate milk, lemonade, and apple cider.

One of the highlights of the auction will be the bidding on 12 dinners to be served in a local home. Another is the hand-knotted comforter that kindergartners, first, and second graders are currently sewing for the auction. Students in grades 3-8 are creating handmade items for the auction as well.

All sales will be made with cash or check. Credit cards cannot be accepted for payment.

The Pleasant Valley Community Center is located at 975 Joni Miller Road, Oakland. Drivers on Route 219 South should turn onto Paul Friend Road, and then turn right onto Joni Miller Road. The center is along that road on the right.

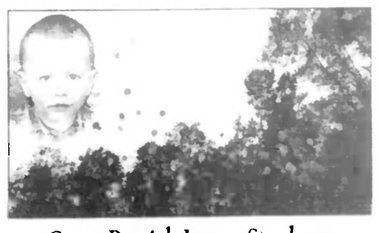
Thank You

God needed an angel on this day
A caring child sent to Heaven to play.

We would have loved for Corey to stay
To see him grow and find his way.

He taught us a lot in his 4 short years
To slow down and look at the beauty of all things dear.
From flowers, music, lights, pictures, and such
Oh! He taught us so much!

Pictures and memories are all that are left behind
Not a day goes by that you are not on our minds.



We see your face in the clouds
And hear your whispers out loud.
In our dreams you come to say
That you are with God and all is ok.

Here on earth we don't understand
But we know never to doubt God's plan.
For He is the father of us all
And we will wait for His call.

We will live our lives right in God's eyes
We don't want this to be our last goodbye.
For in Heaven we shall meet where it all began
Until that day when we will see you again.

Corey Patrick James Stephens
6-15-2012 – 8-04-2016

By Angie Lewis Snoberger, In Memory of her Doodles,

To everyone who supported us following the sudden death of Corey Stephens, we would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation. Your many acts of kindness, generosity, and sympathy continue to be a great comfort to us in our time of sorrow.

We were so fortunate to have Chris & Sherri Fredlock of C&S Fredlock Funeral Services in our lives. The compassion, generosity, and professionalism truly were appreciated in our time of need. They are amazing members of the community.

We would specifically like to thank the first responders, Pine Grove Church of the Brethren Ladies Aid, Pastor Gary Clem and Bev, First United Bank Employees, Wisp Resort, Andrew Woods Scholarship Fund, Samantha Fnnding the Arts, June & Charlie McCloskey and Southern Garrett High School Volleyball for the balloon release, Green Acres, The Republican, Katrina Freeman, Garrett Regional Medical Center, and all of our close friends and family members.

Thank you again
The Lewis Family

It's His Right...

When the national anthem played before the start of a preseason game with the Green Bay Packers on Aug. 26, San Francisco 49ers quarterback Colin Kaepernick took a stand by not standing. He said afterward and since then that he had decided to remain seated as a statement against racial oppression.

Since then, as the cartoon adjacent to this column indicates, reaction (or overreaction) to Kaepernick's personal protest has been swift, profuse, and emotional, and has run the gamut in terms of those who vehemently oppose his action to those who have been supportive of him.

This column today stands firmly in the latter group, as Kaepernick's action literally embodies one of the most precious freedoms our country has to offer, that of freedom of speech/expression. While those opposed to his action believe that this is a show of disrespect particularly for those in the military who have given their lives in protecting the United States and its freedom, the reverse claim can be made, that the exercising of those freedoms is among the highest forms of respect for our soldiers.

The San Francisco team owners got it right when they said in a statement, "In respecting such American principles as freedom of religion and freedom of expression, we recognize the right of an individual to choose and participate, or not, in our celebration of the national anthem." Likewise, the league got it right when its statement said, "Players are encouraged but not required to stand during the playing of the national anthem."

Further, not only does Kaepernick – who is biracial – have the right not to stand for the national anthem, but he also is not in any way obligated even to say why. Our freedom of expression, whatever form it may take, need not be substantiated by those who exercise it.

Some say that Kaepernick should be asked to leave this country and "find one that he likes" somewhere else. One could also argue. though, that Americans who demand respect for the anthem and the flag should perhaps move to North Korea where such respect is required by law, and anyone violating that law (expressing personal freedom) will be executed. Legally forcing Kaepernick to stand for the national anthem should be viewed as a significant blow to our freedom, a weakening of the base upon which this country was founded, and thus a watering down of the life-giving efforts of our military throughout the years.

And, while Kaepernick really does not need to give a reason for his protest, the primary one he gives is, "I am not going to stand up to show pride in a flag for a country that oppresses black people and people of color." At least in his mind, and clearly in those of many others, there are too many incidents of pure racism occurring on a fairly regular basis on our streets and in our communities.

Like it or not, he has a point, as has been revealed in recent years thanks to the possession of video cameras (usually cell phones) by almost everyone; cameras that have been recording a number of unjustified, violent actions by at least a small minority of police officers (both white and black) primarily against black citizens.

The argument justifying Kaepernick's actions are similar to those used when one elects to burn a U.S. flag. While the practice is viewed by many as inappropriate and distasteful, such an action is well within the rights guaranteed by the United States Constitution; rights that must be maintained and protected.

To the Editor:

Residents of Pawnee, Oklahoma, recently experienced a magnitude 5.6 earthquake that was felt in seven states. Fracking activity in the state is being blamed, forcing regulators to request the shutdown of 37 disposal wells to hopefully quell additional seismic activity.

This may work short-term, but the industry produces billions of gallons of wastewater that need to be disposed of. Where will it go now?

Fracking has muscled in on most of Oklahoma, as well as our neighboring states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia. and Ohio. Residents who live among drilling sites have endured the chaos of noise, truck traffic, well contamination, negative health issues, economic upheaval, and pollution. The aftermath of waste disposal should not be taken lightly. Radioactive drill cuttings and toxic wastewater are part and parcel with hydraulic fracturing.

Many residents of Oklahoma live in daily fear that their homes may be damaged, or they could suffer injury from future earthquakes. Officials from the Sooner State noted a 5,000% increase in quakes (900 per year), which surpasses California in seismic activity. Earthquakes can be a deal-breaker for people choosing where they call home. The number of states without fracking is diminishing, as industry aggressively lobbies for footholds on untapped shale plays. Garrett and Allegany counties are in their sights.

Maryland's next legislative session will likely be looking at a fracking ban bill. What do Maryland representatives think will welcome families and businesses to the state they represent? Shouldn't Maryland be declared an oasis, free from the industrial burden that weighs on families subjected to oil and gas development?

Sometimes, it's not what you have, but what you don't have that is the greater asset. Western Maryland already offers superior environmental conditions, unlike our neighboring states that act with reckless abandon. Why not leverage clean air, fresh water, and open roads that make the mountaintop so beautiful and welcoming?

The House Environment & Transportation Committee just heard both sides of the fracking issue in Garrett County. The conclusions they draw will determine our fate. Do they see greater value in protecting Maryland from hydraulic fracturing, or in joining the herd that makes us another industrialized rural region?

The cloud of fracking is looming overhead, altering plans and causing conflict. I look forward to a resolution that embraces our peaceful, safe, and tranquil way of life without the threat of fracking destroying it all.

To the Editor:

Donald Trump has made it clear that he doesn't believe in climate change. If elected president, he has promised to pull the U.S. from the Paris Climate Agreement, which would collapse the global framework established by President Obama to fight climate change globally.

Trump has also stated that he would nullify federal subsidies for renewable energy sources and re-invest money in traditional fossil fuels. Also, Trump has promised to increase the use of hydraulic fracking and ease federal regulations meant to protect the environment and public health.

Sadly, it doesn't stop there. President Trump would dismantle the EPA and the Clean Air Act. It is estimated that the Clean Air Act has prevented up to 160,000 airborne toxin-related deaths since it was enacted in the 1970s. Burning coal contributes to four of the top five causes of death in the United States: stroke, cancer, heart disease, and chronic lower respiratory disease. It also encompasses a full 1/3 of the nation's entire carbon emissions.

For eight years. President Obama has worked to maximize federal subsidies for alternative energy, and several American cities and states are now almost exclusively powered by wind. solar, and other renewable power sources.

Trump has also promised to stop federal incentives for any industry that promotes green solutions. Both the power and building industries have experienced a green renaissance under President Obama, all of which would be lost under President Trump.

Trump's beliefs about climate change place him in a minority of leaders globally, as the U.S. is the only country where a major political party doubts the scientific evidence for human-caused climate change. Even with eight years of steady progress, there is still much work to be done. Trump would take the U.S. back to pre-1970, when industrial waste and pollution were major threats to human health.

Bralympics! That's the name of an event to be held on Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Oakland town parking lot and pavilion. This event is sponsored by Cindy's Fund and the American Cancer Society's Making Strides Against Breast Cancer, and all profits will be split evenly between the two organizations.

We are asking people to come out dressed in pink (or any cancer awareness color you prefer) and crazy clothes to recognize Breast Cancer Awareness Month. There will be a prize for the best/craziest-dressed person. The afternoon will consist of various events, such as bra decorating, bra slingshot, a coloring contest, cornhole, cake walks, candy guessing, face painting, bra pong toss, a cake auction, and more.

Moose Johnson will provide music, and there will be food available for sale. There will also be a walk around town, which will end back in the parking lot where a memorial ceremony will take place.

There is no admission fee; however, tickets must be purchased at the event in order to participate in the games. This will be a fun-filled, family event to honor all those who have been touched by cancer.

Please dig out some wild-colored clothes, decorate a bra, and come to the pavilion on Oct. 2. If you have any questions, please call the local ACS office at 1-800-227-2345 or me, Sandy Bell, at 301-334-2682, or go to Cindy's Fund's Facebook.

A huge thank-you to the following organizations for joining us – Garrett Regional Medical Center, Oakland MRI, Wellspring Family Medicine, Garrett County Health Department, GCC Technologies, Garrett County Community Action Committee, and Oakland Nursing & Rehabilitation Center.

To the Editor:

Earthquake, Sept. 3, 2016, 7:02 a.m., north-central Oklahoma, 5.6 magnitude.

At 8:03 a.m. in Garrett County, we received a text from our Kansas City, Kan., daughter to say that she and her family just experienced an earthquake, special delivery from Oklahoma. We texted back, "fracking wastewater injection wells."

On Sept. 4, the Associated Press reported about this strong Oklahoma quake "on the edge of Oklahoma's key energy-producing areas," bringing attention to the "practice of disposing oil and gas field wastewater deep underground." Lubricating tectonic plates with fracking "slickwater" enhances movement of these plates.

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission, a jurisdictional regulatory body, "asked" wastewater well owners to "reduce disposal volumes" in 2013. Asked, mind you. Now they are slowly shutting down 37 injection wells near the center of this strong quake. Slowly, because fast could set off more quakes.

Like waste from the nuclear energy industry, toxic waste liquids from oil and gas development (fracking) have no safe deposal. Injecting toxic chemicals, no longer recyclable, deep into the earth, is the "best practices" disposal method for industry and regulators. You can't dehydrate the liquid and disperse it to the wind. And you can't bury it without destroying the life-supporting capacity of soil and contaminating drinking water. Fact is, there is no safe place for this chemical and radioactive slurry.

How many more reasons do we need to keep fossil fuels in the ground and transition as quickly as we can to energy that sustains us rather than harms us?

Join my family in asking Maryland Senate president Mike Miller to please lead the Senate and Maryland in banning fracking. And thanks are due to the House of Delegates Environment and Transportation Committee for coming to Garrett County last week to listen to our concerns about fracking.

Clear Mtn. Names Methany As Interim CEO; Promotes Underwood To CBO

ROGER METHENY

RANDALL UNDERWOOD

Clear Mountain Bank has appointed Roger Metheny, the bank's executive vice president and chief financial officer, to serve as interim chief executive officer following the death of Brian F. Thomas last Wednesday.

In an unrelated announcement, the bank also stated that Randall Underwood has been promoted to the position of chief banking officer (CBO).

"We're very fortunate to have Roger step up to lead Clear Mountain Bank on an interim basis," said Roger Hardesty, chairman of Clear Mountain Bank's board of directors. "He has tremendous banking knowledge and experience, and he understands the communities that the bank serves. His leadership, along with the strong management team we have in place, will allow us to continue to serve our customers with the high quality service they've come to expect from Clear Mountain Bank."

Metheny has worked for Clear Mountain Bank since 1980. He is a native of Tunnelton, W.Va., and is a graduate of Fairmont State University with a bachelor's degree in accounting.

In addition to his current role as executive vice president and chief financial officer, Metheny has also held the positions of auditor, controller, and loan administrator during his career. He is also a member of the bank's board of directors.

Metheny is active with many community organizations, including currently serving on the board of directors for Preston Memorial Hospital and serving as chairman of the board's finance committee. He also serves on the board of directors for Mon Health System.

He is a member of Reedsville United Methodist Church and serves as chairman of the church's finance committee.

Metheny stated that the promotion of Underwood to the chief banking officer position has been in process for several weeks.

"Brian Thomas had actually been finalizing promoting Randall to chief banking officer before he passed away," said Metheny. "Randall is a great asset to Clear Mountain Bank, and we're glad to be able to promote him to CBO."

Underwood has more than 40 years of experience in the banking industry, and most recently served as Clear Mountain Bank's chief lending officer. He has worked in many different capacities during his career, including formerly serving as president and CEO of two community banks in central West Virginia.

A native of Webster Springs, W.Va., he is a graduate of Glenville State College, the West Virginia School of Banking, the Stonier Graduate School of Banking, and the Mellon Bank Concentrated School of Banking.

In his new position, Underwood will be responsible to oversee the strategic direction of the sales, customer service, and operations functions for the commercial, retail, mortgages, and investments departments of the bank.

Underwood currently resides in Morgantown, W.Va., and is active with many community organizations, including serving on the board of directors of the Morgantown Area Economic Partnership, and on the government affairs committee for the Morgantown Area Chamber of Commerce. He formerly served on the Elkins Rotary Club, Randolph County Development Authority, and as president of the Webster Springs Area Chamber of Commerce and the Elkins-Randolph County Chamber of Commerce.

Survey Reveals School Bus Arm Violations Jump

Maryland drivers are not paying the necessary attention to the stop arms on school buses, a new Maryland State Department of Education-sponsored survey has found.

Stop arms swing out from a bus and lights flash whenever it is making an on-roadway student pick-up. A total of 4,326 violations of school bus stop arms were recorded on a single day last spring. Although well below the 7,011 recorded when the survey began in 2011, the number represents a significant jump over the 2,795 recorded in 2015.

"Maryland schools have re-opened for the new year, and all drivers must re-focus on the safety of our children. It is illegal to pass a bus with its stop arm extended and its lights flashing," said Dr. Karen B. Salmon, state superintendent of schools. "It is clear that we have more to do as we all work to keep students out of harm's way."

MSDE coordinated the survey in April along with school transportation directors in all 24 school systems. It is considered a snapshot of illegal activity on the roads. Seventy-six percent of Maryland school bus drivers took part in the survey.

Violations had been on a steady decline since the survey was launched, making the 2016 increase particularly concerning. School systems, bus drivers, and law enforcement officials have been raising awareness about stop arm violations for the past six years.

Large systems with more buses and bus routes noted the most violators. Baltimore County tallied the most – 1,002, followed closely by 999 witnessed by Montgomery County school bus drivers. Both systems found significant increases.

Prince George's, Anne Arundel, Howard, and Harford counties all saw increases in their totals. Baltimore City drivers, however, found the number of stop arm violations nearly cut in half, from 224 in 2015 to 128 in 2016. Drivers in four small counties – Caroline, Dorchester, Somerset, and Talbot – did not witness any violations, while Garrett and Queen Anne's reported one each, and Kent tallied two.

Concerns over school bus safety prompted Gov. Larry Hogan last month to release more than $500,000 to local law enforcement agencies to help them enforce Maryland school bus safety laws. The grants will be used to pay for overtime for police officers who patrol streets when school buses are on the road, and for public education programs to inform the driving public about Maryland's law requiring drivers to stop when a school bus has stopped to pick up or drop off passengers.

The MSDE survey this past spring was undertaken at the behest of a number of members of the Maryland General Assembly, which has been monitoring school bus safety. The National Association of State Directors of Pupil Transportation Services is coordinating surveys of this type in all 50 states.

Paradise Church To Resume Children's Adventure Program

Paradise United Methodist Church will resume its Children's Adventure, an after-school program for elementary age children, on Tuesday, Sept. 13. The program will be held every other Tuesday from 4:15 to 5:30 p.m.

The program will feature an after-school snack, Bible story, crafts, recreation, and a "lot of fun."

The church's youth will lead the activities under the supervision of Rev. Sam and Sue Watcher.

"All children are invited and encouraged to join in this afternoon of fun and fellowship," Sue said.

Paradise Church is located at 3292 Sand Flat Road. For further information, persons are invited to call Rev. Wachter at 301-387-6832.

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. The center is open on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

Friday, Sept. 9

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Sang Run. Guest are invited to come learn tips to birding by ear and to listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through Friend's Delight. All should meet at the kayak launch with binoculars and waterproof hiking boots. This walk is of medium difficulty and will last approximately 2 ½ hours.

Saturday, Sept. 10

• 10 a.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Guests are invited to take a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. The hike begins in the center in the newly designed mine room. Once at the mine site, hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that was operated in the 1920s. Moderate walking. Free. (Approx. 1 ½ hours.)

• 2 p.m. – Buzz Into Pollination. Guests may come "see what all the buzz is about." There are more pollinators than just bees, and there would be no crops without them. There will be a sweet treat to sample, thanks to a pollinator.

Sunday, Sept. 11

• All-Day Scavenger Hunts. Choices available are Trackin' Through the Discovery Center (all about animal tracks), Life in a Cave (use a black light to see animals one might see in a cave), Beginner Scavenger Hunt, and Challenging Scavenger Hunt.

• 2 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to learn about the center's birds, and watch the raptors eat.

ELVA P. FILIPPONE

Elva Porter Filippone, 93, died peacefully in her sleep on Aug. 13, 2016.

She was born in Oakland on Sept. 21, 1922, to parents Earnest Rae and Opel Ann Porter.

She was preceded in death by four brothers and two sisters.

Elva graduated from Oakland High School in 1939, and attended nursing school at Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore, where she met Salvador Canova. She and Salvador were married on Valentine's Day in 1943. After WWII, they lived in Washington, D.C. During the 1950s, they lived in Adelphi, and Elva worked as a bookkeeper for the family's growing construction business. Following the birth of her second son, the couple moved to Hillandale Forest.

Salvador passed away in 1963. Elva married Albert Filippone in 1966. She and Albert lived in Fulton, and then at Leisure World in Silver Spring. At each address, Elva was active in the community and made enduring friendships. She and Albert traveled extensively and Elva became an enthusiastic baker; no potluck was complete without Elva's Italian cookies.

After Albert's death in 2000, Elva moved to Fredericksburg, Va., in 2004, where she lived independently until the final three months of her life.

Throughout her life, Elva was generous and supportive of her family.

Elva is survived by a brother, Ray Porter, Oakland; two sons, Robert Canova and wife Nancy, Roanoke, Va., and Michael Canova and wife Fern and grandchildren Charles and Anna, Glen Allen, Va.; granddaughter Andrea Kenny and husband Joseph and great-grandsons Joseph Jr. and Robert, and great-great granddaughter Anabella, Fredericksburg, Va.; grandson Edward Canova, wife Carrie and great-granddaughters Caroline and Catherine, Raleigh, N.C.; and many nieces and nephews.

A graveside service of burial was conducted at Gate of Heaven Cemetery, Silver Spring, on Sept. 3.

She was also preceded in death by her husband, Earl J. Frazee; and by two brothers, Keith Steyer and Raymond Steyer.

Dorothy was a homemaker who loved flowers and gardening. She was a member of the White United Methodist Church.

She is survived by two sons, Richard Frazee and wife Joann, Oakland, and Douglas Frazee and wife Tammy, Milton, Tenn.; a daughter, Darlene Kessel, Ridgeley, W.Va.; four grandchildren, Bryan Frazee, Jared Kessel, Tyler Frazee, and Ian Frazee; six great-grandchildren; four sisters-in-law, Evelyn Steyer, Oakland, Audrey Frazee, and Mary Frazee, both of Friendsville, and Thelma Emory, Bittinger; and a brother-in-law, Lawrence Frazee, Frostburg.

Friends were received at Newman Funeral Home, Oakland, where services were conducted on Wednesday, Sept., 7, with Pastor Barbara Rexrode officiating.

Interment was in White Church Cemetery, Oakland.

Dorothy's family would like to thank the staff of Goodwill Retirement Community and Hospice of Garrett County for the kindness and care they provided to their mother.

Condolences may be sent to her family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

In Remembrance of Jesse Harsh

the love of my life. It has been a long year since you went home to be with our Saviour. Earth's toiling ended, no more sickness and pain. Now with the Lord you served faithfully. You have seen him face to face and have been reunited with loved ones gone before and welcomed some who have joined you since you left us. Miss you every day and looking for that reunion with you and all our loved ones.

Your wife, Helen Harsh

Adorable Adoptables

LOTS OF PETS AVAILABLE AT THE LOCAL ANIMAL SHELTER – Janie, above left, is a very friendly, young white female with tabby accents who was picked up as a stray in Accident. Above right is Pete, a 2-year-old longhaired orange/white feline. "He was given up by his owner who has a lot of cats and is moving," a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson said. LuLu, below left, is a young dark tabby whose kittens have gone to a rescue facility. "She now needs some rest and relaxation in a new home," the spokesperson said. Amy, below right, is a large longhaired grey female who was found as a stray in Mountain Lake Park. "She was wearing a flea collar," the spokesperson noted. "Isn't someone missing her? These and other pets are available for adoption. There are all kinds of nice cats at the shelter in need of a good home; everyone should come in to meet and pet them. Fleas and ticks are still out there, so make sure your pets are treated every month." For more information, persons are invited to call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Photos courtesy of the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

RESTAURANT PROMOTING AWARENESS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE – The staff of the Greene Turtle restaurant at Deep Creek Lake is promoting awareness of domestic violence by placing Dove Center materials in the restrooms. During a company training session this summer, Dove Center staff member Debbie Holler was invited to speak to the employees about domestic violence and the services offered by the Dove Center. Holler is pictured just right of center, standing, with Greene Turtle manager Rebecca Butler next to her at left. The others are all members of the restaurant's kitchen staff.

Sebold Is AAUW MBW Scholarship Recipient For '16

The Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) has announced the recipient of the 2016 AAUW Mary Blair Whytsell Scholarship.

She is Britani Sebold of Oakland, who is a May 2016 graduate of Garrett College with an associate's degree in general studies and now a first-semester student at Frostburg State University, where she is pursuing a bachelor's degree in business administration with an emphasis in accounting.

She met the requirements set by AAUW-Garrett Branch for the scholarship, which is intended to help women with limited resources continue their education after completing their studies at Garrett College. Sebold hopes to become a certified public accountant after her graduation from FSU.

According to Judy Carbone, president of the local AAUW branch, Sebold worked as much as she could as a salesperson at Sheetz in Oakland while attending Garrett College. Nonetheless, she was able to maintain a high grade point average and was accepted into the Phi Theta Kappa honor society.

As a member of PTK, she advocated for needed resources in the community. According to Krista McKenzie, Phi Theta Kappa faculty advisor, Sebold coordinated a fundraising effort for the Garrett County Animal Shelter. As part of this effort, she recruited other students to get involved, disseminated and posted information on shelter needs, set up information tables at the college, organized bake sales, and in other ways disseminated information about the shelter and collected donations.

"Britani excelled in all of her classes at Garrett College," Carbone said. "While doing so, she helped her fellow students learn the materials at hand."

According to one of her professors, in a philosophy class Sebold independently created a graphic organizer to help categorize philosophers and their theories, and shared it as a study aid with her class. The professor asked to use it in future classes, and she agreed.

"Britani is a tremendous talent in everything she contributed to.... (she) gives her all to embody the four hallmarks of Phi Theta Kappa: Scholarship, Leadership, Fellowship, and Service," said McKenzie.

The Mary Blair Whytsell Scholarship is named for the daughter of Eric Whytsell and Dr. Virginia Broaddus, past dean of academic affairs at Garrett College, and was so named on the occasion of Mary Blair's birth. The scholarship was created to honor the commitment of Dr. Broaddus to scholarship for women and the liberal arts education that Mary Blair was sure to receive as she grew up.

"The Whytsell Family now lives in Littleton, Colo., and Mary Blair is a talented, brilliant young teenager who has the world as her classroom and loves to learn," said Carbone. "It is this love of learning and participation in the wider world that AAUW-Garrett Branch honors with the scholarship that is named after her."

The scholarship provides money to pay for books during the completion of the recipient's baccalaureate degree.

AAUW was founded in 1881, and the Garrett Branch was started in 1949 and has been active in the community supporting local women ever since, Carbone said.

For more information about AAUW-Garrett Branch, persons are invited to contact Carbone at judy@corgi-cottage.com. Information on AAUW National can be found online at www.aauw.org.

HOME STORE GRAND OPENING SCHEDULED – Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will hold a grand opening for its newly expanded Home Store on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Located at 5411 Hutton Road, Oakland, the thrift shop offers furniture, appliances, building supplies, and home goods for sale to the public. "The public is invited to come out and see the great changes going on," said R. Brent Stone, Habitat for Humanity executive director. Habitat volunteers recently expanded the store into the entire building at 5411 Hutton Road, formerly Thomas Tires. The Home Store moved to its current location in late 2014, and occupied the upper part of the Thomas building. "This expansion more than doubles the area of the store, greatly improving the Home Store's ability to serve the community," Stone said. All items have been donated by members of the community, and the store is entirely staffed by volunteers. All sales support the mission of GC Habitat for Humanity, "to build safe, decent, affordable homes for Garrett County residents in need." The grand opening will mark the start a week of special sales at the Home Store. A raffle for a 8-foot by 10-foot multipurpose shed is also being held. The drawing will be held during the Garrett County Autumn Glory Festival, Oct. 12-16.

Candidate Hoeber To Participate In Grand Opening

The Garrett County Republican Central Committee has announced that District 6 House of Representatives candidate Amie Hoeber will participate in the grand opening of the county's Republican headquarters next Monday, Sept. 12, at noon.

The headquarters will be housed at the Genus Center along U.S. Rt. 219 in Oakland across from the entrance to Walmart.

Hoeber is running for the seat currently held by Democrat John Delaney who gained the position after the district lines were re-drawn in a manner that led to a lawsuit that remains pending on the issue of alleged gerrymandering. Hoeber, who has been a frequent visitor to Garrett County since she announced her candidacy, is a national security expert, business leader, and women's advocate.

"After our ribbon-cutting on Monday, our headquarters will be open six days each week until the election," said GOP committee chairperson Tom Sheahen, who added that all Republican elected officials and candidates, as well as supporters of the candidates and the Republican Party, are invited to attend Monday's opening.

The headquarters will be staffed by Garrett County Republican Central Committee members and other volunteers on Mondays through Fridays from 3 to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Hours will be added in October as election day nears.

Information and campaign materials for all Republican candidates will be available at the headquarters for pickup and distribution. For information about the local Republican headquarters and/or to volunteer to help staff it, persons are invited to contact Ruth Umbel at 301-387-5035.

The Arts

Applications For State Banjo, Fiddle Contests Available

Contestant applications are being accepted for the Maryland State Banjo, Mandolin, and Fiddle championships. Presented by the Greater Oakland Business Association and the town of Oakland, the contests will take place during the Garrett County Autumn Glory Festival.

The banjo and mandolin contests will be held on Friday, Oct. 14, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Southern Garrett High School gymnasium. The fiddle championship will take place on Saturday, Oct. 15, also at SGHS at 7 p.m.

There is no registration fee for contestants, as long as they register by Friday, Oct. 7. Those who register by that date will have their names printed in the programs.

Check-ins and registrations will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on the day of the contests. The doors will open at 6 p.m.

Chuck Dicken, station director for WFWM (91.9 FM) public radio in Frostburg, will once again be the master of ceremonies for the contests. This year's judges include Steven and Sunshine Vortigern and Matt Eary.

Crellin Elementary School's Rhythm and Rubbish band will make an appearance at the contests, and the judges will perform during intermissions.

Admission for spectators is $15 at the door and $12 in advance. Children under 10 years of age will be admitted for free. Refreshments will be available.

For contest and/or ticket information, persons may call Michelle Ross, Oakland business coordinator, at 301-334-2691 or visit agreatsmalltown.com/md-state-banjo-fiddle-and-mandolin-championships.

MUSICIANS INVITED TO JOIN POTOMAC CONCERT BAND – The Potomac State College of WVU Community Concert Band will begin rehearsals on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m., in Room 101 of the Church-McKee Arts Center, Keyser, W.Va. All area college students, community members, and advanced high school musicians are invited to join this concert ensemble. Rehearsals will be held on Tuesdays from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in preparation for the annual holiday concert. For more information, persons may contact conductor Richard Frush at 304-788-3972.

Accident Band To Give Its 28th Concert In Park

The Accident Concert Band will present its 28th annual Concert in the Park on Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Accident Town Park West. The show will begin at 5 p.m.

Picnic tables and benches are supplied in the park pavilion. Guests may also wish to bring lawn chairs or blankets for seating. Cookies and lemonade will be provided.

The program will include patriotic numbers, hymns, marches, and other popular tunes. There is no admission fee.

The Accident Concert Band was reorganized on Jan. 12, 1989, through the efforts of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society and the mayor and town council, having been founded originally around the time of the first World War. At one time, the band had its own bus for transportation to local events, its own uniforms, and majorettes.

The band uses the original bass drum that is more than 130 years old and was recently repainted by Whitey Beck. The group also has the banner that was carried during parades in the early 1900s, an early uniform, and an early trophy. Persons who may have pictures of the original band or other related items are asked to bring them to the concert to share.

The group is recognized as a family band that welcomes all members regardless of experience or age. Practices are held at the Accident town hall on the second and fourth Mondays of the month at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, persons may contact Keith Carrington at 301-746-8768 or Rosanne Sherwood at 304-749-8774.

Shakespeare's As You Like It To Be Given At FSU

The Cambridge American Stage Tour (CAST) will return to Frostburg State University for this season's comedic Shakespearean performance on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall. Cambridge University theatre students will put a modern twist on As You Like It, one of William Shakespeare's early comedies.

CAST was established in 2000 and the group has since made numerous appearances on FSU's campus to share its renditions of the bard's classics. The tour of the undergraduate students aims to make Shakespeare's work more widely known up and down the East Coast by tweaking music, costumes, and situations to better fit modern perspectives and humor, a spokesperson said.

"As You Like It will feature Bohemian vibes and live music while following bickering brothers Oliver and Orlando, amicable cousins Rosalind and Celia, a pair of duke brothers, and many other characters as they maneuver mistaken identities, murderous plots, cross-dressing, pastoral love, and wrestling," the spokesperson said.

The performance is sponsored by FSU's Department of English, with support from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Office of the Provost, and the FSU Foundation. Tickets will be available at the door, and will be $6 for students and $12 for general admission.

For more information, persons may call 301-687-4221 or visit castcambridge.com.

Edna Bender To Teach Advanced Portrait Painting

Edna Bender, a local artist and instructor, will teach a course in advanced portrait painting for Garrett College at the Grantsville Senior Center. The classes are slated for Mondays, beginning Sept. 12, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and continuing for a total of five consecutive sessions.

Bender designed this course to help participants enhance their painting techniques and use of oil colors specific to producing portraits. Students will use photos of friends or relatives as subjects of their paintings.

A materials list will be provided upon registration.

In order to register for this course, students must have taken a prior portrait painting course with Bender.

For more information on this course, persons may contact the college's Northern Outreach Center program coordinator, Terry Beachy, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Anyone interested in registering for this course may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

SavageMan Turns 10

This year will mark the 10th anniversary of the SavageMan Triathlon Festival, founded a decade ago by triathlete enthusiasts who saw the potential of a great challenge in the hills and waterways of Garrett County. Kyle Yost, a part-time resident of the Deep Creek area, was the founder and original trail master for the event.

"I'm thrilled to see the SavageMan Triathlon Festival thriving at its 10th anniversary," Yost said in an interview this week. "SavageMan has progressed remarkably in these 10 years, from a single, extreme race intended only for the most fit and experienced triathletes to a full triathlon festival weekend consisting of three separate races and catering to individuals of all abilities and experience levels."

At its beginning, the festival was connected to the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, headed up by Greg and Denise Safko. Over the years, the festival raised thousands of dollars for the foundation, the mission of which is to raise awareness of the threat of melanoma, and to promote skin protection, including among athletes who train and compete in the sun's rays.

Yost was the founder of the race, but credits the Safkos as being "quite critical" to the success of those first few years.

When the Safkos chose to opt out of the event some years ago, the sponsorship of the event was taken over by the VTSMTS. Considered the premier East Coast triathlon series, the organization hosts 28 races with 12,000 participants, and raised more than $300,000 for various charities and youth athletic programs in 2015.

Yost said he has great confidence in Greg Hawkins, the current race director. He also said he is pleased with how the festival has grown and transformed over the last decade, and credits the local community for supporting the event.

"The SavageMan Triathlon Festival has been a clear win-win for both the Garrett County community and for triathletes worldwide," he said. "Hotel rooms, restaurants, campgrounds, and rental houses are filled during an otherwise quiet, late September weekend, and triathletes from all over the Mid-Atlantic, the country, and even overseas come to the area and get to experience the beauty of Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake State Park.

"The SavageMan Triathlon Festival is well on the map as one of the premier must-do 'bucket list' triathlon events," Yost said. "Garrett County with its incredible rural beauty and mountainous terrain has been a great host to the event for 10 years so far, and hopefully many more to follow."

WHISPERIN' BILL ANDERSON: AN UNPRECEDENTED LIFE IN COUNTRY MUSIC
by Bill Anderson with Peter Cooper
C. 2016, University of Georgia Press, $29.95, 360 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

The song's been hooked in your brain now for three days. Every time your head's been idle for two seconds, you catch yourself humming snatches of it. That song kept you awake because someone wrote a melody hook you can't forget. And, as you'll see in Whisperin' Bill Anderson by Bill Anderson with Peter Cooper, somebody also wrote the words.

Though he grew up singing with his family, and though he was a member of a contest-winning band as a teen, Bill Anderson dreamed of playing baseball. That was a normal life goal for a city boy from a mostly financially comfortable small family – in other words, none of the things Anderson sang about in years to come.

Music was always one of his loves, so when his baseball career fizzled, Anderson turned to radio, DJ-ing in the early days of rock and roll. He liked that new music, but his passion for "hillbilly" tunes got him kindly fired; he was directed to a new C&W station in Commerce, Ga. – a blessing that was exactly what he needed.

During this time, Anderson continued playing his guitar and writing songs, things he'd been doing for years. Eventually, he wrote something that touched a chord, went hand-to-hand through the music industry and – surprisingly quick and easy by today's standards – became a hit for singer Ray Price.

Suddenly, Anderson was a singer-songwriter, and had landed a contract with Decca Records. Told that his job was "to get busy writing some new songs," he ultimately flew to Nashville and recorded them. He then threw together his own two-piece band, began touring, and sang his way to stardom.

But all good things must come to an end, and no star can shine forever. When Anderson's music career faltered, he tried his hand at television, restauranteering, and owning a radio station. He kept his fingers in country music but, he says, "I felt like a relic."

And then his hairdresser gave him a life-changing phone number…

If it's true that you can't be a writer without being a storyteller, then author Bill Anderson has that sewn up. Whisperin' Bill Anderson is so filled with easy tales that you'll feel like you just pulled up a chair by a dear old friend.

While I was eager to read more about his personal life (which is somewhat lacking here), what I found inside this book was more than satisfying. Anderson has a gentle, playful sense of humor that shines in his best memories and, through his recollections, we get to know singers and a way of doing business that are both long gone.

But this isn't entirely a happy-happy book. Readers also see the not-so-sunny sides of a fledgling (and racist) recording industry; of touring, before investors got involved; and of being an older star in a "new century."

While anyone can read this book, I think fans of old-time country music will love it best because it contains all the tales you'll want to know. For you, start Whisperin' Bill Anderson, and you'll be hooked before long.

Northern Defeats Smithsburg After Brick Blocks Extra Point

The Northern Huskies opened the high school football season by holding on to defeat the Smithsburg Leopards 14-13 after Riley Brick blocked an extra point in the fourth quarter on Friday.

Smithsburg had a chance to get into field goal range to take the lead after the Huskies punted the ball away with two minutes remaining in the game.

However, the Husky defense came up with the game-deciding stop four plays later, allowing Northern to avenge last year's heartbreaking 9-7 loss to the Leopards.

"It was a good team win with almost everybody contributing," said Northern head coach Phil Carr. "We have 17 seniors and that means a lot of guys want to be a part of this, and I think that everybody who got in, even for a few plays, contributed something positive while they were out there."

Logan Yommer opened the scoring for the Huskies when he connected with Nate Durst for a 27-yard touchdown pass at the 8:06 mark in the first quarter.

Smithsburg's defense answered when the Rams were driving to extend the lead. Colby Johnson intercepted a pass and ran it 85 yards for a pick-six to tie the game 7-7 with 11:37 remaining in the half.

Four minutes later, Cayleb Broadwater powered his way into the end zone from the 1-yard line to give the Huskies a 14-7 lead.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Leopards hoped to snag victory from the jaws of defeat when Kamren Winslow took it to the house from 25 yards out to pull Smithsburg within a point, but Brick came off the edge and blocked the extra point to keep Northern in front.

Durst led the Huskies on offense with 146 yards of total offense (81-rushing, 65-receiving). Calyb King averaged over 5 yards per carry, gaining 51 yards on nine carries.

Yommer went 5 for 11 passing, racking up 79 yards and a touchdown.

The Husky defense held the Leopards to just 124 yards of total offense and didn't allow a single yard through the air. The team also forced three fumbles, with Bryce Jones recovering one of them.

Broadwater led the team with 10 tackles and Durst added eight. Colton Houser recorded an interception.

Northern returns to the gridiron Friday for its home opener against Tucker County High School, which the Huskies defeated last year 38-0.

Northern Steelers Swept By Rams In Youth Football

The Northern Steelers fell to the Ridgely Rams in division I and division II games of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League on Sunday.

The Steelers' CAYFL Division I team was dropped by the Rams 26-6, despite getting as close as 8-6 in the second quarter.

Northern's lone touchdown came from a 6-yard pass from Zach Hallenbeck to Ethan Fratz.

Cole Hiett answered with a 23-yard dash for a touchdown to give the Rams a 14-6 lead going into the half, and then followed it up with a third-quarter touchdown off a 12-yard scamper. Colton McTaggart widened the deficit to 26-6 with a third-quarter touchdown run.

Hallenbeck connected on 10 out of 14 passes for 144 yards and a touchdown.

Jake Rush and Jacob Glotfelty stood out for the Steelers' defense, accounting for 12 and 10 tackles respectively.

The CAYFL Division II game resulted in an 18-6 loss for the Steelers after Dalton Dent put the game away in the fourth quarter for the Rams.

Jamison Warnick highlighted Northern's offense with a 64-yard touchdown sprint to tie the game 6-6 in the first quarter.

The Steelers were unable to take the lead following a failed two-point conversion attempt, and the Rams moved out in front after a 23-yard touchdown run from Kris Sherman.

Warnick finished the game with 11 carries for 97 yards and a touchdown. Chance Ritchey and Shane Fink led the Steelers on defense.

Northern will return to action at Keyser on Sunday, Sept. 18, following a "bye" week this weekend.

Southern Defeats Northern In Junior Varsity Football

The Southern Rams powered its way to a victory over the Northern Huskies 31-19 in junior varsity football action on Saturday at Southern.

Brandon Lucas led the Rams' offensive attack with 169 yards rushing on 15 carries. Logan Sebold completed a couple passes to Justin Shaffer for a total of 12 yards.

Carsyn King scored three touchdowns for the Huskies, and Micah Rollan added an extra point.

Southern hosted Clear Spring last night, but results for that game were not received. Northern visits Mountain Ridge tonight at 7 p.m.

IT WAS TOUGH GOING for the young Southern High School varsity football team last Friday at home, when the Rams opened their 2016 campaign with a resounding 40-0 defeat by always-talented Allegany. Also identifiable in the photo for Southern are junior running back Brad Davis (#47) and sophomore lineman Cole Sweitzer (#58). Southern Rams Drop Season Opener To Allegany Campers

The Southern Rams were held to just 45 yards of offense and only converted two first downs as the Rams fell to the Allegany Campers 40-0 in the season opener on Friday at Southern.

The Rams started the game with great field position after Allegany's first attempt of the opening kickoff resulted in a delay of game penalty, and the second attempt featured a failed onside kick attempt thanks to an illegal touching penalty.

However, the Campers held the Southern offense at bay and proceeded to march down the field 83 yards in 10 plays to score the game's opening touchdown when Sean Rhodes scored on a 12-yard touchdown pass from Cameron Bratton.

Allegany would score two more touchdowns in the first quarter, including a 37-yard run from Logan Milburn where he took the handoff up the middle, switched the field, and broke several tackles on his way to the end zone.

The Rams had a chance to shift the momentum early in the second quarter when Joe Custer recovered a fumble, but the Campers forced a three-and-out and moved the ball 97 yards in just nine plays, capped off by a 33-yard touchdown run from Karson Robinette to extend the lead to 27-0.

Rhodes scored his second of three touchdowns with 17 seconds left in the half to give the Campers a 33-0 halftime lead.

The game's final blow came in the third quarter when Rhodes ran in for a 5-yard touchdown on 4th and goal to make it 40-0 for Allegany.

The Campers' methodical win came from a 394-45 yard advantage in total offense over the Rams, 335 of which were rushing yards.

Southern (0-1) will travel to Moorefield, W.Va. to take on the Moorefield Yellow Jackets (2-0) at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Moorefield is coming off two wins, over Frankfort and Pocahontas County in consecutive weeks. Southern was defeated by the Yellow Jackets in last year's meeting 39-0.

Northern Maddawgs Grab Two Wins Over Cumberland Saints

The Northern Maddawgs A and B teams secured wins over the Cumberland Saints on the road for week two of the pee wee football season on Saturday.

Northern's senior A team beat the Saints 19-12 behind the rushing efforts of Ethan Sebold and Myles Uphold, who each ran for over 100 yards and scored a touchdown.

The two running backs gained several chunks of yardage behind an offensive line which featured Evan Baker, Cole O'Neal, and Brayden Broadwater.

Brady Dixon and Robbie Rollman had solid outings on the defensive line, and Luke Ross came up with two touchdown-saving tackles to secure the victory.

The Saints' A team finished as the Super Bowl runner-up last season.

The Maddawgs' B team also fought its way to a victory over the Saints, winning 12-6 after a physical second half.

Devon Opel scored Northern's first touchdown when he took the handoff and raced 76 yards for the score to lead the Maddawgs to a 6-6 score at halftime.

Second-half action featured a 15-play, 75-yard drive, punctuated by an 18-yard touchdown run from Opel to give Northern a 12-6 lead.

Evan Graham, Nick Riley, and Caleb Hinebaugh led the battle in the trenches for the Maddawgs.

The Northern defense only gave up two big plays against the defending B-team Super Bowl champions.

Cumberland won the C-team game handily, despite an improvement in play for the Maddawgs. Ayden Gale scored his first career touchdown during the game.

Northern will travel back to Cumberland to face the Cardinals on Saturday at 9 a.m.

Southern Soccer Suffers Loss To Mountain Ridge

A four-goal second half from the Mountain Ridge Miners gave the team enough cushion to hold off the Southern Rams 6-1 in both teams' soccer season opener on Monday evening.

The Rams had a hard time establishing themselves in the final third of the pitch against one of the toughest teams on the schedule, as Southern was out-shot 24-3.

Devin Smith put the Miners out in front with an unassisted goal less than 10 minutes into the game, and Gavin Murray followed with a score less than five minutes later to put the Miners up 2-0 heading into the half.

The Rams hoped to cut the deficit in half as they took the field in the second half, but Smith scored another unassisted goal just 18 seconds after the half's starting whistle to make it 3-0.

After another goal for the Miners, Will Baker answered with the Rams' first goal of the season with just over 21 minutes remaining in the game to close the gap to 4-1.

Mountain Ridge would score two more goals to end the match.

Logan Hinebaugh made 10 saves for Southern.

The jayvee Rams also fell to the Miners in a 5-0 result.

Southern Volleyball Swept In Opening Match By Campers

The Allegany Campers, led by Margaret Neidhardt's 12 kills and 10 points, swept the Southern Rams 3-0 Tuesday evening in both teams' high school volleyball season opening match.

The game scores were 25-11, 25-19, and 25-15.

Kamrin Weimer led the Rams with 10 kills and four digs, and Lauryn Moon accounted for nine points and three digs.

The Campers also rallied to win the jayvee match 2-1. Despite the Rams winning the opening set 25-22, Allegany roared back and won 25-15 and 18-16.

Jocelyn Evans led the Rams' jayvee squad with six assists and five points.

Southern (0-1) returns to action tonight as the team hosts the Northern Huskies at 6 p.m.

Husky Soccer Splits Three Games Against Fort Hill, Keyser, Southern

The Northern High School boys' soccer team split its first three matches of the season with a loss, win, and a tie against Fort Hill, Keyser, and Southern.

Fort Hill 5 Northern 2

The Huskies (1-1-1) fell to the Fort Hill Sentinels 5-2 in the season opener on Saturday night.

Daniel Hott scored the first two goals of his hat trick for the Sentinels early in the first half. The first came on an unassisted play at the 34:03 mark, and the second came 10 minutes later off an assist from Liam Nichols.

Nichols then scored off an assist from Hott at the 6:10 mark, and Fort Hill went into the half up 3-0.

The Huskies scored against the run of play six minutes into the second half when Austin Evans scored on a penalty kick.

The Sentinels answered with 27 minutes left on the clock when Michael Looker scored unassisted. Hott finished his hat trick six minutes later off a penalty kick to increase the gap to 5-1.

Ian Brenneman scored the game's final goal when he tucked it into the back of the net for Northern with 12:28 remaining.

The Huskies were out-shot 15-4 and had no corner kicks. Ty Kinzey made 10 saves in goal.

Northern 7 Keyser 0

Northern bounced back with a 7-0 win over Keyser High School on Tuesday evening, led by Evans' hat trick.

The Huskies were off and running when Evans scored the first two goals of the game, unassisted, within 10 minutes of the opening whistle.

Northern's ongoing pressure eventually led to Garrett Baker's goal off an assist from Dylan McCann at the 2:31 mark in the first half, giving the Huskies a 3-0 lead at the break.

Evans wasted no time after the halftime kickoff to complete his hat trick, scoring just 12 seconds after the whistle blew off a delivery from Ty Ultis.

Joel Ross found McCann for the Huskies' next goal to make it 5-0 with 27:21 to play, and then McCann scored another goal on a direct kick outside the box with just over 17 minutes remaining.

Jaden Lais put Northern's seventh and final goal in the back of the net unassisted with 10:33 left on the clock.

Northern finished with a 15-1 lead in shots over the Golden Tornados, and also led in corner kicks 4-0. Anthony Glotfelty saved the only shot he saw for the Huskies in goal.

Northern Volleyball Swept By Frankfort In Season Opener

A 14-point effort from Lindsay Greaser was able to lift Frankfort over Northern in a 3-0 sweep in the Huskies' volleyball season opener yesterday evening at Northern High School.

Match scores were 25-14, 27-25, and 25-18.

The Huskies were led by Kyliana Sisler, who registered six blocks and four kills. Abby Sisler came up with four blocks, and McKenna Houser had 21 digs on the night.

Frankfort also swept the jayvee games, 25-19 and 25-9. Hailey Moore had two assists for the Huskies, while Britni Moore and Alexis House each scored one kill.

Northern faces off with Southern tonight at Southern High School.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

COMMODORE'S CUP REGATTA
by Marty Hill

Each year, as the sailing season nears its end on the lake, the Deep Creek Yacht Racing Association hosts the annual Commodore's Cup, a multi-race series that brings out the best sailors from both yacht clubs on the lake – Deerhaven and Turkey Neck. The Commodore's Cup is a popular race; winners have bragging rights all the way into next season, and winning the cup can heal a lot of almost-won and should-have-won scrapes and bruises that sailors pick up in the course of series racing through the season.

Saturday started as a perfect day for sailing, 8 to 10 miles per hour of wind, not much power-boat traffic, and fluffy clouds with no rain in sight. The wind was coming out of the northeast, so principal race officers and club commodores John Meredith and Bruce Lothrop laid out an east/west windward/leeward course, with a windward mark up near Poland Run and the leeward mark off Holy Cross and Bull Run. This course took advantage of the geographic features of Turkey Neck, which forms "the Slot" and acts as a funnel whenever the wind has a primary east or west component.

The Championship Gold, Silver, and Masters divisions got off beautifully for the first race, but very quickly many of the sailors reported that the wind was shifting more than usual. Deep Creek Lake is notorious for changeable winds, and everybody who sails here is used to that – but these shifts seemed more than normal. Masters Division skipper Ed Peters reported that he saw the wind shift 45 or 50 degrees, all the way down to the southeast, and then back up out of the northeast. Silver Division skipper Rob Gerlach reported that he was following another boat about 60 feet in front of him on the same course; while that boat was on a starboard tack, he himself was on a port tack. All of this made for a pretty scrambled race. Still, despite the shifts, the first race ended in good order and everybody headed back to the clubs for lunch.

After lunch, the fleet headed out for a second race, but the winds had dropped a bit and had become even less stable. After a great start near Holy Cross, Gold Division skipper Ray Gauthier and visiting crew Ed Cough found themselves way out in front of their competition about halfway up the windward leg. Ray is one of the most experienced and competent sailors on the lake, and he was anticipating a "horizon finish," where a boat is so far ahead that her chasers can't even see her. Much to his amazement, the trailing Gold Division boats caught puffs of wind from behind, which ought to be impossible when all the boats are sailing upwind.

Sure enough, the whole Gold Division swept by Ray and, as if that were not enough, the Silver Division boats which start five minutes after Gold also swept by. Silver Division skipper Jeff Haseler said, "Even I got by Ray. That never happens!"

Meanwhile, Silver Division skipper Rob Gerlach found himself about 30 feet below the starting line, with no wind at all. Helplessly, Gerlach drifted as the automatic timer sounded the starting gun. That's frustrating! Still, even with all the shifts and starts, the wind came up enough for all divisions to finish the second race.

Saturday was great, but Sunday's and Monday's races had to be cancelled – no wind!

The Laser fleet had its own series, and Anne Graham filed the following report:

"Our event started out wonderfully, with blue skies and fair winds on Saturday. The Laser fleet, with race commanders Darlene and Ray Miller, had four races the first day of the regatta. The Millers set a wonderful windward-leeward course for the fleet, with a start/finish line midway between the marks. Unfortunately, the winds did not hold for racing on Sunday and Monday. Many thanks to the Millers, the Fidlows, and Guy Petty for running the races and patrolling."

Along with the Commodore's Cup, the Labor Day awards ceremony also includes some of the most prestigious awards in Deep Creek sailing: the Harry Carpenter Sportsman of the Year Award and the Deep Creek Yacht Racing Association President's Award. The Sportsman of the Year award is named in honor of Harry Carpenter, the owner of Flying Scot Inc., located in Deer Park. Most of the boats seen sailing the lake are Flying Scots, built in Deer Park, and the award is for good sportsmanship on the water. Much like Harry himself, Carpenter award winners demonstrate good humor, very strong commitment to fair play, willingness to help other sailors learn, and a love of the sailing sport. The DCYRA President's Award recognizes exceptional personal contribution to the sport of sailing on Deep Creek Lake.

Absence Notes

Very Important Reminder – All parent notes must include the following information, otherwise the student will not be approved for the absence. (Parents may refer to page 7 in the Student Planner): student name (must include first and last); student grade; date of absence; reason for absence; and parent signature. Notes must be received within the three-day limit. All notes are to be placed in the Absentee Excuse Box in the main lobby.

Merit/Honors Science Course

If a student is taking a merit or honors science course this year they are required to do a science fair project. They are not automatically competing for one of the 20 slots that will be taken to the 2017 Pittsburgh Regional Science and Engineering Fair. Last year, Northern brought home around $80,000 dollars worth of scholarships. Alex Miller was one of four students to be chosen to represent the Pittsburgh area at the International Science and Engineering Fair in Phoenix. Any student who is in a merit or honors science course in his/her second semester and he/she wants to be considered for PRSEF, then his/her science fair project must be completed during first semester. Those interested should contact a science teacher or Mr. Price before the end of September. Some teachers are allowing team projects.

Music Boosters Jewelry/Cash Bash

A Music Boosters Jewelry/Cash Bash will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Garrett College Special Events Center (old gym). All proceeds will benefit Northern High Music Boosters, which supports both the band and choral programs. Tickets are $25 and are available for pre-order now. Tickets must be presented for admission. All jewelry prizes are final, and additional jewelry and cash will be chanced off. Winners not present will be notified. The doors will open at noon, and food and refreshments are included in the cost of the ticket. Entertainment will be provided by NHS band and chorus, and the jewelry is provided by Terry's Jewelry. Questions can be directed to Darlene Bonitz at tabfloorz@yahoo.com or band director Duane Salisbury at duane.salisbury@garrettcountyschools.org. Readers are also encouraged to check out the Music Boosters Facebook page to see all the beautiful jewelry items that can be won. Ticket holders are eligible for a 25% discount off the retail price of any purchase at Terry's Jewelry, 41 Baltimore Street, Cumberland.

NHS Relay for Life

The first team meeting of the Northern High School's Relay for Life team will be held on Monday, Oct. 3, beginning at 5 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The group is always looking for new teams, ideas, and participants to help organize/plan the event. Questions can be sent to debra.ahern@garrettcountyschools.org. Your help would be greatly appreciated.

Vision and Hearing Screening

New students from outside the Garrett County school system and students referred by teachers or parents/guardians are screened for vision and hearing. Those interested in getting their child screened, may contact the school nurse, Becky Aiken at 301-746-8668 or 301-895-5434 or via email at raiken.aiken@garrettcountyschools.org. Screenings will take place beginning Friday, Sept. 16.

School Store

The NHS school store is located in the Counseling Center and is open everyday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Items in the store can be viewed by going to the NHS website under "School Store."

Northstar Yearbooks

Those interested in getting a 2016-17 copy of the Northstar yearbook for free can do so by participating in an optional frozen foods fundraiser and sell as few as 13 items. Anyone who cannot sell 13, will still receive $5 off of the cost of the book for every item he/she sells. The book normally costs about $60 and can be earned by any student (grades 9-12) who:

1) Takes a sales flyer when he/she is offered in homeroom

2) Sells as many items as he/she can

3) Return the order form with a check made payable to NHS to Mrs. Fleming no later than Friday, Sept. 16.

If you have any questions, stop by Room 221 and ask Mrs. Fleming between classes, before or after school or email april.fleming@garrettcountyschools.org.

Fall Drive 4UR School Event

Numerous NHS groups will be participating in the fall Drive 4UR School event at Diehl's Ford in Grantsville on Saturday, Oct. 1, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is an opportunity for NHS students, staff, and parents to raise up to $6,000 for the school. All that is needed is a stop by Diehl's Ford to test drive a vehicle. All our groups participating will have lots of foods and goodies for sale.

Northern Athletic Boosters

Northern Garrett Athletic Boosters is in need of members. The group is looking for parents interested in being part of this volunteer organization that supports all athletic teams at NHS along with assisting in some athletic training and facility costs. Boosters meet once a month for an hour and have two large fundraisers – an annual dinner and the fair booth. It is not that time consuming and supplements team funds throughout the year. The next meeting will be held this Sunday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria. Those unable to attend or anyone interested in being part of this organization for the next school year may contact Audra Houser at 301-268-7410.

Dates to Remember:

Sept. 21: Three-hour early dismissal (staff development)
Oct. 1: Homecoming Dance from 8 to 11 p.m.

first 15 minutes, but the first dangerous opportunity came at the 23:00 mark, when Evans broke through the Rams' back line and had only the keeper to beat.

Logan Hinebaugh came up with a crucial save to keep the match scoreless. After that breakaway, the Huskies had a majority of the chances in the first half to take the lead, but were unable to finish in front of goal.

The Rams took control early in the second half and earned their first corner after a shot from Lane Savage was deflected wide of the goal.

After the action subsided for a few minutes, the final 20 minutes of regulation featured a myriad of opportunities for both teams.

Evans broke through the Rams' defense once again, only to be denied by Hinebaugh just inside the box with 18 minutes remaining.

Five minutes later, Evans looked to put the match away when he slotted the ball past the Rams' keeper, but the ball traveled just wide of the far post.

The Rams responded three minutes later, when a cross connected for a free header, but it was deflected wide for another corner.

Then, Mike Greene nearly gave Southern the win from nearly 25 yards away with a long shot that traveled inches over the crossbar.

Jaden Lais created a dangerous chance from outside the box in the first overtime period, but the ball moved just outside the near post.

The match remained scoreless after the two overtime periods. The two teams meet again at Southern on Oct. 19, and the Huskies return to action on Monday when they travel to Trinity for a tournament.

MES was created in 1970 by the governor and legislators. Its mission is to provide operational and technical services to protect and enhance the environment for the benefit of the people of Maryland.

"MES is a self-supporting, independent state agency, combining the public sector's commitment to environmental protection with the private sector's flexibility and responsiveness," the agency's website notes. "MES provides services at competitive rates to government and private sector clients and works on projects including water and wastewater treatment, solid waste management, composting, recycling, dredged material management, hazardous materials cleanup, storm water services, and renewable energy. We provide expert engineering, monitoring, and inspection services."

MES provides material management services to the Maryland Port Administration's dredging program, which keeps the shipping channels of the Chesapeake Bay, the Patapsco River and Baltimore Harbor safe and clear for cargo vessels. The agency also plans, oversees construction of, and operates such dredged material placement sites as Hart-Miller Island, Poplar Island, Cox Creek, and Masonville. More information is available at menv.com.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 6 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

IT COULD BE YOU

Have you ever worried about losing your job, or facing a serious illness, or making a terrible mistake? If you have faced and survived any these fears then you are likely thankful for each and every day you have your job, your health, and your talents. Remember to thank God for these things as well. Also, remember to pray for those who are less fortunate. Praise God at His House this and every week for all your blessings.

Guarding Our Tongues

While it may be a cliché to say that everyone has their own opinion, the fact that dissension often arises from this diversity of opinion is worth noting, and worth doing something about. Being well-informed about social or political affairs may be a virtue in certain circles, but not if it makes us opinionated and difficult to be around.

Even the best of friends and close families can sometimes be divided by strongly expressed opinions. It can be difficult to hear others expressing opinions which run counter to our own, especially in matters of faith and morals, and it requires a strong will in those circumstances to hold our tongue, but the person who is quick to counter the opinions of the opinionated comes across as opinionated himself. As the saying goes, it's better to hold your tongue and be thought a fool than to open your mouth and remove all doubt. So realize that we all have opinions, and when we are asked for ours it makes sense to give it, but otherwise opinions are usually best left unsaid.

– Christopher Simon

"Those who guard their mouths and their tongues keep themselves from calamity."

—Proverbs 21:23 NIV

PBS looks into a little-known period in Churchill's life

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

I imagine it was easier being a public figure in the '50s than it is today. Thanks to the Internet, social media and instant photography, the words and actions of today's politicians and celebrities are spread far and wide almost immediately.

Needless to say, this was not always the case. Back in Winston Churchill's day, when that most venerable of men was serving as prime minister of the United Kingdom for the second time, he suffered a debilitating stroke — and, amazingly, no one knew about it outside his inner circle. A special "Masterpiece" drama examines this time in Churchill's life, in the summer of 1953, while the PM relearned how to speak and walk, totally unbeknownst to the majority of the world, or even the government. "Churchill's Secret" airs Sunday, Sept. 11, on PBS.

Widely regarded as one of British history's most influential figures, Churchill has been portrayed numerous times on screen, generally with his iconic cigar-mouthed, homburg-topped look. "Churchill's Secret" takes a look into a little-known period in the British Bulldog's life, as the 78-year-old man makes a gradual and difficult recovery from a series of strokes that very well could have killed him.

He's played by master of the screen and stage Michael Gambon ("Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2," 2011), whose acting career has spanned more than half a century and has earned him countless accolades. Seldom far from the PM's side are his wife, Clementine (Lindsay Duncan, "The Honourable Woman"), private secretary and close friend Jock Colville (Patrick Kennedy, "Atonement," 2007) and nurse Millie Appleyard (Romola Garai, "Amazing Grace," 2006).

The film is set in the summer of 1953, a little less than two years into Churchill's second run as prime minister. After suffering a stroke during a 10 Downing Street dinner, the PM loses consciousness and his speech is severely impaired. Determined from the start to keep it from the public, he goes ahead with a Cabinet meeting the next morning, before being spirited away to Chartwell, his country seat in Kent.

"He stayed at his house for months ... nobody saw him," Gambon told the Independent. "It's a bit odd. We wouldn't tolerate that now. If the prime minister had a stroke, we'd know about it two minutes later."

To be sure, the level of discretion exercised by everyone close to the PM is impressive, with even Fleet Street being silenced, thanks to the loyalty of three of the most powerful press barons. Most of the characters in the film are based on real people in Churchill's life, though Nurse Millie is fictional, invented by author Jonathan Smith for his book on which the drama is based.

"When I came to write the book, I tried to see the story from the points of view of the powerful central players," the author explained to the Mirror. "I also wanted to see it as one of the PM's nurses might have done. So I took a liberty. I made up Nurse Appleyard, the only fictional character in 'Churchill's Secret.' She was with Churchill every faltering step of the way, with every breath he took, and she helped unlock the story for me."

Indeed, the respect and fondness that grow between the felled PM and his no-nonsense nurse are a nice infusion into a largely sad story. Transported to Chartwell without even being told for whom she would be working, Millie takes no guff, either from her often grumbly patient himself or from his boorish, wholly unpleasant son Randolph (Matthew Macfadyen, "Death at a Funeral," 2007). She sits beside him as his booze-swilling children bicker in the next room, is called in to join the family during movie night, and is an ever-present source of patience and fortitude as Churchill slowly recovers.

But why keep it from the public at all? The man who had guided his country through the darkest days of World War II didn't want the people of England to know that their leader was — for the time being, in any event — incapable of leading. Had Churchill's stroke become public knowledge, he could have been forced to resign. To make matters more problematic, Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden (Alex Jennings, "The Queen," 2006) — the man expected to step in as Churchill's successor — was himself in hospital recovering from surgery. With no one currently available to run the country, there ran the risk of a general election being called, and a scramble for leadership that could destabilize the government.

So it fell to those closest to Churchill to quietly keep things running, while the majority of the nation remained blissfully unaware that their PM was bedridden, relearning to speak and struggling to remember the most pivotal moments and actions from the war.

They undoubtedly pulled it off, since the events of "Churchill's Secret" have heretofore remained unknown to many. The film has already aired on ITV in the U.K., and the response has been mostly positive. The acting of many of the cast members has been praised, in particular, with more than one critic noting that Gambon's wonderful performance allows one to forget that he really doesn't look a whole lot like Churchill.

Tune in to "Masterpiece" to see "Churchill's Secret" when it makes its way across the pond Sunday, Sept. 11, on PBS.

Masters of drama

Showtime's science drama is back for more

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Masters of drama: There aren't many people out there who can claim to have revolutionized our understanding of an entire field of scientific study. There are even fewer who could also say that they've had an acclaimed TV series made about their lives and their research.

Dr. William Masters and Virginia Johnson are two researchers who could make those claims. Showtime's Golden Globe-nominated drama about their lives and their research, "Masters of Sex," kicks off its fourth season Sunday, Sept. 11.

Michael Sheen ("Midnight in Paris," 2011) and Lizzy Caplan ("Cloverfield," 2008) return as Masters and Johnson, respectively, a pair of researchers who pioneered scientific understanding of human sexuality. The duo, working together for more than three decades, performed research into what had previously been a taboo subject.

"Masters of Sex" uses Masters and Johnson's real-life professional relationship as a backdrop for a gripping fictionalized drama about their personal lives. Its already-strong supporting cast is being added to this season by a few new faces who join Sheen and Caplan as the show's ongoing plot moves into the swinging 1970s.

David Walton ("About a Boy") has been cast in a major role as a prominent attorney who represents Masters and Johnson in a high-profile case that pits the state against science. He'll be joined by Niecy Nash ("Scream Queens"), who has also signed on for a recurring role as an Alcoholics Anonymous chairperson.

Other stars lined up to appear this season include Betty Gilpin ("Nurse Jackie"), Erin Karpluk ("Being Erica") and Andre Royo ("The Wire").

In spite of its somewhat risky subject matter and title, "Masters of Sex" has been a hit with critics. It's been nominated for two Golden Globes, won two Critics Choice Television Awards and has been nominated for nine Emmys, winning one of them.

Not bad for a little show about two pioneering scientists. The fourth season of "Masters of Sex" premieres Sunday, Sept. 11, on Showtime.

Future tense: In the not-so-distant future, the corporations hold all of the power. It's a pretty common science fiction trope, but it's one that's eminently believable. It's also the premise behind "Incorporated," the upcoming Syfy show scheduled to premiere Wednesday, Nov. 30.

Coming from executive producers Ben Affleck ("Argo," 2012), Matt Damon ("The Martian," 2015), Ted Humphrey and Jennifer Todd, "Incorporated" will tell the story of a young executive who puts everything he has on the line to infiltrate one of the world's most powerful corporate entities to save the woman he loves.

Sean Teale ("Reign") stars as the smoldering Ben Larson, a man born into society's dregs. When the love of his life sells herself into corporate servitude to pay off her family's debts, he builds a new identity for himself and starts to climb the corporate ladder in the hope of finding and rescuing her. Now, he has a beautiful wife, a massive house and the best of everything — but if his lie is ever uncovered, he'll not only lose all of that, but possibly also his life.

It's not an empty threat, either. Society has become literally divided between the "haves" and the "have-nots," with people living in either the clean, wealthy and safe "Green Zone" or in the dirty, poor and dangerous "Red Zone."

Saturday

Smollett Eats
(60) FOOD Noon
Everyone pitches in when the Smolletts throw their epic annual barbecue under the stars in this premiere. First, they have to go to the butcher to get ingredients for Jake Smollett's apricot-mustard glazed baby back ribs.

Toddlers & Tiaras
(54) TLC 2:00 p.m.
TLC brings viewers four back-to-back rebroadcasts of this reality TV series featuring the littlest pageant beauty queens. Little girls don their fanciest clothes as they compete for the crown at the Southern Majestic Pageant in this episode.

Girl in the Box
(29) LIFE 8:00 p.m.
This premiere made-for-television movie tells the terrifying story of Colleen Stan, who was kidnapped in 1977 and forced to be a slave for couple for seven years. The film stars Zane Holtz, Addison Timlin and Zelda Williams.

Dr. Dee: Alaska Vet
(58) ANPL 8:00 p.m.
Dr. Dee's mom visits a remote vet clinic in Manley Hot Springs, Alaska, in this new episode. Meanwhile, it looks like a Rottweiler may have bone cancer, and a bunny is having trouble with an abscess. Later, several St. Bernard puppies visit the clinic.

Criminal Minds
(2) (5) (5) (19) 9:00 p.m.
Joe Mantegna stars as David Rossi in this rebroadcast that sees the BAU try to get a serial killer to talk. When guards at a prison intercept a package filled with evidence from a kidnapping, the team searches for information on missing boys.

Aquarius
(11) (11) (12) 9:00 p.m.
In this new episode, Hodiak (David Duchovny) searches for the mysterious serial killer who's been sending him obscene pictures. At the same time, Manson (Gethin Anthony) dispatches some followers to get money from Gary Hinman (Jefferson White).

Jeff Ross Roasts Cops
(53) COMC 11:00 p.m.
Jeff Ross uses humor to explore hot-button issues as he roasts members of Boston's police force in this premiere comedy special. The program includes footage of ride-alongs, interviews with top police brass and banter on the streets of Boston.

David Duchovny stars in "Aquarius"

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was beloved American author Mark Twain who made the following sage observation: "A successful book is not made of what is in it, but of what is left out of it."

* If you're a cat lover who also enjoys imbibing alcohol from time to time, you might want to take note of this bit of international news: A Japanese company called B&H Lifes has come out with a new product. Nyan Nyan Nouveau is a wine made especially for the feline palate. The wine doesn't actually contain any alcohol, though; it's a mixture of catnip and the juice of cabernet grapes. (Note of interest: "Nyan" is the Japanese equivalent of "meow.")

* In American folklore, it's Johnny Appleseed who is credited with sowing apple trees across the nation. In reality, though, much of the credit can go to the pioneers' craving for hard cider.

* In February, a mattress company conducted a survey of 390 Americans (hardly a comprehensive sample, of course) to determine consumers' attitudes toward sleep around Valentine's Day. Interestingly, fully half of the respondents said that they'd rather have a good night's sleep than be the recipient of a romantic gesture on what is generally regarded as the most romantic day of the year. And 64 percent said they cared more about getting at least 8 hours of sleep every night than they did about finding a life partner.

* Those who study such things say that when male and female puppies play fight, the males will sometimes let the females win in order to get to know them better.

Thought for the Day: "We are social creatures to the inmost center of our being. The notion that one can begin anything at all from scratch, free from the past, or unindebted to others, could not conceivably be more wrong." -- Karl Popper

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Sept. 18, 1793, George Washington lays the cornerstone to the United States Capitol. The building would take nearly a century to complete, as architects came and went, the British set fire to it, and it was called into use during the Civil War.

* On Sept. 16, 1908, Buick Motor Company head William Durant spends $2,000 to incorporate General Motors. Durant made his fortune building horse-drawn carriages, and in fact he hated cars -- he thought they were noisy, smelly and dangerous.

* On Sept. 14, 1927, dancer Isadora Duncan is strangled in France when the enormous silk scarf she is wearing gets tangled in the rear hubcaps of her open car. The scarf wound around the axle, tightening around Duncan's neck and dragging her from the car. She died instantly.

* On Sept. 17, 1965, four adventurous Englishmen arrive at the Frankfurt Motor Show in Germany after crossing the English Channel by Amphicar, an amphibious passenger car powered by a 43-horsepower Triumph Herald engine. Despite choppy waters and a flooded engine, the two vehicles made the crossing in about seven hours.

* On Sept. 15, 1978, boxer Muhammad Ali (born Casslus Marcellus Clay) defeats Leon Spinks to regain the world heavyweight boxing title. Ali had first won the title in 1964 at age 22, defeating Sonny Liston.

* On Sept. 12, 1993, the rebuilt Lacey V. Murrow Bridge over Lake Washington opens in Seattle. The old bridge was almost 2 miles long and floated on more than 20 hollow concrete pontoons. During repairs in 1990, the bridge broke apart and sank.

Caring For Stray Cats

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have a couple of stray cats that I put out food for each day. They must live in the woods behind my house. IÕve tried to lure them inside so I can take them to the vet to get spayed or neutered, but theyÕre too wary for that. Ultimately IÕd like to take them in as pets. Is that realistic? -- Gary in Tampa, Florida DEAR GARY: Taming a feral cat -- and these two appear to be feral from your description -- is really unlikely. The fact that they come around for food at the same time every day is pretty good, but I donÕt think youÕll ever get them to the point where they will be relaxed, indoor cats. However, getting them spayed or neutered is a good idea. So how do you manage to do that when they wonÕt come inside? First, you can contact the local shelter or a veterinarian to find out if this is feasible. For example, a university study in central Florida lasting several years looked at the local feral cat population, as well as the effects of a trap-and-release program in which cats were spayed or neutered and released back into their roaming territory. A similar program could be available in your area, although you may need to trap the cats yourself (by luring them into a live trap with food, for example) and bring them in for treatment. Bringing feral cats into a household with tame housecats can be a recipe for disaster. Territorial spats, potential diseases and other problems could quickly arise. For now, feeding these cats and trying to get them medical care to keep the feral cat population from growing is a good thing to do. Send your questions or pet care tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q: I am the executor of the estate of a woman who collected dolls for more than 50 years. I am overwhelmed by more than a thousand dolls, mostly stored in 10 glass-front china cabinets. Should I get them insured? Regular homeowners insurance will cover the collection for only $1,500, and I am certain it is worth many times that amount. How I can determine current values and find a way to liquidate the collection. -- Ellen, Palos Hills, Illinois

A: There are three references that might be helpful: "The 16th Blue Book: Dolls and Values" by Jan Fouike; "200 Years of Dolls" by Dawn Heriocher; and "The Official Price Guide to Dolls" by Denise Van Patten. All are available at www.amazon.com. Contact your homeowners insurance agent and request a quote to expand the coverage for the collection. Since you want to liquidate the dolls, I recommend you investigate the excellent auction houses in Chicago. Three include Direct Auction Galleries, Inc., 7232 North Western Ave., Chicago, IL 60645; Susanin's Auction House, 900 South Clinton St., Chicago, IL 60607; and Leonard Auctions, 1765 Courtland Court, Suite D, Addison, IL 60101.

Q: I have a copy of "The Fine Art of Walt Disney's Donald Duck" by Carl Barks. It is a signed copy, No. 446 out of a press run of 1,875. What is my book worth, and where can I sell it? -- Nancy, Rio Rancho, New Mexico

A: The book retails for about $1,200, according to information I found at www.abe.com. It was published by Another Rainbow of Scottsdale, Arizona, in 1981. You might begin your quest to sell it by contacting used- and rare-book dealers in Albuquerque. Do not expect to be offered $1,200 for it, however, since that is the retail selling price.

Q: I have three pieces of Roseville pottery. -- Patricia, Fiskeville, Rhode Island

A: Without seeing your Roseville pieces, I can't identify the pattern. What I can do is recommend one of the better references, "Warman's Roseville Pottery: Identification and Price Guide" by Denise Rago and published by Krause Books. This reference is $24.99 and will help you identify the pattern of your three pieces along with current values.

Water, Water, Water

It's hot. Please continue to provide fresh water in birdbaths for all the things with wings out there. In my yard, even wildlife benefits from water in birdbaths. I've watched baby raccoons playing in birdbaths. And even those darn squirrels need water. Everyone benefits.

Grant Recently Earns Ph.D. In Education

Oakland native Elizabeth Grant, Centralia College's director of counseling, advising, and disability services, recently earned a Ph.D. in education with specialization in higher education leadership from North Central University in Prescott Valley, Ariz. Her dissertation is titled "Interactions Associated with Mindfulness Use of Labyrinths in Remediation of First-Year College Students."

"The focus of my dissertation is on remedial education and how mindfulness practices, such as labyrinth walking, meditation, and Tai Chi can actually help students, particularly as they adjust to the demands of college," Grant explained. "The first year is a challenge for a lot of students, and this is especially true for students who must begin their academic careers with pre-college, developmental coursework. Mindfulness practice can help students manage frustrations and stress and reduce the sense of being overwhelmed. Studies more sophisticated than mine have shown that not only can mindfulness practice help with how well the brain functions, it can actually increase brain mass."

Grant acknowledged the support she received from professors Joe Burr and Lisa Spitzer to recruit participants for her dissertation research. In addition, she expressed her appreciation for moral support she received from her staff and professors Preston Kiekel and Atara MacNamara.

"Joe and Lisa invited me to speak to their classes while I was recruiting participants. Their kindness enabled me to recruit most of the students who volunteered. Without their help, I wouldn't have had enough students for my study," Grant said. "And Preston and Atara buoyed me when I was discouraged. They provided the kind of support and encouragement I try to give to students, only this time it was me who needed the support to achieve my goals."

Grant came to Centralia with experience as a clinician, researcher, and academic program director. Most recently, she did research with the University of Maryland's Institute for Governmental Service and Research on projects involving statewide substance abuse initiatives and Maryland Problem-Solving Courts. Prior to that, she was an academic program director at Garrett College for more than 10 years.

"I scaled a pretty steep learning curve this past year, adjusting to Washington's quarter system from the semester system with which I was familiar," Grant said. "Everyone has been helpful to teach me about the nuances that make Centralia such a sweet place to learn and work. I am very happy to be here and to work with so many genuinely kind and caring colleagues!"

Grant is the daughter of the late Dr. B. Linn and Ann Grant.

4-H Club News

NORTH GLADE
by Mariah Klotz, reporter

The North Glade 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on Aug. 17 at the North Glade 4-H Building in Swanton.

Members were reminded that thank-you cards and letters for buyers and sponsors at the fair should be turned in to the Extension office as soon as possible.

The club would like to extend a thank-you to Nathan and Rachel Sines and Josh and Jolene Custer for their donations of hogs to the club. Ways to use these donations were discussed, as well as the annual food booth fundraiser at the craft show during Autumn Glory.

Members were told about the new Livestock Association fundraiser, the Ag Bash, and tickets were distributed to members who wanted to sell them. The Ag Bash will be held on Saturday, Oct. 7.

Following the meeting, members were given time to work on their record books.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at the club building.

eBay, PayPal Class To Be Held At GC Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on computer course titled "eBay and PayPal for Buyers and Sellers" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Mondays, Sept. 12 and 19, from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

This course is for the individual who wants to learn how to buy and sell on eBay. Participants will go through the process of registering on eBay and PayPal, and proceed all the way through to collecting funds. Bidding and selling strategies will be discussed.

The instructor will explain about the different auction types, fees, writing effective descriptions, shipping options, setting up an eBay buyer and/or seller account, using the PayPal payment service, uploading digital images, and more.

Members of the class will add items for sale and watch the auctions end the following week. Students will need a digital camera for photographing items for sale.

The prerequisite for this class is "Intro PC Plus," or equivalent Internet and Windows knowledge.

For additional information, including costs, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for these courses, persons may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

LOOKING BACK

A Different Type of White Water – 1898

by James Rada Jr.

In October 1898, the 600 residents of Terra Alta, W.Va., 11 miles west of Oakland, got a surprise when they turned on their water faucets. What came out was milk, not water – or at least it looked like milk.

"The water when first drawn came clear enough, but an instant afterward it began to turn white," the Cumberland Evening Times reported.

In addition, the water fizzed as if it were carbonated. Then the white color disappeared in the form of smoke or vapor, and left the water crystal clear.

"The water boiled up in a bottle, beads gathered on the glass, but as soon as the whiteness had evaporated the water assumed its normal appearance and tasted fresh and cool," the newspaper reported.

Many people were afraid to drink the unusual water. Others looked at it once it had cleared and decided to take a risk. They sipped at it timidly and declared that it tasted like raw wheat flour.

This was not water drawn from a well, but from taps on the water system in Terra Alta, which was probably why the daring souls were willing to drink it. No one could explain why the water looked like milk for a few seconds when it came out of the taps, though. It was believed to be a gaseous substance in the water system's well.

While it may have been unknown at the time, various water websites point out that an excessive amount of air in water lines can turn water milky white in a way that matches the description from Terra Alta.

"Air can get trapped in high places in household lines or mains. This trapped air then saturates the water passing through it under pressure and gives it the white, milky look," according to the Clayton County, Ga., Water Authority website.

The reason the water clears up is that the trapped air soon rises to the top of the glass and escapes into the above the surface. When that happens, the water clears up.

The simple remedy for this is to flush the water lines through the spigots.

The U. S. Geological Survey website also noted that this can happen when it is very cold outside "because the solubility of air in water increases as water pressure increases and/or water temperature decreases. Cold water holds more air than warm water."

As the water moves from a reservoir or well that is very cold, it warms up somewhat. Some of the air begins to come out of the water, causing the water to take on the milky appearance.

A modern cause of such a problem can be aerators that some people have on the end of their faucets.

The condition is completely harmless, which the residents of Terra Alta quickly discovered as they continued drinking the water.

At an elevation of 2,559 feet, Terra Alta's water in the winter was undoubtedly cold. The town was originally founded as Portland in 1860, but was incorporated as Terra Alta in 1890.

J. Graves To Present Program At Garden Club's Monthly Meeting

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club (MLGC) will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 10 a.m. at Dutch's at Silver Tree for its regular monthly meeting. Jessica Graves will present "Herbs & Teas for Winter Health," in which she will explain which herbs are most often used during the winter months, how to keep the flu and colds at bay, and how to easily formulate individualized tea blends.

Graves, a founder and owner of Una Biologicals, is a herbalist who has always worked with plants to create products that she can personally use. She and her husband decided in 2008 that there was a "true need" in the market for organic products that are accessible to everyone.

Their product line has grown to include over 40 products to help people be "healthy and beautiful." Today, they offer everything from face cream and body butters to bath supplies and salves to yoga supplies and organic teas. All of Una Biological products are handcrafted using nature's best oils to nourish the skin, and never include harsh chemicals, additives, or artificial fragrances, according to a club spokesperson.

Graves will bring many of her products with her to sell following the program. Her products may also be seen and purchased online at www.unabiologicals.com.

The shop is located on Butler Street in Lawrenceville, Pa., where Graves and her staff handcraft all of their products. She can also be found at several different summer markets and festivals in Pittsburgh, Pa., where she offers a selection of her products. She also conducts herbal workshops and classes at her shop and the Phipps Conservatory throughout the year.

The MLGC meeting is open to both men and women, members and nonmembers. Members will be called in advance for reservations, and guests accompanied by a member are asked to contact Jan Parandamaia at 301-387-3463 for reservation information by Friday, Sept. 16.

For more information about membership, persons may contact Judi Merriman at 301-745-4204 or visit the clubs website at www.mountainlaurelgardenclub.com.

Garrett County Teams Are Ready To Run For It

Area teams are getting geared up for Tucker Community Foundation's 10th annual Run For It, a 2-K walk and 5-K run scheduled for 11 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 24, in Davis, W.Va. Garrett County teams are in the race to raise support and awareness for the benefit of Garrett Trails, the Kalie Hostutler Ashby Academic Achievement Fund, and the Oakland Rotary Satellite Club.

This year the Garrett County commissioners have invested $1,000 to award to county teams. In the past two years, their investment has helped leverage an additional $11,000 in awards and team sponsor donations, according to an event spokesperson.

"Capitalizing on this unique program that rewards effort, motivates participation in healthy activity, and leverages additional support for the county, the Garrett County commissioners are one of six county entities that are supporting their respective teams through the Run For It program," the spokesperson said.

The Garrett Trails team, led by Steven Green, is considered among the strong contenders. The team is garnering support for the development of a network of high-quality, sustainable trails to attract visitors and promote fitness and outdoor enjoyment for county residents.

Kim DeGiovanni has organized Kalie's Crew to run and walk in support of the Kalie Hostutler Ashby Academic Achievement Fund, which promotes high academic achievement through the support of scholastic activities.

New to the race is the Oakland Rotary Satellite Club. Team captain Haley Gillespie is working to support the satellite branch of the main Oakland Rotary Club, which is dedicated to performing acts of service in the community, like its annual Sock Drive, and assisting other area clubs with similar projects and events.

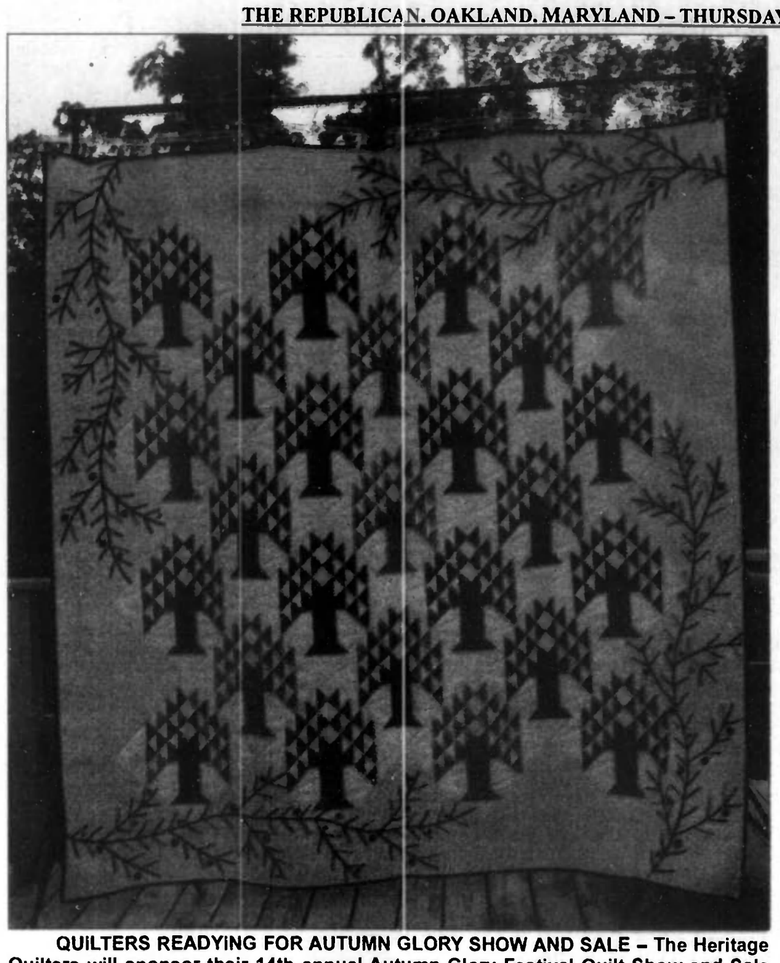
Since 2007, the Run For It program has generated over $900,000 for the region served by Tucker Community Foundation, which includes Barbour, Grant, Mineral, Preston, Pocahontas, Randolph, and Tucker counties in West Virginia, and Garrett County. More than $85,000 in cash prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the 2016 race, with all proceeds donated to the winner's community cause.

"With more than 100 award categories, there is plenty of opportunity to cash in," said the spokesperson. "Speed is not required to win."

Run For It is held on the streets of Davis during the Leaf Peepers Festival. The walk and run both start and finish in front on the Davis fire hall along Route 32. There will be music, craft vendors, a variety of food, and other festivities before and after the race.

Persons wishing to participate are encouraged to register now, as pre-registration will end next Thursday, Sept. 15, but racers can still join a team on Friday, Sept. 23, from 5 to 7 p.m or on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 8 to 9:30 a.m. at the fire hall.

Team sponsor donations postmarked or made online by Sept. 15 help teams leverage additional support. Donors may support multiple teams. Persons also may register or donate online at www.raceroster.com/8610. Entry forms, team sponsor coupons, and other information are available at www.tuckerfoundation.net/run. For more information, persons are invited to call 304-259-5008.



QUILTERS READYING FOR AUTUMN GLORY SHOW AND SALE – The Heritage Quilters will sponsor their 14th annual Autumn Glory Festival Quilt Show and Sale during the festival, which is slated for Oct. 12 to 16. The quilt show will be held in the parish hall of St. Peter's Catholic Church, located along 4th Street in Oakland at the intersection with Oak Street. Entries for the show will be accepted on Thursday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. All area quilters are invited to participate in the show. This year the Heritage Quilters will raffle off this quilt, designed by Edyta Sitar called "Blue Spruce." This two-color quilt is queen-sized and was pieced, appliqued, and quilted by members of Heritage Quilters. Tickets are available at Four Seasons Stitchery in Grantsville, and from club members. They will also be available at the quilt show, with the drawing to take place near the end of the event. This year's show will feature a group of healing quilts made by members to be donated to the cancer center of the Garrett Regional Medical Center. Each of the quilts being donated represents a plant or animal used in the treatment of some form of cancer. These quilts will be displayed in the cancer center and may be dedicated to cancer survivors. Further information is available by calling 240-488-4166.

Pleasant View Church To Host Concert Sunday

Pleasant View Baptist Church will host an Avery Road concert this Sunday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. According to a church spokesperson, the group performs country-leaning contemporary Christian music that is suitable for a wide audience age.

An Avery Road concert consists of the group's original songs, mixed with a few well-known worship songs or hymns.

"The band members would like to encourage, edify, challenge, and bless everyone that comes to hear their music," said Pastor Mark Weeks, who added, "Remembering the attacks on the U.S. of 9/11 and reflecting on the current events, and even the upcoming presidential elections, I encourage all to come and get our hearts and minds focused on Christ and the hope we have in him through the lyric and song of Avery Road."

There will be no admission charged; a freewill offering will be accepted.

Avery Road consists of Jason Burton, guitar and vocals, and Tim Wade, guitar. piano, and vocals. They will be joined by Dakota Owens, drummer.

For more information concerning the concert or other Pleasant View events, persons are invited to contact the church office at 301-334-8515 or visit the church website at www.pleasantviewbc.org.

PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971

GC Continues To Provide Trucking Industry With Well-Trained Workers

The Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute of Garrett College in Grantsville continues to meet the commercial truck driving needs of Garrett County and surrounding areas. Class A Commercial Driver's License (CDL) training first became available to the area in 2004, followed by the addition of Class B CDL training in 2008. Learner's Permit Prep classes are also available at the Grantsville location. Both CDL Learner's Permit Prep classes and Class A CDL training are offered on a continuous basis throughout the year, while Class B CDL training is offered continuously by appointment.

"Considering the growing demand for truck drivers and specific needs to our company, Dot Transportation Inc., we have partnered with Garrett College to fulfill some of those needs," stated Dave Hess, director of transportation at Dot Transportation. 'Approximately 30 percent of our driver workforce is either from or lives in the western Maryland area, and several drivers came to us from the Mountain Top Truck Driving Institute. The candidates we receive are well trained on proper driving skills, safety, and Department of Transportation (DOT) regulations, and thus transition well into our organization and workforce."

Students enrolled in the truck driving program have access to state-of-the-art equipment and qualified instructors who teach relevant curriculums, according to a GC spokesperson. Both Class A and Class B offer small class sizes to allow for maximum driving time, practice, and personalized instruction, with a 4:1 ratio for Class A, and a 1:1 ratio for Class B.

"We presently work with companies that actively come in to recruit our students prior to his or her completion of their training program," said Terry Beachy, director of the institute. "As a result, many of our students have jobs lined up before they finish the program and acquire their license.

"Additionally, some trucking companies provide tuition reimbursement opportunities to students who meet their employment standards," Beachy continued. "To date, more than 700 individuals have completed the CDL training program. Average starting salaries for program completers range from $35,000 to $50,000 in the first year."

Schneider is just one of several companies that visit regularly to recruit potential students.

"Garrett College's Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute is providing the trucking industry with top-quality, well-trained truck drivers," said John McClintock, driver recruiting manager for Schneider. "We have hired many students who completed their training program at Garrett College. We plan to continue to hire new CDL Class A drivers for the many openings we have in our area."

The Class A CDL skills-oriented training program offers a professional truck driving curriculum for the purpose of qualifying students for entry-level positions as drivers in over-the-road or local driving vehicles. Topics covered include the following: pre-trip inspection, various skills in the yard, and over-the-road instruction, along with a basic overview of map reading and log books. At the completion of the training, the student will be taken to demonstrate at the local Motor Vehicle Administration office to obtain a Class A license.

Class A consists of 30 days (210 hours) of training and is offered on a weekday, evening, or a weekend setting. The weekday option is offered in a 7.5-week timeframe, Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. The evening option entails 10 weeks, Monday through Thursday, 5 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. The weekend option has a duration of 15 weeks; Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The curriculum consists of classroom, range skills, and over-the-road instruction to acquire the fundamentals for operating trucks and tractor trailers for those that require a Class A license.

The Class B CDL training course is similar to that in the Class A program, and at the completion of training, the student will be tested at the MVA office to obtain a Class B license. The Class B license allows an individual to operate any single vehicle with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) of 26,001 or more pounds; with any such vehicle towing a vehicle not in excess of 10,000 pounds GVWR.

To register for the course, the student must already possess the following paperwork: a current DOT physical, which cannot expire during the training period, a drug screen less than 60 days old, and a Class B, CDL Learner's Permit. The Class B training entails six days of training that is arranged prior to class. With a Class B CDL, students can drive cement, gravel, delivery, and refuse trucks, among others.

The Learner's Permit Prep course is a two-day course designed to prepare students for the MVA Class A or B Commercial Driver permit exam. The course includes instruction on general knowledge, air brakes, combinational vehicles, and study and test taking skills. This course is taught through a combination of lecture, discussion, and hands-on activities. It is recommended that students get a CDL Manual at the local MVA office and review prior to the start of class.

For more information on any of the above training programs at Garrett College or to register for an upcoming class, persons are invited to contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Frostburg State University Honors Rohrbaugh With Excellence Award

Frostburg State University recently honored Sandra Rohrbaugh, McHenry, as one of three outstanding employees at its annual fall convention. Lynn Ketterman and Jason "Jay" Howard were also honored with a Staff Award for Excellence. Rohrbaugh is pictured above with FSU president Dr. Ronald Nowaczky.

The annual Staff Awards for Excellence recognize exceptional service to the institution, and recipients are named and chosen by their colleagues. Rohrbaugh, Ketterman, and Howard have a combined 70 years at FSU.

Rohrbaugh is an executive administrative assistant in the president's office and won the award in the nonexempt employee category.

"An employee at FSU for 44 years who has worked for five presidents, she is the friendly face who greets each visitor to the president's office," noted a spokesperson, "ensuring that person feels welcome - whether he or she is an important state representative, a student, or just someone lost in the Hitchins Administrative Building." Rohrbaugh is said to always be busy behind the scenes, knowledgeable, and competent.

"She is completely devoted to FSU and always helpful to new employees learning their way around," the spokesperson said.

Ketterman was recognized in the exempt (salaried) employee category, and Howard was honored in the nonexempt employee/facilities/maintenance category. Award recipients are given a plaque, a certificate commemorating their dedication, and a monetary award. Staff Awards for Excellence are funded by the FSU Foundation's Annual Fund Campaign.

For more information, persons may contact the FSU Office of Human Resources at 301-687-4105.

Boater Charged Following Mishap That Injured One

A Severna Park man was charged by Maryland Natural Resource police (NRP) on Saturday, Aug. 27, with unsafe operation of a personal watercraft on Deep Creek Lake that led to a collision and injury.

Michael Vincent Campbell, 23, received a citation for operating at a speed greater than 6 knots within 100 feet of another vessel. The accident happened at about 10:30 a.m.

A witness said Campbell attempted to turn his rented personal watercraft away from another personal watercraft that was not moving, but crashed into it instead.

The victim, Benjamin Bouma, 24, Millersville, was taken to Garrett Regional Medical Center in Oakland for treatment of a fractured and lacerated left foot. According to the NRP, damage to Bouma's rented personal watercraft was estimated to be $2,430.

Campbell's trial is scheduled for Nov. 10 in Garrett County District Court.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

OXYCONTIN – A MEDICAL TRAGEDY
by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. In a recent column you told how heroin originated. I don't understand why, in the late '90s, so many doctors seemed to think that prescription opioids were safe. Was there some study that said things like OxyContin were safe to use?

A. Opioids have caused America's deadliest drug epidemic: Over 16,000 people die of overdoses annually, more than all illegal drugs combined. The history of all this is described in the 2015 book Dreamland by Sam Quinones. It's a very good read, which presents the parallel paths of black tar heroin coming from Mexico into average American towns, in the same time frame when OxyContin was being freely prescribed. OxyContin became the "gateway" drug into using heroin. That plague is still very much with us.

As for the studies you inquire about, previously, opioids were only given to terminal cancer patients, because of fear about addiction. Doctors had watched a lot of patients die in agonizing pain, and desperately wanted a pain-relieving medicine that was not addictive. In the year 1980, a one-paragraph letter in the New England Journal of Medicine reported that under close supervision, patients in hospitals found pain relief from oxycodone, without becoming addicted. Subsequently, another study of 38 patients was published in 1986, and that initiated a major shift in doctors' use of opioids. The abstract of that paper is at this URL: http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/2873550.

It said, "We conclude that opioid maintenance therapy can be a safe, salutary, and more humane alternative to the options of surgery or no treatment in those patients with intractable non-malignant pain and no history of drug abuse."

Oxycodone is one of many opioids; hydrocodone is another. By coating oxycodone with a time-delaying shell, Purdue Pharma invented a continuous-release version of it, and gave it the brand name OxyContin. Then Purdue began a very aggressive marketing campaign, bringing doctors to conferences at resorts to tell them how great OxyContin was. Extrapolating from the 1980 and 1986 studies, they claimed that because of the slow time-release feature, OxyContin prevented the "high" associated with addictive drugs.

Since all doctors were wishing and hoping for a non-addictive pain reliever, it was fairly easy to make their case. When Purdue Pharma applied for approval to the U.S. Food & Drug Administration (FDA), the assertion of only a 1% addiction rate was very persuasive. They didn't mention that the favorable initial data was for patients in a hospital under supervision.

Believing Purdue's claims, the FDA licensed OxyContin in late 1995, and soon many doctors were routinely prescribing it for pain relief. It took another decade to accumulate a huge body of evidence showing how addictive the opioid medicines are.

As thoroughly explained in Dreamland, a lot of people who got addicted to OxyContin switched to using Mexican black-tar heroin, which was plentiful and comparatively cheap. You could get it as easily as having a pizza delivered. The epidemic spread to suburbia and rural America, far beyond the inner-city ghettos where heroin had long been taken for granted.

How could such a colossal mistake ever have been allowed through the approval process? We think back 50 years to the case of Thalidomide, when an alert and insistent FDA scientist refused to approve it, and thereafter America was spared the tragedy in Europe, where babies were born with no arms or legs.

One FDA scientist, now retired, puts it this way: "I cannot think of a single government agency that has not been compromised either politically or scientifically. With billions of dollars at stake, you can get any answer you want out of these agencies. Any experimental procedure can be constructed to get whatever answer you want. While matters may appear above board, when you dig into the facts, it is obvious the studies are compromised."

Nevertheless, OxyContin did get approved, and countless millions of the pills were prescribed in the years that followed. All sorts of abuses followed. Pill mills were opened, where patients perfunctorily told a doctor they had pain, and in 3 minutes left with a prescription for OxyContin – minus a several-hundred-dollar fee for the doctor visit. Some of those doctors eventually went to jail. In the deteriorating town of Portsmouth, Ohio, OxyContin pills became a form of local currency. Senior citizens who had OxyContin they didn't need could sell the pills for a dollar per milligram (a huge profit) to desperate addicts. It's all detailed in Dreamland.

Years later, Dr. Nathaniel Katz, who was once an advocate of opioids for pain, reflected on how it all came about. In Dreamland, he is quoted, "My instructors told me that when you take opioids for pain you can't become addicted because pain absorbs the euphoria. That was at Harvard Medical School. It was all rubbish, we all know now Why do we listen to those messages? Because we wanted them to be true."

The tendency to find what you want to believe is strong. Regarding the influential 1986 study, 25 years later the author (Dr. Russell Portenoy) said it was incorrect. In 2012, the Wall Street Journal interviewed him: "Did I teach about pain management, specifically about opioid therapy, in a way that reflects misinformation? Well, against the standards of 2012, I guess I did," Portenoy said. "We didn't know then what we know now."

The fundamental flaw in Portenoy's study claiming opioids were safe was that only 38 patients suffering chronic pain were involved (only 12 of them received oxycodone). Of those, 24 were helped, but 14 were not. Those numbers are way too small to carry any significance. Anyone who read the original medical-journal paper might easily have seen that; regrettably, too many people didn't check up, because they wanted to believe the result.

Purdue Pharma succeeded in ballooning up unsubstantiated claims because too few people understand the way numbers and test results can be manipulated. For the deceitful way that Purdue Pharma had promoted OxyContin, they reached a plea-bargaining agreement to avoid jail time and paid a $634 million fine. A pending lawsuit against Purdue by the state of Kentucky asks for a billion dollars in damages. It won't be enough to compensate the families of those who died from overdoses.

There's an old aphorism saying that those who don't learn from history are condemned to repeat it. A century earlier, it took about 25 years for the synthetic pain-killing drug heroin to be taken off the market. Obviously, agencies and institutions are slow to recognize and correct earlier errors in judgment.

What can you do as a patient? More information about the dangers of opioids is readily found on the Internet. Most people are unable to read the medical literature, which means trusting a doctor is inevitable. But this much is possible: Before starting to take any opioid, work out with your doctor a careful plan and schedule for getting off the drug in a finite time. That may involve exercise, diet, or putting up with some degree of pain – but that's better than getting hooked on the drug.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may email them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Trapper Education Class To Be Held At Sportsman's Club

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources will hold a trapper education class on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club, Grantsvile. The class is free.

"Anyone who wishes to trap furbearers under the authority of the furbearer permit must first obtain a Certificate of Trapper Education," a DNR spokesperson said.

Class participants under the age of 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

Preregistration is required by Friday, Sept. 16. A workbook must also be completed prior to the day of the class.

In order to pass this class and obtain the Maryland trapper certification card, participates must do the following:

• Bring the completed Maryland trapper education workbook for the instructor to review,

•Participate in trap handling/field exercises, and

• Pass the written test (50 questions) with a score of at least 70 percent.

"If a participant has any difficulty with reading, testing, or any or aspect in understanding the information in the course, please inform the instructor so that special accommodations may be made to address the situation," the spokesperson said.

Registration is available online at register-ed.com/programs/maryland/91maryland-specialty-hunter-education-courses?.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND
Civil No. 11-C-16-014699
IN THE MATTER OF:
Mia Isabel Gallagher
FOR CHANGE OF NAME TO:
Mia Isabel Gallagher-Wooden
BY AND THROUGH HER MOTHER:
Rox A. Wooden
NOTICE
(Minor)
(DOM REL 65)

The above Petitioner has filed a Petition for Change of Name in which she seeks to change the name of a minor child from Mia Isabel Gallagher to Mia Isabel Gallagher-Wooden. The petitioner is seeking this name change for the child for the following reason: "Birth father's name to be added."

Any person may file an objection to the Petition on or before the 29th day of September 2016. The objection must be supported by an affidavit and served upon the Petitioner in accordance with Maryland Rule 1-321. Failure to file an objection or affidavit within the time allowed may result in a judgment by default or the granting of the relief sought.

A copy of this notice shall be published one time in a newspaper of general circulation in the county at least fifteen (15) days before the deadline to file an objection.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of these proceedings is to terminate the dormant mineral interests underlying all or p/o Military Lots 1322,1323,1328, 1329, 1330, 1379, 1387, 1389 and 1395, located on the south side of George Washington Highway, Election District 8 and more particularly described as follows:

Parcel 1 - From The Amended and Restated Trust Agreement for the Mabel Louise Blamble Revocable Trust, under Agreement dated the 14th day of September, 2001 dated May 8, 2015 and recorded in Liber No. 1870, at page 457 among the Land Records of Garrett County Maryland.

Parcel 2 - From Mabel Louise Blamble dated August 3, 2006 and recorded in Liber 1239, at page 232 among said Land Records.

Parcel 3 - From Holly Huxford dated March 23, 2016 and recorded in Liber 1927, at page 142,among said Land Records.

Parcel 4 - An 8.24 portion of Parcel 3 conveyed by deed dated May 17, 2016 and recorded in Liber 1937, page 416.

The Petition alleges, among other things, that the minerals underlying the parcels were severed by deed dated May 5, 1909, from Davis N. Murphy and Margaret J. Murphy and Riley Murphy and Mary E. Murphy to Charles L. Blamble, recorded in Liber 59 at page 30 among said Land Records.

The Petition goes on to state that all minerals (other than 1] coal as coal was sold at tax sale, and 2] one-half (½) interest in oil and gas as this one-half interest was not reserved) as reserved by Davis N. Murphy and Margaret J. Murphy and Riley Murphy and Mary E. Murphy, are dormant pursuant to the Maryland Dormant Mineral Interests Act.

It is thereupon this 24th day of August, 2016, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED, that Notice be given by Insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for three (3) successive weeks giving notice to the said unknown or missing heirs, or any other persons having or claiming to have any interest in the said mineral estate, who are holders of interest in the Dormant Mineral Interests, of the object and substance of the Petition and warning each of them that a response must be filed no later than October 24, 2016 and that if any should fail to file a timely response, judgment of default may be entered against them and the relief sought may be granted.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY KNOWN AS
NO. 4229 CHESTNUT RIDGE ROAD
GRANTSVILLE, MD 21536
CASE NUMBER 11-C-16-014552

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Merrill T. Bittinger, Tammy A. Bittinger, recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1064, folio 0571, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting Mark S. Devan, Thomas P. Dore, Brian McNair, and Angela Nasuta as Substituted Trustees, the Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse Door-Alder Street Entrance, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, 21550 on Monday, September 12, 2016 at 12:30 PM:

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, as described in the Deed of Trust recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liber 1064, folio 0571, also being further described in a Deed recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1009, folio 0088. The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to any existing building violations, restrictions and agreements of record. The purchaser assumes all risks of loss for the property as of the date of sale. Neither the Substituted Trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representations or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property. The Substituted Trustees shall convey insurable title.

TERMS OF THE SALE: A deposit in a form acceptable to the Substituted Trustee in the amount of $7,000.00 will be required of the purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, at the time and place of sale. Any amount tendered at sale in excess of the required deposit will be refunded and not applied to the purchase price. Unless the purchaser is the Holder of the Note or its assigns, the balance of the purchase price shall be paid immediately with available funds within ten (10) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Time is of the essence. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, shall pay interest at the rate of 6.50000% per annum on the unpaid portion of the purchase price from the date of sale to date of settlement. Real property taxes and assessments shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Ground rent, water and/or sewer charges public or private, if any, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property.

In the event settlement is delayed for any reason , there shall be no abatement of interest. If the purchaser defaults, the entire deposit is forfeited. The Substituted Trustees shall resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, all other charges due, and incidental and consequential damages. Defaulting purchaser also agrees to pay the Substituted Trustees' attorney a fee of $250.00 in connection with the filing of a motion to resell.

In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of the deposit. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney. The Substituted Trustees shall have the right to terminate this contract in the event the Holder or its Servicer has entered into any agreement with, or accepted funds from, the mortgagor. Upon termination of the contract, Purchaser's sole remedy shall be return of the deposit.

Rachel's Challenge Returning To GC Public Schools

For the second year, Garrett County Public Schools is sponsoring a community event titled Rachel's Challenge. The program will be continued at the high schools and added to the middle schools, which will include fifth grade students, as announced by the education board.

Rachel Joy Scott was the first victim in the 1999 Columbine High School massacre. While her life was cut short during the shooting on April 20 that year, her "shining example of kindness and compassion was not defeated that day," a spokesperson said. The program tells the story of the student's legacy of "doing the little things to make the world a better place."

The program will be introduced at assemblies on Monday, Sept. 12, for students in both county middle schools in the morning. Students in grades 7 and 8 will participate in Rachel's Challenge, while fifth and sixth grade students will participate in Rachel's Story.

In the afternoon, Friends of Rachel's (FOR) Clubs will be discussed with students at the middle schools. The high schools will have a similar schedule for students during the day on Tuesday, Sept. 13.

Members of the community are invited to attend an hour-long Rachel's Challenge presentation in the evening of Monday, Sept. 12, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The presentation will be held in the cafeterias of both Northern and Southern middle schools, where representatives of Rachel's Challenge will be on hand to introduce the program.

"The community is invited and encouraged to come together, at either middle school, to be a part of the Rachel's Challenge community and to hear the 'story that changes everything,'" the spokesperson said.

Rachel's Challenge is a nonprofit organization. More information can be found at www rachelschallenge.org. Funding for the program is through the support of the Local Management Board and the Governor's Office for Children.

MLGC Donates Frightened Frog Books To Ruth Enlow Libraries

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club (MLGC), a member of National Garden Clubs Inc., recently made a donation of The Frightened Frog, An Environmental Tale to each of the five branches of the Ruth Enlow Library (Oakland, Accident, Friendsville, Grantsville, and Kitzmiller). Jan Parandamaia, (above left) vice president of the MLGC, presented the books and lesson plans to Cathy Ashby (above right), director of the Ruth Enlow Library.

National president Sandra Robinson put forth her theme, "Leap Into Action" focusing on mason bees, Monarch butterflies, frightened frogs" when she was first installed in 2015. The book incorporates her theme and includes "Fun Frog Facts," a story describing the challenges of being a frog and ways in which children can "leap into action" to help protect, preserve, and support frog and amphibian habitats in their own back yards.

Written by Brenda Moore and Jean Ohlmann and illustrated by Emily Lackey, The Frighten Frog, An Environmental Tale has become one of the National Garden Club's many projects. The story is an early reader book written to educate elementary school children about the environmental issues affecting amphibians. The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club encourages families with young children in Garrett County to visit one of the Ruth Enlow Library facilities to read and discuss The Frightened Frog.

For more information about the National Garden Club Ins or the MLGC, persons may contact Parandamaia at 301-387-3463.

The MLGC is also a member of the Central Atlantic Regional and the Federated Garden Clubs of America Ins. Affiliated clubs provide educational, resource, and national networking opportunities for members, as well as promote gardening, floral design, and civic and environmental responsibility.

Wing Night Set By The Bittinger Fire Department

The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department will have an "All-You-Can-Eat" Wing Night on Saturday, Sept. 17, at the fire hall. Carryouts will be available from 4 to 8 p.m., and dining in will be from 5 to 8 p.m., or until sold out.

The cost is $12 per person for adults, and $6 for children 12 and under. Takeout orders are 75 cents per wing and $2 for fries.

Flavors available are plain, hot, mild, "Big Den's" barbecue, Old Bay, butter and garlic, and ranch Parmesan. Meals include fresh-cut fries, and drinks will be available for purchase.

For takeout orders, persons may call 301-245-4414.

"BRALYMPICS" is the name of a new contest that will be sponsored by the Garrett Regional Medical Center's Cancer Center. The event, a bra slingshot competition that will benefit Cindy's Fund and the American Cancer Society's Making Strides for Breast Cancer, will be held Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Oakland town parking lot and pavilion. The afternoon will consist of various games sponsored by several local businesses, a walk around town, a cake auction, and a memorial service. All attendees are asked to wear "crazy" pink colors, or the cancer color of their choice. The event, which will have activities for the entire family, is being held in conjunction with the observance of October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Testing out a "slingshot" in the photo above, from left, are GRMC staff Gina Artice, cancer nurse navigator; Jeb Broadwater, certified medical assistant; and Dr. Gladys Onojobi, oncologist. More information about Bralympics can be found on the Facebook page of Cindy's Fund or by calling Sandy Bell at 301-334-2682 or the local office of the American Cancer Society at 1-301-722-2145.

4-H Club News

NORTH GLADE
by Mariah Klotz, reporter

The North Glade 4-H Club recently held its monthly meeting at the North Glade 4-H Building in Swanton.

Members were reminded that thank-you cards and letters for buyers and sponsors at the fair should be turned in to the Extension office as soon as possible.

The club would like to extend a thank-you to Nathan and Rachel Sines and Josh and Jolene Custer for their donations of hogs to the club. Ways to use these donations were discussed, as well as the annual food booth fundraiser at the craft show during Autumn Glory.

Members were told about the new Livestock Association fundraiser, the Ag Bash, and tickets were distributed to members who wanted to sell them. The Ag Bash will be held on Saturday, Oct. 7.

Following the meeting, members were given time to work on their record books.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at the club building.

Rescuers To Be Honored At Town Mural Dedication

Firefighters, emergency medical service personnel, police officers, 9-1-1 dispatchers, and others involved in rescue work will be honored in a special ceremony in Oakland on Sunday, Sept. 25. A new mural celebrating emergency workers will be dedicated in the ceremony, which will be at 1 p.m. at the Oakland town hall, located along Third Street, near Center Street.

The mural, created by graphic artist Mark Stutzman, recognizes the sacrifices made by those who work to help others, and celebrates their heroism, compassion, and caring.

There will be a number of family activities throughout the afternoon, with booths, demonstrations, public safety vehicles on exhibit, and other events.

The reading of letters will be included in the dedication service from those who have benefited from public servants. People may submit thank-you letters to rescue personnel by sending them to Michelle Ross, Main Street manager, at 15 South Third Street, Oakland, or by email to mainstreetgoba@gmail com.

After the ceremony, all letters will be remitted to the individual departments.

This ceremony is being sponsored by town of Oakland, the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, and the Garrett County Arts Council.

Bloomington Days Scheduled For This Weekend

The annual Bloomington Days, sponsored by the Bloomington Awareness Group, will be held this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Sept. 16–18, with the following activities slated:

Friday – Bounce house, cornhole tournament, music, and food at the former school grounds, beginning at 6 p.m.

Saturday – Townwide yard sales beginning at 8 a.m. Free set-up available at former school grounds. Participants should bring their own tables. Hot dogs, chili dogs, chicken noodle soup, nachos, and various baked goods availabe for purchase at the fire hall, starting at 10 a.m.

Sunday – Church service at Bloomington United Methodist Church at 11 a.m. Community picnic at the fire hall, beginning at 1 p.m., to which persons are asked to bring a covered dish and dessert (meat provided). There will be a 50/50 raffle held.

THAT IS ONE BIG KITTY – This bobcat found its way in front of the game camera of George Scheffel Sr. recently, on his hunting camp property near Meadow Mountain. Bobcats have always shared the mountaintop with the other wildlife, but are rarely seen, and certainly rarely captured on camera. Though the bobcat prefers rabbits and hares, it will hunt anything from insects, chickens, geese and other birds, small rodents, and deer. Prey selection depends on location and habitat, season, and abundance. Like most cats, the bobcat is territorial and largely solitary. It breeds from winter into spring and has a gestation period of about two months. Bobcats have been hunted extensively by humans, both for sport and fur. Their population has proven resilient, but is declining in some areas. The elusive predator is often featured in Native American mythology and the folklore of European settlers, including some stories by early county settler Meshach Browning himself.

DCL Cove Property Owners Convene To Discuss Concerns About Sediment

Members of Alliance of Citizens for Environmental Action and Restoration of Deep Creek Lake (A CLEAR DCL), a group of homeowner associations, neighborhood groups, and residential and businesses owners in the sediment-impaired coves of the lake, gathered at the Yacht Club at Deer Haven on Saturday to hear reports on recent events relating to these coves, and then develop a work plan for the coming months.

Richard Matlick from Green Glade Cove and head of Green Glade Guardians welcomed attendees.

Associations and individuals in these 10 coves, plus Blakeslee Cove, recently hired a consulting firm to conduct water sampling in these impaired areas. While Maryland Department of Natural Resources officials have been conducting water-quality sampling at the lake since 2009, the agency has focused on the lake's main channels and has never sampled in these coves, according to Matlick.

He noted that residents have become increasingly concerned about water quality and turbidity, and wonder whether the lake off their docks is safe for swimming.

CLEAR members decided they would raise funds to hire a professional water-quality contractor to undertake this sample.

"We were amazed by the response with a commitment of funds provided by individuals and associations in all 10 coves," Matlick said.

Kendra Hatcher from Downstream Strategies took samples from all 10 sediment-impaired coves and the cove at Blakeslee, as well as two main-channel sites. The results from this sampling, done Sept. 6, will be released early next month.

In a discussion about sediment and turbidity in the lake, Barbara Beelar, director of Friends of Deep Creek Lake (FoDCL), said, "Sediment comes into the lake from the tributaries, storm-water runoff, and shoreline erosion, plus from the decay of vegetative debris. There is more sediment in the south end of the lake because the soils there are finer and more likely to be carried into the lake. But sediment is not just dirt. Attached to it are pollutants and nutrients, and it does not just settle and stay on the bottom of the lake. Wind and waves move the sediment around, leading to depositions on shorelines, downwind.

"The real problem at DCL are the boat wakes, which act like a big blender, stirring up and suspending the sediment and pollutants into the water column," she continued.

Miss Maryland To Participate In Festival's Grand Feature Parade

Miss Maryland 2016 Hannah Brewer will participate in the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, slated for Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. in Oakland. Her appearance is sponsored by Gregg's Pharmacy.

The 19-year-old title holder lives in Manchester and is a sophomore at Carroll Community College, majoring in business administration. She also works full time as a print model for Click Models of Philadelphia Inc.

Miss Maryland plans to use her education to work with nonprofit organizations, including one she started when she was just 15. What began with her making and donating fleece blankets to comfort soldiers, resulted in Hannah's Heroes, a 501(c)(3) organization that provides emotional support and organized giving to active military members, veterans, and their families.

Since 2013, Hannah's Heroes and its volunteers have provided over 5,000 home-

GC Commissioners To Hold Meeting At Pleasant Valley Ctr.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will hold its next public meeting next Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 6 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

The agenda will include adoption of an agreement between Garrett County government and the Maryland Clean Energy Center (MD-PACE). Time will also be set aside for public commentary.

The commissioners' next public session will be held on Monday, Oct. 3, at 4 p.m. in their meeting room at the courthouse in Oakland.

Requests to be on the agenda must be made with Carol Riley-Alexander, executive assistant to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, by 1 p.m. one week prior to public meeting day.

Commissioners Adopt Countywide EMS Plan, Establish Company 11

The Garrett County commissioners issued a press release on Tuesday about their recently approved "county-wide approach" to providing emergency medical services and the creation of county government's Company 11.

"The Board of Garrett County Commissioners is committed to providing the highest level of emergency medical services available and has authorized the Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management to implement a plan for the county to provide emergency medical services to supplement the volunteer rescue squads," the release stated.

The intent of the plan is to supplement volunteer staffing, while encouraging continued volunteer support, and to ensure that citizens of and visitors to the county continue to receive the best emergency care possible.

The commissioners noted that as with many volunteer organizations, it is becoming more difficult for the local rescue squads to recruit and retain volunteer personnel because of the demands of becoming certified as an emergency medical technician (EMT) or paramedic.

Garrett County Emergency Services, therefore, has begun operation as Company 11, Medic 951, and Chase 11, and will be dispatched for all calls within the McHenry first-due service area and provide back-up to the entire county. The operations will be housed, on a temporary basis, at the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company.

Company 11 will be staffed 24-hours a day, seven days a week by county-career emergency services personnel. The staff will operate an ambulance and chase vehicle out of the DCVFC and provide first-due coverage to the McHenry service area, as well as backup to the rest of the county.

The commissioners said that the county will also continue to provide county-career emergency medical personnel to assist volunteers with the Northern and Southern Garrett rescue squads.

In 2006, the Garrett County Emergency Services

AMONG THE MANY COMPETITORS in the annual SavageMan Triathlon, which will be held Sunday beginning and ending at Deep Creek Lake State Park, will be Hector Picard of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The SavageMan is considered the world's most challenging half-Ironman course, and making it considerably more of a challenge for Picard is the fact that he is a double-amputee as a result of a work-related accident over two decades ago. Because he has never allowed his handicap to get in the way of great accomplishments, Picard is also an internationally known motivational speaker. He also started and financially supports a foundation that provides funding to the Broward Children's Center in Florida. See feature article in the sports section.

DPW-U Reports On Sewage Spill At Deep Creek

The Garrett County Department of Public Works – Utilities Division (DPW-U) has reported that a sewer line leakage occurred at Deep Creek Lake on Sunday morning. DPW-U issued the following information about the incident:

Upon receiving notification, maintenance staff members arrived at 2518 Mayhew Inn Road at approximately at 10:45 a.m. They observed sewage surfacing on the property and running downgrade along a roadside ditch and into an adjacent stream. From there, the sewage went through a culvert between 2518 and 2560 Mayhew Inn Road and into Deep Creek Lake.

It was determined that the leak originated from the 1½-inch lateral line that serves 2518 Mayhew Inn Road. At approximately 11 a.m., the road valve for the service lateral was located and shut off, which stopped the leak and allowed for the repairs. At approximately 3 p.m., DPW-U personnel completed repairs to the line and returned the system to service.

Based on the approximate rate of the spill, it was estimated the overflow volume was 1,860 gallons.

At approximately 11:20 a.m., DPW-U personnel contacted the Garrett County Health Department. The Maryland Department of Natural Resource's lake management office was informed of the sewer overflow at approximately 1:10 p.m.

At the same time, DPW-U personnel began sampling

Theatre Visionary, Former Teacher Jane Avery Dies; Leaves Rich Legacy

by Mary Sincell McEwen

"She was a wonderful teacher who always made you want to do more, see more, be more." – Holly Foster.

"I am crushed. My first drama teacher who inspired a life-long passion..." – Nancy Finley.

"I don't know of many others who devoted so much love and commitment to making Garrett County a better place to live. Her dedication to the youth of our county made them better people for having known her. She will be greatly missed by all." – Dana Shimrock.

"It is hard to fathom the countless lives that have been transformed because of Jane Avery." – Beth Shoulberg.

"I loved her stories. She was my friend." – Steve Viar.

"I remember when she called me about this little building she thought would make the perfect theatre... and she made her vision come true. Rest in peace, Jane. You did good." – Susan Rushing Bell.

And the tributes posted on Facebook continue, probably numbering 1,000 by now, for the late Jane B. Avery, who died last Thursday, Sept. 8. She had gone for a swim in Deep Creek Lake near her home along South Shore Road off Harvey's Peninsula. When she didn't make an expected phone call, neighbors went to check on her and found that she had apparently drowned. The Natural Resources Police responded to the scene, and an autopsy was completed, confirming that initial speculation.

At 68 years old, she left behind a full life, with few family members but a multitude of former students, theatre fans, and devoted friends forced to say a premature goodbye.

A longtime teacher in Garrett County Public Schools, Avery's passion was in the theatrical arts and English. She came to Garrett County as a college graduate, having grown up in Pittsburgh but earned her teaching degree at the former Tarkio College in Missouri. Her affinity for the county was born of her childhood days at the lake, where her father, Clarence Bement Avery, built a cabin for Jane, her mom Mary Louise, and her brother Charles. The family spent much of the summer seasons on the mountaintop, and Jane loved it.

She landed her first job in Oakland, teaching kindergarten at the former Oak Street School in 1970, and then moved on to Southern High School in 1973. She taught English and theatre classes there until her 2002 retirement, creating a legacy of high-quality theatre productions, leading challenging English classes in which students who earned A-grades felt accomplished, and leading in-school theatre and activist groups such as the Jane Gang. She was a charismatic and attentive teacher, offering her shoulder to students who needed to lean awhile, and giving safe haven to those who hadn't yet found a comfortable niche, as many comments on the Facebook tribute page noted:

"Miss Jane was a huge influence in my life. I was an introverted high school kid with no confidence and full of fear. She created an opportunity for me to take the stage, and possibility became present in my life." – Christine Savage.

"Miss Jane has been one of the most caring and influential people in my life. I would not be the person I am today without her boundless charity and second chances." – Tim Filemyr.

"She brought a shy young girl out of her shell and helped her to fit in with her classmates." – Teresa Dewitt.

One of Avery's earliest engagements with local community theatre endeavors was in 1976, when Nancy K. Learey and Polly Hanst, among many others, put together a bicentennial pageant. Jane took part in the direction of certain segments of that variety show, and began to make connections with others interested in producing more shows. She began to collaborate with Learey and a new group of singers, the Garrett Choral Society. Together, during the late 1970s and 1980s, the women recruited actors, singers, set builders, and publicity volunteers – many with little experience – to present such shows as Fiddler on the Roof, South Pacific, HMS Pinafore, and Oliver.

Jane began to direct more on her own in the 1990s, regularly collaborating with Ben Sincell, then a theatre professor at Garrett College and a set and lighting designer. They and a core of regular actors staged Man of La Mancha in 1991, Charlie's Aunt in 1992, The Foreigner in '95, and the three-person cast Voice of the Prairie, with Richard Hill, Susan Bell, and Andrew Wildesen in 1996. These shows were staged at one of the following facilities: Garrett College, Southern High School, or Southern Middle School.

But Jane had a dream to have her own theatre. And in 1997, she was able to make

Interactive Historical Tour Project Coming To Fruition In Friendsville

The town of Friendsville is embarking on an innovative journey with a goal of capturing its history and providing entertaining ways to share that history with the public.

Thanks to funding from the Maryland Heritage Areas, the Garrett County commissioners, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Friendsville mayor and town council, this unique concept will feature not only local historical markers placed throughout the town, but will also focus on capturing and preserving the stories of its elders and residents on video.

According to project designer and consultant Crede Calhoun, a resident of Friendsville who is also a professional photographer and outdoor guide, the project will blend traditional walking tour components with photos, videos, sounds, and stories on a directly linked website.

"Our history will 'come alive,'" Calhoun said. "Every physical marker will have an image and text. In addition, each will also have a tiny URL that can be entered and a QCR code that can be scanned into any smart phone, which will automatically open a web browser and transport the viewer to a web page that will feature a story or collection of stories."

Calhoun said that the project was brought to light when he and his wife Carol realized that many of the elders of the town had died, and that the town was in danger of losing important pieces of oral history with every passing year.

"The idea to capture the stories on video then quickly transformed into the development of the interactive walking tour with a website as a way to share and preserve the memories forever," Calhoun said. "It will be a fun learning experience for history buffs and families."

He added that the project will also afford for participants the opportunity to discover the many things Friendsville has to offer while also getting some excercise.

As the oldest settlement in Garrett County, Calhoun noted that Friendsville has a rich history, including interaction with Native Americans, the Shawnee, who used the site of the town (known then as "the hunter's bowl") as a summer encampment.

Some of Friendsville's residents claim a direct blood connection to the Shawnee, and much of this is documented in the 1967 book Indian Blood by Evelyn Guard Olsen.

"It is our hope that this will be a very positive feature of the town, and we are now looking for stories that can be featured, including whitewater history and what life was like before I-68 was constructed," Calhoun said.

"We are looking for not only personal, firsthand stories, but also the stories told by relatives who may have already passed on," he continued. "Oral histories are not just about our memories, but the memories and retelling of stories told to us. Families may even have old tapes or movies or interesting artifacts with a story to tell.

"This is a town project, and we want people to get involved and see this as a great opportunity to honor and preserve Friendsville's history."

He said that they are also looking for historical photos that may be lurking in family photo albums and have yet to be scanned and archived.

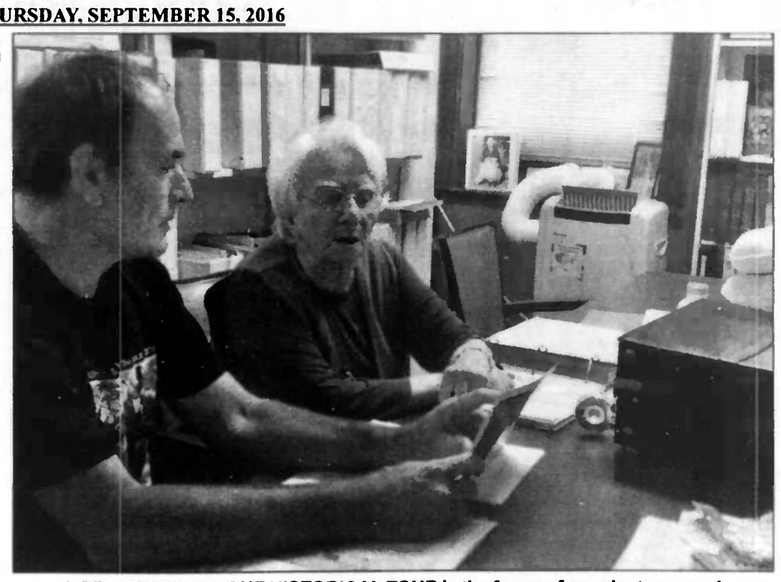
"No story relating to our town's past will be too trivial to record, and especially short stories that recollect town life, people and places long gone, or even stories or demonstrations of how or where something was done in the old days," Calhoun said. "We are trying to capture capsules of various times in the town's life, so it's pretty wide open for subject matter."

The tour website will also be connected to the town's visitfriendsville.org website, so viewers will be able to take the tour virtually as well from any computer or smart phone. Web surfers will be able to click on a marker shown on a map page and view the associated page's content and video story.

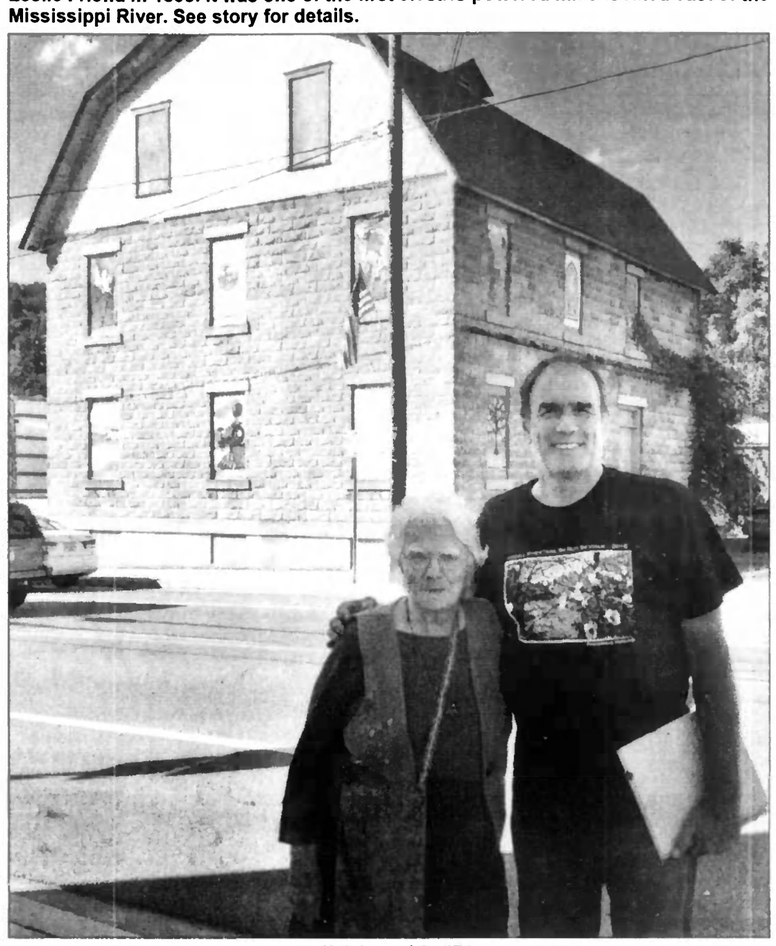
"The tour will be open for participation online 24/7, and it is expected that online visits will entice people to then our town in person," said Calhoun.

"The idea for a historical walking tour has been around for a long time," said Ina Hicks, curator of the Friend Family Heritage Museum, "and it is exciting for me to see that it is going to happen. I am glad to see that the stories will be actively pursued and presented in an accessible, educational, and fun way. Plus, saving all this information on the Internet will help protect it for future generations."

Hicks and other volunteers will function as the museum liaisons for the project.



A RELATIVELY UNIQUE HISTORICAL TOUR is the focus of a project now underway in the town of Friendsville, led by Crede Calhoun and with support from the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council. According to Calhoun, the project will blend traditional walking tour components, such as historical markers, with photos, videos, sounds, and stories on a directly linked website. Among those assisting with the project is Ina Hicks, curator of the Friend Family Heritage Museum in Friendsville, who is pictured above with Calhoun doing some brainstorming and looking through museum files for information on locations, people, and storytelling possibilities. The two are pictured below in front of another of the town's historic sites, the Unique Flour Mill, built by Leslie Friend in 1895. It was one of the first electric-powered mills located east of the Mississippi River. See story for details.



Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle is the project overseer and, according to Calhoun, has helped the project move from proposalto funding.

"This is going to be such a great addition to our town's ever increasing drawing cards," the mayor said. "Much of the town's traffic is centered around the riverfront, and this will be a great way for folks to circulate around other parts of town somewhat off the beaten path, where they will discover stores and businesses, and features like the community park and Kendall Trail. Once folks experience our charming and quaint little town, we know they will come back."

Participation in the project is wide open to the public, according to Calhoun, who said that video recording sessions will be scheduled throughout the remainder of this year, with the tour and website slated to open next June.

"We want to make participation easy and fun, and stories from families who live outside the town are invited as well," he said. "Please get your family members involved before these precious memories are lost forever."

To get involved, submit a story, ask questions, and stay up to date on the progress of this project, persons are invited to send an email to friendsvilletour@visitfriendsville.org or call Friendsville Town Hall at 301-746-5919.

Various Guns Stolen From G'ville Home

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating the theft of several firearms from a Grantsville home this past weekend.

Sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., unknown suspect(s) burglarized the home at the 2400 block of Frank Brenneman Road. Numerous guns were allegedly stolen. Possible suspect vehicles include a red SUV and a two-toned red/orange SUV.

Anyone with information concerning this crime or others is asked to contact the GCSO at 301-334-1911 or online at www.garrettcountycrimesolvers.org. Tipsters may remain anonymous

Oakland Man Arrested On Two Assault Charges

An Oakland man was arrested on assault charges Sunday afternoon after Maryland State Police responded to a residence off Bray School Road.

Investigation revealed that an argument had taken place between Roy Norman Cheshire Jr., 36, and another adult male. The incident resulted in Cheshire striking the victim with his vehicle. The victim was transported to Garrett Regional Medical Center for treatment of his injuries. Cheshire was taken into custody by MSP troopers a short time later at his residence.

He is charged with first- and second-degree assault and was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing. He was released the following day.

Woman Faces Prostitution, Sex Offense Charges

An Oakland woman was arrested on sex offense charges Sunday and is currently incarcerated at the Garrett County Jail on $5,000 bond.

Haley Marie Jones, 20, was taken into custody on prostitution and third-degree sex offense charges. She was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on a warrant that stemmed from an investigation conducted by the Criminal Investigation Division. Jones reportedly solicited another individual for sex on Aug. 1 of this year.

MSP Troopers Notify Residents Of Phone Scam

Maryland State Police have received information concerning a recent phone scam in the local area. Suspect(s) have been calling local businesses requesting donations for The Trooper, the Maryland Trooper's Association magazine.

Residents are advised to not give out any personal information, send emails corresponding with MSP logos, or make any donations over the phone. These calls are not being made on behalf on The Trooper or the Maryland Trooper's Association.

Residents are asked to notify the MSP McHenry Barrack at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101 if they receive any such calls.

Woman Charged With Burglary, Theft, Forgery

Garrett County sheriff's deputies with the Criminal Investigation Division arrested an Oakland woman on burglary and multiple theft and forgery charges Saturday.

Jennie Rebecca Hesson, 39, was taken into custody following a month-long investigation by deputies. She is accused of burglarizing a Garrett County home on July 15 of this year and stealing checks that were later forged and cashed.

Hesson is charged with first-degree burglary, three counts of forgery of private documents, three counts of issuing false documents, four counts of theft of less than $100, and theft scheme of less than $1,000. She is currently being held at the Garrett County Jail on $5,000 bond.

GCSO Seeking Info On Theft In Kitzmiller

Garrett County sheriff's deputies are seeking leads on the theft of a camera and tablet from the Kitzmiller area. The incident was reported Monday at approximately 9:30 p.m.

A purple Nikon camera and Galaxy tablet with a tan case was reportedly taken from a Carl Harvey Road home. Anyone with information concerning this crime or others is asked to contact the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911 or online at www.garrettcountycrimesolvers.org. Tipsters may remain anonymous.

MSP Barrack Participating In Food Collection

The Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack has been designated a drop-off location for donations of nonperishable food items to recognize September as Hunger Action Month.

Residents across the state of Maryland will have the opportunity to donate 24 hours a day, 7 days a week until Sept. 28. Those items collected will be transported to the Western Maryland Food Bank in Cumberland and will provide meals to citizens in need in both Garrett and Allegany counties.

Members of the MSP McHenry Barrack will also be conducting a separate event named "Stuff-a-truck" on Wednesday, Sept. 21, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Oakland Walmart, 13164 Garrett Highway, Oakland. Items collected from that event will be transported to the Western Maryland Food Bank in Hagerstown.

CCC VET PRESENTS PROGRAM AT NEW GERMANY – Walter Atwood, 93, a veteran of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), led a discussion at New Germany State Park's Lake House on Labor Day about the significance of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's New Deal program that put more than three million jobless Americans ages 17 to 25 to work between 1933 and 1942. Atwood, who once served as president of the CCC veterans, is pictured above with New Germany State Park manager Erin Thomas. Below is one of the photographs that Atwood brought with him, showing two well-known actors who were also CCC vets. The 1962 photo of Robert Bray, left, and Raymond Burr was taken during the filming of an episode of the long-running television series Perry Mason. Burr was the star of that show, while Bray is probably best known for his character as forest ranger Corey Stuart in the also long-running TV series Lassie. See story.

CCC Veteran Visits Garrett County, Gives Presentation At New Germany

by Lenonard Shindel

Walter Atwood, 93, a distinguished veteran of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), arrived at New Germany State Park's Lake House on Labor Day to discuss the significance of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's New Deal program that put more than three million jobless Americans, ages 17 to 25. to work between 1933 and 1942.

Flanked by mural-sized pictures of CCC volunteers in action, Atwood, a son of Kansas farmers, told those in attendance, "It was a lifetime experience. We were paid $30 a month, but $25 went back to our parents, who spent the money in their towns, helping communities survive the Great Depression. And we learned discipline and leadership."

Working under the direction of local experienced men (LEMs), CCC recruits erected dams and telephone lines, planted trees, blazed trails, and built cabins and walls in park lands, including Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, and New Germany.

Leaving Kansas in 1940, Atwood, then 17, traveled on a troop train to Basin, Wyo., where he worked as a clerk-typist. He was later sent to an Idaho forest camp where he continued office work, but stayed on call to fight forest fires.

"It was my first time away from home. I came from Kansas. I had never heard of forest fires," said Atwood. "The [Army personnel] who directed the CCC purposely sent us far from home so we wouldn't run away when we got homesick."

After his CCC service was completed, Atwood got a job at a Boeing Aircraft plant in Wichita, Kan., then joined the U.S. Air Force, serving in the South Pacific during World War II. When the war ended, he went on to a career as a polygraph examiner at the National Security Agency for 25 years and director of polygraph at the Pentagon. He once served as president of the CCC veterans, a group that held reunions numbering in the thousands, but has since disbanded, as more and more of the agency's veterans have passed on.

Preparing citizens for service to the nation in war and civilian life was one of the prime accomplishments of the CCC, said Michael Schultz, PhD, a former Pennsylvania history professor who has been researching the CCC for more than 35 years. He and his colleague, Edward Slagle, accompanied Atwood to the Lake House presentation.

An unintended consequence of the CCC's creation, said Schultz, was its contribution to winning World War II. Although national and state agencies established the work programs, the U.S. Army organized and ran the CCC camps in quasi-military fashion. It is estimated that at least 1.7 million CCC men went into the military during the war. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur, George Patton, and other prominent generals had experience in the CCC.

"The CCC inculcated love of country, fierce loyalty, and discipline," said Schultz. Forty CCC veterans were awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. Schultz said that Gen. Mark Clark, commander of the 5th Army in Italy, argued, "The war would not have been won had it not been for the great influence of the CCC."

Schultz, 85, said the first priority of the CCC was to take unemployed youth off the streets.

"The young men were hopelessly unemployed and represented a potential revolutionary force," he said. "The basic idea was to get them into some gainful employment, that is, restoring the nation's woefully mistreated environment. And the CCC saved our environment."

Schultz has produced a 65-minute video on the agency titled "The Peaceful Revolution." The DVD is available from the Lumber Heritage Region of Pennsylvania.

Among those attending the Labor Day discussion was Grantsville resident Joe Stevens, who retired 16 years ago after 27 years as the ranger at New Germany. During his tenure, Stevens sayidhe met between 50 and 60 CCC veterans who returned to western Maryland – many from Baltimore – to see the products of their labor. Several had come back to western Maryland after leaving the CCC to marry local girls they met during their service.

"They were rather proud of their CCC service. It changed their lives," said Stevens. "But the most prevalent comment I heard from them was that if it weren't for the CCC, they might have ended up in prison for stealing to support their families in those hard times."

Nearly every construction project completed by the CCC at New Germany is still intact, Stevens said. Numerous bridges over Big Run and streams leading to the Savage River are still solid, made of cut stone without mortar. New Germany's recreation hall, cabins, and pavilions are in use. Just off one of the park's hiking trails, said Stevens, is a CCC dynamite-storage building with thick walls insulated by sawdust. For many years, the CCC enlistees' mess hall was used as the park's workshop.

Two underground cement reservoirs holding 10,000 gallons of water are functional. About 20 years ago, the state had a tentative plan to replace them with above-ground towers, but was convinced to repair them instead – convinced of the good sense of those who designed them to withstand the bitter cold of western Maryland.

The Maryland Historical Society estimates that more than 30,000 CCC recruits worked in 21 camps in the state, most of them in western Maryland. The society has archived oral histories conducted with CCC workers who were assigned to camps in Deer Park (Potomac State Forest), Little Orleans in Oakland, New Germany, Savage River, and Swallows Falls.

Like the veterans who said the program kept them out of trouble with the law, Atwood said the CCC was about economic necessity.

"I remember a drought in Kansas," he said. "We didn't have an electric pump and it took three men to lift water out of the well. Three times a day, I carried 15 55-gallon barrels to feed our horses and cattle. It was good for me to leave the farm and find steady work with the CCC, making money to send back home to my family."

Dr. A. Feathers Is Honored By CooperSurgical

Local physician Abigail T. Feathers, MD, has been presented with the Endosee SpotLight Award by CooperSurgical for demonstrating innovation and the use of best practices, as evidenced in a case submission. Dr. Feathers' case submission has been added to an Endosee Case Study library and featured on www.endosee.com and www.coopersurgical.com.

Award-winning cases featured on the library are judged to be of "great clinical interest, diagnostically challenging, and of strong educational value, and can be available to other medical professionals from which to learn."

A board-certified medical/surgical gynecologist, Feathers practices at the Specialty Physicians of Garrett County located at 880 Memorial Drive, Lower Level, in Oakland. The practice is an affiliate of Garrett Regional Medical Center.

"I was so pleased to hear that Abigail Feathers has received this award and has been recognized for her surgical skills," said Mark Boucot, GRMC president and CEO. "Dr. Feathers has been a great addition to the medical community."

Prior to relocation to Garrett County, Dr. Feathers worked at Langley Air Force Base in Hampton, Va., fulfilling a military commitment to the U.S. Air Force. During her residency, she was recognized with multiple Academic Excellence Awards, and received the Outstanding Chief Resident in Gynecologic Oncology Award.

"I am happy to have received the Endosee SpotLight Award," Dr. Feathers said. "As physicians, we always try hard to do the best for our patients, even when our efforts are not being measured, so it's great when a particular case is honored. However, the biggest reward of all is in knowing that we deliver the best quality care possible to all of our patients."

One Has to Wonder... (Not)

By the time this paper comes out next week, the summer of 2016 will technically be over, and it has been a fantastic one for enjoying our great outdoors, at least from a weather-condition standpoint. It has been perhaps the warmest on record, albeit a bit on the dry side, but one that has attracted many tourists; old timers as well as newcomers to the county.

The annual SavageMan Triathlon is on the slate for this weekend, which will result in yet another significant influx of people from all over, and even outside of, the United States. This will afford another opportunity for us locals to be gracious, courteous hosts to all of these visitors, exposing them to all that Garrett County has to offer and welcoming the additional dollars they will spend at our local businesses.

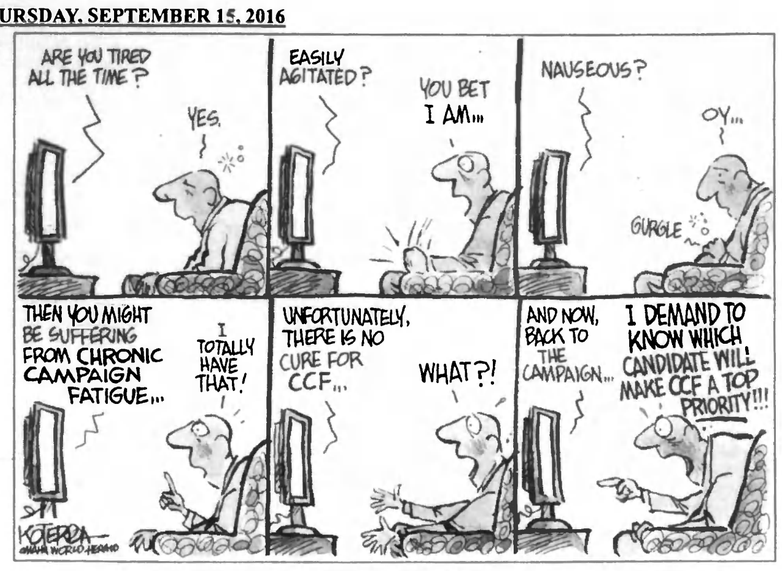
Then in just a month we will host our annual Autumn Glory Festival, for which thousands more visitors and former residents will pour into the county for over three days of fun and festivities, also generating needed income not only for local businesses, but also for a wide variety of worthy charitable causes, programs, and organizations.

In addition, just in the past week or so at least two international websites have listed Oakland/Deep Creek Lake/Garrett County among a tiny handful of places throughout the country that persons are encouraged to visit, primarily because of our county's incredible beauty, not only during the fall months, but year-round.

Soon afterward will come the winter snows, creating yet more opportunities and reasons for people from outside the county to come here to the mountaintop to enjoy the slopes of the Wisp, the cross-country trails of our parks, the ice fishing on Deep Creek Lake, and snowmobile adventures.

Yes, we continue to be among the most elite destination points not only in Maryland, not only in the East, but in the country. We who have lived here all our lives tend to take so much for granted, thereby failing to appreciate all that we have here on the quality-of-life list.

With all of that now said (okay, written), one really has to wonder why in the world anyone who resides here would want to put all of the above at serious risk by allowing hydraulic fracturing of natural gas to come into Garrett County. Well, actually, we all – those opposed to fracking and those favoring it – know exactly why.



Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous. All letters must be type written or submitted via e-mail.

To the Editor:

It's laudable that The Republican spoke out in support of Colin Kaepernick's (as well as all of ours) constitutional right to free speech. In our age of political correctness it seems like it is a right in dwindling supply.

I hope that The Republican would also agree that it is everyone's right to question Kaepernick's motives if they feel so moved, and that visiting North Korea is not a prerequisite for doing so.

The Republican's editorial alludes to the alleged overreaction to Kaepernick's protest, yet it fails to point out that the same progressive press The Republican is a proud member of has gone out of its way to document in great detail every time a player has followed in Kaepernick's footsteps, amplifying the issue even more.

In fact, I did a Google search after last Thursday's Panthers-Broncos game. I was directed to more stories about and photos of a Denver player who sat out the anthem than to the actual game story. Who is overreacting there? I think it is important to fully consider the context of this story.

The NFL wraps itself in the American flag, in part to promote its own brand, and it also receives millions of dollars from our armed services in advertising fees. Why is it odd to discover that fans after seeing this are puzzled when the NFL supports a player disrespecting our national anthem, during a game no less?

Why didn't your editorial direct arrows at the same NFL that denied the Dallas Cowboys' request to add a decal to the team's helmets to honor the five innocent Dallas police officers shot to death in cold blood this past summer? The league claimed it was not consistent with its uniform policy.

Is it OK for the NFL to support the right of random players who choose to express their political beliefs while at same time deny an entire team that same right by not letting it honor slain police officers in its own community?

I believe in free speech too, no matter how distasteful any speech or expression may be, but when that right is selectively granted to one person or to one group over another due to the message involved or for any other reason, we are creating a very slippery slope that every protector of the First Amendment should be alarmed about.

Sincerely,
Rob Paine
Fairfax, Va.

Dear Mr. Paine:

Since you asked some direct questions of me, I will respond.

I did not know about the NFL's denial of players request to add decals to their helmets; however, that to me is an altogether different issue. The team/league must maintain the right to determine the uniform – and every element of that uniform – that is to be worn by the players (note the word "uniform"). The players should not, in my opinion, have the right to decide for themselves what changes they wish to make to that uniform, regardless of the circumstances. They are employees of a team, and if there is a uniform to be worn in a particular profession, the employer has the right to determine exactly what that uniform should be. It really has nothing to do with the First Amendment.

If the team/league allowed the players to wear the aforementioned decal, what might be the next uniform change that the players decide they want to make? What other messages/statements would they decide they wanted to add to their helmets, or their jerseys? Talk about distractions from the game!

A similar example would be the uniform requirement that some schools have for their students. Those school officials do not allow students to make whatever changes they want to the school uniform. Allowing such would be directly counter to the purpose of having students wear the uniform in the first place.

Employers or school officials maintaining their right to decide what a team's/school's uniform will be is not equivalent to a suppression of the freedom of expression by players/students.

And to confirm one thing you note in your second paragraph, I do absolutely agree with you that every citizen has the right to question Kaepernick's motives, and further, they have to right to personally condemn his actions if they so choose.

To the Editor:

Two weeks ago members of the Maryland General Assembly House Committee on Environment and Transportation traveled to "almost Maryland," leaving their homes in the Chesapeake Bay watershed, crossing over the Eastern Continental Divide to visit our small corner of Maryland in the Youghiogheny watershed. They came to hear what local citizens think about fracking, because these legislators recognize that we are the ones who will be directly impacted if fracking is permitted in Maryland.

For those who missed these meetings, I can only say I wish you had been there, joining over 400 of your neighbors and friends. A question: Has there ever been a comparable event here in Garrett County – an open public hearing hosted by members of the General Assembly?

Like others who were there, I was so impressed by the demeanor of the delegates, the respectful tone, and clear desire to hear us, as demonstrated by the committee chair Delegate Kumar Barve and the other 13 delegates and staff. During the working sessions for those supporting fracking and those against fracking, or having concerns, the members asked lots of questions of the presenters. And the marathon session that evening lasted almost 4 hours, allowing those who wanted to speak to do so.

This process felt like a true exercise in democracy – our representatives wanting to hear what we think, respecting our voices and perspectives and ongoing asking of questions so they could be guided by us.

I ended up feeling like I live in Maryland, and proud to have such an outstanding group of representatives concerned about what I think and my community's concerns.

The one downside was that only 400-plus folks had the opportunity to share in this process, which must be an ongoing one in which others are encouraged to voice their opinions and we are challenged to listen to each other and show respect, modeled by the delegates.

Dear editor, is there a way for this newspaper to support continuing voicing, going beyond the letters to the editor and the handful of us who regularly appear here? It is September. Sometime this winter a decision will be made in Annapolis which will truly change the history of our corner of Maryland and directly impact our lives. Please find a way to encourage and challenge those who did not attend the hearing, who chose not to speak, to share their voices in your paper.

To the Editor:

This summer we celebrated the Fresh Air Fund's 140th summer of serving children from New York City's low-income communities. I would like to take this opportunity to extend my gratitude to our extraordinary Fresh Air volunteers, hosts, and supporters in western Maryland for their dedication and commitment.

Fresh Air host families open their hearts and homes, and share the everyday joys of summertime with their Fresh Air friends. I am inspired by the commitment of our local volunteer leaders, many of whom are also hosts. They volunteer to interview prospective host families, help recruit new families, and plan special activities. I would also like to thank the individuals and local businesses who so generously give their time and resources to make the Fresh Air Fund's Friendly Towns Program throughout western Maryland a great success each year.

Since 1877, the Fresh Air Fund has provided free summer experiences to more than 1.8 million New York City children from low-income communities. Each year, nearly 7,000 children enjoy outdoor summer adventures through visits with volunteer host families along the East Coast and southern Canada, and at the fund's five overnight camps in Fishkill, N.Y. Fresh Air children also participate in year-round leadership and educational programs.

Please contact Linda Mellon at 301-707-7053 or visit www.freshair.org to learn more about hosting a child through the Fresh Air Fund.

Sincerely,
Fatima Shama
Executive Director
The Fresh Air Fund

Adopt Plan

SWOT Task Force (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, Threats), in conjunction with the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, reviewed the emergency medical services system in the county. This report and a follow-up study completed in April 2015 made several recommendations, including the following:

I. Consider consolidating the stations

2. Have first- and second-due crews in-station at all times

3. Consolidate advanced life support into a single county system – all under the county

Since 2008, Garrett County government has provided paid, career EMTs and advance life support technicians to supplement coverage at both Northern and Southern Garrett rescue squads to supplement their staffs.

The original agreement was to provide one paid EMT/paramedic from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. The squad was responsible for manning the ambulance at all other times.

"Since then the program has evolved to include coverage when the rescue squads are unable to fill a particular shift," the commissioners stated. "This means the county provided some level of emergency services coverage seven days a week, 24 hours a day. Even with the increase in county staffing, we still experienced problems providing adequate volunteer coverage at the volunteer rescue squads, and delays [occurred] in providing adequate emergency medical services."

In 2015, the commissioners noted, emergency personnel responded to 3,917 calls for service, which was a 16 percent increase over 2014 calls (3,284).

In fiscal year 2015, Garrett County Emergency Services had 16 emergency services personnel, 10 full-time and six part-time providers.

"In order to provide the additional coverage, the department recently hired 12 additional emergency services providers, five full-time and seven part-time personnel," the commissioners said.

They noted that during the fiscal year 2017 budgetary process, the county increased its public safety/emergency services allocation by $879,901, as compared to the previous year. The total FY 2017 allocation was $1,517,854. The increase was part of the comprehensive plan to provide adequate emergency medical coverage for the entire county, the commissioners noted.

LOCAL CHAMBER WINS ACCE EXCELLENCE AWARD – The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce recently received an Award of Excellence for its website, visitdeepcreek.com, from the Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives. The Awards for Communication Excellence program is an annual competition that recognizes unique communications and marketing work produced by chambers of commerce in the United states and beyond. Based in Axandria, Va., the ACCE serves approximately 7,000 individuals who manage chambers of commerce. See story. From left are GC Chamber of Commerce representatives Sarah Duck, director of tourism and marketing; Nick Sharps, membership manager; and Jen Durben, Heritage Area and groups director.

Chamber Of Commerce Receives Communication Excellence Award

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce recently received a 2016 Award of Excellence in an annual communications and marketing competition presented by the Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives (ACCE). The local chamber received the award for its website, visitdeepcreek.com.

The Awards for Communication Excellence program is an annual competition that recognizes unique communications and marketing work produced by chambers of commerce in the United States and beyond.

A panel of chamber executives and communications and marketing professionals evaluated this year's entries, which were categorized by class – based on the chamber's annual budget – and entry type. Submissions were accepted in four categories: advertising and marketing, campaigns, electronic, and publications.

Judges awarded nine Grand Awards in 2016 and 36 Awards of Excellence. The two Best in Show winners were announced at ACCE's annual convention in Savannah, Ga., on Aug. 10.

"A chamber communicates not only to its business community, but also to the entire town, city, or region it serves," said ACCE president/CEO Mick Fleming. "These annual awards recognize the varied communication excellence of chambers going about their work coordinating efforts that benefit their communities."

"I am very proud of our team for receiving this national award for our website," said Nicole Christian, GC Chamber president/CEO. "It's wonderful to see their hard work, vision, and ingenuity recognized by our peers and marketing professionals. The visitdeepcreek.com website receives more than half a million unique visitors annually, and that is all due to our team building and maintaining a fabulous tool for our audience."

The Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives, founded in 1914, serves approximately 7,000 individuals who manage chambers of commerce. The mission of the Alexandria, Va.-based organization is to support and develop chamber professionals to lead businesses and their communities. More information is available at ACCE.org.

Garrett County Lawyers Provide Pro Bono Help

Maryland Volunteer Lawyers Service (MVLS), the largest provider of pro bono civil legal services to low-income Marylanders, announced this week that in the past 12 months, two Garrett County volunteer lawyers – Donald Goldbloom and Carole Perez – provided free or reduced fee legal services to Maryland residents.

MVLS gives low-income Marylanders access to the resources they need to protect their livelihoods, their homes, and their families, and to increase their chances of self-sufficiency. In the past year, 649 volunteer attorneys in Maryland closed 2,749 pro bono cases through individual representation or assistance at a clinic. Collectively, donated legal services were valued at more than $4.8 million.

More information about MVLS can be found online at www.mvlslaw.org. To apply for help, persons are invited to call MVLS at 410-547-6537 or 800-510-0050 Mondays through Thursdays 9 a.m. to noon.

GC Foundation Among Sponsors Of Estate Seminar

Allegany College of Maryland Professional Development in partnership with the Allegany College of Maryland Foundation, the Community Trust Foundation, the Frostburg State University Foundation, the Garrett College Foundation, the Western Maryland Health System Foundation, and the Allegany Museum Endowment will offer an advanced development opportunity for professionals involved with any and all aspects of estate and charitable planning.

Titled "Estate and Charitable Planning in Light of Changes on the Horizon," the seminar will be held at the Cumberland Country Club on Thursday, Oct. 13, from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. It is designed to provide insight and understanding of estate planning, gift and charitable planning issues, and techniques in 2016 and beyond.

Over the past few years, according to seminar organizers, Congress has made sweeping changes to the Internal Revenue Code regarding estate, gift, and generation-skipping taxation. In addition, the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling opened the way for same-sex marriages. Understanding the impact of the new legislation and the Supreme Court ruling, together with recent case law developments, is important to all practitioners in properly advising their clients, the organizers said.

The seminar speaker will be Arthur Werner, JD, MST, a shareholder in the law firm of Werner & Rocca, P.C. His areas of practice include business, tax, financial, and estate planning for high net worth individuals. In addition to the practice of law, Werner is an adjunct professor of taxation in the Master of Science in Taxation program at Philadelphia University.

A member of the Pennsylvania Bar, Werner lectures extensively in the areas of estate planning, financial planning, and estate and gift taxation, and has presented more than 500 seminars to certified public accountants and financial planners over the past decade. He has been highly rated as a speaker and discussion leader by several state CPA organizations.

The deadline to register for the seminar is Oct. 6. To register and/or to obtain more information, persons are invited to contact Rebecca Ruppert, director of professional development at Allegany College of Maryland, at 301-784-5338.

This course has been approved by the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards Inc. and is coordinated by the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA). Eight Continuing Professional Education (CPE) credits will be offered through MACPA, and contact completion hour certificates will be offered through Allegany College of Maryland Center for Continuing Education. CPE credit and completion hour certificates will also be awarded to residents of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

'17 Refuse Permits To Be Sold Soon; '16 Stickers Should Not Be Removed

The Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling has announced that the 2017 residential refuse permits will be available beginning on Monday, Oct. 3. The 2017 permits will be valid from the date of purchase through the end of 2017.

"Do not remove your current (2016) permit decal from your windshield," department manager Dave Baker stressed.

The current permits utilize a radio frequency identification system (RFID) that allows the permit to be scanned for validity at each refuse collection site. This system allows customers to renew the same permit for as long as they own the vehicle that it is originally placed on, provided they pay the annual fee. The fee is currently $50 per year.

"The RFID system makes replacing a permit much simpler," Baker said. "If a customer requires a replacement permit due to trading a vehicle, loss of a windshield, or an accident, he or she can order a replacement with a phone call or email to the landfill office. The RFID will allow a permit to be switched off electronically so that customers no longer need to return the old permit for a replacement."

He suggests that current customers complete the department's renewal form and make their payments before Dec. 31.

"Your 2016 permit will be invalid on Jan. 1. 2017," Baker said. "You will be required to pay by the bag if you have not renewed."

Applications and renewal forms will not be mailed out, but they will be available at all refuse collection sites, online, at the Grantsville library, the Garrett County tax office, the landfill office, and in The Republican newspaper.

Permits can be purchased online and by mail, or in person at the landfill (Oakland Sang Run Road) and the Garrett County tax office. The current fee is $50, and payment at either in-person location can be made using cash, check, or a money order. Customers will not receive a receipt unless they request one.

"Purchasing online is the fastest way to renew, and there is no additional charge for using your credit card online," Baker said. "A permit purchased online goes in the mail to you the next business day. To order your permit after Oct. 3, sign into payments at www.garrettcounty.org."

He added that purchasing early will help customers avoid lines and delays at the end of the year.

Persons with questions or desiring more information can call the Department of Solid Waste and Recycling at 301-387-0322.

JANE B. AVERY

Jane Bement Avery, 68, Oakland, died of accidental drowning on Thursday, Sept. 8, 2016, near her home at Deep Creek Lake. Born on Nov. 25, 1947, in Pittsburgh, Pa., she was the daughter of the late Clarence Bement and Mary Louise (Reed) Avery.

She was a graduate of the former Tarkio College in Missouri and received her master's degree in directing from the University of Pittsburgh.

Jane came to Oakland in 1970 upon accepting a position teaching kindergarten at the former Oak Street School. After three years, she took a position at Southern High School, where she taught English and drama for 28 years. She retired in 2002.

She was honored with numerous awards over the years, including Garrett County Teacher of the Year, Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person, and the Garrett County Arts Council's Friend of the Arts, and she was inducted into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame in 1998.

Of her many accomplishments, Jane was most proud and dedicated to her creation of Our Town Theatre, which she founded in 1997. Jane embraced Oakland as her home and community, and its people as her family, and this was the inspiration for her vision of a community theatre. There she worked with a board of directors to present plays, musicals, comedies, children's shows, original works, community project performances, fundraisers for many nonprofit endeavors, concerts, coffee houses for teenagers, and more.

She spent as much of her summers as possible at her cabin at the lake, which was built by her father during the family's summertime vacations from Pittsburgh. Jane considered it her creative haven and place of solace.

Never ceasing to do what she loved most, Jane continued, even after medical setbacks, to be actively involved in the creative side of the theatre, and was at the time of her death working on a manuscript for a play about Edith Cavell, a World War I nurse, who was executed by the Germans. This play is to be presented in 2017 as part of Our Town Theatre's 20th anniversary celebration events.

Jane is survived by her loyal companion Clem, as well as her many dear friends, colleagues, and former students. In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her brother, Charles Reed Avery, in 2000, and Max the Wonder Dog.

A memorial visitation will be held in the C&S Fredlock Funeral Home P.A., 21 N Second St., Oakland, on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 1 to 5 p.m. Our Town Theatre, which is located at 121 Center Street, Oakland, will be open on Autumn Glory Saturday, Oct. 15, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. for people to stop in and leave remembrances as well.

Jane's ashes will be interred in the family plot of the Sunnyside Cemetery, Tunkhannock, Pa.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to Our Town Theatre, 121 East Center St., Oakland, MD 21550.

ERIKA F. CAPELLE

Erika Fruechtenicht Capelle, 90, passed away peacefully on Sept. 7, 2016. She was born in a small village in Northern Germany on Dec. 10, 1925.

At the age of 16, she followed her dream and went to Hamburg to become a nurse. She lived through the bombing of Hamburg, and after the war met Roland Capelle, who was in dental school. Roland moved to the U.S. and became a dentist in the American Army, and was then stationed in France. On a visit back to Hamburg, he reunited with Erika and they became engaged in Paris. When Roland was posted back to the U.S., they married and she came on a U.S. Army transport plane, went through Ellis Island and on to Washington, D.C., where Roland went back to school at Howard University so that he could become a civilian dentist.

They raised their three children, Susan, Claudia, and Michael, in the Washington area, instilling in them their values of hard work, education, and physical fitness.

In 1978, they moved to their beloved Deep Creek Lake in the mountains of western Maryland fulltime, and Roland established a dental practice in Oakland. They lived happily there, enjoying the beauty of the lake and tending their beautiful garden until Roland died in 1999. In retirement, they loved to take driving trips to discover the treasures of the American West.

In 2003, Erika moved to the Village at Heritage Point, where she lived for the past 13 years, loving her beautiful home and surroundings. She could be seen most mornings taking a walk around the premises, often weeding the flower beds as she passed by.

She made many great friendships there, and was incredibly fortunate to have spent her last years being cared for by wonderful people who further enriched her life.

Besides Roland and her children, the other great loves of her life where her three grandchildren, Kristopher, Benjamin, and Katrina; and her great-granddaughter, Nora. Nora enriched her "Omama's" life with her weekly FaceTime visits.

Erika will be missed by all who loved her, but she is now at peace and free of the physical burden of her body.

A memorial service will be held on Sunday, Oct. 2, at 4 p.m. at The Village at Heritage Point, 1 Heritage Point, Morgantown, WV 26505.

Fred L. Jenkins Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.fredjenkinsfuneralhome.com.

Owners Convene

"The result is reduction of water quality in these areas, algal bloom, the lowering of oxygen levels necessary for fish habitat, and the clouding of water, obstructing light needed for growth of beneficial submerged aquatic vegetation."

Beelar told the group that DNR plans on sampling in some, but not all, of these coves beginning next year. Of the four most sediment-impacted coves, DNR will sample only Pawn Run. She said that no rationale has been provided by DNR on the selection of sampling sites.

Additional information recently released indicates that DNR will sample in water depths of three meters, six meters, and nine meters. Beelar noted that, given the shallow depths of these coves, most of the sampling would not take place in the areas of sediment deposition, but more so in the main channels of the lake. She added that CLEAR members intend to learn more about the DNR plan and urge that this sampling be designed to develop a sediment management plan for DCL.

Ellen Williams, FoDCL president, reported on the Garrett County commissioners' recent decision to enter into a memorandum of understanding with Maryland Environmental Services (MES). According to a recent article in The Republican newspaper, MES will prepare a waterway improvement grant application for the lake.

"This is what the members of Friends of DCL understood the funds would be used for," said Williams.

But Matlick said that the MOU appears to be "a serious digression" from this intended purpose.

"The work laid out is a major step backward," he said. "It is nothing more than a re-do of the controversial 'Deep Creek Lake: A Sediment Study,' completed at the end of 2013. After conducting an alternative analysis, the proposal says, 'should the project team determine that dredging is feasible,' then MES would complete the grant application.' Secretary Belton and our state delegation were in total agreement that these funds were to be used to develop a grant application for dredging at DCL. Why is there now in the contract signed by the county a process which includes a determination of whether to do the grant application? Who are members of the project team? What is the role of the 500-plus property owners in the sediment-impaired coves?"

Williams reminded everyone that a "DNR Talking Points" memo about the sediment study stated, "It is not in the best interest of the state to dredge Deep Creek Lake."

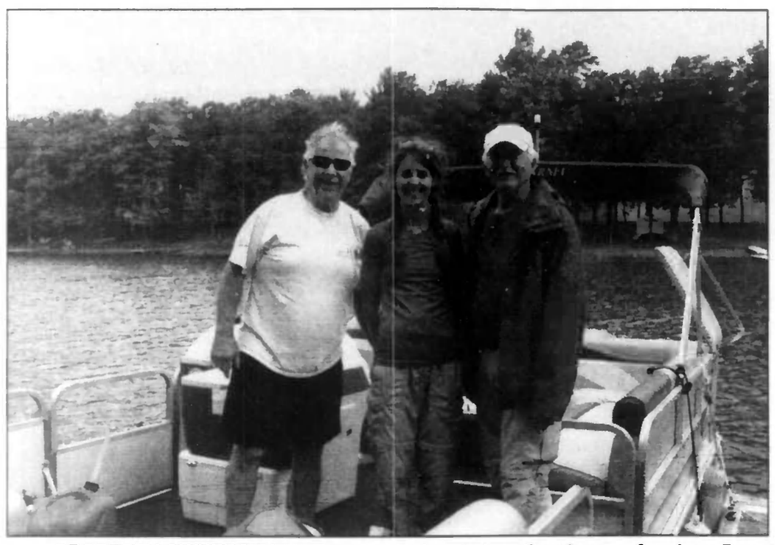
"We need to set up meetings immediately with Commissioner [Paul] Edwards and the state delegation to clarify the county's intention and assess the legal contract county recently signed," she said.

Beelar ended the meeting leading a discussion about the work plan for CLEAR in the fall and winter months. She said that the most important task is to educate the lake stakeholders and to counter what she described as "misinformation" being circulated. She said that both the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association president and the lake manager recently stated that the entire lake would have to be drawn down to do any dredging.

"Each cove can be separated off from the main body of the lake during the dredging," Beelar said.

Williams said that FoDCL will be hiring Gally Public Affairs to lobby for DCL sediment removal in the 2017 General Assembly session, with particular attention on ways to secure the necessary state funding for restoration of DCL.

"We recognize it will be costly, but everyone, including the lake owner – the state of Maryland – has to understand that the task we face today is a result of nine decades of neglect at DCL," said Williams. "And in considering the cost of dredging, the alternative analysis must provide the cost of not dredging, which will be much higher, with decline in lake property values and associated local tax revenues, loss of recreational uses, and threat to income in both tourist and lake-business sectors. Dredging is the proven, cost-effective, best management approach to lake management, and it is past time for the state to commit to funding this effort, to ensure a sustainable lake for future generations."



PROPERTY OWNERS whose homes are located on the shores of various Deep Creek Lake coves that are being negatively impacted by sediment accumulation have hired a company to do some water quality testing. Kendra Hatcher from Downstream Strategies took samples from all 10 sediment-impaired coves and the cove at Blakeslee, as well as from two main-channel sites. The results from this sampling, done Sept. 6, will be released early next month. Pictured above are members of the lake water quality sampling team. From left are Bill Alsop from Green Glade Guardians, Hatcher, and Bill Heinz, a Pawn Run property owner and member of the Friends of Deep Creek Lake board of directors. See front-page story for details.

Miss Outstanding Teen To Appear In AGF Parade

Allison LaForce, who was crowned Miss Maryland's Outstanding Teen 2016 in June, will participate in the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland. Her appearance is sponsored by the Wildwood Athletic Club.

Allison is a senior at Damascus High School, Montgomery County, where she is captain of the Poms Squad. She is an honors student and plans to be a veterinarian specializing in equine care.

As Maryland's Outstanding Teen, Allison will promote her personal platform, the program Imagination Library: The Importance of Childhood Literacy.

She traveled to Orlando Florida in August to compete in the Miss America's Outstanding Teen competition.

Oakland To Hold AGF Parking Meter Decorating Contest

The town of Oakland and the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) are holding a parking meter decoration contest again this year, to coincide with the Autumn Glory Festival.

Persons may choose a parking meter in town and then fill out a reservation for that meter at the Oakland town hall by Friday, Sept. 23. The reservation for a meter is $10, which goes to the town's Main Street program.

The meters are to be decorated by Sunday, Sept. 26. Voting will take place from Oct. 2 to Oct. 9. Voters will leave coins with the businesses that have the meters they vote on as the best. Nonprofit organizations, causes, clubs, and other groups may also participate, and collaborate with a nearby store for vote collections.

The money is to be turned in to Michelle Ross, Main Street manager, by Wednesday, Oct. 12. The cash will also go to the Main Street program.

The group who earns the most cash in votes will win, and the meter's creators will have their names or business name engraved on a plaque, which will be displayed in the winner's place of business for a year.

The Bralympics of Cindy's Fund will take place on Oct. 2 in the Oakland Town Parking Lot from 2 to 5 p.m. Although it's not required, persons are invited to decorate meters in pink with the breast cancer awareness theme.

For more information, persons may contact Ross at mainstreetgoba@gmail.com.

Salvation Army To Accept Apps. For Christmas

The Salvation Army will accept Christmas applications for Garrett and Allegany counties from Monday, Sept. 19, through Friday, Sept. 23, and from Monday, Sept. 26, to Friday, Sept. 30, from 9 a.m. to noon each day at the Salvation Army, 701 E. First Street, Cumberland.

Clients are required to bring a photo ID of the head of household, birth dates of all in the household, Social Security cards or birth certificates for everyone in the household, and proof of all income in the household, food stamp amount, and all expenses. Persons should also bring clothing sizes and three gift ideas for children in the household from age 1 to 12.

For more information, persons may call 301-777-7600.

Swanton Center Slates Craft Show, Chicken Dinner

The Swanton Community Center will host an indoor/outdoor craft and vendor show this Saturday, Sept. 17, starting at 9 a.m. Food and refreshments will be available for purchase.

Local band Second Wind will provide musical entertainment starting at 3 p.m. Seating is limited, so those attending the performance are asked to bring their lawn chairs.

The Kitzmiller Lions Club will hold a chicken dinner at 4 p.m. Tickets will go on sale at 9 a.m. The cost of a full meal (½ chicken, roll, corn, baked beans, coleslaw, and a dessert) is $10. The cost for just a ½ chicken and a roll is $6.

Water, tea, and coffee are included with eat-in dinners. Soft drinks will also be available for purchase.

Proceeds from the event will benefit Operation Christmas Child, the Kitzmiller Lions Club, and Swanton Community Center.

Food Drive To Be Held At Walmart Next Wednesday

The Maryland State Police and the Maryland Department of Transportation have teamed up with the Maryland Food Bank for the fourth annual Hunger Action Month food drive, a month-long collection effort that encourages the general public to donate nonperishable food items at various events across the state.

Locally, a "stuff-a-truck" food-collection event will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at the Oakland Walmart, 13164 Garrett Highway. Donations may be dropped off between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

"From Oakland to Salisbury and various counties in between, MSP and MDOT representatives will be out in full force to collect donations for those in need," a spokesperson said.

Select MDOT locations are also accepting food donations throughout September at designated food drop-off locations. Local collection sites include the Maryland Vehicle Administration office, 400 Weber Road, Oakland, and MDOT's Keyser's Ridge shop, 3876 National Pike, Accident.

Supporters can also donate food online using the MSP and MDOT virtual food bank platforms.

More information can be found online at mdfoodbank.org/hunger-action/food-drive-drop-events.

Adorable Adoptables

AWAITING NEW HOMES at the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week, from left, are Snowball, Morris, Oreo, and Doc. Snowball is a very friendly young neutered male who was given up by his owner. "Morris, an older neutered male, would make a perfect indoor/outdoor pet," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "He is a great mouser either way." Oreo is a neutered male tuxedo feline who only has one eye, and Doc is a spayed female with longhair. "Oreo and Doc want to stay together," the spokesperson said. "They were given up by their owner, who has to move." HART for Animals recently took several kittens from the shelter and transported them to a rescue facility. "Please bring in stray cats and kittens to the shelter, as feeding them but not getting them 'fixed' is only adding to the problem," the spokesperson noted. For more information, persons can call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Photos courtesy of the Garrett County Humane Society.

Aurora/Eglon

Aurora School News

A Thirst For Art fundraiser sponsored by the PTO is planned for Thursday, Sept. 22, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Refreshments will be provided. The cost will be $45 per participant, with a percentage of the cost going to the PTO to help fund programs and activities for the students. All materials will be provided, plus three hours of instruction. To purchase tickets, persons may go to ticketleap.com.

Volunteers are being sought to help with classrooms needing extra help on certain days with math tutoring, classifying library books, making copies for teachers, laminating items, and other things. Volunteers are also needed for the Spring Fling and Fall Festival events. Persons may contact Mary Bachtel at 304-735-3781 for more information.

Volunteers are being sought by the Aurora School PTO to participate in the 2016 Tucker County Community Foundation's Run For It on Saturday, Sept. 24, for either the 2K walk or the 5K run. Registration will be held on Friday, Sept. 23, or Saturday Sept. 24, at the Davis fire hall. Volunteers should register for the Aurora School PTO team.

Students with a perfect school attendance during the month of September will be eligible for a drawing to win a bike at the end of the month. Each school in Preston County received a bike to be used to promote attendance.

Senior Citizens

The Aurora Union District Senior Citizens met on Sept. 8, with 28 members and one guest, Tina Turner, in attendance. Following the covered dish meal, the meeting was called to order by president Janice Tackett.

Devotions were presented by Barbara Williams. Two pies left over from the meal were raffled. Linda Terrant won the coconut pie, and Dale Cosner won the lemon meringue pie.

Dorothy Roth embroidered a heart quilt; Juanita Stemple sewed it together; and she and Mary Calcamp hand-quilted it. The quilt was given to the group, and it was decided that it will be raffled at a later date.

An election of officers resulted in the retention of the same slate of officers.

The Fall Fest will be held on Friday, Oct. 14, at the Craig Civic Center, and gifts are already on hand.

The Old Lady and the Boys will provide entertainment this Saturday, Sept. 17, at the North Preston Senior Center in Bruceton at 6 p.m.

The Terra Alta Senior Center will hold a sausage gravy and biscuit breakfast on Saturday, Sept. 24, for $4 from 7 to 11 a.m.

The Preston County Seniors will visit Springs, Pa., on Friday, Oct. 7, for the Folk Festival. The cost for the trip is $15, and reservations need to be made immediately.

Tickets for the 25 Days of Christmas are available. There will be a drawing of prizes every day. Tickets are $10 each.

A bus may be available to go to the Burlington Apple Butter Festival on Monday, Sept. 26.

The meeting was adjourned with humorous readings by Janice Tackett. Bingo was played following the meeting.

Eglon Cemetery

The Eglon Cemetery Association will meet on Saturday, Sept. 24, for its next workday. The group requests that all floral decorations be removed from the cemetery by Tuesday, Nov. 1. Christmas decorations will be removed Jan. 15, 2017.

Chet Roth and Friends

The final musical event for this summer with Chet Roth and Friends is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 24, beginning at 10 a.m. Persons should bring a lawn chair and a covered dish to share in the music and fellowship at the Mt. Grove pavilion.

Texas All-Day Sing

The annual Gospel Sing at Bethel UM (Texas) Church, Horse Shoe Run, will be held on Sunday, Sept. 25, beginning at 1:15 p.m. Individuals and groups wishing to be included in the program may contact Brenda Cassidy at 304-735-5238, or Carolyn Mullenax at 304-735-62550.

Auxiliary Forming

The Mt. Grove VFD is starting a Ladies Auxiliary. Sign-up will be held at the first meeting this Saturday, Sept. 17, at 2 p.m. at the Mt. Grove Community Pavilion. Interested women are encouraged to attend.

Moved to Rehab

Brian Corbin, who was injured in Patterson, N.J., has been moved from the hospital to a rehabilitation facility for further recovery. His corrected address is: Rehab Center in New Jersey Christian Health Care Center, 301 Sicamac Ave., Wyckoff, NJ 07481.

News Submission

On A Personal Note by Lucretia Sines

My family and I would like to thank everyone for their recent prayers and concerns, cards, and visits for my husband, as he underwent double bypass surgery on Labor Day at Western Maryland Regional Medical Center. As anyone knows who has gone through this operation with a loved one, it was a very scary time, and we are grateful for all the prayers.

Kenny is doing great at home after 10 days in the hospital (four days waiting to have the surgery and six days recuperating) and is very thankful for the doctors and nurses who took such great care of him. We are very thankful to have Kenny home and look forward to many more years together.

I highly encourage everyone to have regular check-ups with doctors to become educated in the signs and symptoms of heart disease. All Kenny had was heartburn for about two months until it was bad enough for him to think it more serious. He did not have the typical signs of chest pain, arm pain, jaw pain, or shortness of breath, no heart attack, and his EKG was perfect, but his stress test said otherwise, as his blockage was in a very serious position to where Dr. Nelson told us he was lucky to have made it into the hospital. So, those with a loved one who thinks they don't want to bother anyone or have the time or money to "aggravate with the tests," should reconsider ... it can save his/her life.

Revival Services To Be Held At Brethren Church

DAVID ZILER

PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971

Peer Leaders And Staff At Garrett Volunteer With Habitat For Humanity

Students and staff from Garrett College participated in a community service project with Mon County (W.Va) Habitat for Humanity on Saturday, Sept. 3. The peer leader students and two staff members embraced the opportunity to serve the community and residents in Monongalia County in Morgantown, W.Va., working at a Habitat site at Decker Court.

The Decker Court site is in the construction phase to provide homes for 10 families.

"The home we worked on has specific accommodations and measurements, and must be ADA compliant, as Habitat shared with us that the son in that home requires the use of a wheelchair," said Jessica Cooper, residence life manager at GC. "The peer leaders worked so well together, each taking on different jobs and responsibilities. The students even signed the inside of the wall, forever recording their part in the building process of that home."

According to Cooper, students worked on measurements to cut drywall, preparing walls with caulking guns, and putting walls up and securing them, all of which were among the steps involved in finishing a room. Cooper, along with Gena Ferguson, AmeriCorps Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) member, are staff members at Garrett College who volunteered as well.

One of the primary goals of the Peer Leader program at Garrett College is to get students involved around the campus and in the community and surrounding areas. Peer leaders are responsible for providing assistance to the residential students and providing information about college resources and programs, as well as assisting the residence life staff as needed.

Students also host programs for residential students. Such programs must fall in one of the following categories: community building, academic, diversity, community service, or safety/wellness.

"Working for Habitat was a true experience," said Jordan Sterling, one of the peer leaders. "I enjoyed doing something that will help others. I learned a lot, and would definitely do it again."

"It was hard work, but it was a very rewarding experience for them," stated Cooper. "We hope to schedule another building day with Mon County Habitat for Humanity in the near future."

Blind Adventurer Will Present At Garrett College

Lonnie Bedwell, a U.S. military veteran, extreme sport athlete, and motivational speaker who happens to be blind, will return to Garrett County for a second year, as he is scheduled to present a program titled Overcoming Adversity on Tuesday, Sept. 27, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium. The program, which is free and open to the public, is co-sponsored by Garrett College's Adventuresports Institute and the Garrett County Counselors Association.

Blinded by a hunting accident in 1997, Bedwell raised three daughters as a single father, teaching them to hunt and fish and, against all odds, to drive. He said that his mission is to motivate and inspire others to embrace life with confidence and courage, which he said that he accomplishes by the way he lives his life and through sharing his story with others. He says that blindness does not define him or hinder his efforts, as he is dedicated to helping veterans and many others enjoy full lives.

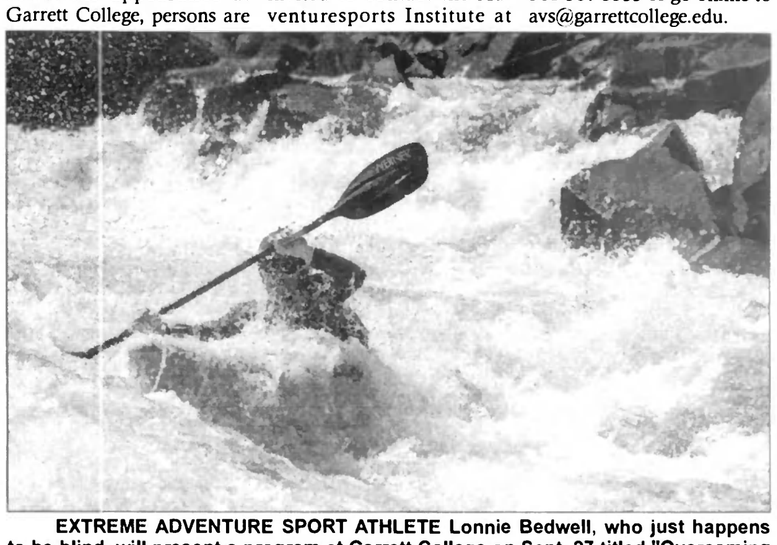
Chosen as one of 10 National Geographic 2015 Adventurers of the Year, Bedwell has kayaked some of the most challenging whitewater in the world, and is best known for having completed the first blind descent of the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon.

He also climbed Mt. Kilimanjaro, summited several of North America's highest mountains, and is an accomplished rock climber and an avid downhill skier. He meets these challenges in his free time away from his full-time profession as a roofer.

Bedwell has appeared on The Today Show and The Steve Harvey Show, and has been featured in numerous publications. He is the author of the award-winning book 226 (the length in miles of the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon), and shares his passion for life and adventure with audiences around the country.

For more information about his appearance at Garrett College, persons are invited to contact the Adventuresports Institute at 301-387-3333 or go online to avs@garrettcollege.edu.

GC WOMEN'S ALUMNI GAME PLAYED – The Garrett College women's volleyball team held Its inaugural alumni game on Sunday In the GC Community Aquatic and Recreation Complex (CARC) gymnasium. The alumni scrimmaged the current Lady Lakers In a best-of-five match. "The game was a success," said Laker head coach Kim Windstein. "It was very rewarding to have alumni members become involved and want to participate, and offered a great opportunity for our players on this year's team to gain valuable game experience before our season begins. It was also a unique opportunity for our current players to meet and connect with former Garrett players." Alumni participating were Amanda Shaffer ('03-'04), Jordyn Folk ('14-'15), Natalie Johnson ('14-'15), Katie Graham ('89-'90), Gwen Evans ('83-'84), Alyssa Rounds ('10-'11), and Laker Nation Hall of Famer Stacy Sines Wilt ('87-'88). Pictured from left, front row, are Marian Conteh, Silver Spring; Derricka Jackson, Indian Head; Allison Riesco, McHenry; Miyah Myers, Baltimore; Erin Baechtel, Grantsville; and Skylar Ferguson, Emporia, Va. In the middle row are Brianna Evans, Oakland; Jordyn Folk, Lonaconing; assistant coach Natalie Johnson; Chaunte McDowell, Lewisburg, W.Va.; and Taylor Ferguson, Martinsburg, W.Va. In the back row are: assistant coach Alyssa Rounds, Amanda Shaffer, Gwen Evans, Stacy Sines Wilt, Katie Graham, and Coach Windstein.



EXTREME ADVENTURE SPORT ATHLETE Lonnie Bedwell, who just happens to be blind, will present a program at Garrett College on Sept. 27 titled "Overcoming Adversity." A U.S. military veteran, Bedwell was blinded in a hunting accident in 1997, but has not allowed his sight deprivation get in the way of his pursuit of a variety of sports. Chosen as one of 10 National Geographic 2015 Adventurers of the Year, Bedwell has kayaked some of the most challenging whitewater in the world, and is best known for having completed the first blind descent of the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon. See story for details.

50th Annual AGF Photo Contest Is Now Underway

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will celebrate the 2017 Autumn Glory Festival with a special photo contest that invites all amateur, professional, and student photographers to submit photos of Garrett County's natural landscape, focusing on an autumn theme featuring fall foliage/colors.

One contest winner will have his/her photo published as the cover of the chamber's 50th annual Autumn Glory Festival brochure. The photographer will be recognized at the chamber's 2017 Autumn Glory Kick-Off Reception on Oct. 11, 2017, with two complimentary tickets.

Photo entries must be postmarked by Friday, March 31, 2017, to be considered. Entries postmarked after this time will be returned. After judging, winners will be announced on the chamber's website, www.visitdeepcreek.com, by May 31, 2017.

Submission guidelines are as follows:

- All pictures must be original photographs and must have been taken within the past two years.
- Previously published photos or parts thereof are not eligible.
- Digital photos must be high resolution, minimum 300dpi (print quality).
- Photos must be a vertical shot to be able to convert to a canvas size and cover of the Autumn Glory Festival brochure.
- Photos may be submitted via email to jen@garrettchamber.com or via USB (thumb drive) or CD/DVD to Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 15 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry, MD 21541.

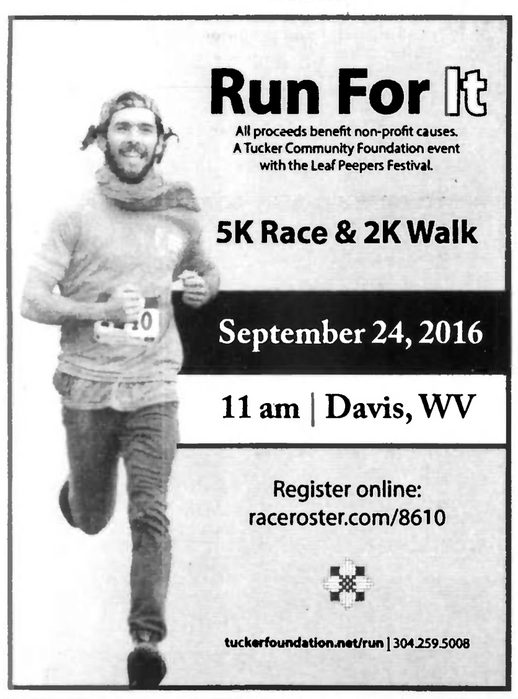
There is a limit of 10 photos submitted per photographer.

Photographers need to include the following information along with their submissions:

- First and last name of photographer
- Contact phone number
- Email address
- Address of photographer
- Location of where photo was taken and approximate date

The photo will be selected based on the quality, composition, content, originality, uniqueness, creativity, mass appeal, and reproductive quality.

The chamber is not responsible for lost or misdirected entries. Photographers release the rights to the chamber to utilize their photographs for use with advertising/marketing (print or online media), with photograph credit if possible. Photography credit may not be possible in all advertising/marketing platforms, a chamber spokesperson noted.



Students Welcome To Enter Judiciary Art Competition

The Maryland Judiciary's Mediation and Conflict Resolution Office (MACRO) is inviting young artists to help promote peacemaking in the 11th annual Conflict Resolution Day Student Bookmark Art Contest. The contest for Maryland students in grades K-8 celebrates national Conflict Resolution Day, which is Thursday, Oct. 20.

"Each year, we engage young students to assist in teaching their peers how to resolve conflicts peacefully," said Mary Ellen Barbera, chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals. "These students bring imaginative suggestions and fresh perspectives to issues that our courts deal with on a daily basis."

The contest, sponsored by MACRO, has become increasingly popular since it began in 2005. Last year, more than 1,900 students from across Maryland participated in the contest, with 15 bookmarks chosen as winners and 61 honorable mentions.

Students are invited to create bookmarks based on the theme of resolving or preventing conflict. Topics can include peer mediation, talking things out, apologizing, respecting differences, solving problems together, listening, tolerance, building peace, or alternatives to violence.

Submissions will be judged on creativity and message. Prizes will be awarded for first, second, and third places in three age groups: grades K-2, 3-5, and 6-8.

For each age group, the prize awards will be $75 for first place, $50 for second place, and $25 for third place. In addition to the prizes, six of the nine winning entries will be printed as bookmarks that will be distributed throughout Maryland to promote conflict resolution.

Students whose entries are awarded prizes will be invited with their families to a ceremony and reception in their honor at the Judiciary Education and Conference Center in Annapolis on Tuesday, Dec. 13. Chief Judge Barbera will meet with the students and families and present the awards. The best 1,000 entries will be displayed in the conference center in December, and some submissions may appear in other judiciary documents.

Submissions are due by Thursday, Oct. 20, which is Conflict Resolution Day. MACRO's website includes a template that may be used for original artwork submissions. Any other paper format may also be used.

The finished image size must be no larger than 3 inches high by 9 inches wide. Student artwork should be labeled, either on the back of the entry or on the label provided in the template, with the following information:

- Student's name, age, and grade.
- School or program name, if applicable.
- Teacher's or parent's name and email address.
- Address where artwork can be returned after the contest.

Entries should not be folded. They must be mailed or delivered no later than Oct. 20 to Alecia Parker, MACRO, 2001 Commerce Park Drive, Suite C, Annapolis, MD 21401.

For more information about the Conflict Resolution Day Student Bookmark Art Contest, persons may contact Parker at 410-260-3540 or alecia.parker@mdcourts.gov.

awareness projects, promoting such entities as the Dove Center, Garrett County Humane Society, and HART, among many others. She continued to engage young people, creating a show in 2005 titled Bullies, bringing awareness to bullying, and The Stone in the Road, a children's show involving about 30 youngsters.

The range of shows performed is wide, with comedies such as Social Security, historical pieces like Camping with Henry and Tom, educational works like An Evening with Mr. Shakespeare, musicals Spitfire Grill and Quilters, children's shows, the chilling tale of The Cruicible, and so many others. Since the theatre began, there have been at least 70 shows produced by Avery, and hundreds of concerts, play-readings, fundraisers, teas, theatre camps, coffee houses, and still more.

The OTT board of directors met this week to discuss the best ways to remember Jane and to provide some outlet of comfort for the vast network of friends and fans who were shocked by her sudden death. They decided on a visitation at Fredlock's Funeral Home in Oakland on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 1 to 5 p.m., and then an open house at the theatre on Autumn Glory Saturday, Oct. 15, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., for people to stop in, reflect, and leave written messages of their memories of Jane.

"She had a great sense of humor and could wield a story like no other," said Linda. "She was a great and patient listener. I may not know of anyone in my lifetime who touched so positively so many people from all ages and walks of life. She cast a wide net in her influence and making differences in people's lives."

Ben Sincell concurred. "I worked with Jane for almost 40 years," he said, "and in all that time, she demonstrated an equal compassion and respect and love to everybody she ever met, no matter what their age or what their ability."

The theatre will live on, the directors said, as Jane would most certainly want. She had not been well for some time, and struggled to work as hard as she wished.

"In the last three years she had serious medical challenges," Linda said. "But she faced them valiantly with humor and dignity. Her spirit never faltered."

And as for her dog Clem, about whom so many have asked, he has been adopted by close friends of Jane, who will care for him for the rest of his life.

Richard Hill, regular actor and close friend, said that in his most vivid memory of Jane, she is not even in the picture.

"We were rehearsing Our Town in 2000. I was sharing the part of Stage Manager, my wife Melodee was to my right in consultation about costumes. My son Alex, who was playing George Gibbs, was up on a ladder, waiting for his scene to start. My other son Andrew had his head together with Ben Sincell, discussing lighting. In this way, Jane engaged my entire family – with love and encouragement.

"I knew her for 30 years. She could be difficult and brash, but what was the use of complaining?" Hill continued. "Her laugh was as big as all outdoors, and I could not stay mad at her for very long. We always talked it out, together, and stayed the best of friends. I knew we did not have a great deal of time ahead of us, but now I wish we had much more."

That is a sentiment most certainly shared by many as they contemplate life without Jane Avery. There is so much more to tell, of her life and her impact on the county and beyond, her civic activism, her experiences, and her accomplishments. The stories shall continue.

"Our entire community, and especially the arts community, has lost a true visionary," said Karen Reckner, executive director of the Garrett County Arts Council. "Jane Avery impacted so many lives throughout her career. From her teaching within our school system to her dream and creation of Our Town Theatre, she enriched the cultural environment of the entire region."

She did indeed. Jane will be forever missed.

Critically Acclaimed Organist To Perform At Lutheran Church

St. John's Lutheran Church, Davis, W.Va., will host an organ recital at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 1, presented by critically acclaimed concert organist Dr. Mickey Thomas Terry.

George Walker, 1996 Pulitzer Prize winner for music, describes Terry as a "superb recitalist of unquestionable ability."

A resident of Washington, D.C., Terry has presented performed throughout the Untied States and Caribbean. He has also been featured on Public Radio International's Pipedreams.

Prior to his concert at St. John's, Terry will present an organ workshop at 10:30 a.m. on African American compositions for the organ. He will also discuss his multi-volume anthology, published by MorningStar Music.

The Monongahela Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and Gerrero-Kirk Classic Inc. are sponsoring the recital.

The fee for all or part of the day's activities is $10. A group lunch will be held at Blackwater Falls Lodge. Reservations can be made by emailing margbos@comcast.net.

Open Mic Night Canceled At OTT

In light of the recent death of Jane Avery, artistic director of Our Town Theatre, the open mic night slated for this evening, Sept. 15, has been canceled.

The next open mic night will take place on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 7 p.m. at the theatre in Oakland.

THERE A TIME TO WEEP and a time to laugh, a time to mourn and a time to dance. – Ecclesiastes 3. Now is indeed a time for weeping for the many friends and fans of Our Town Theatre, as they grieve the sudden death of Jane Avery, artistic director of the theatre, and former Southern High School teacher. The theatre, located along Center Street in Oakland, has been draped in black since her death last week. There is a place for written remembrances on the porch, and mourners have left flowers. As Jane would want, the time for laughter and dance should soon follow, and will indeed as she is remembered for her good works in her beloved Garrett County.

JANE AVERY

Miss Avery is a recent graduate of Tarkio College, and joins the summer company to direct "Hansel & Gretel". She has directed three children's plays previously including "The Princess Who Would Not Laugh or Cry", "Alice In Wonderland", and "Jack and the Beanstalk". All these productions, including "Hansel & Gretel", have been original stage adaptations by Miss Avery from the well known children's stories. Miss Avery is also a talented actress and was selected "Actress of the Year" this past year at Tarkio College.

HER LIFE WAS ABOUT THE THEATRE and the people in it, as is evidenced in this reprint from a program about a show she directed soon after graduating from college in the late 1960s. This was the beginning of a long, rich career of play production, most of which took place in Garrett County.

ENGAGING CHILDREN AND LISTENING TO WHAT THEY HAD TO SAY was important to Jane Avery, pictured above having a giggling session with a young storyteller, and shown below as she entertains with puppets. She encouraged youngsters to tell their stories, sometimes making them into stage shows, and other times simply listening and taking them to heart. The children seemed to know she was listening. Clem, her beloved dog in the photo above, was apparently not as rapt, perhaps more interested in what snack or stuffed animal Jane might have for him.

that dream a reality when she bought the former Garrett County Historical Society Museum along Center Street in Oakland.

She often told the story of Doug Devlin going on a walk-through of the building with her before she signed the dotted line. "Doug kept pointing out all these problems and flaws with the structure, but in between those he kept saying, 'Buy it, Jane. Buy it,'" so the story goes.

In the end, she did buy it, and together with her core of theatre folks, the facility was restored, designed, and transformed into a workable and versatile performance space. The name – inspired by the Thornton Wilder play Our Town and apropos for the cozy, intimate stage – was voted upon after many suggestions, and Our Town Theatre of Garrett County was born.

The procurement of OTT was taking place as Jane worked hard as a teacher. Over the years she taught all levels of English and theatre arts, and she traditionally directed the SHS junior class play each year. She produced comedies, farces, musicals, and more moving pieces, such as I Never Saw Another Butterfly in 1995. Never one for theatre competitions, Avery's arm was twisted to enter that particular show in a theatre festival being hosted at Frostburg State University, where the local teenage troupe won nearly every prize offered.

The first actual performers at Our Town Theatre were students from her high school classes, who performed a show titled Keepsakes, an original piece written by the students and Jane together. The first "main stage" show given at OTT was The Dining Room in 1998.

In addition to her passion for theatre and English, Avery had a penchant for history. She was especially drawn to local stories and legends, told by town elders, reported in this newspaper, or found in other area published writings. Her affinity for the subject manifested into productions that were both memorable and quite popular. She encouraged her theatre students to delve into local history, to study past residents who made a mark on Garrett County, or who experienced some unusual or unexpected event. They could be the students' family members, or anyone else in the history of the area. These became lively, informative staged pieces, with the focus on local heroes as well as villains, and many in between.

Avery also created shows about specific places, such as her own adopted town of Oakland, or Garrett County as a whole. In 2000, she created two original shows, GhostWalk (I) and The Letters of Garrett County. Ghostwalk was a compilation of acted-out ghost stories in Oakland, based on historical events. Avery would lead the audience on a walking tour of the town, and actors would approach the group and present their particular tale. Ghostwalk segments were also held in the historic train station for an added eerie effect.

Letters of Garrett County was a group project, with Avery sending several researchers off with a task: Cull through the pages of The Republican newspaper by decade, and find interesting letters to the editor. Jane felt that letters published each week in the local newspaper, dating back to 1877, provided a particularly keen picture of the county's pulse over the years. The teams worked and found the most interesting letters, and Jane compiled them into a show, presented by actors that included several staff members of the newspaper.

She shifted her focus to the town of Kitzmiller in 2002, and gathered information about life in the riverside town during the coal mining boom. She collaborated with Frostburg State University creative writing students, who interviewed residents and wrote monologues and other dialogue based on that research. Jane put it all together, and the show was presented in Kitzmiller for the townspeople. They received it with emotion and gratitude, as it told of the strength of the town's families, and how they survived a time when coal provided both a livelihood as well as a constant and terrible risk.

These productions involved people of all ages and all levels of stage experience. The audiences sometimes included guests who had never been to a live performance before, and certainly not to one that focused on their own communities. Avery created works that spoke to her neighbors, about the communities they all knew and loved. The shows were unique and inspiring, giving local audiences, as well as actors, a new perspective on the places they called home.

As Jane charged along with more and more performances at Our Town Theatre, she opted to retire from her teaching career in 2002. Upon her retirement, then-superintendent Wendell Teets spoke at her going-away celebration.

"She has a unique way of challenging the individual student to reach within himself or herself to find that latent confidence and talent," Teets said. "By her belief in every student and often seeing what others do not see, Jane provided the student, through theatre, with an avenue of self-expression leading to the self-realization that he or she can face the fears and challenges of acting and be successful. Students from all walks of school life have been blended together in so many outstanding productions directed by Jane. Even more important, Jane helped her students move from the stage at Our Town Theatre, with increased confidence and belief in their worth and ability to be successful, to the even bigger stage of life, where the play is being written every day without the benefit of rehearsals."

As OTT grew, the collected props and costumes were packed into the basement area, along with a desk and sitting room for actors' read-throughs, puppets, makeup, and file folders stuffed with shows, programs, and research. There was a need to grow, and an expansion took place in about 2003 when OTT purchased a corner lot down the street, razed a house there, and built the Backstage building for the purpose of housing the set pieces, props, and multitudes of costumes.

"It is such an impressive building and space for a small town theatre to have to store set materials and costumes," said Jane's close friend, Linda Reeves Cook. "The fact that there is a whole floor dedicated to housing just costumes and with an impressive category/catalogue system is amazing."

She said Jane was proud of that building and the accomplishment of obtaining the property and being able to raise money to build it.

"She was still active in running the costume shop and renting out costumes at the time of her death," Linda said. OTT does rent out costumes for all occasions, and that operation will continue, the directors have noted.

With her school career behind her, Avery jumped into OTT with all energy. In 2004, the little theatre had a season of eight shows, the most of any year, and including several of Avery's own writing and adaptation. As the seasons continued, she engaged in fundraisers and

Northern Downs Tucker County Behind Potent Rushing Attack

The Northern Huskies improved to 2-0 after disposing of Tucker County 33-14 behind a rushing attack which garnered 351 yards on the ground last Friday on the Huskies' field.

The Huskies took control early in the first half thanks to two rushing touchdowns in the first quarter.

Nate Durst dashed into the end zone for a 20-yard score, and Cayleb Broadwater punched it in from six yards out to give the Huskies a 12-0 lead with 1:40 remaining in the first quarter.

Durst and Broadwater combined for 253 rushing yards, each eclipsing the 100-yard mark.

Northern looked to take control for the remainder of the half, but the Mountain Lions scored on a 30-yard "Hail Mary" pass at the end of the half to close the gap to 12-6.

"That took a little of the momentum away, but we rebounded quickly in the second half and didn't tuck our tails," said Northern coach Phil Carr. "We ran the ball better and improved on defense."

Durst added another touchdown off a 19-yard run with three minutes left in the third quarter to make it 19-7.

The Huskies finally pulled away in the fourth quarter when Broadwater scored his second touchdown of the game by sprinting 13 yards to make it 26-7.

Tucker County tried to mount a comeback after making it 26-14 off a touchdown pass, but Calyb King put the final nail in the coffin with just over three minutes to go with a five-yard touchdown run to give the Huskies a 33-14 advantage.

Northern's offensive attack came strictly on the ground, as the team averaged 9.2 yards per carry.

The Huskies forced five fumbles and recovered three of them. Broadwater led the defense with 14 tackles and a fumble recovery. Riley Brick and John Brenneman each recovered a fumble.

The Huskies will host Clear Spring (1-1) tomorrow at 7 p.m. The Blazers are coming off a 26-22 win at Brunswick. Northern defeated Clear Spring 38-0 in last year's meeting.

Northern Jayvee Football Falls To Tucker County

Tucker County scored 20 unanswered points off three big plays and held off the visiting Northern Huskies 20-14 in junior varsity football action on Monday night.

Carsyn King got the Huskies on the board for a 7-0 lead midway through the first quarter on a 19-yard touchdown run.

Northern was looking to cap off the half with a scoring drive to extend the lead, but Josh Freeman recovered a Husky fumble and ran it 82 yards to tie the game 7-7 with 2:30 left in the second quarter.

The Mountain Lions gained possession right before the halftime buzzer, allowing Jacob Davis to rumble 71 yards for a touchdown to give Tucker County a 14-7 lead heading into halftime.

Davis struck again in the third quarter with a 68-yard dash to the end zone early in the third quarter to extend the lead to 20-7.

King helped the Huskies answer with an eight-yard touchdown pass to Tristan Hobell, and Micah Rollen kicked the extra point to close the gap to 20-14 with 9:02 to play, but those would be the final points of the game.

King ran for 84 yards on 16 carries and threw for 51 yards. Anthony Paul gathered 51 yards off eight carries for the Huskies.

Gavin Yutzy led the Huskies' defense with seven tackles and an interception, while Michael Cutler added five tackles and an interception.

Northern (0-3) returns to action at home against Allegany on Monday at 7 p.m.

Northern Huskies Volleyball Sweeps Southern, Keyser

The Northern Huskies (2-1) swept the Southern Rams on the road last Thursday and Keyser at home on Tuesday in three sets in high school volleyball action.

NHS-3 at SHS-0

The Huskies took down the Rams, 25-12, 25-21, and 25-21,

Northern was led by Kendra Friend, who racked up six kills, and Kyliana Sisler who had six blocks.

Samantha Kennell had a field day setting up teammates throughout the match, totaling 16 assists, and Cassidy Uphold served up a pair of aces.

Kamrin Weimer led the Rams with eight kills, five points, and five digs. Morgan Winegardner followed up with five digs and four points, and Hannah Wilt had five points, two kills, and an ace.

The Huskies also enjoyed success in the jayvee match, sweeping the Rams 25-21 and 25-17.

Hailey Moore finished with seven assists for Northern. Alexis House scored a couple of kills, and Britni Moore hit two aces.

Tiara Slider led the Rams with eight points, two aces, and two kills. Nina Hillan followed with four points, three assists and an ace.

KHS-0 at NHS-3

McKenna Houser led the Huskies with 22 digs and an ace to lift Northern over Keyser in a 3-0 sweep, winning 25-10, 25-11, and 25-10.

Kyliana Sisler had 13 hits and seven kills, and Bailey Burdock served up two aces. Kayley Sisler also had 13 hits to go along with eight kills, while Friend racked up 12 hits with six kills.

Keyser swept the junior varisity match, winning 29-27 and 25-16.

House led the Huskies with eight hits and a kill. Sadie Powell followed with three kills while Moore had six digs. Moore spread the ball around for five assists.

The Huskies return to action tonight as they travel to Mountain Ridge.

Northern Maddawgs A And B Teams Take Down Cardinals

The Northern Maddawgs A and B teams each improved to 3-0 after defeating the Cumberland Cardinals during week three of the pee wee football season on Saturday at Cumberland.

The A-team Maddawgs blanked the Cardinals 21-0 behind two rushing touchdowns from Luke Ross and another score on the ground from Kellen Hinebaugh.

Macy Pagano, Cole Paugh, and Ryan Bolyard led the Maddawgs' offensive line and consistently created holes for the backfield to utilize.

Bolyard also forced a turnover on the defensive side of the ball, and helped Alex Knauff, Brady Dixon, and Tyler Hawk post a shutout.

The B team also pitched a shutout, winning 13-0 over the Cardinals.

Hunter Livengood ran his way to two rushing touchdowns, and Tim Folk threw a PAT pass to Caleb Hinebaugh.

Owen Mason and Aaron Welch anchored the offensive line and threw key blocks during the scoring drives.

The Maddawgs' defense, led by Brycen Hook and Nick Riley, dominated the Cardinals by not allowing a single first down.

The C-team Maddawgs fell to the Cardinals 21-0, despite another week showing improvement.

Northern returns to action for the team's third-straight away game this Saturday at 9 a.m. in Frostburg against the Cougars.

Southern Rams Fall Short After Moorefieid Two-Point Conversion

A late touchdown and two-point conversion lifted the Moorefield Yellow Jackets 8-7 over the Southern Rams (0-2) last Friday at Moorefield in high school football action.

The Rams struck first in the first quarter when sophomore running back Jace Guy scampered 12 yards for a touchdown, giving Southern a 7-0 lead.

Moorefield (3-0) was unable to answer for three quarters, as the Southern defense kept the Yellow Jackets from sustaining drives, allowing just one third down conversion in 11 attempts.

The Rams were unable to extend the lead despite having a 29:58 to 17:41 edge in time of possession.

Southern had a chance to put the game away, but a late fourth-quarter fumble allowed to Moorefield to have one last chance.

Sloan Williams connected with Varsey Bright for a 12-yard touchdown pass to pull the Yellow Jackets within a point.

Moorefield head coach Josh See elected to go for the win, and Williams threw a touchdown pass to Logan Mongold for the two-point conversion to give the Yellow Jackets the lead.

The Rams were unable to answer on their final drive, and Moorefield came away with the victory.

Bright led the Moorefield offense with six catches for 102 yards to go with his game-deciding touchdown grab.

The Yellow Jackets had no turnovers and out-gained the Rams 134-13 through the air.

Hayden McLaughlin ran for 114 yards off of 26 carries and completed four passes for 13 yards to lead Southern's offense.

The Rams travel to Petersburg (1-1) tomorrow, hoping to avenge a 47-12 loss in last year's meeting. The Vikings are coming off of a "bye" week following a 32-30 win over Pendleton County two weeks ago.

Southern Girls Soccer Earns Three Wins After Defeat By Fort Hill

The Southern High School girls' soccer team (3-2) fell to Fort Hill 3-1 on the road last Wednesday, but turned around and defeated Berkeley Springs 3-1 at home on Saturday. Frankfort 3-1 on Tuesday, and Petersburg 7-0 yesterday

Fort Hill-3 SHS-1

The Rams were unable to hold onto a first-half lead, as the team fell to the Fort Hill Sentinels on the road last Wednesday

Kristen Kope scored an unassisted goal with 18:23 remaining in the first half to give the Rams a 1-0 lead

The Sentinels answered just over 10 minutes later when Gabby Wolfe scored an unassisted goal to tie the match at 1-1.

Danielle Flinn made it 2-1 for the Sentinels 90 seconds later. Fort Hill continued to apply pressure until Elizabeth Graves broke through and scored off an assist from Megan Lewis with 57 seconds to play in the half

Fort Hill led in shots (9-8) and in corner kicks (11-1). Katie Shreve had five saves for the Rams in the loss

SHS-3 Berkeley Springs-1

The Rams came from behind in the second half and recorded its first win of the season, defeating Berkeley Springs on Saturday at Southern.

Southern fell behind 1-0 after a scoreless first half when Emily Young scored off a corner kick for the Indians just one minute after the halftime whistle.

The Rams began to create more chances on goal over the next few minutes, and then Laina Holler sent a well-placed ball to the low corner of the net to tie the match with 22:15 remaining.

Sylvia Watson scored off a pass from Lilly Dunn two minutes later to give Southern a 2-1 advantage.

Southern was able to withstand any counterattack and added an insurance goal when Courtney Roth scored an unassisted goal from near the top of the box with eight minutes left in the match.

The Rams led Berkeley in shots (34-8) and corners (5-2).

Shreve had five saves for the Rams, while the Indians keeper had 20.

SHS-3 Frankfort-1

The Rams took advantage of a couple first-half set piece opportunities and added a late insurance goal to defeat Frankfort on the Rams' home pitch.

Southern struck first off a corner kick when Tori Miske sent a well-placed ball into the box and Cayla Friend connected for the goal at the 20:14 mark in the first half.

Watson scored a penalty kick six minutes later to give the Rams a 2-0 lead going into halftime.

Frankfort made it interesting when Gracie Hill brought them within a goal with 11:56 remaining, but Mary Tran found the back of the net for the Rams just three minutes later off a feed from Lily Dunn.

Shreve came up big for the Rams with 15 saves, while Angie Ziegler had 11 for Frankfort.

Southern led the wide-open match in shots 25-18, but Frankfort held a 6-3 edge in corners.

SHS-7 Petersburg-0

The Rams used a five-goal halftime lead to shut out Petersburg at home yesterday evening.

Watson kicked off the Rams' scoring with an unassisted goal less than three minutes into the match.

Holler dished out two assists to Tran and Kope to extend the lead to 3-0. Katelyn Dolan and Holler each scored a goal off of feeds from Kope and Sarah Kisner in the final 11 minutes of the half.

The Rams added some extra insurance to the lead when Friend scored an unassisted goal 10 minutes into the second half to make it 6-0.

Tran scored her second goal of the match off a pass from Holler with just over 13 minutes to go for the team's final goal.

Southern had 20 shots on goal compared to Petersburg's seven. Shreve and Roth combined for seven saves in the shutout win.

The Rams look to extend their winning streak when they travel to Hampshire on Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Austin Evans' Hat Tricks Lift Huskies Past Trinity, Hyndman

Austin Evans scored hat tricks in back-to-back matches to lead the Northern High School boys' soccer team (3-1-1) to victories over Trinity 5-0 on Monday and Hope for Hyndman 3-2 on Tuesday.

NHS-5 Trinity-0

The Huskies traveled to Trinity and took care of business, winning behind three first-half goals and an Evans hat trick.

Jarrett Kelly got things started for the Huskies with a goal assisted by Dylan McCann.

Evans added two more in the first half, with an unassisted goal and a goal off a feed by Reed Stoltzenfels.

Trinity was unable to mount a comeback in the second half, as Northern continued to add a couple insurance goals.

Ty Kinzey found Jaden Lais for the team's fourth score of the match, and Evans completed his hat trick off an assist from Trey Rouse.

The Huskies had 10 shots on goal compared to Trinity's lone shot on target, and both teams had six corners.

Kinzey saved the only shot he saw in goal for the Huskies.

NHS-3 Hyndman-2

The Huskies overcame a two-goal halftime deficit and defeated Hyndman on the road in sudden-death overtime behind another hat trick from Evans.

After nearly 20 minutes of scoreless action, Timothy Donaldson scored two goals in quick succession to give Hyndman a 2-0 lead going into the half.

Evans responded with 19:40 remaining in the match with a goal off an assist by McCann. Evans scored the unassisted equalizer five minutes later to force overtime.

The match looked to be heading into a second overtime period, but Lais found Evans for the deciding goal at the 1:13 mark, and the Huskies came away victorious.

Kinzey came up with four saves for the Huskies in the win.

Northern returns home on Tuesday to face Mountain Ridge at 7 p.m.

Northern Girls Defeat Southern, Keyser, Fort Hill in Shutouts

The Northern Girls' soccer team began the season 3-0 by recording shut-out victories over Southern, Keyser, and Fort Hill.

Northern-7 Southern-0

The Huskies opened the season with an emphatic 7-0 win over the Southern Rams last Tuesday at Southern.

Jinny Warn dealt the first blow to the Rams with an unassisted goal at the 33:18 mark. Bailee Upole followed nearly a minute later with an unassisted goal.

After some long spells of possession, Abby Schneider scored two goals within two minutes, assisted by Kaitlyn Smith and Upole, to give the Huskies a 4-0 lead heading into halftime.

The Rams were kept off the score sheet during the second half, and Northern's front line was able to break through again when Warn passed to Gracie Metz for a goal with 20:39 left in the match.

Schneider completed her hat trick just 24 seconds later, assisted by Warn.

Warn scored her second goal when she was assisted by Metz just four minutes later.

Northern-3 Keyser-0

The Huskies used three first-half goals to lift themselves over Keyser 3-0 last Wednesday on the Tornados' pitch.

Jade Lewis scored her first goal of the season unassisted at the 32:12 mark of the first half.

Warn added an unassisted goal 15 minutes later, and then got herself an assist when she found Upole for the third and final goal in the match with 10:16 left in the first half.

The back line made sure Keyser couldn't break through in the second half, allowing the Huskies to record their second shutout of the season.

Northern-6 Fort Hill-0

The Huskies continued their shutout streak, recording three goals in each half en route to a 6-0 win as they hosted the Fort Hill Sentinels on Monday.

Upole blasted in the first goal off an assist from Warn with 12:15 remaining in the first half. Warn quickly followed with an unassisted goal a minute later.

Schneider added another unassisted goal with 9:20 left in the half to give the Huskies a three-goal cushion.

Upole wasted no time in the second half, scoring an unassisted goal just five minutes after the starting whistle. Thirteen minutes later, Upole completed her hat trick with another unassisted goal.

Bethany Phillips scored the final goal of the match off an assist from Kaitlyn Smith with 2:52 remaining.

Carly Rodeheaver didn't have a lot to do in between the posts, but she still made four saves in the shutout.

Northern led in total shots (21-4) and corner kicks (4-1).

The unbeaten Huskies will resume action at Allegany on Monday.

SHS Golfers Finish 33-0, Brings Home Fourth-Consecutive AMAC Title

The Southern High School golfers (33-0) finished the regular season undefeated after capturing the team's fourth-straight Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference title at the Cumberland Country Club in 18 holes last Thursday.

The Rams followed with wins at the Preston County Country Club on Monday and the Fantasy Valley Golf Course in McHenry.

AMAC Event

The Rams won the AMAC title with ease with a team score of 338, good enough for a 35-stroke cushion over second-place Mountain Ridge (373).

Allegany (381), Bishop Walsh (418), Frankfort (421), and Keyser (437), rounded out the team scores for the event.

The Southern duffers carded five of the top 10 individual scores at the event, led by tournament-leader Zach Wesolowski, whose tally of 77 was the only sub-80 score at the event.

Brandon Hill (86), Christian Jordan (87), and Kulen Flanigan (88), filled out the rest of the Rams' scorecard with the third, fourth, and fifth lowest marks of the tournament.

Zack Harvey's 91 strokes put him in a tie at seventh individually with Keyser's Jacob Stanislawczyk and Mountain Ridge's Seth Johnson.

Brady Merrick tallied a 95 for the Rams to complete the team's effort.

Jacob Blank teed his way to a second-place individual finish for Mountain Ridge with a score of 84.

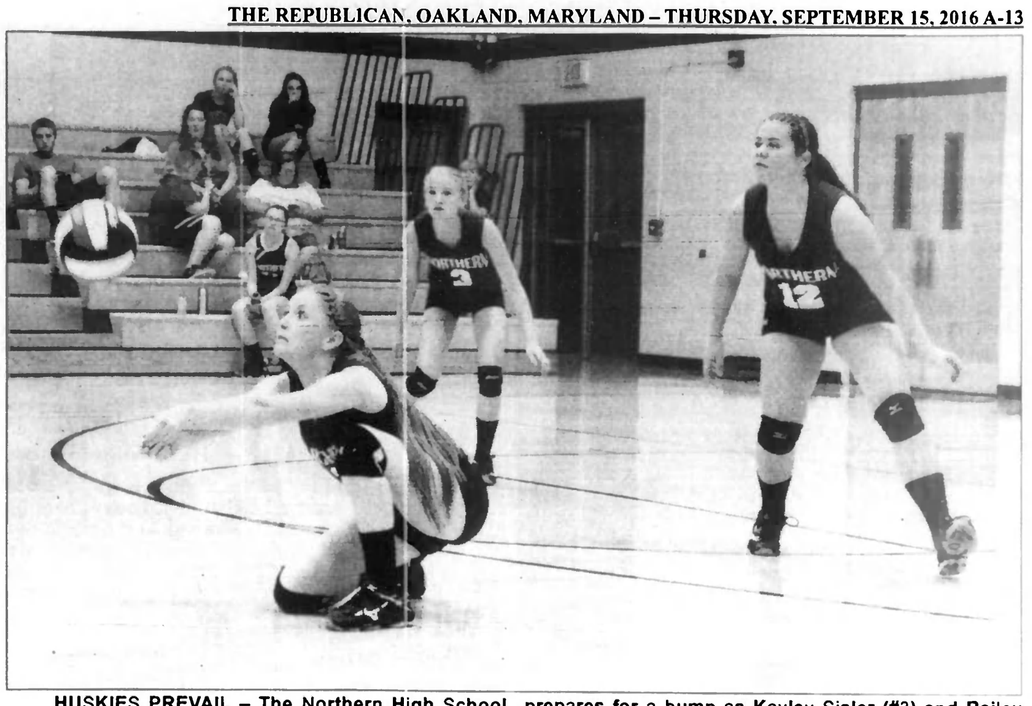
Allegany's Tim Sterne (90) and Bruce Appel (92) led the Campers and enjoyed the sixth and tenth best individual scores that afternoon.

Northern sent three golfers to the event to compete individually, led by Lance Smith who knocked in a 94. Shawn Zimmerman and Drew Talbot followed with 119 and 126, respectively.

Preston Country Club

The Southern duffers traveled to the Preston Country Club on Monday and narrowly escaped with a win over Preston County, 159-162.

Flanigan tied as the low medalist with Preston's Mathew Allen and Caleb Osborne with a mark of 37.



HUSKIES PREVAIL – The Northern High School volleyball team swept Keyser in three sets to improve to 2-1 on the season. Pictured above, Kendra Friend (#2) prepares for a bump as Kayley Sisler (#3) and Bailey Burdock (#12) prepares to make a play on the ball. See stories for details. Photos by Lindsay Mulliken.

Harvey trailed just behind the leaders after knocking in a tally of 40, while Wesolowski and Merrick each teed their way to 41 strokes, helping the Rams gain a slight edge in the final score.

The Huskies were once again led individually by Smith, with a score of 52, followed by Talbott (53) and Zimmerman (65).

Fantasy Valley

Wesolowski and Merrick each led the Rams with a score of 44, as Southern carded a 188 for a first-place finish at the Fantasy Valley Golf Course.

Mountain Ridge (202) came in second behind the Rams, followed by Tucker County (212) and Northern (244).

Hill knocked in a 48 to tie Tucker's Carleigh Bolyard for the fourth-best individual score at the event.

Flanigan and Harvey each carded a 50 for the Rams, and Jordan rounded out the team's top six with a 51.

Southern also brought CJ Davis (46), Paige Smith (62), Brandon Green (61), and Trent Lohr (65) as extras, whose scores did not count toward the final total.

Mountain Ridge's Drew Shimko led the pack with a tournament-leading mark of 43.

The Huskies were led by Smith (49), followed by Talbot (59), Zimmerman (67), and Bailey Umbel (69), to fill out the team's scorecard.

The Rams will tee off at the Black Rock Country Club on Tuesday for the regional tournament. Southern golfers will participate in a warm-up round on Monday, with the buses leaving at 11:15 a.m.

Homer Leads Southern Cross Country With Gold At Elkins, Mountain Ridge

Declan Horner led the pack and earned a first-place individual finish for the Southern boys' cross country team at the Forest Festival Cross Country Meet in Elkins, W.Va., on Saturday, and at the Mountain Ridge Invitational on Tuesday.

Horner also opened the season with a third-place run in the Interstate Classic at Clear Spring on Sept. 3.

Interstate Classic

Horner, Ryan Hebb, and Zack Warnick all garnered top ten finishes at the Interstate Classic to lead the Rams to the Small School Division Title.

Horner led the team with a third-place time of 16:59.7.

Jared Lais represented Northern and ran for a time of 18:38.3 to finish in 16th place.

Southern and Northern both posted top 10 individual times in the girls meet at the Interstate Classic.

Katie Keefer (22:31.5) finished eighth for the Rams, and Michaela Vitez (22:46.7) followed in 10th for the Huskies.

Forest Festival

The Rams finished as the team runner-up with 70 points, shortly behind host-team Elkins who finished with 65.

Horner led the 112-runner pack with a time of 18:21.49 over the three-kilometer course. Hebb finished third (19:09.16) and Christian Jordan ran in 10th (20:08.99) for the Rams.

The Southern girls finished seventh as a team with a score of 137. Nicholas County won with 28 points.

Sam Swift led the Rams with a time of 27:40.69, good enough for the 18th-best individual time.

Mountain Ridge Invitational

The Rams won the boys' title and the Huskies won the girls' title at the Mountain Ridge Invitational on Tuesday evening.

Horner paced his way to a gold medal finish with a time of 17:10, nearly a full minute ahead of second-place teammate Hebb (18:01).

Southern's boys placed three runners in the top four en route to a first-place team score of 27.

Fort Hill scraped by Northern 76-78 to grab silver for the team. Bishop Walsh (89) crossed in fourth, followed by Keyser (115) and host Mountain Ridge (160)

Southern's Warnick placed fourth overall (19:34), and Bryson Wilks took ninth (20:50).

Cole Bennett (20:13) ran in sixth for the Huskies, followed by teammate Caleb Barclay's eighth-place time (20:23).

The Northern girls took the gold with relative ease, finishing with five runners in the top 10 for a team score of 23.

Anna Roten crossed the finish line 10 seconds ahead of teammate Faith Parandhamia, 22:49 to 22:59, to take home the guls' individual title.

Keyser finished second (61), followed by Southern's 74. Fort Hill edged Mountain Ridge for fourth place, 97-98.

Kylee Peck ran her way to fourth in 23:58 for the Huskies. Ella Warnick paced her way to a seventh-place time of 26:29, followed by teammate Becca Meyers (26:51) who finished in ninth.

Swift led the Rams with a fifth-place run with a time of 25:35.

The Rams and Huskies will both compete in the Broadford Invitational hosted by Southern High School next Tuesday at 4 p.m.

SGAA Meeting Scheduled For Upcoming Monday

The next monthly meeting of the Southern Garrett Athletic Association is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 19, at 6 p.m. in the cafeteria of Southern High School.

Agenda items will include the election of officers and appointment of committees.

The meeting will also feature discussions about seasonal awards assemblies, booster events, membership, fundraising, and the annual scholarships.

All students, parents, and community members interested in supporting Southern High School's student athletes are invited to attend.

Double-Amputee Hector Picard To Be Among SavageMan Participants

RACING FOR TRINITY-GRACE – Hector Picard of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., lost both of his arms in a work-related accident in 1992, but he has nonetheless excelled as a triathlon athlete, and will be among those participating in Garrett County's SavageMan Triathlon this Sunday. Around his neck during the race will be a photo of Trinity-Grace, pictured below, a patient at Broward Children's Center (BCC) in Florida. Born premature at 29 weeks weighing 1 pound, 3 ounces, she was given only a 10% chance of surviving. Now at 3 years old, she's the size of a 6-month-old child. She has no formal diagnosis, as doctors cannot determine why she is small for her age. Despite her small statue, she enjoys playing with her tablet, taking photos, and Mickey and Minnie Mouse. She also loves music, and hopes to be a singer when she grows up. Picard has a goal of raising $50,000 for BCC via his participating in some two dozen triathlons this year. See story. (Photo of Trinity-Grace courtesy of Broward Children's Center.)

Among the scores of competitors who will participate in this weekend's SavageMan Triathlon in Garrett County will be double amputee and internationally known motivational speaker Hector Picard of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Picard will swim the 2.2 miles, bike 55.7 miles, and run 13.1 miles, all with a photo of 3-year-old Trinity-Grace around his neck.

Tiffany Grace is currently receiving treatment at Broward Children's Center (BCC) in Pompano Beach, Fla. She was born premature, weighing only 1 pound, 3 ounces, and was given only 10% chance of surviving.

Upon completion of Sunday's race, Picard will present Trinity-Grace with his finisher's medal to inspire the little girl to keep fighting and overcome the obstacles that lie ahead for her. This is part of Picard's #RacingForTrueChampions campaign, through which he races to inspire children and raise crucial funds for the Broward facility.

The SavageMan will also be an important training race for Picard as he attempts to become the first double-amputee to finish the Ironman World Championship in Hawaii this October.

Picard nearly lost his life in 1992 at the age of 24 when he was involved in a work-related accident that left him in a coma and ultimately cost him the loss of both of his forearms.

Picard said that in his new condition he had dreams of doing more than just merely existing. He said he needed to find a way to be active again, and be there for his family. He is a husband, father of four, and a grandfather. He has completed over 100 triathlons since 2009, including four Ironman distances. This year alone he will be competing in 25 triathlons all over the nation in the name of children at BCC. He has set a goal to raise $50,000 for BCC, and will be wearing a picture of each child on his uniform when he races.

Hector is sponsored by and serves as a spokesman for Novation Settlement Solutions, which he credits for helping launch his "second chance" at life as a triathlete.

Picard started dontstopliving.org, a resource and support system for all individuals with obstacles in life. Whether they are disabled, going through personal issues, or "just down on their luck," Picard says he wants everyone to know that no adversity is too great when one embraces life through hard work and positive thinking.

Sailing Regatta Raises Funds For Medical Center

The Deep Creek Lake Yacht Racing Association hosted its first-ever Fair Winds Regatta this past weekend, an event which raised over $3,300 to donate to the Garrett Regional Medical Center.

According to an association spokesperson, the term "air winds" comes from a traditional sailors' farewell, and an example of its use is in Herman Melville's Moby Dick, published in 1851, where it reads: "Let me square the yards while we may, old man, and make a fair wind of it homeward."

"In other words," said the spokesperson, "let me square the yards (add on all sail) and make a safe journey home. The Fair Winds Regatta remembers those who once sailed with the local sailing community, but have now made that last, safe journey home."

The DCYRA conducts sailboat races on the lake every weekend through the summer, and the races include members from both the Deep Creek Yacht Club at Turkey Neck and the Deep Creek Yacht Club at Deerhaven. The new Fair Winds Regatta was suggested by DCYRA member Larry Anderson to honor those with whom local sailors have enjoyed sailing, but are now deceased.

Participation in the regatta is free, but participants are asked to consider a charitable donation to some Garrett County organization concerned with caring for people in the area, as a "thank-you" from the local sailing community to the larger community. The Garrett Regional Medical Center was selected as the recipient for donations this year.

"Even though the Fair Winds is about serious purposes, remembrance, and giving support to the local community, the regatta participants are sailors, meaning they have fun," said Marty Hill, DCYRA president. "This year's event had several improbable features, including recycled trophies. Regatta organizers solicited donations of old trophies to give away once more as prizes for Fair Winds, saving money for the charitable donations. Because of this, Fair Winds trophies were a hilariously mismatched collection, including dents and a good bit of tarnish, with various inscriptions from races and regattas all over the country."

Hill added that this year's regatta also included a fair trade rule.

"Depending on where they finished, awardees could swap trophies for those they liked better from other winners," he said.

The only award which could not be swapped was the that presented to the Masters Division first-place finisher. Donated by regatta principal race officer Mark Schaefer, that award is a gold-painted bucket, filled with ice, containing one bottle of very low-cost bourbon whiskey, and several bottles of similarly budget-sensitive champagne, to be used in the regatta's closing toast. After the sailing and the awards presentation, the Fair Winds ended with a toast to sailors remembered.

Hill said that Masters Division winner Dick Gregory is responsible to refill the golden bucket for the toast at next year's regatta.

DCYRA noted its appreciation to PRO Mark Schaefer, registrar Larry Anderson, mark boat captain Mark Bennett, safety boat patrols Don and Barbara Griffin, John Mandryk, and Jacob and Sarah Nill, and the commodores and members of both Deep Creek Lake yacht clubs for making the Fair Winds Regatta a success.

Southern Defeats Berkeley Springs In Boys Soccer

The Southern High School boys' soccer team earned its first win of the season after defeating Berkeley Springs 3-1 on Saturday at Southern.

Will Baker gave the Rams an early lead when Patrick Duggan fed him the ball for a goal at the 31:28 mark in the first half

Joey McComas made it 2-0 off a pass from Luke O'Brien with just over 14 minutes remaining in the half

Devin Landers converted on a penalty kick just two minutes after the halftime whistle to give the Rams a 3-0 lead.

Berkeley's Zach Fulton scored a goal midway through the second half but the Rams were able to hold on thanks to Logan Hinebaugh's 16 saves.

Berkeley Springs led 20-19 in shots and 4-2 in corner kicks.

The Rams will travel to Fort Hill on Saturday to take on the Sentinels at 12:30 p.m. Jayvee kickoff time begins at 11 a.m.

Southern Volleyball Falls To Frankfort In Three-Set Sweep

The Southern Rams' volleyball team fell to 0-3 after getting swept in three sets by Frankfort on Monday on the Rams court.

The game scores were 25-12, 26-24, and 25-12.

Morgan Winegardner led the Rams with five points, one ace, and five digs.

Julia Hershman spread the ball around and had five assists to go with her six points and two digs. Tailor Mayne added five points and two kills for Southern.

The junior varsity Rams (0-3) were also swept by Frankfort, with scores of 25-12 and 25-8.

Madison Shaffer scored three points and served up two aces and four digs to lead the Rams.

Haley McCrobie also scored an ace along with two points. Nina Hillen added a point with two assists.

The Rams will go for their first win this evening as the team travels to Keyser, W.Va. for a 5:30 p.m. match.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

THE FAIR WINDS REGATTA
by Marty Hill

Sailboats are wind-driven machines, and after the relatively still, moist air of summer, September typically ushers in cooler temperatures and higher winds for lake sailing. Power boat traffic also drops off after Labor Day, and if you ask any sailor what to do with higher winds, cooler temperatures, and fewer power boats, the answer will always be, "Let's have a regatta!" Thus was born the Fair Winds Regatta, which was held Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday was warm, but had great 10–15 mph winds coming out of the southwest. To let sailors take advantage of the wind and give them room to sail, principal race officer Mark Schaefer laid out a windward-leeward course, with the windward mark just west of the Turkey Neck Yacht Club, and the leeward (downwind) mark well out into the lake, just south of Holy Cross. Since the Fair Winds would be the last regatta of the season on the lake, Mark wanted to offer the sailors something a little different, so he laid out a leeward "gate."

A gate is a set of two marks between which the boats must pass, but once through may choose to round either on the right or the left to head back up for the next windward leg. Imagine sailboats in a slow-speed blender and you'll have a reasonably accurate picture of how a gaggle of sailboats look sailing through a gate. And, as if this weren't "different" enough, PRO Schaefer also decided on a downwind finish. These are rarely done on Deep Creek, but very exciting, as the boats all cross the line with their spinnakers fully deployed and flying before the wind.

The Fair Winds included a Laser Open and three divisions of Scots; the Challengers (entry-level sailors), Championship (advanced level sailors), and Masters (skipper plus crew age equal 120 years or more). All the divisions are competitive, but the Masters division is particularly tough, since the masters are some of the most experienced sailors on the lake and sail only one race per day, so there are fewer chances to make up for a single bad race.

Masters skipper Alice Kemp reported from the first race

"It was my first race in the Masters division. Sailing with the masters appealed to me because I could sail in just one race instead of the usual two or three, and still have time to work in a bicycle ride later. But the masters are some of the best sailors in our club, so I thought I'd just start behind them and stay out of their way!

"There was a good steady breeze in northern area of the race, but the southern half was spotted with squirrely wind gusts, often surprising us with a dramatic change in wind direction. It reminded me of times I've come around a tight bend in the road on my bike, only to see a squirrel right in front of my tire and having a split second to decide which way to go! This kind of wind is a whimsical dance to which your boat must react as gracefully as possible. But somehow, by the end of the dance, we managed to cross the finish line first!"

In the heat of the first race battle, experienced Laser sailors Charles Graham, Quoc Tran, Greg Shafer, and Peter Frey didn't notice the "W2" sign on the signal boat and attempted to finish after only one lap. After some well-intentioned hooting and interaction with the signal boat, they proceeded to complete their second lap well behind Josh Bullock and Anne Graham (Charles' wife). Josh and Anne are formidable Laser sailors in their own right, evidently made the more so by their reading the course signals

On Sunday, we had much cooler temperatures and a 11 – 16 mph wind coming now out of the northwest. From the sailboat perspective, this means the wind was coming right down the main body of the lake from the Glendale bridge. PRO Schaefer laid out the windward-leeward gate/downwind finish course that had been so successful on Saturday, this time with the windward mark up near Paradise Point, and the leeward gate again well out into the lake between Thousand Acres and Turkey Neck. The wind and large lake area available to the racers produced spectacular sailing and some of the closest finishes this writer has ever seen. In the Championship division, four boats finished within a few feet of one another. In the Masters division, two of the boats finished with less than 6 inches of separation.

High winds can stress equipment, and one of the highlights of Sunday's racing was watching Scot Championship skipper Ray Gauthier and crew Barbara Grunbaum recover from a main sheet failure, just before they rounded the leeward gate. There is a lot going on in a sailboat at that point in the race – other boats are close, the spinnaker has to be taken down, the centerboard must be lowered, and the main sheet – the line with which the skipper controls the main sail – has to be taken in as quickly as possible to prepare the boat to turn back upwind. Ray's main sheet tackle failed at the worst possible moment, but great sailor that he is, he quickly cobbled together a temporary fix and got back in the race, though it did cost him and Barbara five or six places at the finish.

In all, the Fair Winds Regatta lived up to its name, and we are looking forward to running this new regatta again next year.

Finally, in an editing oversight, we failed to mention that the winners of the top two annual sailing awards on the lake were Darrell and Kris Van Hutten, who won the Harry Carpenter Sportsman of the Year award, and Joni Palmer, who won the DCYRA President's Award.

VOLUME 39. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1914. NUMBER 29.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

For Passing Worthless Checks. For Rubbing Ginseng Farm.

Friday last Jacob Cantowis had a preliminary hearing before Squire Dunham, on the charge of passing worthless checks. He bought cattle from the farmers in the vicinity of Oakland giving checks on the bank which were returned worthless, because of no funds in the bank. Among those who received checks were Henry Smouse, of near Oakland, and Charles Ashby of Deer Park. Cantowis was committed to jail, on failing to furnish bond, for action of the grand jury, December term of court.

Saturday morning Charles W. House had a preliminary trial before Squire Hudkill, for stealing 75 pounds of ginseng from B. S. Wilt, near Bond. The ginseng was valued at $112.50. House had disposed of all the ginseng except 18½ pounds. He was committed to jail for action of the grand jury, December term of court.

Straus Has Spent $3,847 70.

Isaac Lobe Straus, candidate for the United States Senate, to succeed John Walter Smith, submitted to the secretary of the Senate his statement of campaign contributions and expenditures.

In all Mr. Straus declares that he has expended during his campaign $3,847.70, divided between the cost of newspaper advertising and mass meetings. There was contributed to his expenses the sum of $125 in money. Mr. Straus spent $40.00 for his meeting in Oakland.

June Term of Court

Last Monday morning Judge Hunter Boyd came up from Cumberland and opened the June term of court.

Arlo Hanlon charged with selling liquor without license plead guilty and was fined $20.00 and costs and put on parole.

Three or four appeal cases were heard. Judge Boyd will render his decision at a later date.

Court adjourned about 4 p. m. and the Judge returned to Cumberland.

TO CHANGE ELECTION DAY.

First Monday in November Proposed in House Bill.

The first Monday in November, instead of the Tuesday following the first Monday, is proposed as election day for the selection of members of Congress and Presidential electors in a bill introduced in the House by Representative Roberts, of Massachusetts.

The idea is that Monday, being the first day after the day of rest, will bring out more voters than Tuesday, a day breaking into the middle of the week.

A Deserved Promotion.

Mr. Guss E. Newman, formerly of this place, but who went to Charleston, W. Va., about one year ago, has been promoted to the position of Division Equipment Foreman his duties being central office inspection and switchboard construction. Guss is a young man of sterling ability and takes pride in his chosen profession. He started to work as night operator at this place before he completed his high school course staying in Oakland until after his graduation from the high school after which he worked on the lines and in the central offices in this section and at Piedmont and Keyser and was then taken to Cumberland, where he always made good as his promotions indicate, and we bespeak for him the top of the ladder before he stops climbing.

Married

SHIRER—MILLER—At the home of the bride's parents, Grantsville, last Sunday, Rev. L. P. Young, pastor of the Lutheran church, married Arthur J. Shirer to Miss Orpha Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel H. Miller. It was a very pretty wedding. The newly weds are spending a week at the home of the groom's parents, after which they will be at home to their many friends, at the home of the bride's parents.

Thieves broke into the Green Springs B. & O. Station Monday night. They failed to get any money. Agent Schill lost a few articles out of his wardrobe.

To the Farmers of Garrett County:

This is the opportune time for the Farmers of Garrett County to raise their own bread. It is more than probable that wheat will be exceedingly high for a long time to come.

We are preparing to run our wheat mill every day and will have an experienced wheat and buckwheat miller in charge.

If the farmers will increase their wheat acreage so as to justify it, will guarantee that their wheat will be ground in an up-to-date and first-class manner.

EVERY MARYLAND CITIZENS' VOTE IS AT STAKE

New Registration All Over State At Hand.

The vote of every citizen of Maryland is at stake.

By the provisions of a law passed by the last legislature a new registration of all voters in Maryland is ordered this year. Old registration books will be out of date after the primary election Tuesday. The new enrollment will cost the state in the neighborhood of $100,000. In the counties it has been deferred from year to year, and it would have deferred again if the Democrats had not been caught napping. A law passed in 1910 provided for a new registration this year. The Democrats passed a bill during the last session again deferring the work, but Governor Goldsborough vetoed it. Therefore the act of 1910 became operative. The postponing bill was vetoed by the Governor after the adjournment of the legislature. The Democratic majorities in the Senate and House did not, therefore, have an opportunity to pass it over his veto.

Since the adoption of the direct primary in nominating candidates, there has been an obvious need of a new enrolment of voters in the counties, where the registration books did not show party affiliation. Hence, Republicans and Democrats voted in the primaries according to their own declarations regarding their party connection. A looseness has, therefore, characterized the primaries in rural communities. For the first time in Maryland voters in the counties will be asked to reveal their party affiliation when they register. They can give the desired information or classify themselves as "unaffiliated," in which case they will not be permitted to vote in the primaries.

Notice to Exhibiters.

All exhibitors in the ladies or antique department of the coming Garrett County Fair are requested to send in their exhibits before the date of the Fair with name of the exhibitor and a list of the articles sent but not attached to the exhibit, so that a complete record can be made of all exhibits. A brief history of any article offered for the antique department should be attached to that article with the name of the exhibitor.

Mission at St. Peter's Church.

A mission will be given by Rev. F. A. Byrne, of the LaCrosse Apostolate, on Sunday, Sept. 20, at St. Peter's Catholic church. The mission will open at 10.30 a. m. and will continue for one week, during which services will be as follows: Masses with instructions, 5 and 8 a. m.; sermons, 7.45 p. m.

The object of the mission is to offer extraordinary opportunities for hearing the Word of God and for receiving the sacraments worthily. The church enriches with special graces all who make the mission well. In the words of St. Paul: "We exhort you that you receive not the grace of God in vain. For he saith: 'In an accepted time I have heard thee and in the day of salvation have I helped thee. Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.'"

The mission is for non-Catholics as well as for Catholics and a cordial invitation is extended to our non-Catholic friends.

Registration Days in 1914.

Second sitting, Wednesday, Sept. 23.
Third sitting, Tuesday, Oct. 6.
Fourth sitting, Wednesday, Oct. 7.
Fifth sitting, Tuesday, Oct. 13.
No new names added at the fifth sitting.

Harsh Reunion.

The 4th annual Harsh Reunion was held at the Wesley Wotring grove one mile south of Aurora, W. Va., August 26, 1914, with an attendance of over 200. After an opening address by Rev. Shrader dinner was partaken of which was enjoyed by all present. After dinner Revs. Woods, Hauser, and Wolf gave short talks followed by music and recitations after which a business meeting was held for the arrangements of the next reunion, choosing the following officers: President Henry Harsh; Secretary, Ira Harsh; Treas., Walter Feather.

Those present from a distance were, Luther Harsh, of Jasper, Mich., John Harsh, Mrs. Sarah Wilt and daughter, Miss Hazel of Blissfield, Mich. The 5th annual Harsh Reunion will be held at the Wotring grove on August 26, 1915. All departed for their homes after having spent a very pleasant day.

LOCAL OPTION LEAGUE COLUMN

Practical Suggestions on Local Option Campaign.

On the third day on November, not quite seven weeks distant, the voters of Garrett county will decide whether intoxicating liquors shall be sold in this county or not. That is the issue, and nothing else.

Through the efforts of Senator Speicher the legislature of Maryland and the Governor of the State conferred the privilege of deciding the question upon the qualified voters of Garrett county.

The responsibility of the sale of liquors in Garrett county after April 30, 1915, rests upon the individual voters of the county and no one else. It is a duty no man can shrink. The man who fails to go to the polls and cast his ballot, is a vote FOR SALE of liquor and its ruinous effect, just as much so as to cast a ballot for legalizing its sale.

There is no dodging the question. We are AGAINST THE SALE of intoxicants or we are FOR THE SALE of liquor. It is up to us as voters to decide the question. No man is exempt from this responsibility. The word of God says: "Woe unto him who putteth the cup" etc. Not to vote, is a vote in favor of "putting the cup," to our neighbor's lips.

A vote against the bill or not to vote, is a vote to legalize drunkard making, riot and murder; is a vote to continue the disgraceful scenes witnessed on our streets resulting from drunkenness.

The local option ticket has nothing to do with politics. It is not a political measure. Because its author is a Republican is no reason why a Democrat should not vote for it; because its author is a member of the church of the Brethren is no reason why a Methodist should not vote for it; because its author is Hon. Harvey J. Speicher, there is no reason under the sun why John Smith or any other man should not vote for it; because a white man had the bill passed through the legislature is no reason why a colored man should vote against it.

We are not voting for a man, we are not voting for a member of a religious denomination, we are not voting for white or black men, but we ARE VOTING WHETHER LIQUOR SHALL BE SOLD IN GARRETT COUNTY OR NOT. That's the question. Nothing else. Shall this work of making drunkards continue? Yea, increase, as it is increasing from week to week, filling the jail at times with drunkards.

It is up to you, Mr. Voter to settle the matter. There is no question of Garrett county voting wet. None in the least, but that does not release you from doing your duty as a christian man, as a moral man. The size of the majority in Garrett county will have much influence in making the State of Maryland dry.

Do not forget to register. This is a duty you owe to God and man. If you fail to register you cannot vote. Every man must register this registration. Next Tuesday and Wednesday are the registration days. Do not forget these dates. Get your neighbors to register. Make this your special business; make a sacrifice, if necessary, to do so. Get busy. Take nothing for granted. We cannot afford to lose a single vote.

Shall Rum Rule and Ruin? What say you?

Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2, in the big fair building and on the fair grounds you will see the splendid specimens of the products of our Garrett county farmers and gardners—a specimen of their work. On the streets of Oakland and in the jail you will see specimens of the work being done through the sale of whiskey? Which do you prefer? Your answer will be recorded in the ballot box Nov. 3d.

The Pere Marquette Railroad has been ordered by United States Judge Tuttle to abolish immediately the sale of liquors on all trains of the system.

The Advertiser, of Clinton, Iowa, says that while eight years ago the saloons in that state numbered 1770, today the total is only 568. Thirteen years ago there were 58 license counties in Iowa; today there are only 12.

Same old story in Atlantic City. Red light business and the saloon business arm in arm. Corruption, law, violation, violence—license is responsible.

They are pinching a good many men in West Virginia for the violation of the prohibition law. Take this as you please. If you are wet it proves prohibition don't prohibit. If you are dry it proves the contrary.

The aged question is, shall Garrett county go dry? This is the time to effectually settle a long-time agitating question, and it should be settled by a full vote, if possible. Let no voter view the chance disinterestedly, nor on the ground that he is "not his brothers keeper." The question of the right or wrong of the sale of liquor is very much deeper than a question of how it affects one individually, or what effect the suppression of licenses may have on the tax rate. General good and general righteousness, alone, should guide the voter. All other considerations are mere quibbles, and an evasion of the heart of the issue.

PLENTY OF APPLES THIS FALL.

Maryland Far Outranked by Some Other States—Crop 210,000,000 Bushels.

An apple crop of 210,000,000 bushels is forecast by the Department of Agriculture which bases its estimate upon its latest reports. That is about 65,000,000 bushels more than last year, but 25,000,000 bushels less than in 1912, and about 4,000,000 less than in 1911. The mean price to producers in the three months of heavy marketing—September, October and November—last year was 86.5 cents a bushel. In 1912 it was 62.3 cents and in 1911 it was 79.7 cents.

Forecast of production by States in thousands of bushels follows:

Maine, 5,500; New Hampshire, 1,700; Vermont, 2,500; Massachusetts, 3,000; Rhode Island, 300; Connecticut 1,800; New York, 35,000; New Jersey, 3,000; Pennsylvania, 19,500; Delaware, 400; Maryland, 3,300; Virginia, 12,300; West Virginia, 10,300; North Carolina, 7,200; Georgia, 1,700; Ohio, 10,500; Indiana, 100; Wisconsin, 2,500; Michigan, 13,000; Minnesota, 900; Iowa, 2,500; Missouri, 11,700; South Dakota, 200, Nebraska, 2,200; Kansas, 4,200; Kentucky, 7,100; Tennessee, 5,900; Alabama, 1,200; Mississippi, 400; Texas, 400; Oklahoma, 1,200, Arkansas, 4,000; Montana, 900; Colorado, 4,400; New Mexico, 900; Arizona, 100; Utah, 800; Nevada, 200; Idaho, 1,500; Washington, 7,600; Oregon, 3,300; California, 5,300.

The Board of School Commissioners have acted wisely in building the new school house at Accident. It is a step in the right direction. Accident deserved a good school building, a building that would compare with the improvements now being made and already made in that prosperous community. The day is not far distant when a successful High school will be located in that village. It is a central location for such a school.

The Friendsville band, with eighteen pieces and F. C. Fox, leader participated in the Businessmen's parade, at Confluence last week. The principal feature of the afternoon was the baby show. The judges were L. S. Lincoln, Uniontown; A. J. Case, Ursina, and A. J. Colborn, Harnedsville. Many beautiful babies were entered, the successful one being Mary Christine Frantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Frantz of Selbysport, this county. A special train was run from Friendsville to Confluence with three hundred excursionists.

BE SURE and attend the Millinery Opening of Miss Ellen Connell on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd. There you will see the new things in headdress.

FSU Named 2016 Public Institution Of Year By Internship Organization

Frostburg State University has been named the 2016 Public Institution of the Year by the Washington Center for Internships and Academic Seminars (TWC). America's largest academic internship program. TWC partners with more than 500 U.S. colleges and universities.

"The Washington Center helps Frostburg arrange summer internships with high-profile organizations in D.C.," said Amy Shimko, FSU's director of student development. "These students gain invaluable experiences and connections, and our state's residents get a great bargain. Maryland students are eligible for a scholarship that covers most of their expenses."

FSU received praise for the engagement of faculty and staff and the growing number of student participants. TWC also highlighted the diverse academic interests represented among Frostburg's interns.

TWC works closely with campus liaisons to pair students with the best internship sites before arranging interviews for students with multiple organizations. Students decide which site fits them best. The most recent cohort from Frostburg included nine students from academic disciplines such as legal studies, mass communication, psychology, economics, and others.

Students in the program take courses through TWC, volunteer in the community, and have regular time for professional development. They also get many opportunities to network.

"I could have worked the typical summer job and made more money, but it wouldn't have pushed me to grow," said April Kinyua of Joppa, a senior dual-majoring in political science and international politics with a minor in Spanish. "I wanted to grow as a person, as a professional, as a human."

Kinyua found a natural fit with the outreach coordinator for the Congressional Hispanic Leadership Institute (CHLI). She performed voter outreach, worked events, communicated with CHLI alumni, did research, and drafted memos and correspondences. Her writing was reviewed by senior leaders. She said that "stepping out of her comfort zone" meant growing in many ways.

"I'm really glad about the different decisions I made this summer," Kinyua said. "I feel I'm more prepared for life in general and ready to pursue whatever comes next without any fear or second guessing myself, especially deciding what to do beyond college. ... I'm really happy I went."

Emily Michael, a senior majoring in English with a concentration in professional writing and minoring in public relations, landed an internship with the Sierra Club, the nation's largest grassroots environmental advocacy organization. She worked on digital strategies, drafting emails and text alerts, figuring how best to reach their audience.

"I got to draft an email that went out to 2.4 million people, which was really cool," said Michael, a resident of Cumberland. "And at my internship site, they were really encouraging. If there was anything going on in the Capitol, they wanted us to go out and do it. ... They always wanted us to be engaged."

As a life-long resident of western Maryland, the experience was Michael's first opportunity to live in a city – a setting that once intimidated her. Yet Michael and her internship supervisor have remained in touch, and she has been encouraged to apply for a job after graduation. She has discovered a newfound interest in politics.

"It was so overwhelming, but I just went for it and I'm so glad I did," Michael said. "I made so many friends. ... I definitely became more open to the idea of working in politics. I never had before, but after you live in D.C., it's all you can think about afterward. I love the city so much!"

Senior Brandon Holmes of Clinton, an exercise and sports science major and a photographer on FSU's student Social Marketing Team, interned with Project Fitness, which promotes healthy lifestyles through fitness to build stronger communities through physical activities. Holmes worked on social media promotion, helping integrate Project Fitness's social media pages into a cohesive digital presence.

"I feel like I know my professional self a lot better and have a lot more direction," he said.

Beyond the skills Holmes gained, he said he appreciated the opportunity to network and volunteer in D.C. He also found a new mentor in the CEO of Project Fitness. They still text regularly, trading advice and ideas, and Holmes was invited to apply for employment after graduation. He said that the experience as an intern has made him more confident for the future and grateful for the experience.

"I think the craziest part about it, because we're Frostburg students, was the scholarship that we get for it," Holmes said.

Maryland students at public institutions are eligible for a $9,000 TWC scholarship that covers the majority of the costs, with financial aid options available to cover any remaining expenses. The Maryland state scholarship is the largest TWC award offered in the country.

The 2016 Public Institution of the Year Award will be received later in September by a delegation consisting of Shimko, FSU president Ronald Nowaczyk, vice president for student affairs Thomas Bowling, and assistant vice president for student affairs Jeffrey Graham.

Shimko has also been invited to join TWC's Liaison Advisory Board, which offers advice and feedback to the organization about its programs and initiatives.

For information about the FSU Career and Professional Development Center, persons are invitred to call 301-687-4403 or go online to www.frostburg.edu/clife/career.

Local Life Coach, Pastor Announces Book Publication

Rev. Ryan M. Miller, Oakland, has announced the recent publication of his book, titled Stepping Stones: A Pathway into His Presence.

Miller says he believes that prayer should be natural and an exciting part of daily life. He added that this was not his experience for many years, though, until he met Dr. Wade E. Taylor, who was residing in Washington D.C. at the time. Miller said that he and Dr. Taylor prayed together, via the telephone, almost daily over a period of about four years.

"Over the course of time, as our friendship grew, I found that my excitement for prayer also began to increase," Miller said.

The elder minister had launched a Bible school, written four devotional books, and traveled extensively Now, five years after Dr. Taylor's death, Rev. Miller has released his first book to honor him.

The book was published by Deeper Life Press in New York. Gracing the cover of the book is a photograph taken by local photographer Patty Tasker

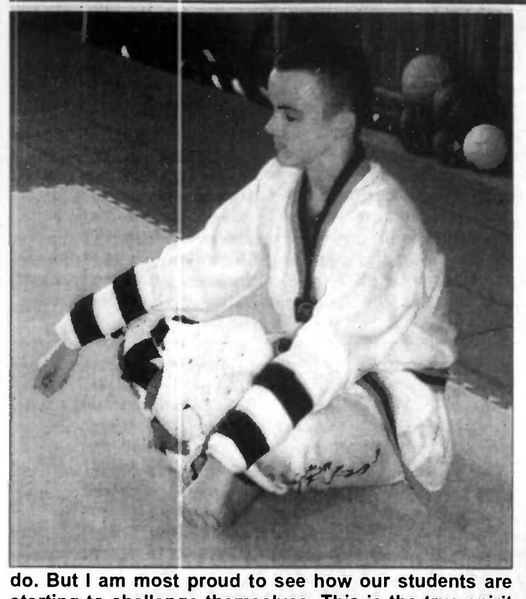
Evangelist Joan Hunter wrote the forward for the book, which says in part: "Stepping Stones. A Pathway into His Presence is a book that combines the Father's heart, the wisdom of an experienced mentor, and great insight from his own journey to provide a fatherless generation a blueprint to fullness in Christ."

Miller is married to the former Christy Decker, daughter of Lloyd and Sharon Decker, Broadford Road. After serving as a pastor in Pennsylvania for some time, the Miller family moved to Oakland last summer. Rev. Miller is the family self-sufficiency manager for Garrett County Community Action, and also has his own small business, Ascend Life Coaching.

Miller is a graduate of Valley Forge University in Phoenixville, Pa. The Millers are active members of the Loch Lynn Church of God, but also travel throughout Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Virginia presenting at churches and faith-based seminars.

The Millers are the parents of two sons.

Copies of the book can be purchased via Amazon or at http://www.findrefuge.tv/store/.



EARN NEW BELTS – Under the direction of Master Dmitry Kubin, several students of the Oakland Martial Arts Academy recently successfully tested for new belts in Tae Kwon Do, a Korean-style of martial arts which was recently showcased at the 2016 Olympics and is characterized by a variety of predominantly kicking techniques. In testing for a higher belt, students are expected to demonstrate their techniques and a variety of self-defenses, perform World Tae Kwon Do Federation-style poomsaes (choreographed sequences of fighting techniques), break boards, demonstrate sparring techniques, and show a knowledge of Korean vocabulary used in this art. Above all, according to Master Kubin, students must demonstrate "a great spirit and self-discipline." Pictured above, from left, are the students who earned new belts. In the front row, from left, are Kilian Crooks (yellow belt), Kaden Newsome (green), Kamdyn Newsome (green with stripe), Jeremiah Myott (green with stripe), and Bryan Maust (green with stripe). In the second row are James Crooks (yellow), Kyle Newsome (green with stripe), Kubin, Jenna Griffith (red with stripe), Austin Walls (green), and instructor Elizabeth Huxford. Above right is Dominic Menear, who earned his red belt with black stripe earlier this year and is pictured breaking two boards simultaneously with his feet. Below right is Mason Wolf, who was also successful in earning his red belt with black stripe earlier this year. "The red-with-black-stripe test is the final one that must be earned before a student can test for his or her black belt," said Kubin. In the photo below, Naden Goughnour (in the background facing the camera) receives a congratulatory bow from all of his fellow students just after being presented with a black belt by Kubin, sent personally to him by Grandmaster Mountain Kim, a Korean Tae Kwon Do and judo champion. "Training in our school is characterized by a unique mix of difficult, exhausting workouts, but with fun activities," said Kubin. "I challenge my students because this is what I need do. But I am most proud to see how our students are starting to challenge themselves. This is the true spirit of Tae Kwon Do!"

Computer Course Scheduled At GC Southern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on computer course at the Southern Outreach Center, Oakland. "Computers: Getting to Know Them: Part I" will be held on Mondays, Sept. 19 and Oct. 3, from 6 to 8 p.m.

This course is designed for the computer novice, and those who wish to learn the basics of computers.

Topics will include desktop functions such as using the cursor, pull-down menus and taskbar; creating folders and storing files; using mouse techniques; and launching applications.

For additional information, persons can contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, persons can call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

GC Retired School Personnel To Hold Fall Mtg. At DCL

The Garrett County Retired Personnel (GCRSP) group will hold its fall meeting on Friday, Sept. 30, at Uno's, Deep Creek Lake. The event will begin at 11:30 a.m. with ordering from the menu. Lunch will be served at noon.

"In order for our group to grow, it is requested that each member invite at least one retired former coworker to attend with them," said a spokesperson. "All retired Garrett County school personnel are welcome to attend."

A special program will be presented by Cherie Krug, Garrett College Foundation director.

"The GCRSP is considering placing our Memorial Scholarship under the umbrella of the foundation in hopes of helping to ensure that the recipient is a second-year education major," the spokesperson said. "Our goal is to be able to give a $500 scholarship to a Garrett County graduate to use toward education expenses."

With this in mind, the GCRSP has launched a community service project to collect donations for the Memorial Scholarship. GCRSP members who are unable to attend the fall meeting may mail their scholarship donations to Donna Miller, 22850 Old Crellin Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

Those planning to attend the meeting are asked to call Miller at 301-616-6887 by Friday, Sept. 23.

POWER PLANT RAISES FUNDS FOR UNITED WAY – Dominion Power officials recently remodeled their safety and lost prevention offices at the Mount Storm Power Station, and instead of disposing of the furniture and wood that were being replaced, employees and contractors submitted bids for the goods, raising $7,544.45 for County United Way (CUW). The proceeds were equally divided among the four local United Ways of Garrett, Allegany, Mineral, and Hampshire counties. Pictured at the check presentation, from left, are Sean Ellifritz, technical specialist; Peter Balkus, director of power generation; Michele Martz, CUW board of directors treasurer; and Mary Beth Pirolozzi, CUW executive director. "Monies raised by County United Way support programs and services in each community, determined by a volunteer committee of local people in each region who find new solutions to old problems by forging unlikely partnerships," Pirolozzi said. "Join Dominion Power and United Way in the fight for health, education, and financial stability for every person in every community." For more information about giving or establishing an employee campaign, persons are invited to call CUW toll free 877-597-2700 or visit www.cuw.org.

CHANGING COLORS OF FRUITS

by Dr. Steven I. Parks

Q. I was surprised at how long it took my tomato plants to turn red this year. Why do fruits and vegetables change color when they ripen?

A. There are two relevant questions: Why and how?

The first has to do with the symbiosis between fruiting plants and the animals that eat them. A fruit is a strategy, developed over millions of years, by which a plant "makes a deal" with an animal. The contract goes as follows: "I'll wrap up my seeds in a delicious, nutritious pulp. You can eat it and get fat, if you'll carry my seeds off somewhere and 'drop' them where they might sprout."

Of course, some animals want to jump the gun. To protect its immature seeds, the plant may embed them in a flesh that is hard and woody, that tastes horrible, or maybe even is poisonous.

When the seeds are ready for spreading, these protections are removed. The flesh becomes soft and sweet, the sour or bitter flavor disappears, and poisons are degraded into harmless sugars or flavors. To signal to the animals that the fruit is ready to eat, the color may change from green to red or yellow or blue. Furthermore, the fruit may broadcast a "fruity" fragrance.

Selective protections may remain. For example, chili peppers are rather punishing to an opossum (or any mammal, such as a human). We don't eat chili peppers like strawberries. Yet birds are much less affected by the active ingredient. Why do the peppers do this? Possums are likely to chew the seeds up and digest them fully, whereas the seeds are guaranteed a safe trip through a bird.

What about "how?" The ripening of fruit usually starts when some gene in the fruit triggers it to start releasing ethylene – a simple hydrocarbon gas that is the basis of such industrial creations as the plastic polyethylene. In plants this chemical acts as a phytohormone. It stimulates genes to release enzymes that turn woody lignins and pulpy starches and sour acids into sweet sugars, dissolving rigid internal bonds and making the fruit mushy. They convert other chemicals into fragrances and flavors. The process also may change the color from a green that says, "Wait a while!" to a color that says, "Eat me!"

Not all fruits depend on the ethylene connection, notably cherries, strawberries, and pineapples. But many others, ranging from tomatoes to apples to bananas to avocados, do. The non-ethylene fruits use a different trigger hormone, but the effects are similar.

As for what causes the plant to "decide" that the seeds are mature, and start releasing the ripening hormone, whether ethylene or some other, that has to be a very complex question. Scientists are working very hard on it, since the answer could have a huge impact on the economics of farming.

Dr. Parks has a Ph.D. in solid-state physics, and most of his career has involved the design of sensors and instrumentation. Side interests include molecular biology, exotic travel, and nature study.

Persons wishing to submit questions for this column are invited to email them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

GCC TECH PREPARING FOR A FUN-FILLED EVENT – GCC Technologies will join Cindy's Fund and the American Cancer Society for the Inaugural Making Strides for Cancer Bralympics, slated for Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Oakland town parking lot and Mountain Fresh pavilion. Shown, from left, preparing for the event's cake walk are GCC employees Michelle Burnett, DeAnna Murphy, and Jerry Durst. "We welcome all people to dress up in pink, bring a decorated bra, and join us for a fun-filled afternoon of games, food, and music for the entire family as we recognize Breast Cancer Awareness Month," said Sandy Bell, Cindy's Fund. For more information, persons are invited to call Brittany Friend at 301-722-2145 or Bell at 301-334-2682, or visit the Cindy's Fund Facebook page.

Adobe Photoshop Class Slated At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a course titled "Introduction to Adobe Photoshop" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Mondays, Sept. 26–Oct. 17, from 6 to 9:15 p.m.

"For those who are brand new to Adobe Photoshop, this course will get you up to speed, and if you've been using Adobe Photoshop for a while, this will be a nice refresher," said a spokesperson

Students will navigate through the Adobe environment and identify the components and tools. They will explore various methods for selecting image areas, and learn how to modify, manipulate, and transform selections to create stunning effects.

"You will discover how to work with text, layers, and layer effects, and how to adjust, retouch, and resize images," added the spokesperson.

The course will be instructed by Laurie Walker, a life-long resident of Garrett County and certified business education teacher.

For additional information, persons can contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by contacting the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

CDL Learner's Permit Prep Class Slated In G'ville

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a commercial driver's license (CDL) learner's permit prep course on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24 and 25, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute in Grantsville.

This two-day course will prepare students for the Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) Class A or B commercial driver permit exam. The course includes instruction on the following topics: general knowledge, air brakes, combination vehicles, and study and test-taking skills.

Entry requirements for the actual commercial driver training program includes the following: be at least 18 years of age, be able to pass a Department of Transportation (DOT) physical, and pass a DOT required drug screen. One must also be able to read English, converse with the public, understand highway signs and signals, respond to official inquiries, and make entries on reports or records.

This course is taught through a combination of lecture, discussion, and hands-on activities. It is recommended that students obtain a CDL manual at their local MVA office and review it prior to the start of class.

For additional information, persons can contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling the college's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Estate Planning Course Slated At Southern Ctr.

"Estate Planning: The Importance of Wills and Trusts" will be held at Garrett College's Southern Outreach Center, Oakland, on Mondays, Sept. 26 and Oct. 3, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. This two-part course will address common questions regarding wills and probate.

An estate plan provides the legal mechanism for disposing of property upon death in a way that recognizes one's wishes and the needs of survivors, while minimizing taxes.

"For many, it can mean planning for the handling of affairs in case of disability, and the personal medical choices to be made as life nears its end," a spokesperson said.

This two-part course will address the common questions regarding wills and trusts. Part one will provide an overview on some of the more noticeable legal and financial issues associated with growing old.

Included in this discussion will be trust basics, with a definition of terms and variations. Other topics will include preserving and managing assets for a safe and secure retirement, staying in and protecting one's home, long-term care insurance, medical assistance, and paying for nursing home care.

There will also be discussion of the legal documents all seniors may wish to consider, such as a will, power of attorney, and advance medical directives.

This portion of the course will be instructed by Grantsville native Brandon James Hoover, who is an attorney in the Law Office of Donald S. Goldbloom and an assistant professor at Allegany College of Maryland.

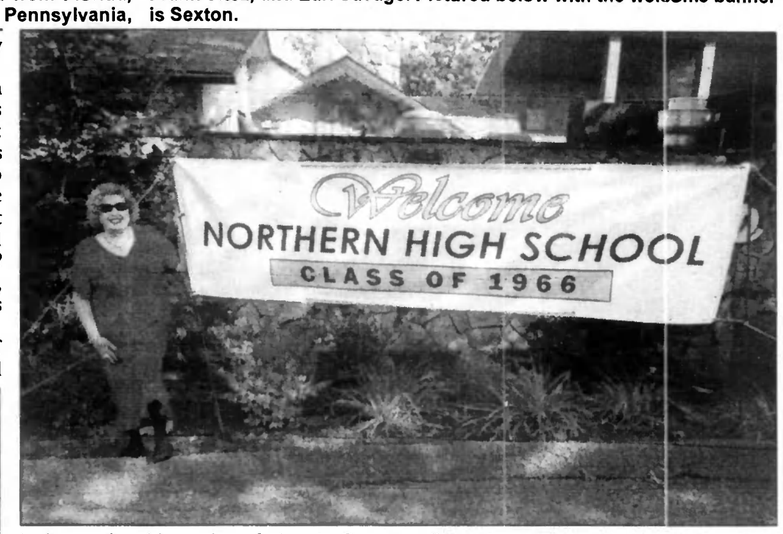
Part two will center on wills and probate. This class will focus on such issues as: What is a will and what does it do? What does it take to draft a will? How does one choose an executor, and what percentage of my assets will be taken as a commission? What is the probate process, and is it necessary for one's estate?

Rita Watson, register of wills for Garrett County, will be instructing this portion of the course.

Additional information is available by contacting Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one can call the college's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

THE NORTHERN HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1966 met last Saturday at Ace's Run Restaurant & Pub, Deep Creek Lake, for its 50-year reunion. A social hour was held, followed by a dinner buffet. Barbara Braskey Moffatt, class president, led the event, assisted by Linda Brenneman Buckel. Bill Kerns served as the master of ceremonies. Vernon Reichenbecher and Mark Johnson offered prayers, and Buckel read the names of the 23 deceased class members, including Ross Fike, Thomas Fike, and Rodger Garlick, who were killed in action in Vietnam. Class members gave a brief summary of what they are doing now, and Donna Butler Kohlhase presented gifts for various achievements. Thirty-four class members attended, including ones who traveled from Florida, Texas, Arizona, Illinois, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Alabama, and Maryland. Pictured in the first row, from left, are Donald Platter, Jenny Bond Lyons, Elaine Garlitz Meyers, Donald Michaels, Buckel, Moffatt, and Reichenbecher. In the second row are Joyce DeWitt Bishoff, Diana Glover Albano, Ruth Deal Paugh, Ed McClintock, Gerald Thomas, Patsy Hutzel Birchfield, Patty Stanton Friend, Judy Coddington Sexton, Johnson, Tommy Butler, Bill Kerns, Duane Yoder, Elden Georg, Dan Brenneman, Roy Deniker, and Bill Enlow. In the third row are Jack Layman, George Edwards, Gretchen Friend-Jones, Barbara Artice Oravitz, Barry Beal, Judy VanSickle Frazee, Joyce Jenkins Hawks, Carolyn Bartholomew Horner, Kohlhase, Frank Vitez, and Earl Savage. Pictured below with the welcome banner is Sexton.



Picnic In Park Set To Celebrate Recovery Month

Members of the public are invited to a Picnic in the Park in celebration of National Recovery Month on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Glades Town Park Pavilion, Oakland.

Garrett County is joining communities across the nation in recognizing September as National Recovery Month to increase awareness of behavioral health conditions. This observance promotes the belief that behavioral health is essential to overall health, prevention works, treatment is effective, and people do recover from mental and/or substance use disorders, a spokesperson said.

"We at the health department are celebrating Recovery Month by holding a Picnic in the Park to honor individuals and families who are in recovery," said Jenny Hesse, recovery coach. "Show your support of the recovery community, including those who provide prevention, treatment, and recovery support services, by attending this fun event. We will have kids' games with prizes, door prizes, and lots of picnic food."

The picnic is sponsored by the Behavioral Health Program of the Garrett County Health Department. Recovery Month is sponsored by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The Glades Town Park Pavilion is located at 10 Spruce Lane. For additional information, persons may call 301-334-7680 or 301-895-3111.

GOD & TIME

Time marks the beginning of life. It measures the growth of our bodies. It provides opportunity for our work and play. It reveals to us our human limitations, and then, one day, time leaves us behind. But God is the origin of life; He measures the growth of our souls. He provides our strength and forgives our weakness and reveals His infinite love. If we follow Him, God will lead us on, even beyond the circle of time. Make time for God this week at your house of worship.

Our Brother Jesus

Saint Augustine refers, in one of his sermons, to Jesus as "our brother" and reminds us that Jesus became our brother out of merciful goodness. If Jesus is the son of God and we call God our father then it follows logically that Jesus is our brother. God is both our spiritual and metaphysical father because he is the source of our existence. God's choosing to come to earth and put on human flesh in the person of Jesus makes him our brother in the metaphysical sense that we share the same physical constitution, and the teachings of Jesus, as revealed in the Gospels makes him our spiritual brother. Jesus speaks so convincingly to us in the spiritual realm because he is truly human and truly divine, and he reminds us that we all have the spark of the divine within us—the kingdom of heaven is within us (Luke 17:21). But he also tells us that those who hear the word of God and put it into practice are his brothers (Luke 8:21). So remember that you have a brother in heaven who is also close at hand, ready to help in times of trouble and a sure guide on our journey home. Brother Jesus, keep us safe in your care and guide us to our heavenly home.

— Christopher Simon

"Both the one who makes people holy and those who are made holy are of the same family. So Jesus is not ashamed to call them brothers and sisters."

— Hebrews 2:11 NIV

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was Colombian novelist, short-story writer, screenwriter and journalist Gabriel Garcia Marquez who made the following sage observation: "Words are not created by academics in universities and suchlike; rather it is the man in the street who does so. Dictionary compilers almost always recognize them too late and embalm them in alphabetical order, in many cases when they have lost their original meaning."

* Those who study such things say that when faced with a crisis situation, the average woman tends to remain calmer than the average man.

* You might be surprised to learn that the first printing press in North America was not anywhere within the present-day boundaries of the United States. The very first one was set up in Mexico City, back in 1539.

* In the Talmud, a central text of Rabbinic Judaism, sneezing is called "pleasure sent from God."

* The largest single dormitory in the world is at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland. With 4.8 miles of corridors and providing 33 acres of floor space, Bancroft Hall provides a home for the school's entire brigade of 4,000 midshipmen.

* Many people harbor a fear of snakes (which, incidentally, is known as ophidiophobia), but venomous bites and constricting squeezes aren't the only ways a snake can kill. For instance, in the 1990s a man in Iran, while trying to capture a snake, placed the butt of his shotgun against the snake's neck behind its head. In attempting to escape, the snake wrapped the length of its body around the gun, pulling the trigger in the process -- and killing its would-be captor.

* According to historians, Native Americans who lived on the Pacific coast often weaned their babies on caviar. ***

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Sept. 22, 1598, famed playwright Ben Jonson is indicted for manslaughter after a duel. His ability to read and write saved him, and he claimed "benefit of clergy," which allowed him to be sentenced by the lenient ecclesiastical courts.

* On Sept. 25, 1789, the first Congress of the United States approves 12 (of an original 17) amendments to the U.S. Constitution. Only 10, known as the Bill of Rights, were initially ratified by the states.

* On Sept. 21, 1866, H.G. Wells, pioneer of science fiction, is born in Bromley, England. Wells worked as a draper's apprentice and bookkeeper before becoming a freelance writer. In 1895, he published "The Time Machine," about a man who journeys to the future.

* On Sept. 24, 1890, faced with the eminent destruction of their church and way of life, Mormon leaders reluctantly issue the "Mormon Manifesto" in which they command all Latter-day Saints to uphold the anti-polygamy laws of the nation.

* On Sept. 23, 1933, American Standard Oil geologists land in Saudi Arabia and begin their search for oil. The next year the Arabian American Oil Company (a joint venture with the Saudi government) exported its first tanker-load of petroleum. In 1980 the Saudis won control of the company.

* On Sept. 19, 1959, in one of the Cold War's more surreal moments, Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev enjoys lunch with Frank Sinatra and photo ops with Shirley MacLaine, and then explodes with childish anger when he learns that he cannot visit Disneyland. Authorities feared that the crowds would pose a safety hazard.

* On Sept. 20, 1973, in a highly publicized "Battle of the Sexes" tennis match, top women's player Billie Jean King, 30, beats 55-year-old Bobby Riggs, former No. 1 ranked men's player, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. Riggs had boasted that women were inferior.

Helping in Disasters What to Donate?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: As the flood waters in Louisiana recede, shelters there are calling for assistance in caring for pets that were lost or abandoned when residents fled their homes. I want to help, but I feel a little insulted that many charities are just asking for money up front. I'm sure I could collect pet food or blankets for these shelters and mail them to the area. What's your take? -- Greg in El Paso, Texas

DEAR GREG: While the seemingly constant emails and TV spots asking for money to help shelter animals can be annoying, there are some very good reasons why cold hard cash is often the best option -- particularly in large-scale disasters. First, shelters in a disaster area -- and national organizations like the American Humane Association or the Humane Society that pledge to help -- need specific items, they need them in big quantities, and they need them yesterday. They don't have time to sort through random donated items to find a few usable things. (For example, shelters don't use clumping cat litter because it's a health issue for kittens.) With cash donations, these organizations can buy exactly what they need and get it delivered quickly. Now, local shelters in your area may be OK with donated goods like old blankets, newspapers, unopened pet food and new toys. It's important to check with them first -- visit their website for a list of needs, and follow up with a phone call to confirm their list is up to date. They also like cash, too. Check out pet charities online at sites like Charity Navigator before donating money, and then decide how you would like to help -- either nationally, or locally. Send your questions or pet care tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Collecting by Larry Cox

Q: I purchased a round tin container at a farm auction several years ago and wonder about its original purpose. It was sold with kitchen items. The lid is stamped with images of wheat and appears to be quite old. What do you think? -- Audrey, Victorville, California
A: This is just a guess, but I suspect you have a biscuit or cookie box. During the Victorian era -- especially in farm houses -- there were often rodents, and tin containers were used to keep baked goods fresh and prevent the contents from being contaminated by pests, including both mice and insects. I make this assumption since it was sold at a farm auction with kitchen items.

Q: I have about 75 pieces of sheet music from the World War II-era. My aunt used to sing with the Perry Como and Lawrence Welk orchestras, and the music is part of her collection. -- Sandra, Port Orange, Florida
A: Most sheet music from the 1940s seems to be priced in the $2 to $5 range, but there are always exceptions. For example, sheet music featuring film personalities such as Betty Grable, Alice Faye and Frank Sinatra are popular with collectors. As you might imagine, prices vary. Early pieces of ragtime, Black Americana and jazz compositions are among the most valuable. Wayland Bunnell is a sheet music expert and appraiser. Contact is c/o Clean Sheets, 199 Tarrytown Rd., Manchester, New Hampshire 03103. ***
Q: I have a Smith Corona Super Steriing typewriter that is about 30 years old. Where can I find a ribbon for it? -- Earl, Livington, Tennessee
A: Bill Wahl is the owner of Mesa Typewriter Exchange, and he specializes in obsolete and difficult to find ribbons for older typewriters. His company has been in business since 1949, and I am certain he can help you. Contact Wahl at 30 South Macdonald, Mesa, AZ 85210; MesaTypewriterExchange@yahoo.com; and 480-964-3603.

Q: I have a small collection of about a dozen cigarette lighters from the 1940s and '50s. Is there a club for collectors? -- Barbara, Irving, Texas

Birding BITS by Cindy Brook

Clarification

A concerned reader wrote about my recent recommendation to plant thistle to attract bees, explaining that some thistles are invasive. In fact, in some states it's illegal for such plants to be "sold or propagated." Remember, valuable native plants in some parts of the country can be harmful pests in others.

These forms are available online at the MVA website or can be picked up in the Counseling Center or outside the Main Office in the forms holder. This form must be completed and signed by the parent and student and then a school signature is required, and it must be placed in a sealed envelope for delivery to the MVA.

Upcoming College Visits

A representative from Florida Atlantic University will visit the school on Monday, Sept. 26.

A rep from Potomac State College will be visiting on Friday, Sept. 30

Students interested in visiting with either school during enrichments period on those days must sign up in the Counseling Center.

FFA Information

Any student interested in joining FFA has until Friday, Sept. 30, to sign up and pay chapter dues to Mrs. Yost. Dues are $20 and cover local, state, and national dues as well as a subscription to the New Horizons magazine, which is published for students. Students who completed a summer SAE project need to have their records updated also by that date.

Fabric Needed

The NHS theatre department is looking for fabric donations to use for various productions throughout the year. Sheer fabrics are specifically needed this year, as well as light-weight fabrics for the department's production of Aladdin. Those with donations are asked to email Jen Virts at jennifer.virts@garrettcountyschools.org or call the school at 301-746-8668.

Class Dues

Students owe $10 a year for class dues. This is used for graduation, prom, senior trip, picnic, etc. If a student does not have his/her dues paid up-to-date, he/she can not attend the prom, class trips, etc. All four years can be paid at one time or students may pay $10 each year. Dues should be given to the following class advisors: Mrs. Hawkins or Mrs. Umbel (class of 2017); Mrs. Garlitz or Mrs. Savage (2018); or Mrs. Ahern or Mrs. Umbel (2019). The advisor for the class of 2020 is yet to be determined. Any ninth grade student who wants to pay their dues may turn the money in to Mrs. Ahern in the Counseling Center.

They can be emailed to Ms. Zumpano at maria.zumpano@garrettcountyschools.org, or printed pictures may be dropped off to her in Room 1252. Printed pictures will be returned.

Eastern Forests Use Up Nitrogen In Soil During Earlier, Greener Springs

A warming climate is causing earlier springs and later autumns in eastern forests of the United States, lengthening the growing season for trees and potentially changing how forests function. Scientists from the Appalachian Laboratory of the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science in Frostburg used a combination of satellite images and field measurements to show that trees have greater demand for soil nitrogen in years with early springs.

This result has both good and bad news impacts, researchers said. The good news is that higher demand for nitrogen by trees could mean less nitrogen polluting streams and rivers; the bad news is that trees that cannot get enough nitrogen may not be able to remove as much carbon dioxide from the atmosphere to help slow down further global warming.

"The emergence of leaves on trees earlier in the spring results in higher demand for nitrogen from the soil compared with years with later springs, but this higher demand is not always matched by higher supply," said study author Andrew Elmore of the Appalachian Laboratory. "A critical question for predicting the magnitude of future warming and the impact of greenhouse gas emissions is the ability of forests to respond to shorter winters."

The scientists studied 222 trees representing three species – white oak, northern red oak, and tulip poplar – in eastern North American forests in Prince William Forest Park, Catoctin Mountain Park, and Great Smoky Mountains Park. They examined 30 years of satellite images that show when forests turn green in spring, and compared these data with records of annual wood production and wood chemistry recorded in tree rings. Now being published in the scientific journal Nature Plants, this study is one of the first to combine remote sensing and tree rings to evaluate changes in the seasons for forests.

The study found that earlier springs enhance forests' demand for nitrogen. While forests continue to grow more quickly – particularly in the early summer – the number of leaves on the trees in the latter half of the summer is reduced. This effect is strongest in years with an earlier spring, suggesting a connection with the amount of nitrogen that is available.

"Forest growth rates aren't slowing down yet, but they aren't as high as they might be if soil nitrogen weren't limited," said Elmore. "Already we are seeing early loss of leaves in the latter half of the summer in years with an early spring. Slow-growing forests would be expected to take less carbon dioxide out of the atmosphere, and this important greenhouse gas would increase more quickly."

On the other hand, if forests are using more nitrogen to grow, it could have a beneficial impact on stream water quality by reducing the amount of nitrogen leaving the soil and flowing into streams in years of an early spring.

"Forests are providing a huge service to society through the provision of clean water," said Elmore. The study, titled "Earlier springs causing reduced nitrogen availability in North American eastern deciduous forests," was published by Andrew Elmore and David Nelson of the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science, and Joseph Craine of Jonah Ventures in Nature Plants. The work was funded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Ted Danson returns to prime-time NBC in 'The Good Place'

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

As the weather turns cooler and communities across the nation celebrate homecoming, the television season gets underway with hopeful freshman comedies, seasoned senior dramas and plenty of alumni.

This fall marks a very special homecoming for NBC as it welcomes Ted Danson ("Cheers") back into the fold as one of the stars of "The Good Place," premiering Monday, Sept. 19, and then moving to its regular slot Thursday, Sept. 22, on the peacock network. Kristen Bell ("Veronica Mars") headlines the series as Eleanor Shellstrop, a woman who discovers she's dead when Michael (Danson) welcomes her to The Good Place.

That would be fine and dandy with Eleanor, but she soon figures out there's been a huge mistake. Michael, the architect of the idyllic afterlife community, informs her she's been granted access to The Good Place instead of The Bad Place because she helped save innocent people from Death Row. A royal jerk by her own admission, Eleanor knows she's done no such thing, but hides in plain sight from Michael because she has no intention of going to The Bad Place.

Bell talked about why she finds the role challenging when she and Danson appeared on a panel at this year's San Diego Comic-Con to promote the show.

"It's a very fine line that I have to ride to stay likable when I am the unlikable protagonist," explained the actress.

She gave props to director Drew Goddard ("The Martian," 2015), who also serves as executive producer of the new comedy alongside creator and writer Michael Schur ("Parks and Recreation"), Morgan Sackett ("Veep") and David Miner ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine"). A compelling exploration of what it means to be a good person, "The Good Place" shows a lot of promise, especially considering Danson is involved.

As for Danson's part in "The Good Place," while speaking to fans at Comic-Con, he admitted he feels pressure to live up to the quality of the scripts.

"The real pressure I have to say is that the scripts are so good that you just don't want to mess it up," Danson said.

The multiple Emmy and Golden Globe winner should know a good script when he sees one — he starred as lothario Sam Malone in NBC's legendary comedy "Cheers" from 1982 to 1993. Although the first season's ratings failed to live up to expectations, it went on to become one of the most popular television series of all time. He also appeared in HBO's "Curb Your Enthusiasm," and CBS's "Becker" and "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation." Danson's return to NBC comedy in "The Good Place" is particularly sweet for the network because the show airs Thursday evenings, which was home to the Must See TV programming block "Cheers" bolstered for years.

It's been a while since the Must See TV heyday, and a shift in programming trends means "The Good Place" is the only comedy airing in its time-slot on prime-time network television. The show goes head-to-head with ABC's "Grey's Anatomy," Fox's "Rosewood" and CBS's coverage of NFL football, at least until the return of such comedies as "The Big Bang Theory" to Thursdays later in the fall.

While many industry pundits seem concerned that "The Good Place" may not make good against the other networks' dramas, the move could work to the comedy's advantage as weary viewers look to Thursdays for a few laughs to wind down the week.

There's little doubt Bell and Danson have the power to keep viewers engaged, and it can't hurt that they have a solid supporting cast. Soon after arriving in the afterlife, Eleanor meets her "soulmate," Chidi, played by William Jackson Harper ("How to Tell You're a Douchebag," 2016). He becomes her confidant as she admits there's been a mistake, and he struggles to decide what to do about the situation while helping her navigate life in a world where no one gets drunk or even uses curse words. They occasionally enlist the help of Janet (D'Arcy Carden, "The To Do List," 2013), a source of information in The Good Place. The cast also includes Jameela Jamil ("KokoPop") and Manny Jacinto ("The Romeo Section") as Eleanor's seemingly perfect neighbors.

Aside from giving away free frozen yogurt with Danson as they promoted the show at Comic-Con, Bell is going above and beyond for her new series. The actress invited her fans and followers to participate in her "'The Good Place' 30-Day Do Good Challenge." She called people into action by prompting them to upload videos and photos of themselves doing good in their communities as they help their neighborhoods, animals or the planet in general using the hashtag #TheGoodPlace.

Bell's in a good place to influence millions to do good. She's been a fan favorite since she starred in the title role of the teen mystery drama "Veronica Mars" from 2004 to 2007. She gained even more fans thanks to her voice work as Anna in Disney's hit animated film "Frozen" (2013).

Bell and Danson are poised to inject new life into NBC's Thursdays with a look at the afterlife in "The Good Place," premiering Monday, Sept. 19, on NBC, before moving to its regular timeslot Thursday, Sept. 22.

Fresh faces on Fox

'Gotham' and 'Lucifer' expand their casts

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Fresh faces on Fox: Fall premiere season has arrived at last, and it's not just the newly premiering shows that have fresh faces on screen, returning shows are bulking up their casts as well. Two of Fox's hits in particular are stocking their rosters with new blood.

The third season of the Batman-themed "Gotham" and the sophomore season of "Lucifer" both premiere Monday, Sept. 19, on Fox, with a bevy of new faces adding to the already excellent casts that these shows boast.

"Gotham" is expected to pick up half a year after the events that rocked the city at the end of the show's second season. Joining an already stellar cast that includes Ben Mackenzie ("The O.C."), Donal Logue ("Vikings"), Camren Bicondova ("Battlefield America," 2012) and more, Maggie Geha ("All My Children") has taken over the role of the villainous Poison Ivy from Clare Foley ("Sinister," 2012), and is set to play a slightly older version of the classic Batman character from now on.

Also joining "Gotham's" cast, but as a brand-new character, is Jamie Chung ("The Hangover Part II," 2011). She's been cast as Valerie Vale, a character who has popped up now and again in DC's comics, and usually has a connection with Bruce Wayne (David Mazouz, "Touch").

"Lucifer's" second season also features some new faces. The show, which, like "Gotham," is based on a DC comic, is a police procedural that follows along as the prince of darkness himself, played by Tom Ellis ("Miranda"), gives up his kingdom and finds a new home in Los Angeles, where he helps the LAPD with their investigations.

Tricia Helfer ("Battlestar Galactica") joins as a series regular, along with Michael Imperioli ("The Sopranos"). The pair of newcomers are taking on the roles of Lucifer's estranged family: Helfer as his mother and Imperioli as his brother. Aimee Garcia ("Dexter") has also joined the cast as Ella Lopez, a new forensic scientist with the LAPD.

The superhero and supernatural dramas return with bigger casts Monday, Sept. 19, on Fox.

That's no 'Bull': Dr. Phil McGraw is heading to prime time — sort of. The famous host of the "Dr. Phil" talk show wasn't always a TV personality or a household name, and a new drama on CBS is using his pre-fame life as its inspiration.

"Bull" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 20, on the eye network. Michael Weatherly ("NCIS") stars as Dr. Jason Bull, a brash-but-charming young psychologist whose life is loosely inspired by the early career of Dr. Phil.

Just like his real-life inspiration's early career, Dr. Bull has founded a prolific and successful trial consulting firm that draws up strategies to tilt the scales of justice in favor of his wealthy clients. Dr. Bull is a puppet master: he combines his insight into human intuition and his mastery of psychology to figure out what's going on in the heads of jurors, the accused and witnesses. But, of course, he can't do it alone.

Freddy Rodriguez ("Six Feet Under") stars as Benny Colon, a lawyer and Bull's former brother-in-law who works alongside Bull; Geneva Carr ("It's Complicated," 2009) is neurolinguistics expert Marissa Morgan; Jaime Lee Kirchner ("The Mob Doctor") is Danielle James, the consulting firm's investigator and a former detective; and Chris Jackson ("Tracers," 2015) is former lineman Chunk Palmer, who picks out what clients should to wear to trial.

Saturday

Game Changers With Kevin Frazier

5 19 11:30 a.m.

Kevin Frazier hosts this inspirational series that sees athletes and fans make a difference in their communities. In this rebroadcast, NHLer Ryan Getzlaf helps children struggling with illness, and NFLer Golden Tate helps military families.

Sister Cities

29 LIFE 8:00 p.m.

When four sisters with wildly different personalities return home after their mother's suicide, they uncover a secret that could tear them apart in this premiere made-for-television movie. Jacki Weaver, Amy Smart, Troian Bellisario and Stana Katic star.

Dr. Dee: Alaska Vet

58 ANPL 8:00 p.m.

Dr. Dee heads for a remote clinic in Healy, Alaska, in this new episode. During a routine spay, she notices a dog has tumors. Just outside Fairbanks, Dr. Dee prepares Nugget the Bull for breeding season. Also, Terry gets a big surprise.

Game Shakers

47 NICK 8:30 p.m.

When Mason Kendal (Tanner Buchanan) asks Kenzie (Madisyn Shipman) to help him learn how to code, Babe (Cree Cicchino) sees an opportunity to get closer to Mason in this new episode. However, it isn't long before Babe gets jealous.

The First 48: Killer Confessions

41 A&E 9:00 p.m.

This special new edition takes a look at the case of a former Marine who was gunned down while trying to recover his stolen bicycle. Det. Matt Frazier from Tulsa then set out to find an elusive criminal family to solve the crime.

Beachfront Bargain Hunt: Renovation

55 HGTV 9:00 p.m.

Cameras follow Jim and Sarah as they search for a diamond in the rough on the hidden gem of Fripp Island in North Carolina in this new episode. When they find a property with an unparalleled oceanfront overlook, they get to work.

Saturday Night Live

11 11 12 11:30 p.m.

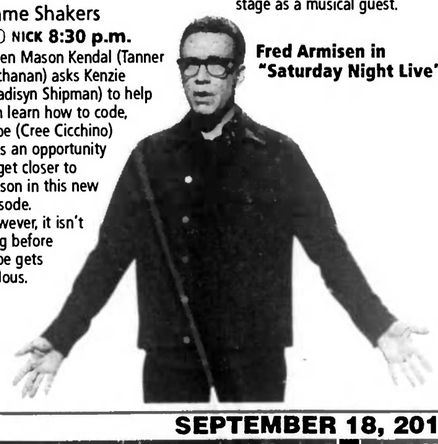
Actor Tracy Morgan returns to Studio 8H for the first time since suffering severe injuries in a tragic car accident in this rebroadcast of the long-running sketch comedy show. Demi Lovato graces the stage as a musical guest.



Fred Armisen in "Saturday Night Live"

RAILEY MOUNTAIN LAKE VACATIONS

DEEP CREEK LAKE, MD

Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, a vacation rental management company in Deep Creek Lake, MD, is looking for positive, energetic people with a strong work ethic to join our team!

Maintenance Technician - Full-time:

This position completes regular property maintenance and routine preventative maintenance of vacation rental properties. Some responsibilities include the following:

- Daily completion of assigned work order tasks and management: provide consistent communication and key details of work needed/provided through both written and verbal communications.
- Provide cross-departmental maintenance assistance when needed, working with various departments, owner special projects & requests, company affiliated projects & initiatives, as well as assisting all departments within the company, as a whole.
- Provide exemplary customer service to guests, owners, coworkers and vendors while providing expedient resolution of all needs.

Job Requirements:

- All technicians should possess a general skillset. It is preferred that technicians possess a more refined technical skillset in some capacity (painting, power washing, furniture repair, carpentry, hot tub and pool repair, minor electrical, minor plumbing, drywall repair, game table repair, etc)
- Must be able to pass pre-employment background check
- Must be able to lift at least 50 pounds.
- Tools and work phone are provided during term of employment.
- Must have valid driver's license. Company vehicle is provided for work use. (Employee should have vehicle available as backup in the event the company-provided vehicle requires service or is otherwise temporarily unavailable).
- Position will require working some weekends and holidays. Work may be performed outside and occasionally requires working in inclement weather conditions.
- Employee, once training is completed, will be required to participate in shifts on a rotational basis of emergency-after-hours pager. Time and mileage (for use of personal vehicle) will be reimbursed per company policy.

Maintenance Runner:
(Junior Technician) - Full-time

This position completes regular property maintenance and routine preventative maintenance of vacation rental properties. Some responsibilities include the following:

- Daily completion of assigned work order tasks and management: provide consistent communication and key details of work needed/provided through both written and verbal communications.
- Provide cross-departmental maintenance assistance when needed, working with various departments, owner special projects & requests, company affiliated projects & initiatives, as well as assisting all departments within the company, as a whole.
- Provide exemplary customer service to guests, owners, coworkers and vendors while providing expedient resolution of all needs.

Job Requirements:

- Technical skills are welcomed but not completely necessary as this position is geared towards quick response time and resolution of smaller, easier, quicker jobs; thus alleviating the burden of these jobs from the more skilled Maintenance Technician
- Must be able to pass pre-employment background check
- Must be able to lift at least 50 pounds.
- Tools and work phone are provided during term of employment.
- Must have valid driver's license. Company vehicle is provided for use during work hours. Employee should have reliable transportation for travel to and from work and in the event a company vehicle is not available. Employee will be provided a mileage reimbursement for use of a personal vehicle.
- Position will require working some weekends and holidays. Work may be performed outside and occasionally requires working in inclement weather conditions.
- Employee, once training is completed, will be required to participate in shifts on a rotational basis of emergency-after-hours pager. Time and mileage (for use of personal vehicle) will be reimbursed per company policy.

Benefits include:

- Full time positions are eligible for benefits package including paid sick leave and vacation; health, dental and vision insurance; 401(k).

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AND ANY IMPROVEMENTS THEREON

418 MAPLE AVE.
MOUNT LAKE PARK A/R/T/A OAKLAND, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust dated July 29, 2009 and recorded in Liber 1455, Folio 97 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, with an original principal balance of $79,050.00 and a current interest rate of 5.75% default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

OCTOBER 5, 2016 AT 1:00 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with any buildings or improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, and any improvements thereon, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $7,000 in the form of certified check, cashier's check or money order will be required of the purchaser at time and place of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year's real property taxes are adjusted as of the date of sale, and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Taxes due for prior years including costs of any tax sale are payable by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for any recapture of homestead tax credit. All other public and/or private charges or assessments, to the extent such amounts survive foreclosure sale, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale to be paid by the purchaser. All costs of deed recordation including but not limited to all transfer, recordation, agricultural or other taxes or charges assessed by any governmental entity as a condition to recordation, are payable by purchaser, whether or not purchaser is a Maryland First Time Home Buyer. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, subject to order of court, purchaser agrees that property will be resold and entire deposit retained by Sub Trustees as liquidated damages for all losses occasioned by the purchaser's default and purchaser shall have no further liability. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Sub. Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if ratification of the sale is denied by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of these proceedings is to terminate the dormant mineral interests underlying all or p/o Military Lots 1322,1323,1328, 1329, 1330, 1379, 1387, 1389 and 1395, located on the south side of George Washington Highway, Election District 8 and more particularly described as follows:

Parcel 1 - From The Amended and Restated Trust Agreement for the Mabel Louise Blamble Revocable Trust, under Agreement dated the 14th day of September, 2001 dated May 8, 2015 and recorded in Liber No. 1870, at page 457 among the Land Records of Garrett County Maryland.

Parcel 2 - From Mabel Louise Blamble dated August 3, 2006 and recorded in Liber 1239, at page 232 among said Land Records.

Parcel 3 - From Holly Huxford dated March 23, 2016 and recorded in Liber 1927, at page 142,among said Land Records.

Parcel 4 - An 8.24 portion of Parcel 3 conveyed by deed dated May 17, 2016 and recorded in Liber 1937, page 416.

The Petition alleges, among other things, that the minerals underlying the parcels were severed by deed dated May 5, 1909, from Davis N. Murphy and Margaret J. Murphy and Riley Murphy and Mary E. Murphy to Charles L. Blamble, recorded in Liber 59 at page 30 among said Land Records.

The Petition goes on to state that all minerals (other than 1] coal as coal was sold at tax sale, and 2] one-half (½) interest in oil and gas as this one-half interest was not reserved) as reserved by Davis N. Murphy and Margaret J. Murphy and Riley Murphy and Mary E. Murphy, are dormant pursuant to the Maryland Dormant Mineral Interests Act.

It is thereupon this 24th day of August, 2016, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED, that Notice be given by insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for three (3) successive weeks

giving notice to the said unknown or missing heirs, or any other persons having or claiming to have any interest in the said mineral estate, who are holders of interest in the Dormant Mineral Interests, of the object and substance of the Petition and warning each of them that a response must be filed no later than October 24, 2016 and that if any should fail to file a timely response, judgment of default may be entered against them and the relief sought may be granted.

3-Yr. Accreditation Earned By Garrett Behavioral Health

CARF International (the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities) has announced that the Garrett County Health Department's Center for Behavioral Health has been accredited for a period of three years for its outpatient mental health and addictions treatment programs.

This accreditation decision represents the highest level of accreditation that can be awarded to health and human services organizations, and shows the organization's substantial conformance to the CARF standards, a spokesperson said.

"An organization receiving a three-year accreditation has put itself through a rigorous peer review process and has demonstrated to a team of surveyors during an on-site visit that its programs and services are of the highest quality, measurable, and accountable," the spokesperson said.

"Our clinical and administrative staff are highly qualified, and provide the highest standard of care for our clients and patients," said Bob Stephens, director of Behavioral and Family Health at the Garrett County Health Department. "We could not have achieved CARF accreditation without the hard work and support of our staff and administration."

The center is the only accredited outpatient behavioral health treatment program in the county.

The health department's Center for Behavioral Health has offices in Oakland and Grantsville, providing services such as individual and group treatment, intensive outpatient treatment, and

A MAJESTIC PROFILE – When one has the opportunity to see an American bald eagle up close, the thrill for most is undeniable. The animal is large, graceful, and most certainly ruler of the sky. This elegant bird of prey was making the rounds in Gorman this week, most likely doing some fishing, as that is a staple of its diet. Bald eagles are not actually bald; the name is derived from an older meaning of "white headed." The adult eagle is mainly brown with a white head and tail. The sexes are identical in plumage, but females are about 25 percent larger than males. Sightings are becoming less rare on the mountaintop, where the national bird appears to be thriving and multiplying. Photo by Lindsay Mulliken.

Mtn. Laurel Medical Center To Receive Nearly $46K For IT

Maryland Health and Human Services (HHS) secretary Sylvia M. Burwell announced on Friday that the Western Maryland Health Care Corporation would receive $45,954 for health information technology enhancement. In all, more than $1 million in Delivery System Health Information Awards was allocated to 17 health centers in Maryland.

Burwell's announcement included $87 million in funding for 1,310 health centers in every U.S. state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Pacific Basin.

"Health centers across the country are instrumental in providing high-quality, comprehensive primary health care to millions of people," said Burwell. "This investment will help unlock health care data and put it to work, improving health outcomes and building a better health care system for the American people."

The funding will support health information technology enhancements to accelerate health centers' transition to value-based models of care, improve efforts to share and use information to support better decisions, and increase engagement in delivery system transformation.

To support these goals, all purchases or upgrades of electronic health record systems made with the funding must use technology that is certified by the Office of the National Coordinator for Health Information Technology.

This is the first significant investment since 2009 directly awarded to health centers to support the purchase of health information technology, according to HHS.

"These awards will allow health centers to deliver higher quality of care to patients

AN AMAZING FEAT requiring strength, determination, and stamina was demonstrated at Deep Creek Lake on Saturday, Sept. 10, when 50-year-old Janet Kylander Manning swam from the Turkey Neck Yacht Club to the dam and then back to the club, a distance of some 18 miles. She started her swim at 5 a.m. and completed it 11 hours and 28 minutes later, emerging from the water at the yacht club at about 4:30 p.m. The swim was done according to English Channel rules, among which is that the swimmer may not use or be assisted by an artificial aid of any kind. The conditions were calm for the first crossing to the dam, but became rough on her return trip, with winds of 4-5 mph and choppy conditions caused by considerable boat traffic. Her crew in an accompanying boat included two international open-water swimmers. Manning, who was manager of the Deep Creek Yacht Club some 30 years ago, swam a single crossing of the lake last September. Her swim has been recorded with the Channel Swimming Association. Governor Hogan To Be Grand Marshal Of Festival Parade

Maryland governor Larry Hogan will be the grand marshal of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland.

For more than 25 years, Hogan worked in the private sector as a successful Maryland business owner. He was inaugurated as the 62nd governor of the state of Maryland on Jan. 21, 2015. He is only the second Republican governor in Maryland in nearly 50 years, and the first Maryland governor from Anne Arundel County to be elected in over 100 years.

"Since taking office, he has worked tirelessly to bring responsible spending, tax relief, and long-term financial stability to struggling Maryland families and businesses," a chamber spokesperson said.

"Gov. Hogan's commitment to restoring Maryland's

GCHD Announces Flu, Pneumonia Vaccine Clinics

The Garrett County Health Department will offer seasonal flu and pneumonia immunizations in October and November. The vaccines will be available at walk-in clinics at the senior centers listed below, and at the two health department sites: 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland, and 28 Hershberger Lane, Grantsville.

"Getting your annual flu vaccine is an excellent way to protect yourself from becoming ill if exposed to influenza virus," said Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer. "Or, the vaccine can reduce the duration and severity of flu symptoms if you do become ill, so take advantage of the opportunities to get vaccinated at one of these public clinics, at your doctor's office, or a participating pharmacy."

The walk-in clinics are scheduled is as follows:

The health department, Oakland office, on Oct. 6, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; the Grantsville Community Outreach Center on Oct. 7, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., the Friendsville Senior Center on Oct. 12, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; the health department, Oakland office, on Oct. 13, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; the Swanton Senior Center on Oct. 17, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., the Bloomington fire hall on Oct. 17, 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.; the Kitzmiller Senior Center on Oct. 19, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; the health department, Oakland office, on Nov. 10, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the Grantsville Community Outreach Center, Nov. 18, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Insurance providers, including Medicare Part B, will be billed as appropriate. Insurance cards should be brought to the clinic. There will be no out-of-pocket costs for anyone, regardless of insurance status, a spokesperson said.

Flu Mist® nasal spray flu vaccine will not be offered at these clinics because the CDC has recommended against its use this year, the spokesperson noted.

For questions about flu vaccine, persons may contact their family physicians or call the health department at 301-334-7770 or 301 895-3111.

Persons may also visit the health department's website for more information about the flu vaccine clinics at www.garretthealth.org/clinicians/seasonal.htm, or call the Flu Information Hotline at 301-334-7697 or 301 895-3113.

GC Commissioners Adopt Agreement With MD-PACE

The Garrett County commissioners held their bimonthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. Three local residents attended the half-hour long event.

The commissioners' only agenda item was the formal adoption of an agreement between Garrett County government and the Maryland Clean Energy Center, also known as MD-PACE (Property Assessed Clean Energy), to establish and implement a commercial loan program.

The initiative provides financing for energy efficiency improvements to commercial properties, including solar panels, geothermal systems, HVAC upgrades, and other energy efficiency improvements.

The financing, however, must be approved by the building owners' mortgage lender. PACE requires 0 percent down and allows a long pay-back period, up to 20 years.

Repayments are made through annual state, county, and local property tax assessments placed on the building. If the property is sold, however, any remaining payments convey to the purchaser.

Commission chair Paul Edwards said PACE will be responsible for obtaining financing for program participants, and the county has agreed to assess their commercial properties and collect the property taxes.

The PACE concept originated in California in 2009. Currently, more than 30 states have some form of a PACE program. The General Assembly approved it for Maryland in 2014 in an effort to boost economic development. In addition to Garrett, PACE is available to business owners in Anne Arundel, Montgomery, Howard, and Queen Anne's counties. More information is available at mdcleanenergy.org/mdpace.

NEW MATERNITY SUITE WELCOMES FIRST BABY – The new Family Centered Maternity Suite at Garrett Regional Medical Center recently celebrated the birth of Easton Knepp, the first baby born in the new unit. He arrived at 1:51 p.m. on Aug. 24 and weighed 7 pounds, 4.6 ounces. The delivering physician was Dr. Daniel Buckingham. Easton's parents, Megan and Stephen Knepp, spoke highly of their experience in the new unit. "It was wonderful and the staff was great," Megan said. Also quite pleased with the new addition to the family was 2-year-old Conner, big brother to Easton. The Knepp family was presented a welcome basket with items donated by the Book Mark'et, Broken Road Associates, Ashley Davis, the Family Centered Maternity Suit, GRMC Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop, Madalyn Hoffeditz, Mindy Bernard Photography, Simon Pearce, Smart Style, Garrett 8 Cinemas, and Uno's Restaurant. Fracking To Be Topic Of MPT State Circle Show

State Circle, a program of Maryland Public Television, will air a round-table discussion on fracking in western Maryland in this week's episode, set for 7:30 p.m. this Friday, Sept. 23.

Representatives who both support and oppose fracking will sit down with host Jeff Salkin to bring their positions to the table.

MPT officials said they wished to "plunge into this divisive issue" by traveling to Deep Creek Lake to facilitate a discussion of conflicting perspectives. The discussion will take place at about 3 p.m. at a Deep Creek location yet to be announced.

Leo Martin, mayor of Mountain Lake Park, will be one of the guests. He has publicly stated his opposition to fracking and was acting mayor when a ban on the practice was passed for Garrett County's most populous town.

Martin has said his concerns go beyond public health and more into the "nuts and bolts of how impacts can bring overwhelming challenges and costs to small towns managing roads and communities that operate on tight budgets."

More information on the program was not available by press time.

Many residents in Garrett County do not receive MPT at their homes, but the televisions at the Ace's Run

SAVAGEMAN DRAWS 215 – The annual SavageMan triathlon was held over the weekend, beginning and ending at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The SavageMan 20 (miles) was held Saturday with 242 participants, and the SavageMan 70 was held on Sunday, drawing 215 competitors from all over the United States and several foreign countries. The overall winner of the 70-mile event was Andrew Drobeck, 35, of Missoula, Mont., who completed the swim, bike, and run in 4 hours, 41 minutes, 28 seconds. He was followed by Iain Alexandridis, 23, Princeton, N.J, in 4:46.28; A.J. Baucco, 30, Willoughby, Ohio, 4:51:24; Cameron Wurf, 33, Mt. Rumnes, Australlia, 4:53:06; and former Oakland resident and Southern High School graduate Nathan Rickman, 37, Fairfax, Va., placed fifth in 5:06:20. Steve Green, 49, McHenry, placed 28th in 6:08:25, while Clark Warnick, 48, Oakland, was 47th in 6:23:19. Rickman, son of Jack and Norma Rickman, also competed in the SavageMan 20 on Saturday and, despite having to cope with a flat tire, still placed 11th among the 242 participants with a time of 1:21:28. Jimmy Ralley, 55, Oakland, was 14th with a time of 6:23:19. More details of the event will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Moylan, Malloy Hears Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past week, with sentences handed down by Judges Stephan M. Moylan and Edward A. Malloy Jr. for a variety of offenses.

Jehu Michael Fultz Jr., 27, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to charges of second-degree assault and possession of a controlled dangerous substance- not marijuana.

Each charge against Fultz was a separate case, with both rulings for the charges coming in a trial on Sept. 6.

Fultz was charged with second-degree assault by the Maryland State Police on May 28, when Ofc. A. Nelson contacted the defendant regarding a child custody issue.

According to the report, Nelson later approached Fultz, who was sitting in his vehicle. Nelson asked the defendant to exit the vehicle multiple times, but Fultz refused to move.

The officer was struck by the defendant while Fultz was being removed from the vehicle.

Fultz was charged with CDS possession- not marijuana by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Aug. 3, when Ofc. Adam Rounds found Fultz, who had multiple warrants for his arrest.

According to the report, Fultz had a multicolored glass smoking pipe with burnt marijuana residue and a hypodermic needle filled with buprenorphine.

Moylan found the defendant guilty on both charges. The second-degree assault verdict resulted in a three-year sentence in the Garrett County Detention Center, two years of which were suspended, and two years of probation supervised by the Division of Parole & Probation.

The CDS possession verdict resulted in a sentence of three years in the GCDC, all suspended, and two years of probation supervised by the DPP.

Samuel Feho Police, 45, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft valued less than $100.

Police was charged on June 21 by the Oakland Police Department when Chief William Thomas responded to reports of a theft from Wal-Mart.

According to the report, the defendant stole various food items valued at $65.92, and he left in a black Dodge. Police was identified after a witness took a picture of the defendant and the vehicle.

Malloy sentenced the defendant guilty and sentenced Police to 60 days in the GCDC.

NOW ON DISPLAY In the turret room of the 1884 Oakland B&O Museum are two framed photographs donated by Marcene and Robert Heuebner, pictured above. The photos are of the Deer Park Hotel and the Brashford Amphitheatre that was once located in Mountain Lake Park. The Huebners, who have been longtime volunteers in many organizations in Garrett County, are moving to Ellicott City in the near future. The museum also has on display an 8' x 8' "Support Our Troops" afghan, pictured below, that was made by Oakland B&O Museum volunteer Elsie Lewis. It is displayed in the ladies' waiting room in the station. Elsie's grandson Robert also volunteers and operates the Huff-N-Puff for children in the front yard of the station on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Also featured at the station on Saturdays are storytelling, crafts, and railroad crossing safety lessons for children from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The museum's fall hours of operation are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, and noon to 3 p.m. on Sundays. In order to arrange special tours, persons are invited to call 301-616-0661.

Somerset Man Charged With Theft, Burglary

A Pennsylvania man faces burglary and theft charges following his arrest by Maryland State Police last Friday. The MSP McHenry Barrack received a commercial burglary complaint at approximately 9 a.m. Friday morning from 3233 Chestnut Ridge Road, Grantsville.

Forced entry had reportedly been made to a business, and several items were stolen, valuing approximately $2,000.

As a result of an investigation, an arrest warrant was obtained for Brian Lee McFee Jr., 22, Somerset, for second-degree burglary, theft, and malicious destruction of property.

Troopers from the Pennsylvania State Police, Somerset Barrack, located McFee the same day and arrested him on the strength of the warrant. He was taken before a Pennsylvania magistrate pending extradition to Maryland.

Driver Arrested On CDS Distribution Of Marijuana Charges

Maryland State Police arrested a Swanton man following a traffic stop along Rt. 219 last Friday evening.

A trooper conducted a stop on a 2016 Chevy Trax passenger vehicle that was reportedly traveling 70 in a 55 mph zone in the area of Rabbit Hollow Road. Upon contact with driver Darin Gerard Kamp, 51, Ile Broadwater noticed an odor of burnt marijuana coming from the vehicle. A subsequent search of Kamp's vehicle revealed 179 grams of marijuana.

He was charged with possession with intent to distribute marijuana, possession of marijuana, driving under the influence, negligent driving, and speeding. He was later released on bond.

Friendsville Man Sentenced For Two DUI Counts

A 41-year-old Friendsville resident pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to two counts of driving under the influence. Additional related charges against Kenneth William Pagano were dismissed by the state.

For the first case, Judge Ray Strubin sentenced Pagano to two years in the Division of Correction and suspended one year. For the second case, Strubin sentenced Pagano to three years in the Division of Correction and suspended one year, with the sentences to run consecutively. Pagano will be on probation after serving two years.

In the first case, which occurred in December 2015, Pagano was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who responded to a report that a vehicle matching the description of Pagano's was being driven by an intoxicated driver last seen at the hospital parking lot with children in the vehicle.

Officers located him in the parking lot of a nearby business and arrested him after observing signs he had consumed alcohol and his failing field sobriety tests. He later took an intoximeter test, with the results leading to the per se violation, according to the state's attorney.

In March, Pagano was arrested and charged by a Natural Resource Police officer who observed Pagano's vehicle as he traveled in the Friendsville area. The vehicle had a number of defects, later determined to have been the result of a motor vehicle accident the prior day.

While speaking with Pagano, the officer noted numerous signs of intoxication and administered field sobriety tests, which were not done correctly, the state's attorney said.

Also in court this week, Christine Marie Proctor, 42, Mountain Lake Park, was sentenced for a second degree assault charge to two years in the Division of Correction. That sentence was suspended, and she was placed on three years of probation, with conditions that include having no contact with the victim and paying fines and costs totaling $805.

Proctor was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in February after they responded to an area apartment complex for a reported assault with a handgun involved.

Officers determined Proctor, who was reportedly intoxicated at the time, had utilized a nonfunctional gun to accost a person in the area of her apartment, during which time the victim had taken the gun from her possession.

Proctor pleaded guilty to the charge last month, and sentencing was postponed until this week.

LOWE'S VOLUNTEERS SPRUCE UP OAKLAND – The town of Oakland was the recipient of the Lowe's Heroes Project again this year. Volunteers from Lowe's in Oakland once again took on several difficult projects, including painting the walls at the Oakland Community Center, mulching and planting numerous rose bushes at Veterans Park, filling flower beds along Liberty street with mulch and flowers, and building a flower bed and filling it with mulch and flowers at the recently erected "Welcome to Oakland" sign at the corner of Oak Street and Rt. 219 south. "They look amazing, and the town of Oakland is very grateful for the volunteers' hard work and dedication to the community," said Oakland business coordinator Michelle Ross about the volunteers' projects. "We are proud to be a part of the community and helping with any improvements," said Lisa Rodeheaver of the Oakland Lowe's store. From left are council members Butch Redinger, Wayne Mowbray, and Sherwin Teagarden; Lowe's representatives Liz Savage and Rodeheaver; Mayor Paggy Jamison; council president Jay Moyer; and council members Kathy Shaffer and Jack Riley.

Volunteer Fire Departments Receive Grants

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced that 39 volunteer fire departments in the state, including four in Garrett County, are recipients of the 2016 Volunteer Fire Assistance Program grants, which provide financial and technical assistance to rural volunteer fire departments and their communities. The total amount allocated is $89,025.

Local departments receiving grants and the amounts are: Bloomington VFC, $2,832; Deep Creek VFC, $823; Grantsville VFD, $1,868; and Kitzmiller VFD, $2,490.

"These funds are essential to help outfit our brave volunteer firefighters across the state," Maryland fire supervisor Monte Mitchell said. "They provide fire departments with much needed equipment, training and vehicles for wildland firefighting before the start of the fall fire season."

The grants, provided by the United States Forest Service, and administered by the Maryland Forest Service, help build-out capacity for wildland fire protection in rural areas. This year, 53 fire departments from 19 counties applied for just over $250,000.

Suspicious Fire Being Investigated

Personnel from the Office of the Maryland State Fire Marshal are investigating a suspicious fire that occurred at a mobile home near Deer Park late Tuesday.

The Deep Park Community Volunteer Fire Department was summoned at 11:21 p.m. to respond to 141 Lower White Oak Road. A fire that was discovered on a porch of the 12' X 70' mobile home, owned by Andrew and Melissa Cooper, was out upon arrival and there was minimal damage.

Investigators have ruled the preliminary cause of the fire as arson, and are continuing their investigation. Persons who may have any information about this incident are askled by investigators to call the Arson Hotline at 1-800-492-7529.

Deadline Extended For Heritage Area Grant Applications

The deadline for submitting applications for fiscal year 2017 Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area mini grants has been extended to Monday, Oct. 7, at 4 p.m. at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce office, 15 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry.

The mini-grant program offers up to $2,000 in matching grants, which are designed to provide funding for "innovative" exhibits, tours, planning, and projects that build upon interpretive themes identified in the Heritage Area Management Plan: transportation, man and nature, historic recreation, and cultural uniqueness.

Projects must seek to attract cultural heritage tourists to the region. Details about the Management Plan are found on the Heritage website, garrettheritage.com, under the News & Grants tab.

Nonprofit organizations and local jurisdictions are eligible. Individuals and businesses with proposals fitting the guidelines may apply in partnership with nonprofit organizations.

For more information, persons are invited to contact Jen Durben, Heritage Area director, at 301-387-5238 or jen@garrettchamber.com.

Two Injured When Vehicle Strikes Tree

Two people sustained injuries from a single-vehicle accident investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies last Wednesday evening.

Deputies responded to the 6700 block of George Washington Highway at approximately 6:30 p.m. Investigation revealed that James H. Grubb, 65, Oakland, had been operating his vehicle east, when he suffered a unknown medical issue. He drove the vehicle off the eastbound lane and struck a ditch. The vehicle then reentered the highway, crossed the centerline, and struck a tree.

Grubb was flown to the Western Maryland Regional Medical Center, Cumberland, by Maryland State Police Trooper 5. His passenger, Sharon K. Wilson, 59, Oakland, was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Regional Medical Center, Oakland, for treatment of unknown injuries. The accident remains under investigation.

Maryland State Police and Gorman Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

Maryland Board Predicts $365 Mil. Less In Revenue

by Vickie Connor
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates announced Wednesday that revenues for the current fiscal year are expected to be $365 million less than predicted in March.

This is largely due to the state receiving less individual income tax revenue than the board had predicted.

Board member and state comptroller Peter Franchot said the numbers reflect a stagnant economy.

"BRE's estimates . . . indicate that for this calendar year, the average wage in Maryland is projected to increase by only 2.1 percent," Franchot said. "These revenue figures show many Maryland workers are bringing home the same or less pay as their living costs are rising, leaving them with less disposable income to spend."

The board estimated $9.27 billion in individual income taxes and $864 million in corporation taxes in March, the last time it released numbers. On Wednesday, it revised these numbers to $8.96 billion for income and $853 million in corporate tax revenues.

The overall revenue estimate revision is the largest projection error since the 2010 fiscal year, when the state was in the midst of recession recovery and the panel was off by 5.25 percent.

Significant growth in the number of low-wage positions had a large impact on pulling down the numbers, said Andrew M. Schaufele, director of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates.

"We are creating jobs that are highly concentrated in industries that pay below state average," Schaufele said.

Revenue estimates for the current, 2017 fiscal year follow a $253 million shortfall in projections from the previous fiscal year, which ended June 30.

The board's new projections assume 2.7 percent growth in revenues over the last fiscal year, and project 3.4 percent more income for the 2018 fiscal year, which begins in July.

These projections are unrealistic without budgeting money correctly, said Kali Schumitz, a spokeswoman for the Maryland Center on Economic Policy.

"Unless the state makes investments in things that will grow our economy – like improving our schools, roads, and transit networks – continuing to expect state revenues to grow 3 or 4 percent a year may be too optimistic," Schumitz said in a statement.

David Brinkley, Board of Revenue Estimates member and secretary for the Department of Budget and Management, said Gov. Larry Hogan's commitment to fiscal responsibility is prudent, but said spending-mandate relief is necessary in the upcoming General Assembly session.

Hogan spokeswoman Amelia Chasse said these types of budget problems will remain as long as "the majority leadership" does not make spending reforms. Democrats control the state legislature; Hogan is a Republican.

Franchot, a Democrat, said policymakers must exercise restraint in order to avoid imposing additional burdens on Marylanders who are already struggling economically.

"The budgets, spending bills and fiscal policies enacted in this town have a real impact on people's financial well-being," he said.

Never, Ever...

Our newsroom repeatedly receives either news releases or telephone calls that are centered on a wide variety of telephone scams, just one more of the various negatives that have been wrought by the internet. Today's electronic media provides many different avenues by which unscrupulous persons can find out almost everything there is to know about any given individual. Privacy is really a thing of the past.

We do not print each and every one of those releases or telephone submissions about such scams because it is our hope that the great majority of people are now savvy to such tactics. However, the criminals' favorite target is the elderly population that may not realize so readily that they are being taken, either because of being "technology challenged" or because of advanced age and/or illness.

So it was decided to utilize this column today to educate still more people about the various scams, and the things to do and not to do upon receiving such telephone inquiries and similar emails.

First and foremost, persons should never, ever provide informations such as bank account numbers, credit card information, Social Security number, driver's license number, or even date of birth to any caller or unknown person via email, regardless of the situation.

Callers are sometimes threatening, claiming that a certain bill is owed, and unless it is paid via a credit card or bank withdrawal, they say they are going to call the police. Other threats are allegedly from the Internal Revenue Service, stating that back taxes are owed and unless paid immediately, a fine will be imposed or some other legal action will be taken. It must be emphasized that the IRS will NEVER, EVER contact people about such matters via the telephone or via email. Instead the agency will use either certified/registered mail, or send an agent in person.

There are other scams in which victims are told that they have won a cash prize or a vacation, and all they have to do is provide their bank account information, into which the prize money will be deposited. Or they may be asked to wire a "handling fee" in order to claim their vacation – a vacation they will never receive.

Still another common scam involves victims being contacted, generally by email, by supposed family members or friends who claim to have been arrested, detained, or perhaps robbed of their money, and they ask that money be sent to them via Western Union, USPS, or other avenues. If a person would happen to be incarcerated somewhere, they would be required to make a collect call to their loved ones to inform them.

So, it is best simply to hang up when callers begin asking for any of the personal information noted above. Persons who have elderly relatives are urged to have this discussion together.

More information about how to protect oneself from such criminal activity can be found on the following websites:

To the Editor:

Thank you very much for that excellent review of the life of Jane Avery (Republican, Sept 16, by Mary Sincell McEwen). Like many other citizens of this region, I did not know anything at all of her teaching career, of the early history of Our Town Theater, or other background.

While enjoying many consecutive delightful plays, it's easy to focus on the plot, the characters, and the acting; what is lost are the years of planning, thought, and hard work that go into making good theater "come true." Jane Avery accomplished all that for our community.

Perhaps the time is at hand to rename that entire enterprise the "Jane Avery Theater."

To the Editor:

I am a property owner living at the lake full time and a registered voter. As a property owner and lover of Deep Creek Lake, I am naturally concerned about possible fracking the lake watershed.

My request and suggestion is that any of our representatives who will be reaping financial benefits from fracking should recuse themselves from voting on this issue, as this would be a conflict of interest. That would be anyone who owns a sizable amount of land in Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Doris A. Kubli

To the Editor:

Last Thursday, bright and early, a well-drilling rig fired up in a neighbor's front yard about 400 feet from our house. And it ran all day And all day Friday. And all day Monday.

We're very sorry that it was a necessity for them to drill a new well, and we can put up with the horrible noise required to obtain water. The lay of the land in our community puts our land on the leeward side of a ridge, and the drilling sound rolled down the hill and landed as if it were happening right in our back yard.

To those who want to frack this special place, I say, "Be careful what you wish for," and to those who don't want fracking, I say, "Be afraid... be very, very afraid."

The noise was unyielding, beyond annoying, and could certainly cause unknown consequences for the victims of neighboring fracking. And isn't the drilling noise just the beginning? Trucks and compressors and all the rest.

As we talked about how completely disruptive fracking would be, it occurred to us that the clear resentment of many locals about the lake people is so sad. The lake people provide an unbelievable "cash cow" to the quality of life in Garrett County. And fracking could potentially destroy educational opportunities, medical opportunities, and population growth, just to name a few. Do pro-frackers really believe our young people who are receiving ongoing environmental educational information in every public and private school in the nation will want to live in such a poisoned environment?

And please stop taking our anti-fracking signs.

To the Editor:

Just several days ago, an unarmed black man was killed by police. His car had broken down and motorists had called police about his suspicious parking spot, alongside the interstate. Even though his hands were in the air, a police officer killed him for reasons currently unknown. This was all captured on video.

Two days ago, an unarmed, disabled black man was killed while waiting to pick up his son from school. The "firearm" he was carrying (according to the officer who killed him) was actually a book. These shootings have become the racial saga of America's great tragedy

On Chestnut Ridge Road, just across from a small gas station/liquor store, a homeowner has decided to hang a dummy from a tree, in a fashion that inspires memories of the public lynchings that took place in the South years ago. While this display is disturbing enough, it's the black hoodie that is worn by the hanging dummy that could serve as the catalyst for racially charged emotions.

Short-term memory reminds us that it was a black hoodie that was worn by Trayvon Martin when he was killed by night watchman George Zimmerman. It was also a black hoodie that served as a symbol of protest among black youth who united to stand against the slaughter. The message conveyed by the hanging dummy (likely a Halloween decoration) is clear – that black Americans who stand up against the slaughter of their fellow citizens deserve the fate bestowed on so many of their ancestors.

With recent changes in practices regarding the Confederate flag, with many private retailers ceasing their sales and public officials calling for their removal from private and public buildings, we learned that the First Amendment isn't a license to offend, ridicule, and insult your fellow Americans or their racial history. Symbols can serve as expressions of hate. Like it or not, the First Amendment has limitations, perhaps best expressed by the huge number of libel lawsuits filed each year.

Garrett County serves as a home and tourist destination for people of all creeds, colors, religions, and lifestyles. Do we think a black family visiting the lake and traveling on Chestnut Ridge Road is likely to stay in the area, or ever return?

Oakland

To the Editor:

In this day of so much media attention being invested in "dehumanizing the badge," with emphasis on police brutality and fatal mistakes made by the police when faced with split-second decisions that sometimes result in the loss of life, it is heartening to be able to relate an incident that does, indeed, serve to "humanize the badge," a term I've been seeing a lot on FaceBook of late. It is meant to remind everyone not to paint the police with one broad stroke of the negative brush. My incident may seem miniscule, but it meant a lot to an old lady and her beloved dog.

My dog locked me out of the car Wednesday morning in front of the Oakland post office. This is the same little beagle who has learned to open the car windows, necessitating the use of the child-lock window safety feature at all times. She's smart, but did not understand my frantic hand gestures. encouraging her to push the unlock button. I was in a panic, because all of the windows were up, and even in 75-degree weather a car in the sun can become an oven in a matter of minutes.

I stopped a passerby, who suggested we call the police, which he kindly did. Within five minutes an officer arrived, tools in hand. I told him that if we weren't able to open the car quickly, I just wanted to break the window, because I was worried about Annie, who was already distressed by the heat inside the car. With the help of another passerby, the officer had the car unlocked in a flash, and this grandma enveloped him with a great big hug of gratitude.

I didn't know if the policeman who responded was city or county, so I called the sheriff's office and was told by the dispatcher that they responded, and it was Sheriff Corley himself, who just happened to be in the office and came straightaway to help. She said that he told her, "Well, it was worth it. I got a hug!"

Being from out of town, I had no idea it was Sheriff Corley who took time from his busy schedule to help us. Thank you so much, Sheriff Corley. I now feel so much safer in Garrett County, knowing that you are there, and that there is a truly caring, thoughtful person behind the Garrett County badge!

To the Editor:

Bralympics will be held on Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Oakland Mountain Fresh Pavilion. This is an event to recognize Breast Cancer Awareness Month and will include games, a walk, a cake auction, and memorial ceremony.

Different businesses will be sponsoring games such as bra pong toss (Oakland Nursing and Rehab Center), bra slingshot (Garrett Regional Cancer Center), bra decorating (Oakland MRI), candy guessing (Wellspring Family Medicine), cornhole (C&S Fredlock Funeral Home), a cake walk (GCC Technologies) and coloring contest for the kids (Garrett County Health Department). Garrett County Community Action will be sponsoring food and a bake sale.

We are asking people to come and help two great organizations – Cindy's Fund and the American Cancer Society's Making Strides for Breast Cancer – as all money raised will be split evenly between them. Dress in wild, pink colors and bring a decorated bra for judging, if you like. Moose Johnson will provide music.

This is a family event and will be alcohol-free. We hope to see you there!

During the public commentary portion of Tuesday's meeting, Oakland area resident Butch Helbig voiced his support for natural gas drilling in the county.

He also praised the commissioners' handling of both sides of the issue, including those who are for and those who are against drilling.

"You guys have done a good job trying to work with both ends," Helbig told them. "Some of the criticism you get is unbelievable. The Lord himself couldn't satisfy them. But keep it up. You've worked hard at it, trying to do a good job, and I think you've tried to do a fair job. Unfortunately, I can't say that about the opposition."

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 3, at 4 p.m. at the courthouse in Oakland.

Requests to be on the agenda must be made to Carol Riley-Alexander, executive assistant to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, by 1 p.m. one week prior to the meeting day.

"Black Tie & Tails" Gala To Benefit HART For Animals Adoption Wing

KIRWANS NAMED GALA CHAIRS – Patricia H. and Dr. William "Brit" Kirwan are the honorary chairpersons for HART for Animals' Inaugural "Black Tie & Tails" gala, slated for Nov. 5 In the Lodge at Wisp Resort. Proceeds will benefit the new adoption wing at the HART Animal Center, located along Bumble Bee Road between McHenry and Accident. The Kirwans have supported the local non-profit organization for many years. See story.

HART for Animals, along with honorary chairs Dr. William "Brit" Kirwan and Patricia Kirwan, will host a "Black Tie & Tails" gala, to benefit the HART adoption wing. The inaugural event will take place on Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Lodge at Wisp Resort.

The gala will feature a sit-down dinner, dancing, and a silent auction. Proceeds will provide funds to keep once-homeless pets in a safe place while waiting for their forever homes.

"Thanks to the hard work, dedication, and the generosity of hundreds of volunteers, government agencies, and our supporters, we opened the HART adoption wing to the public in April of this year," said Mercedes Pellet, development director. "This fund-raising gala will be instrumental in raising much-needed money for the work we do at the adoption wing, which has already found homes for 120 animals. We are very excited to have Brit and Patty as our honorary chairs."

The Kirwans have been helping HART for Animals for many years. Their support of Garrett County and their love for animals is recognized on the HART building: the "Patricia H. Kirwan Center." The special bond with animals led Patty to become an active supporter of the HART Animal Center.

Brit, who recently retired as the chancellor of the University System of Maryland, and Patty have owned a home in Garrett County since 1994, which has become a family retreat for their two children and five grandchildren.

The Black Tie & Tails planning committee is "going all-out" for this first-time gala, noted Paula Yudelevit, HART executive director.

"Thanks to the generosity and creativity of Leigh Clarke's team at Farmhouse Fete and HART volunteer Meg Collins, the decor of the evening is going to be amazing," said Paula Yudelevit, HART executive director. "We are so fortunate to have these two planning the evening's atmosphere."

Bill Grant, past president of First United Bank and Trust, heads the fundraising and sponsorship committee, and Debbie Beitzel, a realtor for Taylor Made Real Estate, is heading the silent auction committee.

"I would like to extend a very special thank you to our sponsors to-date, the Squires Group, John and Susan Pucciano, Wisp Resort, Farmhouse Fete, Taylor Made, Nicole Christian, Steve and Amy Bortz, Sandy Bello, and Railey Real Estate and Rentals," said Kelli Palamar, president of the HART executive committee.

HART's charitable programs are animal rescue, adoption and sheltering, low-cost and no-cost spay/neutering, veterinary care, and behavior modification.

"The monthly cost to HART for 40 plus cats and dogs awaiting adoption is $20,000," Pellet said. "The adoption fees cover only a portion of the veterinary care. It is through donations, sponsorships, grants, and fundraising opportunities that HART can keep the adoption wing operating."

Tickets to the Black Tie & Tails gala are available online at www.hartforanimals.org, at the HART Animal Center, or by phone at 301-387-7729.

For more information on a sponsorship opportunity to help support the gala and HART, persons are invited to call or email Paula Yudelevit, at 301-387-7729 or paula@hartforanimals.org.

For additional information on HART, the HART Animal Center, or any of its programs, or to donate, persons can visit the HART website, or become part of the HART for Animals community on Facebook at www.facebook.com/HARTforAnimals.

New Germany SP To Celebrate Nat'l Public Lands Day

New Germany State Park will celebrate the 23rd annual National Public Lands Day on Sept. 24 by hosting a volunteer opportunity titled "lend a hand for public lands."

National Public Lands Day is a celebration of the work, play, and learning that takes place on public lands every day throughout the nation, according to a spokesperson. It brings together thousands of volunteers from coast to coast to improve and restore the lands and facilities used for recreation, education, exercise, and enjoyment.

Activities at New Germany State Park will begin at 10 a.m. at the Lake House. Volunteers will team up with staff to re-stain a park building or pick up litter. These activities are best suited for participants age 12 and older.

Snacks and drinks will be provided. The project and hike will conclude at noon.

Registration is not required, but large groups are encouraged to call the ranger station in advance at 301-895-5453.

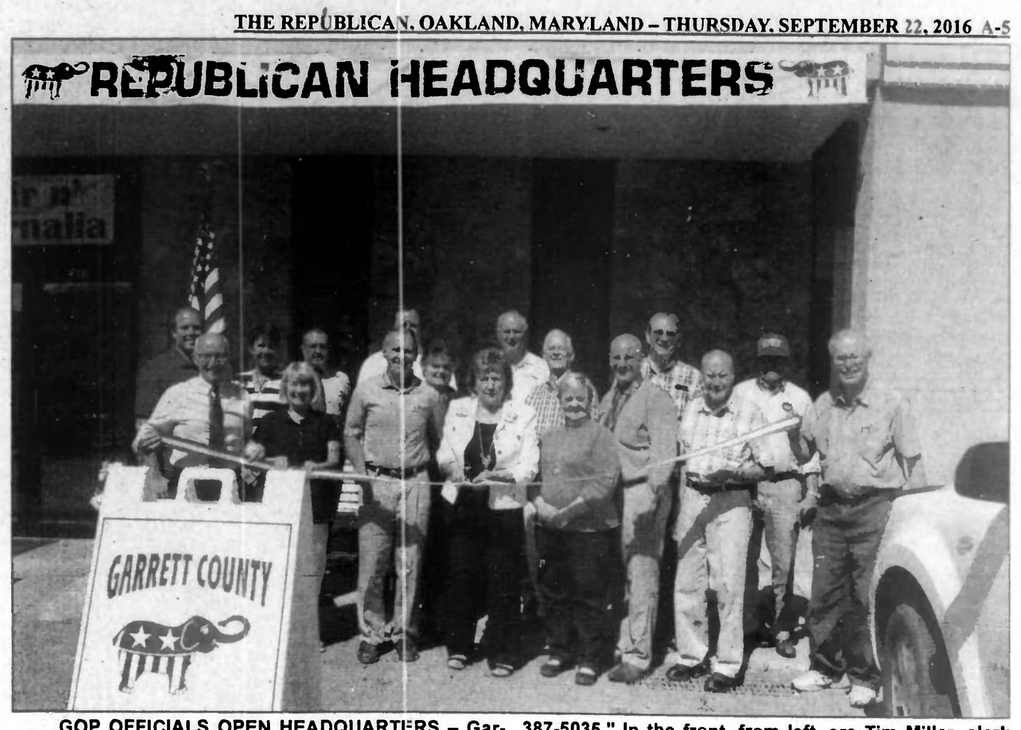
TAYLOR CARR

SYDNEY SPAULDING

Sixteen tri-state area 2016 high school graduates, including two from Garrett County, have been named recipients of Allegany College of Maryland Presidential Scholarships for study in the current 2016-17 academic year, the ACM Foundation announced.

Taylor Carr of McHenry is working toward a degree in radiologic technology. A Northern Garrett High School graduate, she also took courses at Garrett College. She is the daughter of Larry and Diana Carr.

Sydney Spaulding of Oakland is studying to earn a degree as a physical therapist assistant. A Southern Garrett High School graduate, she is the daughter of Dierdre Shue.



GOP OFFICIALS OPEN HEADQUARTERS – Garrett County Republican officials held a ribbon-cutting ceremony last Monday to kick off the 2016 election campaign. Their emphasis will be "getting out the vote for a victory on election day," slated for Tuesday, Nov. 8. Located along Rt. 219 at the Genus Center (across from the entrance to Walmart) in Oakland, the headquarters will be open on weekdays in October from noon to 6 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. For the remaining days in September, it will be open on weekdays from 3 to 6 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. "Volunteers are needed," said Ruth Umbel, co-chair of the Garrett County Central Committee. "Please call 301-387-5035." In the front, from left, are Tim Miller, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court; Ann Rebeie; Garrett County commissioner Jim Hinebaugh; Umbel; Robin McGill; GC commissioner Paul Edwards; Bill Schrider; and Tom Sheahen, Central Committee chair. In the back are Brian Scarietti, representative for 6th Congressional District candidate Amie Hoeber; Dorothy Waiters; Brian Schnosslagle; Bill Bittinger; Lisa Thayer Welch, GC state's attorney; Will McGill; GC commissioner Larry Tichneil; Sen. George Edwards; and Del. Wendell Beitzel. Not pictured but present for the opening were Hugh and Louise Friend; Rita Watson, register of wills; and Lisa Herman.

'16 High School Grads Awarded Over $1.3 Billion In Scholarships

Maryland's high school graduating class of 2016 received more than $1.3 billion in college scholarship offers, according to the results of a new Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) survey.

Students received offers totaling just short of $1.32 billion in scholarship offers, nearly equaling the class of 2015's record total.

"Students increasingly need educational opportunities beyond high school, be it college or vocational training, and that can be expensive," said Dr. Karen Salmon, state superintendent of schools. "Scholarships can help students pursue their dreams."

The survey found that 18,819 graduates received offers last year – about one-third of the 2016 graduating class of 56,954. The scholarships included more than 150 National Merit finalists and more that 350 scholarship offers from Ivy League institutions.

For more than a decade, MSDE has been collecting data on college and university scholarship offers received by its graduates, and over the years the total dollar amount of those offers has risen "dramatically." Maryland graduates received less than $500 million in scholarship offers in 2007, for example, and passed the $1 billion threshold for the first time in 2013, according to MSDE.

MARY J. EMORY

Mary Jane Emory departed life on Sept. 19, 2016, at Dennett Road Manor, Oakland, where she had been a resident for nearly a year since suffering a stroke in August of 2015.

Prior to her admission to Dennett Road Manor, Mary Jane lived in New York City (NYC), in the heart of Manhattan.

Mary Jane, named for her grandmothers, usually called Jane by her family and friends, was born at home in Bittinger on July 1, 1932, the first child of Martha May (Beachy) and Richard LeRoy Emory.

She is survived by three sisters and brothers-in-law, Kathleen and Gary Fratz, Accident, Florence and Eugene Lunger, Richmond, Va., and Helen and Kenneth Clare, Alexandria, Va.; and one sister-in-law, Thelma Emory, Bittinger; as well as many nieces, nephews, great-nieces and -nephews, and two great-great-nieces.

She was preceded in death by a sister who died at birth and her only brother, William Emory, who died in 2014.

Jane attended Bittinger Elementary School and graduated from Grantsville High School in 1949. There was no eighth grade at that time, so she was just 17 when she entered the rigorous three-year program at Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing in Cumberland. Graduating from Sacred Heart in September 1952, she began her first job, staff nurse in the operating room (OR) at New York City's Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, eventually becoming head nurse and then assistant supervisor of the OR.

After a hospital merger, she became supervisor of the OR at French Hospital Division of the French Polyclinic Medical School and Health Center. When French Hospital closed its doors, she became team leader in the OR at the Veterans Administration Hospital in NYC.

After leaving the VA, Jane served as education coordinator of the OR at Lenox Hill Hospital in Manhattan for 13 years. She retired from Lenox Hill in 1996.

Mary Jane was awarded a bachelor of science in nursing in 1970 from Teachers College, Columbia University. She was also among the first 686 Registered Nurses (RN) to become a Certified Nurse Operating Room (CNOR) in 1974, acquiring Emeritus status upon retirement.

As a freelance medical consultant, Mary Jane evaluated surgical products and equipment. As Nurse Jane to her family, she was also on call for telephone consultations when a non-emergency medical opinion was needed. She was true to her profession and would help if she could, even when she was visiting the farm and the patient was an ailing 4-H pig.

She never stopped being a nurse, and even in retirement, kept up with the latest innovations in the surgical arena. She was the nurse we would all want in the operating room with us. Her standards were the highest, and an excellent outcome for the patient was ever her aim. In all ways, she was the best nurse that she could be and was proud of her calling.

She was undoubtedly also very proud that three of her great-nieces chose to become nurses.

New York City in 1952 was a world away from Bittinger, but Jane thrived in the metropolis she called home for the next 63 years. At Polyclinic, a teaching hospital, she worked with people from all over the world, expanding her horizons personally and professionally from the start.

An active member of the Association of periOperative Registered Nurses (AORN), she served several terms as president of the New York City Chapter. She traveled widely, including trips to many AORN world conferences in the U.S. and abroad, from San Francisco and New Orleans to China and Russia.

She equally enjoyed visiting her family. Her nieces and nephews were an especially great source of delight to her.

A true New Yorker, Jane enjoyed attending shows on and off Broadway, going to museums and the opera, listening to baseball games on the radio, and, maybe most of all, just observing life on the streets. The sights and sounds were not background noise to her; they were part of a neighborhood as sharply focused as the one she left behind in Bittinger. It was her world and she knew it and its inhabitants well. Late at night, when the horse-drawn carriages from Central Park passed her apartment building on the way back to their stables, the clip-clop sounds of the horses' hooves drifting up to her ninth floor roost even brought a little reminder of the farm to the big city. She was at home in both places.

Mary Jane Emory was a good and special person. Her family and friends will miss her.

Burial, followed by a celebration of her life, will be private.

In lieu of flowers, anyone desiring to honor her memory by making a contribution may do so to the AORN for the continuing education of operating room nurses, a cause dear to her heart (www.aorn.org/Foundation; 800-755-2676; or AORN Foundation, 2170 South Parker Rd., Suite 400, Denver, CO 80231).

Mary Jane's family wishes to express sincere gratitude to everyone at Dennett Road Manor who took such kind and excellent care of her during the difficult last year of her life. You made every day as good as it could be. Thank you.

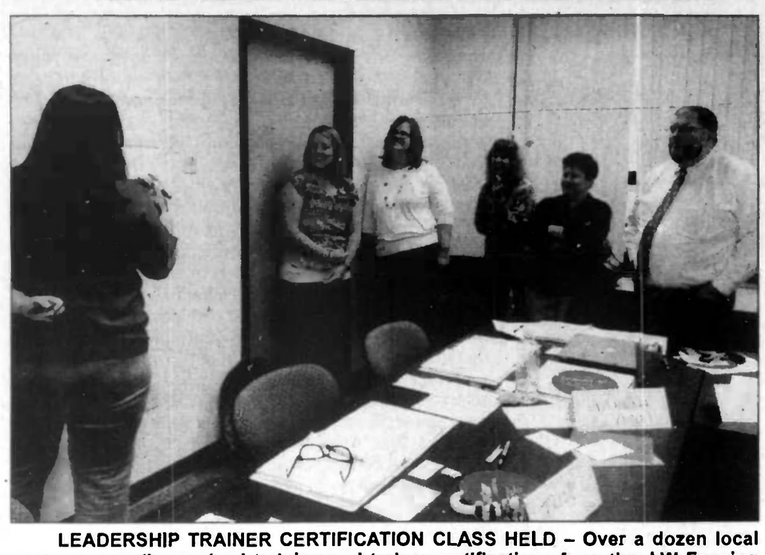
PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971



LEADERSHIP TRAINER CERTIFICATION CLASS HELD – Over a dozen local persons recently received training and trainer certifications from the J.W Fanning Institute for Leadership Development of the University of Georgia. The class, held at Garrett College's GIEC incubator, will allow local leaders to deliver Fanning's proprietary leadership material as part of the upcoming Leadership Garrett County program. Pictured from left are: Ashley Ruby (back to camera), Garrett College; Sarah Myers, Garrett College; Linda Carr, Lakefront magazine; Jodl McLIntock, Maryland Small Business Development Center (SBDC); Michelle Lieberman, Garrett College; and Alex McCoy, director of Garrett County Economic Development. See story for details.

Leadership Garrett County Getting Prepared To Launch Next Month

Leadership Garrett County is building momentum for its planned launch next month, as final preparations for the seven-month program are well underway, according to Mike Tumbarello, director of the Garrett College Center for Entrepreneurship & Innovation. Applications from individuals and sponsoring organizations will continue to be accepted through October 10.

Tumbarello said that the goal is to build a diverse inaugural class of about 20 emerging leaders from the non-profit, for-profit, and government sectors of the local economy.

"Members of the inaugural class will learn, experience, and bond together over the next seven months and, it is hoped, well into the future," said Tumbarello.

Leadership Garrett County is a program developed and managed by Garrett College in partnership with the Garrett County Department of Economic Development. Tumbarello is developing and managing the program, and has been working with leadership experts at the University of Georgia (UGA) to bring world-class program content on the art and science of leadership.

The inaugural class will meet once each month for a full day, with lectures on leadership from local trainers who have been certified by UGA. In addition to program content on leadership, each month's class will include visits to key Garrett County institutions in the arts, education, government, social services, and other areas.

Each class will also include meetings with county leaders and discussions with those leaders and others.

"Graduates of the seven-month program will emerge as more informed, connected, and effective managers, leaders, and citizens, and will, together with future classes, help ensure a bright future for Garrett County," said Tumbarello.

"The goal of Leadership Garrett County is to help current county organizations of all types develop emerging leaders to enhance organizational performance and build employee effectiveness and retention," he continued. "In addition, a primary goal of the program is to help the county identify, enable, and retain the next generation of county leadership to ensure a strong, vibrant county for decades to come."

Unlike many other community-based leadership programs, Garrett County's will include program content on leadership best practices as licensed from UGA.

"We were fortunate in that Alex McCoy from Garrett County Economic Development had gone through a program that used the UGA content," said Tumbarello. "After reviewing their program and that of other entities, we decided to go with UGA. I feel our new program will compare very favorably to others in the region, the state of Maryland, and throughout the U.S."

One of the positive attributes of the Garrett County program, Tumbarello said, in addition to its combined classroom and experiential learning format, is the low price of tuition. With only a $25 application fee and tuition of $350 for the program, Garrett's will be the lowest priced program in the state.

"When I did my analysis and benchmarking of other programs, I found most cost well over $1,000, and a number over $5,000," Tumbarello said. "We priced ours quite low to accommodate those individuals and institutions in the county for whom funds were tight. We also wanted to get a good start on enrollment our first year, and we have had some financial assistance from the county through economic development. Hopefully, we will also be receiving a grant we applied for from a national entity that has helped us with the Power of Possibilities the past few years."

The value-proposition of the program appears to have been well received, Tumbarello said, with commitments and applications coming in from a variety of non-profit, governmental, educational, and business organizations.

Any organization wishing to sponsor an employee, or any individual wishing to apply is invited to go online to www.4ruralsuccess.com to learn more and download the application. Applications and the $25 application fee are due to Tumbarello by Oct. 10. Applicants will learn of their acceptance by Oct. 12 and should be ready and able to attend the first full day's program on Oct. 18.

Monthly meetings will be held the third Tuesday of every month in 2016 and the third Wednesday of every month in 2017.

Persons with questions and/or desiring additional information are invited to contact Tumbarello at 301-387-3167 or mike.tumbarello@garrettcollege.edu.

Financial Aid Update: October Is New January

Those familiar with planning for college can easily relate to the mad rush of filling out the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) and are used to filing taxes as early as possible in order to meet the many federal, state, and school deadlines. January 1 was always the target date to complete and submit the FAFSA.

Under new federal guidelines for the 2017-18 academic year and beyond, students and parents may fill out and submit the FAFSA on or after Oct. 1, 2016. The date will continue to be Oct. 1 for each year.

"The most significant change is that families will not have to rush around and complete their taxes. Financial information will be taken from the prior, prior year," said Cissy VanSickle, director of financial aid at Garrett. "This means that the 2017-18 FAFSA financial information will come from the 2015 tax information, which is already completed. This also allows for the use of the IRS retrieval tool available on the FAFSA, which brings the tax information directly from the IRS to the FAFSA."

However, family size, marital status, assets, and the number of persons in a given family who are in college are all based on the current year. Despite the early availability of the application, VanSickle advises parents and students to check with state agencies and schools to see if any of those deadlines have changed. The state of Maryland is maintaining the March 1 deadline for the 2017-18 academic year.

VanSickle also stated that Garrett College will hold parent workshops in the near future on this new FAFSA process. These informative workshops will be open to all, regardless of which college students are interested in attending.

More information can be found online at www.studentaid.gov/fafsa. Students and parents are invited to contact Federal Student Aid, an office of the U.S. Department of Education, at 1-800-4 FEDAID, or the Financial Aid Office at Garrett College at 301-387-3080 with any questions or concerns.

The Friend Family Association of America is sponsoring a Sunday afternoon storytelling event this Sunday, Sept. 25, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Friend Family Association Heritage Museum and Genealogy Library in Friendsville. It is located at the corner of 1st Street and Maple Street (Maple is the main street). The topic will be "Canning & Preserving" in a show-and-tell format. Local historian and storyteller Ina Hicks will present a short history of canning.

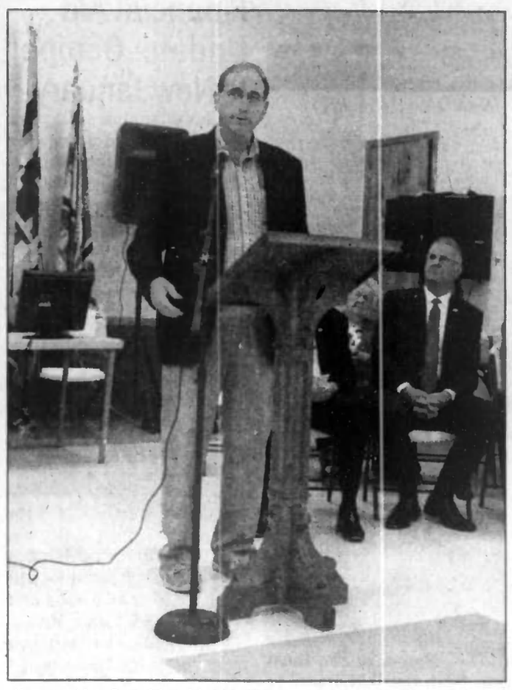
The public is invited to bring artifacts used in canning over the years or cooking tools from the past. Guests are invited to reminisce and compare their experiences. There is also a window display on canning and preserving (specifically, sauerkraut).

Circle of Friends Bus Trips

Seats are still available for the Branson, Mo., trip scheduled for Monday, Oct. 17, through Sunday, Oct. 23. Pick-up points will be Frostburg, Grantsville, and Friendsville. There is a detailed itinerary available.

The following day trips have seats available: Friday, Oct. 14 , Fall Mystery Trip; Saturday, Nov 12, Our Christmas Dinner musical at Bird in Hand in Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Thursday, Nov. 17, Pa. Opry, Country Gospel Christmas Mercersberg, Pa.

Those interested in attending should contact Nancy at 301-895-5233 for additional information on any of these trips. Trips are open to the public.



9/11 REMEMBERED – Woodmen of the World Life Chapter 45 of Friendsville held its annual 9/11 remembrance on Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Friendsville fire hall. Presentation of the colors was provided by members of the Northern High School JROTC color guard unit, directed by Sgt. Maj. Mel Hoffman, above left. The national anthem was sung by Gene Humbert, and remarks were made by State Senator George Edwards (above right) and Paul Edwards, chairman of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. The guest speaker was Dana Umbel, and special music was provided by Rodney Durst and Humbert. The WOW chapter also donated an American flag to the town of Friendsville during the ceremony. Pictured below with the flag, from left, are Mary Frantz, Julia Sines, Hugh Friend of Chapter 45, Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, and Carolyn Humberson, also representing Chapter 45.

United Way Of Garrett County Kicks Off 2017 Campaign, Sets $90K Goal

by Juli McCoy, County United Way Finance Manager

The 2017 United Way Campaign will kick off this year with a $90,000 goal in Garrett County. Individuals and businesses can expect to see the traditional mailing about the campaign by the end of the month.

In 2016, United Way of Garrett County gave $73,722.12 to a number of programs throughout the county. How and where that money is used is determined by a volunteer committee of community members who review proposals from community partners to find solutions for human service needs.

United Way focuses on core issues related to health, education, income, and emergency services. Through an education and collaborative impact grant, $23,000 was awarded to focus on strong families, effective schools, and supportive communities.

United Way believes that education is the cornerstone of individuals and community success, and that getting ready to learn begins at birth and continues through life.

Good health allows children to learn better and adults to increase their income through productive work. Providing access to prescription assistance and dental care (Mission of Mercy), United Way helps to improve the health of children and adults in the community. Locally, $18,900 was awarded to programs in Garrett County so that healthier lifestyles can be achieved.

Life's emergencies can sometimes keep a family from being able to get ahead. United Way is focused on lifting families out of poverty and moving forward. Through its emergency services grants, $21,505.70 is now available through assistance programs throughout the communities in Garrett County.

United Way has developed after-school and summer program partnerships to ensure all children achieve their potential to succeed. The Education Impact Partnership was awarded $10,316.42 to help meet those goals.

Familiar programs familiar are often funded directly by United Way dollars. When United Way says "99 cents of every dollar stays in your community," we are proud to honor that by serving as good stewards of the very limited resources that exist in our rural area.

Youth leadership and mentoring programs, summer learning and nutrition, emergency dental assistance through Mission of Mercy, prescription assistance, and heating and utility assistance are all partially funded by dollars raised by the communities in Garrett County.

Garrett County residents who work outside the county can designate to United Way of Garrett County – simply write us in. The United Way in the area where you work will send your contribution to Garrett County.

To make a tax-deductible donation now, send a check to: United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550. Online donations can be made through PayPal by visiting www.cuw.org.

For information about volunteering with United Way of Garrett County, persons can call 888-597-2700.

DCL Lions To Host 3rd Annual Bark In The Park

The third annual "Bark in the Park" 5K race will take place this Saturday, Sept. 24, hosted by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club at the club's dog park, located along Bumble Bee Road near McHenry. Registration will be held from 8 to 8:30 a.m., and the race will start at 8:45 a.m.

This is an off-road (headphones are okay), pet-friendly race that will start and end at the park. The route covers a range of terrain and has some moderate hills, a spokesperson said.

Racers may walk or run, and they may have dogs with them, but animals are not required.

To be eligible to bring dogs along, competitors must be sure that the pet's shots are up to date and that the animal is friendly. Retractable leashes are not permitted. All those with dogs must bring waste disposal bags to clean up after the pet if necessary.

The route will be clearly marked and the race will be double-timed (two timers to ensure reporting of results).

Persons may go online to find the registration form, as well as more information, at www.deepcreeklions.org/Dog-Park.html. The registration fee is $25, which provides a T-shirt to each entrant. The proceeds will be used for the dog park.

For more information, persons may contact Miranda Gallagher at 301-334-8881.

Intermediate Level QuickBooks Course Slated In Grantsville

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on, intermediate course on QuickBooks on Tuesdays, Oct. 4 and 11, from 6 to 9:15 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville.

This class is designed for those who have some experience using QuickBooks and want to learn additional functions.

Course topics will include tracking credit card transactions, invoicing customers, creating sales orders, generating customer statements, receiving payment from customers, and making bank deposits.

Writing QuickBooks checks and assigning amounts to specific expense accounts, working with asset and liability accounts, entering bills in accounts payable, and paying bills will also be discussed.

The course will be instructed by Sarah J. Wilt, who is a certified bookkeeper, QuickBooks ProAdvisor, and a licensed tax preparer with her own firm in Grantsville for the last 10 years. She has worked in the accounting field for 18 years and consults with new and seasoned business owners about their business plans, marketing plans, cash flow issues, and general needs.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one may call Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development at 301-387-3069.

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

AURORA/EGLON

Aurora School News

Students with perfect school attendance during the month of September will be eligible for a drawing for a bike at the end of the month. Each school in Preston County received a bike to be used to promote attendance.

The Run For It 2K walk and 5K run at Davis will be held this Saturday, Sept. 24. Those volunteering to participate on the PTO team need to assemble in Davis before the race begins at 11 a.m.

Miss Groves, the art teacher, has announced that students are starting the Square 1 Art fundraiser. Students' art will be featured on mugs, water bottles, magnets, etc., for parents to order beginning in October. An art display for Aurora School at the Buckwheat Festival will feature old programs, newspapers, and other items celebrating the 75th Buckwheat Festival.

Beginning in October and running through April, "Born Learning," "Parents as Powerful Partners," and "Little Learners" programs for preschool children and their families will be held at Aurora School once each month. Persons may call the school secretary, Cindy Stone, at 304-735-3781 to enroll. Questions can be addressed to Krista Hayes at the same number, or by emailing kjhayes@k12.wv.us.

A Veterans Day celebration for area veterans is being planned for Thursday, Nov 10. More information will be forthcoming.

Eglon Cemetery

The Eglon Cemetery Association will meet this Saturday, Sept. 24, for a workday. Members are requesting that all floral decorations be removed from the cemetery by Nov. 1. Christmas decorations will be removed on Jan. 15, 2017.

Chet Roth and Friends

The final musical event for this summer with Chet Roth and Friends is scheduled for this Saturday, Sept. 24, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Mt. Grove Pavilion. Persons should bring a lawn chair and a covered dish to share.

Texas All-Day Sing

The annual Gospel Sing at Bethel UM (Texas) Church, Horse Shoe Run, will be held this Sunday, Sept. 25, beginning at 1:15. Anyone who would like to be included in the program may contact Brenda Cassidy at 304-735-5238, or Carolyn Mullenax at 304-735-62550.

Moved Closer Home

Brian Corbin was moved to Keyser this past week to recuperate closer to his home in Elk Garden. His new address is: Piney Valley, 135 Southern Drive, Keyser, WV 26726. It will be at least another month before he will be allowed to put any weight on his legs.

News Submission

To report family and class reunions, as well as other news and events, persons may contact Linda Lewis at 304-735-6931, or P.O. Box 25, Eglon, WV 26716.

Aurora School

Preschool Programs

Aurora School's Parents as Powerful Partners, Little Learners, and Born Learning for preschool children and their families will resume for the 2015-17 school year in early October. The goal of all these programs is to give families an opportunity within their community to prepare their children for school success.

A detailed letter about the programs and a registration form have been sent home with all students. Parents may also call the school secretary, Cindy Stone, at 304-735-3781 to enroll. Questions can be addressed to Krista Hayes at the same number or emailed to kjhayes@k12.wv.us.

Aurora Project To Host Annual Barn Dance Oct. 2

The Aurora Project will host its 13th annual Barn Dance at Brookside Farm in Aurora, W.Va., on Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 6 p.m. The afternoon of music and dancing will feature Born Old and Aurora Celtic bands, and a live caller. There will be a silent auction, and refreshments will be provided.

The cost of admission is $15 per person. Children under 10 will be admitted free of charge. Proceeds will benefit the Aurora Project. For more information, persons are invited to call Annie Snyder, chairman of the event, at 304-642-2006 or visit Aurora Project Inc. on Facebook.

Aurora Preschool Programs Slated To Resume Soon

Aurora School will again offer the programs titled "Parents As Powerful Partners (PAPP)," "Little Learners," and "Born Learning" for preschool children and their families for the 2016-17 school year. Parents and guardians are invited to enroll in these programs, which will resume in early October.

The goal of the programs is to give families an opportunity within their community to prepare their children for success in school.

"We hope to plan a few field trips as part of these programs," a spokesperson noted.

The PAPP and Little Learner's programs will work in conjunction to offer a library hour and playgroup, with academic-readiness stations available weekly for children ages 2, 3, and 4. Families who register will be called about the exact days of the week and times the program will be held. Childcare providers may bring children for parents who work.

Age-appropriate library books will go home each week to be read in the home. Resource Center items such as DVDs, board games, and puzzles will also be available for "learning fun" at home.

Children who are ready to use school readiness computer programs, such as ABC Mouse, will have opportunity to do so.

Aurora School offers Born Learning for families with children prenatal through age 5. This program will begin in October and continue through April.

Participants will meet once a month for a sit-down family style meal, followed by a presentation for the adults on a topic related to raising preschoolers ready for kindergarten success. Childcare will be provided during the presentation.

Families with children who are 1 year old and prenatal can also register for some segments of these programs.

A more detailed letter with a registration form has been sent home with all Aurora School students. Families interested in the program may also call the school secretary, Cindy Stone, at 304-735-3781 to enroll. Questions can be addressed to Krista Hayes at the same number or emailed to kjhayes@k12.wv.us

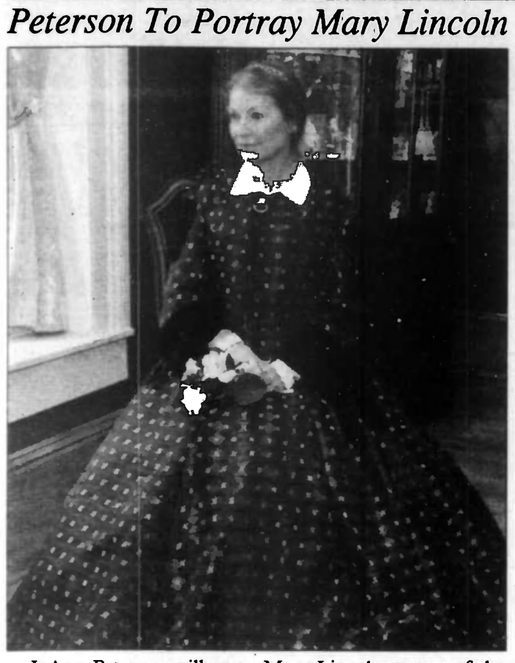
Peterson To Portray Mary Lincoln



JoAnn Peterson will portray Mary Todd Lincoln in a program at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa., on Monday, Sept. 26, at 7:30 p.m. The program is sponsored by the Springs Historical Society and is free and open to the public.

"Abraham Lincoln is undoubtedly one of the most revered presidents in American history, but the woman he loved, the center of his life, his wife Mary, has remained a historical enigma," Peterson said. "She is one of the most tragic and misrepresented figures of the 19th century.

"Mary Lincoln and her story symbolize the pain and loss of Civil War America, and are inextricably tied with the story of her husband's presidency, yet her life was an extraordinary chronicle of its own," Peterson said.

Born into a politically active, slave-owning family, Mary was her husband's political advisor and encourager.

"Her story is one of enduring love, compassion, and a family divided by war," the actress said. "Treated as a scapegoat by the North and a betrayer by the South, Mary was vilified in the press. In this portrayal, you will see Lincoln through the eyes of the woman who loved him throughout the tragedies that befell her."

Peterson lives in Kingwood, W.Va., and portrays Mary Lincoln as part of the West Virginia Humanities Council History Alive Program. She is an actor and singer who has performed in both professional and community theatre. She is a playwright, penning murder mysteries and a one-woman Civil War portrayal that includes 19 songs from that era.

The Folk Meeting House is located at 1711 Springs Road, Springs, Pa.

For more information, persons may call 814-442-4594 or 814-662-4366, or go to www.springspa.org.

Our Town Theatre Staging Product Of Build-A-Play Series

Our Town Theatre (OTT), in association with the Women's Civic Club of Oakland, will present Colon the Coal; an Original Rock and Roll Fable, which is a show created by children taking part in the year's Build-A-Play series.

Performances will be held on Saturday, Oct. 1, and Sunday, Oct. 2, at the theatre, located at 121 Center Street, Oakland. The show will begin at 1 p.m., with the doors opening at 12:30 p.m.

OTT hosted a series of workshops over the past year, inviting children to the theatre to work together on an original script. This show is the product of those workshops.

Admission is free, though donations will be accepted. This production is appropriate for all ages.

NHS Musicians Invited To Be In Inauguration Event

The Northern Garrett High School band and chorus have been invited to perform in the 2017 Presidential Inauguration Parade in Washington, D.C., in January. The Northern High School Music Boosters will hold a jewelry and cash bash fundraiser on Saturday, Oct. 8, to help defray the costs of the trip.

The event will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Garrett College Special Events Center (former gymnasium). Food and refreshments will be provided by Goehringer's Catering, and entertainment will be given throughout the event by the Northern band and chorus.

The jewelry is being provided by Terry's Jewelry.

Tickets for the bash are $25, and ticket-holders do not have to be present to win.

Tickets can be purchased through any Northern High School band or chorus member, or persons may contact director Duane Salisbury at duane.salisbury@garrettcountyschools.org.

More information on the Washington event will be published as the inauguration nears.

One-Act Play Festival To Be Hosted By FSU

The Frostburg State University Center for Literary Arts has announced Roses for the Sweetheart by Kat Meads of Ben Lomond, Calif., as the winner of its 2016 One-Act Playwriting Competition. The winning play and the second- and third-place plays will be featured at the seventh annual One-Act Play Festival, hosted by the Center for Literary Arts, on Saturday, Sept. 24, at the Palace Theatre in downtown Frostburg, beginning at 7 p.m.

The second-place play is Woman, Running Late, in a Dress by Dallas Woodburn of Ventura, Calif., and the third-place play is Worthless Gods by Kristin Andrea Hanratty of Grand Rapids, Mich. The two runners-up will be presented in a dramatic stage reading, followed by a fully produced performance of the winning play.

Plays were judged on plot, character development, dialogue, and overall quality. This year, 47 plays were submitted to the competition from across the U.S. and Canada.

Following the shows, a reception will be held with light refreshments, as well as a talk-back session during which playwrights, directors, and actors from the shows will answer questions from the audience. Soft drinks and food at the reception will be free, and beer and wine will be available for sale by the theatre.

The plays and their themes are as follows:

In Roses for the Sweetheart, as a married man lies on his deathbed on the family porch, his wife and daughter are confronted by the man's lover. Wife and daughter prevent the lover from entering the home, forcing her instead to sit with them on the porch as they insult her. While the lover endures a stream of cruel remarks, she fails to realize that her lover's son is busy plotting the ultimate revenge for his mother on her unfaithful husband and his lover.

Woman, Running Late, In a Dress, is the story of an average woman whose husband dies suddenly of a heart attack in the midst of a marital fight. At the time he dies, she has been flirting with a mutual friend who told her a riddle. Through her grief, the widow obsesses over the riddle, desperately trying to solve it. As she tries to move past her loss, she tells the story of her relationship through flashbacks, interrupted by the increasingly maddening riddle and snippets of her widowed life.

In Worthless Gods, Plutus and Eros, the Greek gods of money and love, compete to decide a wager: who is more important to modern-day man. Eros and Plutus interfere in a young mortal's life to settle the question, in the process tricking and deceiving one another, bending the rules of their bet and causing the poor mortal to suffer a parade of frustrating shenanigans.

Tickets for the performances are $5 for students and $10 for adults. They are available at the Center for Literary Arts, Main Street Books, the Allegany Arts Council, and at the door of the Palace Theatre on the night of the event.

For more information, persons may contact the Center for Literary Arts at cla@frostburg.edu or 301-687-4340, or visit the center's web page at www.frostburg.edu/cla.

REL, Our Town Theatre To Host Readers' Theatre

The Ruth Enlow Library and Our Town Theatre are partnering to present a Readers' Theatre using a script adaptation of this year's One Maryland One Book selection – All American Boys by Jason Reynolds and Brendan Kiely.

Readers are needed for this event, which is slated for Friday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m. at OTT. Teens or adults interested in participating should email Michael Virts at jvirts.hotmail.com by Oct. 8 so that organizers can create the rehearsal schedule.

One Maryland One Book is Maryland's only statewide community reading project and is the signature program of the Maryland Center for the Book at Maryland Humanities. Initiated in the 2008, this year-long project culminates with two months of public programs, using literature to spur the conversations in communities around the state.

This year's OMOB selection tells "the powerful and relatable story of two high-schoolers brought together by injustice," said a Maryland Humanities spokesperson. "What would you do if you witnessed something you never would have believed? And how do you know you're doing the right thing?

More information about the book and the program, as well as author tours, is available at www.mdhumantities.org/programs/one-maryland-one-book.

Our Town Theatre is funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. OTT is located along Center Street in Oakland.

A listing of all REL is available online at www.relib.net.

WVU STAGING DAVID MAMET'S RACE – The West Virginia University School of Theatre and Dance will present the critically acclaimed Broadway hit Race, written by David Mamet, in the Gladys G. Davis Theatre at the Creative Arts Center, Morgantown, W.Va., opening tonight, Sept. 23, and running Sept. 24, 25, 27-30, and Oct. 2. Directed by professor Jerry McGonigle, the play chronicles lawyers Jack Lawson and Henry Brown as they defend Charles Strickland, a high-profile businessman caught up in a racially-charged media frenzy surrounding criminal acts against his mistress. When the lawyers' paralegal Susan enters the play, more complication arises as she lets her own personal idea of truth interfere with justice. The actors are Rick Mugrage, Andra Ward, Joseph Bussey and Emani Berry, pictured. For tickets, persons may contact the WVU Box Office at 304-293-7469 or visit Ticketmaster. Show information can be found at www.theatre.wvu.edu.

SHALL WE WAKE THE PRESIDENT?
by Tevi Troy
C 2016, Lyons Press, $26.95, 272 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

You were, of course, asleep when the alarm sounded. Why do these things always happen at 3 a.m.? Emergencies never happen during the day. You can't schedule them, either, so you need to be at least semi-prepared for anything, all the time. But is the government ready? In Shall We Wake the President? by Tevi Troy, you'll find the answer.

Hurricanes, conflagrations, tornadoes, terrorism. Does it seem like there've been more disasters in the United States lately, or are we just more aware of them?

Both, says Troy. Inclement weather, epidemics, war, and destruction are as old as mankind, but the world itself is more complicated than ever. We have better technology, for instance, which informs but may not fully prepares us for worst-case scenarios, and full-scale prevention may be impossible. Sometimes, the best we can hope is that our commanders in chief are ready for what befalls us, although, as Troy notes, unseasoned new presidents are often inexperienced in dealing with major disasters.

They can, however, look at the past for a basic disaster management blueprint; many of their predecessors dealt with similar occurrences throughout history. Presidents can take stronger leadership roles or even an advisory role if a different level or department of government is more suited or better braced to take the reins. At the very least – and perhaps first – a president must loosen the strings tying communication and reassure his or her people.

Even so, and though we lay many expectations at the feet of our government, Troy says most Americans would be well-served to serve themselves.

Because the government doesn't have a nationwide stockpile of food or water, create your own. Since there may be difficulty getting medicines everywhere, get vaccinated, take basic hygienic precautions, and have a well-stocked medi-kit. Pay down your debts. Consider buying a generator, and some sturdy locks.

And finally, keep in mind that while there are things you can't gird against, you also can't spend your life worrying. All things considered, your chances of being a victim are relatively low.

Wow. Shall We Wake the President? is quite the surprise.

I expected to see history in this book, which author and former deputy secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services Troy offers, and it's very eye-opening. I didn't expect the behind-the-scenes politics, nor the touch of survivalist advice in this book – even though I came to welcome both.

It's easy to complain about shortcomings in disaster mitigation, but merely knowing why help may not be coming if the unthinkable happens is a great way to be forearmed; to that end, Troy explains why the system is what it is. That's a good education for readers who want to dive deeply into this book; of even more help is the no-nonsense tone and the quietly urgent advice.

The anniversary of 9/11 has just passed, and if that and other current events have you on watch, then this ponderously thoughtful book will keep you reading. Buy Shall We Wake the President? and be prepared, not alarmed.

COUNTRY EXPLORERS
by Sarena Lewis, reporter

The Country Explorers 4-H Club met at the Mountain Fresh Farmer's Market on July 16. The Steel Legos 4-H LEGO Robotics Team (Evan Lewis, Serena Lewis, Mason Qualls, Noah Tasker, and Eve Beard) demonstrated their robot game and research project to the club. Hannah Porter demonstrated her sewing project as well.

Once the meeting was called to order, Kira Rinker, Krista Rinker, Izzy Hauser, Jacob Hauser, Jaxson Corbin, and Trentin Snyder reported about the Farm Safety Day Camp at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on June 23.

Lane Savage reported about the 4-H Camp Algawa, which was held from June 26 to 30.

After the meeting, club members toured the Rinker farm, the Savage farm, and the Qualls farm. Club members presented their projects in preparation for the Garrett County Fair.

Adobe Photoshop Class Slated At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a course titled "Introduction to Adobe Photoshop" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Mondays, Sept. 26–Oct. 17, from 6 to 9:15 p.m.

"If you are brand new to Adobe Photoshop, this course will get you up to speed, and if you've been using Adobe Photoshop for a while, this will be a nice refresher," said a spokesperson

Students will navigate through the Adobe environment and identify the components and tools. They will explore various methods for selecting image areas, and learn how to modify, manipulate, and transform selections to create stunning effects.

"You will discover how to work with text, layers, and layer effects, and how to adjust, retouch, and resize images," added the spokesperson.

The course is being instructed by Laurie Walker, life-long resident of Garrett County and a certified business education teacher who has work experience in the private business sector.

For additional information, persons can contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by contacting the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

SWANTON

Otterbein United Methodist Church News

The annual Homecoming celebration was held on Sunday. Appreciation is extended to all those who attended or helped in any way with the event.

Rev. Lynn Beckman submitted a video of the Swanton Church Choir from 1985 that was taped at the Parsons, W.Va., television station. Sandy Schofield was the choir director and Shirley Craver was the pianist. The video was shared just before the singing took place at homecoming.

The first act of the day was a puppet show, "Plug into Power," presented by the Swanton Kids for Christ puppet team. Special music followed, featuring Rev. Ross and Linda Glotfelty, Stanley Skidmore, and a group led by Bill Brenneman. Guest pianists were Wanda Fazenbaker Devore and Peggy Otto Lambert.

Special recognition was given to Glenna Sweitzer attending as the oldest woman present; Edna Clark, second-oldest woman; Joe and Mary Harvey, married the longest (56 years); Peggy and Ellsworth Lambert, traveling the farthest; Harland "Bus" Friend, oldest man; Chelsea Rhodes, youngest present; and Pastor Carl Lee and Clara Coddington, most recently married.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m., and the worship service begins at 11 a.m. at Otterbein. The worship service in Kitzmiller begins at 9:30 a.m. All are welcome.

The United Methodist Women continually accept Rada Cutlery orders throughout the year. The coordinator for this, Joni Wilson, can be contacted at 301-387-6332 to place an order.

Swanton Community Center

The next buckwheat cake dinner is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 1. Further details will be in next week's column.

St. John's Lutheran Church/Meadow Mountain

The Sunday worship service at St. John's begins at 9 a.m. All are invited to worship and also to a coffee hour following the service.

The church is located at 5214 Bittinger Road north of Swanton. Interim pastor Don Thomas may be contacted by calling 814-395-3845.

Birthdays/ Anniversaries

Among those in the community recently celebrating a birthday are Don Wolf Jr. on Sept. 15, Jean Wright on Sept. 16, Joni Wilson, Jaxxton Miller, Carolyn Livengood, and Betty O'Brien, all on Sept. 17, Arveta Lee and Mike Woodbrey on Sept. 19, and Jamie Bernard on Sept. 23.

Among those recently celebrating a wedding anniversary are June and Charlie McClosky on Sept. 21.

Huskies Pound Clear Spring In Record-Setting Performance

The Northern High School football team racked up a school-record 41 first-quarter points to secure their first 3-0 start since 2005 in a 68-7 win over the visiting Clear Spring Blazers on Friday.

Northern compiled 510 yards of total offense without attempting a pass, with 403 yards coming in the first half.

"I thought we came out and did what we wanted to do early," said Northern head coach Phil Carr. "That set the tone."

The Huskies busted out of the gate early with a four-play, 73-yard drive, capped off by a 24-yard touchdown run from Cayleb Broadwater.

Calyb King added to the quick start with a 64-yard sprint for a score to make it 14-0.

Riley Brick recovered a fumble in Huskies' territory on the Blazers' first play of the ensuing series. Peyton Carr followed up with a 10-yard run two plays later.

Things went from bad to worse for the Blazers when a sailing pass was intercepted by King and run back 19 yards for a touchdown to make it 28-0 with 4:39 remaining in the first quarter.

Nate Durst added his name to the scoring column with a 25 yard burst for a touchdown just two minutes later

Logan Yommer closed off the first quarter onslaught with his own 26-yard dash to the end zone.

Clear Spring scored quickly at the beginning of the second quarter when a deflected Joe McCoy pass found its way into the hands of receiver Michael Meyers who ran all the way into the end zone for a 56-yard score.

A.J. Yost kicked the extra point to make it 41-7.

King looked like he shut down the Blazers' short-lived momentum when he ran the ensuing kickoff for a touchdown, but an illegal block in the back penalty negated the score.

Clear Spring recovered a fumble and looked to gain more momentum, but King picked off another pass and scored his second pick-six of the game.

Carr scored on the longest play of the game when he ran 76 yards for another touchdown, and Sam Beeman ended the half's scoring with a three-yard plunge across the goal line 44 seconds before the break to make it 61-7.

The Huskies scored the final points at the end of a 12-play drive when Carr powered his way into the end zone from four yards out with 10:01 remaining in the fourth quarter.

Durst and Carr each eclipsed 100 yards rushing with 130 and 100 yards, respectively.

King scored points in every facet of the game with one offensive touchdown, two defensive touchdowns, and making all but two of his extra point attempts.

The Huskies' defense forced six turnovers. King had three interceptions and Carr picked off a pass. Brick and Broadwater both recovered fumbles.

Beeman and Bryce Jones each led the Huskies in tackles with seven apiece.

"The big thing is we got out healthy with a big game coming up at Frankfort next week," Carr said. "It was a good opportunity for some of our guys who don't get to play a lot, and they did a nice job."

The Huskies (3-0) travel to Ridgeley, W.Va tomorrow to take on Frankfort (2-2) at 7 p.m. Northern defeated Frankfort in their last meeting 52-6.

Allegany Campers Defeat Huskies In Jayvee Football

Allegany High School's jayvee football team accumulated over 300 yards on the ground as the visiting Campers defeated the Northern Huskies 28-6 on Monday evening.

The Campers wasted no time getting on the board as Ra'Shad Wingate ran back the opening kickoff 74 yards for a touchdown. Austen Crowe booted the extra point to make it 7-0.

Hunter Moorehead and Henry Griffin sprinted for 50- and 48-yard touchdown runs in the second quarter to give the Campers a 20-0 advantage.

Northern answered before the half when Jordan Wiehl picked up a fumble and took it 46 yards to the end zone to make it 20-6.

Wingate scored on another big play for the Campers when he dashed his way to the end zone from 70 yards away for the game's final points in the fourth quarter.

Griffin ran for 101 yards on five carries, while Wingate racked up 127 yards on six carries.

The Huskies host Frankfort on Monday at 7 p.m.

Undefeated A-Team Maddawgs Defeat Frostburg Cougars

The Northern Maddawgs' A team (4-0) remained undefeated after defeating the Frostburg Cougars in a 20-0 shutout win in pee wee football action on Saturday.

Kellen Hinebaugh threw his first touchdown pass of the season by connecting with receiver Myles Uphold in the end zone.

Ethan Sebold accumulated almost 200 yards on the ground and added a rushing touchdown. Uphold also crossed the goal line for a score off a handoff from Hinebaugh.

Kyle Broadwater and Tyler Hawk each registered seven tackles to lead the Maddawgs on defense.

The B-Team Maddawgs (3-1) suffered their first loss of the season to the Cougars 13-0 due to some untimely offensive miscues

Frostburg took advantage of an early Northern fumble and established an early lead a few plays later.

The Maddawgs' misfortune continued when the team's starting quarterback went down with an injury.

The offense wasn't able to recover, and the Cougars added to the lead in the second half to make it 13-0.

Kevin Lynch, Caleb Sampson, and Shane Bates kept the Maddawgs within striking distance the entire game due to their defensive effort.

The C team also fell to Frostburg, this time to the tune of 33-7.

The Maddawgs begin a three-game home stand this Saturday against the Keyser Mini-Tornados. Both of the A teams have undefeated records.

The flag football game starts at 5 p.m, and the C team kicks off the series at 6 p.m.

HUSKIES DOMINATE CLEAR SPRING – The Northern High School varsity football team defeated the visiting Clear Spring Blazers 68-7 last Friday night. Northern Steelers Sweep Keyser In Youth Football

The Northern Steelers swept the Keyser Tornado on the road in division I and division II games of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League on Sunday.

The Steelers' CAYFL Division I team pitched a 22-0 shutout against Keyser.

Jacob Glotfelty put the Steelers' first points on the board when he tackled a Keyser running back in the end zone for a safety.

Zach Hallenbeck added to the lead in the second quarter when he plunged into the end zone from a yard out. The Steelers led 10-0 after Jake Rush's successful kick conversion.

Hallenbeck scored another second-quarter touchdown on an eight-yard scamper to give Northern a 16-0 halftime cushion.

Rush scored the game's final points in the third quarter when he received a pass from Hallenbeck and took the ball 27 yards to make it 22-0.

Hallenbeck finished with 82 total yards of offense and three touchdowns.

Rush, Landon Broadwater, and Brandon Stanczyk led the Steelers' defense as the unit recovered two fumbles.

Zion Powell and Caden Biser were the leaders for Keyser.

The Steelers' CAYFL Division II also enjoyed a win over Keyser, picking up a safety and three touchdowns for a 22-6 victory.

Jamison Warnick capped off a Northern drive with a 12-yard burst for a touchdown in the first quarter. Chance Ritchey followed up by sacking the Keyser quarterback in the end zone for a safety to give the Steelers an 8-0 lead.

The second quarter featured one of the biggest plays of the afternoon when Warnick took the ball and dashed 55 yards for a touchdown, giving the Steelers a 14-0 lead at the break.

Shane Fink widened the scoring gap in the fourth quarter when he made it across the goal line on a five-yard run.

Keyser's Amare Kennedy took the handoff on the last play of the game and ran for a 60-yard touchdown to prevent the shutout.

Warnick led the Steelers with 81 yards on eight carries.

Hayden Sisler and Colton Savage stood out for the Steelers on defense.

Northern returns to action at home on Sunday against Braddock. The division I game will kick off at 2 p.m., and the division II game will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Petersburg Passing Attack Lifts Vikings Over Southern Rams

The Southern High School football team was unable to contain Petersburg's Jacob Hartman, who led the Vikings to a 31-22 victory in Petersburg by completing 21 of 28 passes for 327 yards and two touchdowns on Friday.

Hartman struck the first blow with an 11-yard strike to Cody Southerly to give the Vikings an early 7-0 lead.

The duo connected again on the next drive two minutes later, this time going for a 75-yard touchdown.

The Rams responded before the end of the first quarter when Alec Horner crossed the goal line from four yards out and Hayden McLaughlin added a two-point conversion to make it 14-8.

Hartman answered with his third touchdown of the game, this time on a five-yard run to push the lead to 21-8.

Southern fought its way back into the game again when Jace Guy powered his way into the end zone from two yards away to bring the deficit to 21-14 with 3:02 left before the break.

The Rams' defense was unable to stop the ensuing drive, as Zach Rohrbaugh sprinted in for an eight-yard score with 42 seconds remaining in the half to give the Vikings a 28-14 halftime lead.

Southern made it a six-point game again when Guy ran in for a one-yard touchdown and Horner dove in for a two-point conversion.

Nathan Willis kicked a 36-yard field goal with 4:37 remaining in the third quarter to give the Vikings a two-score lead at 31-22.

The Rams had some chances in the fourth quarter but were unable to put the ball in the end zone.

Southern finished with 214 yards of total offense, all on the ground. Petersburg compiled 499 yards, with 327 in the air and 172 on the ground.

The Rams (0-3) will host Spring Mills (1-3) tomorrow at 7 p.m. Southern fell to the Cardinals 64-0 when the two teams met last year.

NHS Boys Soccer Loses Heartbreaker To Mountain Ridge

The Northern Huskies' boys soccer team gave up a late goal to Gavin Murray and fell 2-1 in a back-and-forth match against Mountain Ridge (3-3) on Tuesday evening at Northern.

The Miners' first goal came with 26:09 remaining in the first half when Murray scored off a feed from Josh Trenum.

Austin Evans tied things up for the Huskies on an assist from Dylan McCann less than five minutes after the halftime whistle.

The match looked like it was heading for overtime, but Murray placed the ball in the back of the net unassisted with 2:37 remaining to lift the Miners to a 2-1 victory.

Mountain Ridge held an 11-7 edge in shots and led 4-2 in shots on target over Northern.

The Huskies' Ty Kinzey and the Miners' Brady Rounds each recorded two saves while in goal.

Northern (3-2-1) returns to action tonight to host Bishop Walsh at 7 p.m.

Southern Soccer Downs Petersburg, Edged By Fort Hill

The Southern High School boys' soccer team defeated Petersburg 9-0 last Wednesday and fell to Fort Hill 2-1 in the first round of the Sentinel Classic on Saturday.

Petersburg-0 at SHS-9

The Rams put together an eight-goal second half to power through Petersburg last Wednesday at the Rams' home pitch.

Petersburg's back line was able to hold off the Rams for a majority of the first half, until Adam Homberg scored off a pass from Will Baker with under 10 minutes until the break.

Southern took control of the match early in the second half, scoring six goals within 10 minutes of the starting whistle.

Devin Landers kicked off the scoring with a goal off a feed from Linden Nichols. Will Baker and Patrick Duggan each followed with two unassisted goals.

Joey McComas capped off the 10-minute onslaught with a goal assisted by Landers with 30:36 remaining to give the Rams a 7-0 lead.

McComas netted another goal 15 minutes later after receiving a ball from Will Trego. Michael Duggan finished the scoring with a goal on an assist from Luke O'Brien with less than two minutes before the final whistle.

The Rams led 37-6 in shots and 4-0 in corner kicks. Logan Hinebaugh earned another shutout with six saves in goal.

SHS-1 at Fort Hill-2

Fort Hill's late first half goal would prove to be the difference as the Sentinels held on to defeat the Rams at Greenway Avenue Stadium.

Daniel Hott netted the first goal on a Connor Stepp assist to give the Sentinels a 1-0 lead near the 14-minute mark.

The Rams hoped to take only a one-goal deficit into the half as the back line continued to absorb pressure, but a long throw-in from Hott found the head of Keifer Stafford to double Fort Hill's lead with just one second on the clock.

Southern was able to grab a goal with 2:21 remaining in the match when Will Baker found the back of the net on a penalty kick.

Fort Hill out-shot the Rams 30-3 and led 7-0 in corner kicks. Hinebaugh kept Southern in the match with 10 saves. Parker Twigg made three saves for the Sentinels.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

THE MAGELLAN REGATTA

by Marty Hill

Many people believe there is more to life than just what we see. Some of us were reminded of that in sailing this weekend.

The last race of the season each year is the Magellan. This race was first conceived by Harry Filemyr, who was trying to establish a chapter of the "Flat Earth Society." I suppose that Harry really believed that the Earth was round, but this race was around our "known world"; i.e. Deep Creek Lake. Thus the eponym, Magellan, named after the first sailor to sail around the world. So the race was around all nine marks associated with zones rather than the usual windward/leeward course that has become the norm here.

Both yacht clubs on the lake will soon be pulling in docks and storing their equipment for the winter, so the Magellan is one last chance to get out on the lake with friends and sail. The starting order is also different, handicapped in a way, with the less-experienced Challenger Division sailors starting first, followed in five-minute intervals by the Masters and intermediate Silver and, finally, the Championship Gold Division.

By long-standing tradition, the winner of the Magellan serves as principal race officer for the Magellan next year and, as if this weren't enough, also serves lunch to the Magellan sailors after the race. Given these requirements, it is perhaps not surprising that some of our fastest sailors seem to perform a little more slowly in a Magellan, but it's all good-natured fun, and for many sailors here on the lake the Magellan is one of their favorite races.

This year we had very light and variable winds, coming generally out of the south at 2 to 5 mph. Rain was in the forecast, but held off, as last year's winner and this year's PRO Ray Gauthier set up a start/finish line just off the docks at the Turkey Neck Yacht Club, with a first zone mark to windward (south) toward Hickory Ridge.

Watching from the Turkey Neck club was very entertaining, as the fleet worked its way upwind toward Hickory Ridge, rounded the mark, and then came back downwind toward Holy Cross under spinnakers. The second zone was up toward Bull Run, out of sight of the club, and we watched the whole fleet enter Bull Run, seemingly never to return. After several minutes and just about the time we were deciding to send a couple of power boats to see if they needed a tow, the first of the fleet reappeared. What really happened, of course, is that the predominantly south wind was shadowed in Bull Run, making sailing there particularly challenging.

Joan and Lee Coraor, who would eventually win the Magellan, reported on their experience in Bull Run:

"We started in Gold and managed to overlap the rest of the fleet at the second mark, inside the cove at Bull Run. The wind died on the left side of the cove where most of the fleet was, and we went right, pulling ahead. From there until the end of the race, we kept a nice lead and crossed the finish line first, although Ray Gauthier with crew David Tuel were slowly gaining on us."

Because of the light winds, Gauthier decided to shorten the course at the zone mark off the Deerhaven Yacht Club, and all racers proceeded directly from there to the finish.

This year's Magellan awards ceremony was particularly meaningful. David Bertsch, an avid Deep Creek Lake sailor and long-time resident of Deer Park, passed away in October last year. David's favorite race of the year was the Magellan, and he won the race in 2008. This year, in David's memory, his wife Judy donated a new perpetual trophy to recognize Magellan winners. Reports Joan Coraor:

"I commented after the race that if I never win another Magellan, it won't matter, because winning this one was so meaningful. We bought Dave Bertsch's boat from Judy in mid-July and, since the new perpetual trophy is in his memory, it seemed very special and fitting to win the Magellan in Dave's old boat. When we went up to receive the trophy, we brought Judy up with us to share a tearful, but very meaningful moment. This was also an especially happy day for us, because our son and granddaughter raced the Magellan for the first time."

Sometimes, there really is more to life than just what we see.

Thanks to race safety patrols Roger Titus, Tom Craven, and Fred Sharer. Thanks also to Rob Gerlach and David Klueter, who helped with the extra work of setting marks for a zone race. Special thanks to Ray Gauthier and wife Joni Palmer, who worked so hard to organize and coordinate the Magellan this year, including lunch and fun trophies to all competitors, and to Sarah Buffington for the awesome homemade cookies and brownies.

When the lake freezes this year, be on the lookout for our growing ice boat fleet!

MEMORIAL TROPHY – The Magellan Regatta is the final race of the summer series of Flying Scot sailboat races at Deep Creek Lake, an event that was the favorite of the late David Bertsch, who served as commodore of the Deep Creek Yacht Club and won the Magellan in 2008. The trophy pictured above was contributed by David's wife Judy in memory of her husband, who died last October. Altogether fitting, and also ironic, is that the boat in which the winners of the race this year, Joan and Lee Coraor, were sailing was previously owned by David Bertsch and sold by Judy to the Coraors this past spring.

LADY HUSKIES FALL TO UNDEFEATED MINERS – The members of the Northern Huskies' varsity girls soccer team saw their four-match winning streak come to an end after the undefeated Mountain Ridge Miners won 1-0 yesterday evening at Northern High School. Pictured above, junior defender Charity Moser (#16) begins to maneuver around the Mountain Ridge attacker to keep possession for the Huskies. Northern Girls Soccer Slips By Campers, Edged By Miners

The Northern girls' soccer saw their four-match winning streak snapped this week as the Huskies defeated Allegany on Monday but fell to Mountain Ridge 1-0 yesterday.

Northern-2 at Allegany-1

Bailey Upole's two goals helped the Huskies defeat Allegany on the road to give Northern its fourth straight win on Monday.

Northern held a 1-0 lead heading into halftime after Upole scored an unassisted goal at the 9:26 mark.

The second half was a back-and-forth affair until Upole scored another unassisted goal to double the Huskies' lead with 7:26 remaining in the match.

Zayne Brakeall made things interesting when she brought the Campers within a goal less than two minutes later.

Carly Rodeheaver's five saves along with the back line's effort all game kept the Campers from leveling the score.

Allegany's Bronwen Lewis made nine saves in goal.

The Huskies suffered their first loss of the season to the hands of the visiting undefeated Mountain Ridge Miners yesterday evening.

The Miners created the first dangerous chance just over 15 minutes into the match when a cross from a corner kick landed in front of Madison Reed.

Reed connected with the ball off the bounce and directed it toward the far-right post, but the shot went wide of the goal by just a few inches.

The match opened up following the corner, as both teams tried to push forward at a quick tempo.

Senior captain Kaitlyn Smith created several chances for the Huskies in the final 10 minutes of the half, including a long shot from 10 yards beyond the box which Teresa Lambert tipped out for a corner.

The Miners broke through the Huskies' back line with less than two minutes until the break, but Jenna Yommer single-handedly stopped the attack deep inside the box and forced a corner, which the Huskies cleared out.

Smith was awarded a free kick less than three minutes after the halftime whistle, and smacked the ball over the wall toward the goal, but it was saved by a well-positioned Lambert.

The Miners responded six minutes later with a one-on-one opportunity in front of goal, but Northern keeper Carly Rodeheaver stepped up and made a huge save.

Jinny Warn responded for the Huskies just three minutes later when she took the ball down the right side of the pitch and sent in a swerving ball toward the back corner of the goal which bounced off the crossbar.

Mountain Ridge scored the first and only goal of the match on a corner kick, when an in-swinging ball from Grace Trenum came in toward Tessa Lutton, who headed the ball into the net with 21:46 remaining in the match.

Two minutes later, the Huskies gave up a penalty kick.

The match looked like it was going to be out of reach, but Rodeheaver once again stepped up and made a crucial save to keep the Huskies' hopes alive.

Smith had another big chance for Northern on a free kick just outside the box when her shot swerved toward the top-left corner, but Lambert was able to push it just wide enough to force a corner, which was cleared away.

Rodeheaver made another one-on-one stop with eight minutes remaining to give the Huskies more signs of life, but the Miners were able to hold on and take the win.

Both teams had six shots on target, and the Miners led 7-4 in corners.

Lambert had six saves in the shutout win for the Miners (6-0), while Rodeheaver made five saves for the Huskies.

Northern resumes action on Tuesday evening at Morgantown High School.

Franchot's Office Distributes $8.7 Million In Error

The office of Maryland Comptroller Peter Franchot distributed $8.7 million in tax revenues to the wrong towns in Montgomery County, according to a report published by The Baltimore Sun this morning. The official audit report containing the information is to be released today.

The audit report was obtained by the Baltimore newspaper, which reported that the mistake was blamed on the erroneous classification of more than 14,000 returns.

According to the Sun report, auditors also found problems with how the office handles out-of-state tax credits, keeps information secure, and issues replacement refund checks.

A spokesperson for Franchot's office said the staff has "worked diligently" to correct the problems.

"We have the finest comptroller's office in the country," Franchot said in response to the criticism. "I have a terrific staff of people who for the 12 years I've been comptroller have done a tremendous job."

Franchot claimed that his office "inherited" the revenue distribution problem from previous comptrollers, and that he worked with the Maryland Association of Counties to resolve the erroneous transfers, and placed jurisdictions that had been overpaid on lenient repayment schedules.

But critics have cited the report as evidence that Franchot is a "grandstanding politician" who is failing to run his own office.

"The report highlights deep failures of basic revenue collecting functions," said state Sen. Bill Ferguson, a Baltimore Democrat. "This type of audit hits at the central reason Marylanders are ever more distrustful of typical politicians who focus on media attention instead of their core job functions."

Franchot has been politically active during his tenure, notably through his position on the Maryland Board of Public Works, which is a three-member group – Franchot, Gov. Larry Hogan, and Nancy K. Kopp, state treasurer.

For example, in that capacity the comptroller voted with Hogan to withhold millions of dollars in state school construction money to Baltimore County schools until local education officials presented plans to more quickly install air conditioning in their schools, That vote drew criticism from local school officials and Democrats in the General Assembly.

Baltimore school officials have stated that the upgrades to their aging facilities are being completed steadily, and that rushing to install temporary air conditioners in schools not equipped for them is wasteful.

State Sen. Richard S. Madaleno, a Montgomery County Democrat, said the audit shows that Franchot should focus on running his office.

"There's a need for a renewed focus on the backbone of the comptroller's office," Madaleno said. "The comptroller's public persona seems to suggest he hasn't been working as much on the backbone."

Franchot has claimed the outcry over the audit is political, and that his office identified the problem with the tax returns nearly a year ago, informed Montgomery County officials and the public, and quickly worked to improve. He accused Senate president Mike Miller of politicizing the audit. Miller said that claim is "asinine."

In another political issue that affects the Garrett County Public Schools, Franchot has been a loud and active proponent for the post-Labor Day opening of the state's entire public education system for several years, despite the overwhelming opposition to the idea by the state's superintendents and school boards. After the bills died in committee for two years, Hogan mandated the action just this month, with Franchot at his side. Franchot, who initiated the idea, has maintained that the action will help Maryland families by providing more money to the state coffers as more people will now vacation over the holiday weekend.

Education officials have protested the mandate as an over-reach on the governor's part. Montgomery County school board president Michael Durso said the executive order is an "attempt to usurp local decision-making around school calendars."

"Prohibiting schools from starting before Labor Day ignores critical issues faced by schools and the potential negative instructional impact on students," Durso said. "Determining the school calendar is complicated and requires balancing educational requirements, operational issues, and unique community needs all in the interest of students."

Barbara Baker, Garrett County interim superintendent, stated at the time that the mandate will cause hardships locally.

"Garrett County Public Schools faces some of the worst weather in the state and averages 12 snow days a year," Baker said. "While the executive order includes a provision for waivers to be exempt from the mandate, any adjustments that shorten the 180-day requirement would put students at an instructional disadvantage.

"In addition," the superintendent continued, "the order takes away from the local autonomy for school boards to set a school calendar that is in the best interest of the students in the district."

New Trial For Convicted Killer Starts Tomorrow

Late word was received this morning that a new trial for the man convicted of murdering a Garrett County sheriff's deputy in 1979 will begin tomorrow in Hagerstown.

Roberto Rezek of Fairmont, W.Va., 65, has given another chance to present his claim that he had already surrendered to Deputy David Livengood when his co-defendant shot the officer.

Livengood was investigating a burglary taking place at the former Davidson's Army Navy Store near Oakland. The man who admittedly shot him, Richard Tichnell, died in prison in 2006.

Washington County Circuit Judge Daniel Moylan ruled in May 2013 that Rezek's jury received improper instructions.

The trial judge told them that the court's instructions on legal matters were advisory only. That was the standard jury instruction in Maryland at the time. But the Court of Appeals ruled in 1980 that juries cannot interpret the law.

In November 2011, Moylan reversed the 1980 murder conviction, but ordered that Rezek remain in custody pending further court proceedings. A month later, Garrett County State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch officially objected to the reopening of the 23-year-old case.

At Rezek's 1980 conviction in Washington County, the jury deliberated more than four hours before imposing a sentence of life plus 15 years.

Livengood's K-9, Sarge, was stabbed by a sword and killed during the incident.

Hogan To Be

economy and creating jobs is proving successful," the spokesperson added. "Since January 2015, Maryland has seen over 70,000 new jobs created, and Gov. Hogan's administration has cut tolls at every single facility across the state for the first time in over 50 years, reduced or eliminated 255 different fees all across state government, and returned $200 million in refund checks to overtaxed Marylanders.

"In addition to Gov. Hogan's economic agenda, he has made record investments in both education and transportation, and enacted the most important environmental initiative in a generation to protect the Chesapeake Bay," the spokesperson concluded.

Garrett Regional Medical Center is the sponsor of this year's festival. Presented by the GC Chamber of Commerce, the festival will run from Wednesday, Oct. 12, through Sunday, Oct. 16. It includes a kick-off reception at Wisp Resort, two large parades, concerts, an Oktoberfest celebration, the Maryland State Banjo, Fiddle, and Mandolin Championships, fall foliage driving tours, art exhibits, the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, antique and craft shows, and more.

and spend health care dollars in a smarter way," said Jim Macrae, Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) acting administrator.

Nearly 1,400 health centers operating over 9,800 sites provide care to more than 24 million people across this nation, in every U.S. state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and the Pacific Basin. Currently, health centers employ nearly 190,000 people, according to HHS.

This funding comes from the Affordable Care Act's Community Health Center Fund, which was extended with bipartisan support in the Medicare Access and CHIP Reauthorization Act of 2015. The increased use of health information technology is part of the administration's efforts to build a health care system that "delivers better care, smarter spending, and healthier people."

Argabrite Speaks At CDC's Nat'l Conference In Ga.

The Garrett County Health Department was represented at the recent Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) National Conference on Health Communication, Marketing, and Media, held in Atlanta, Ga.

Shelley Argabrite, M.A., health planner, pictured at right, was invited to speak based on an abstract she wrote highlighting the work of the county health planning council and planning team in the process of developing a rural Appalachian engagement strategy for the Community Health Needs Assessment.

The CDC, the National Public Health Information Coalition, and the Society for Health Communication brought together individuals representing academia, public health researchers, and practitioners from federal and state government and the private sector.

"This was a unique opportunity for the work being accomplished in Garrett County to be showcased on a national platform demonstrating leadership in the field of health communications, an area we've just begun to expand," said Rodney Glotfelty, health officer.

"Sharing strategies to enhance reaching under-served populations more effectively in order to reduce health disparities is a critical component not only to the field of health communications, but to our own community," said Argabrite. "It was an honor to represent Garrett County on a national platform and showcase the work of our county health planning council and residents."

Four major focus areas were identified by the data committee based on the Community Health Needs Assessment. They are as follows:

1. Chronic Disease and Common Risk Factors: Nutrition, Physical Activity, and Tobacco;

2. Behavioral Health: Mental Health and Substance Abuse;

3. Maternal, Child, and Adolescent Health;

4. Access to Care and Linkages to Community Resources.

The recognition of social determinants, specifically economic inequities and poverty, are woven throughout the Community Health Needs Assessment and continue to be a priority as the local coalition addresses each focus area.

To access the full Community Health Needs Assessment document, persons may go to garretthealth.org to download a digital copy, or visit the Garrett County Health Department at 1025 Memorial Drive for a condensed hard copy.

The Community Needs Assessment will be distributed this month, and a presentation highlighting the findings will be given.

John Corbin, a new hire, will be exploring innovative communication tools and technologies to incorporate the data from the assessment into a planning tool to create a Community Health Improvement Plan.

Open meetings are held on the fourth Thursday of each month in the main conference room of the Garrett County Health Department at 8 a.m. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

ANNUAL FALL FEST SLATED AT SANG RUN – The 7th annual Fall Fest celebration at Friend's Store, located along Sang Run Road and operated by the Deep Creek Lake State Park (DCLSP), will be held this Saturday, Sept. 24, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. This year's event will feature pumpkin carving and decorating, apple cider pressing and tasting, hayrides around the farm, Dutch oven cooking demonstration, candle dipping, sack races, and scarecrow making. The historic Friend's Store will be open and decorated for the holiday. For more information about this event or about the exhibits and programs offered at the DCLSP Discovery Center, persons may call 301-387-7067 or visit www.discoverycenterdcl.com.

Look Good, Feel Better Workshop Slated For Oct. 6

Garrett Regional Medical Center and the American Cancer Society will hold the next Look Good... Feel Better workshop on Thursday, Oct. 6, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Wellness Education Center located behind the hospital along Pythian Avenue. The workshop is for individuals currently undergoing treatment for cancer.

Look Good... Feel Better is a national public service program dedicated to teaching women and teenage cancer patients the techniques to help restore their appearance and self-image, and how to deal with the sociological side effects they experience during treatment. Volunteer cosmetologists help with the workshop that includes a 12-step skin and makeup program. Cosmetics for the program are free of charge, courtesy of the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetics, Toiletry & Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetics Association.

The program is offered free of charge, and each participant receives a complimentary makeup kit valued at $250. For those who cannot attend a workshop, self-help materials, including video and instructional booklet, are available. Preregistration is required. To register or obtain more information, persons are invited to contact Bev Rasel at 301-533-4366 or Gina Artice, RN, cancer patient navigator, at 301- 533-4133.

KNITTERS WARM UP CANCER PATIENTS – The Deep Creek Knitters, a local group of crafters, have committed to knitting hats, mittens, and throw blankets for chemotherapy patients at the West Virginia University Cancer Institute at Garrett Regional Medial Center. "in addition to the hats, mittens, and blankets to warm our patients receiving chemotherapy, which are given to patients to keep, the club has also raised more than $4,000 toward the Cancer Institute expansion project," explained Steve Bortz, vice president of the GRMC Foundation. Kendra Thayer, RN, vice president of patient care services at GRMC added, "Patients receiving cancer treatments and chemotherapy often get chilled or cold easier because of multiple reasons related to these treatments. There are also changes in circulation and the types of cells that help with temperature regulation. The hats and quilts that are provided really help these patients maintain their warmth and comfort during treatment." Christy Thomas and Bethany Beeghly of Traders Landing host the Deep Creek Knitters every Thursday morning from 7 to 10 a.m. at the Traders Coffee Shop. The knitters also meet on Monday afternoons at 4 p.m. at Ace's Run. The group members invite others to join them any time for "a lot of laughing and a little knitting." From left are Thomas, Kathy Brady, Judy Church, Pam Thank, Sue McQuaid, Kathy Newman, Merrily Clark, Sharyn Miller, Bortz, Edna Forsyth, and Beeghly. Group member Susan Keller was unavailable for the photo.

Street Closings Announced For Festival Parade

Several Oakland roads will be closed before and during the 49th Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, which begins at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 15, in downtown Oakland, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has announced.

Oakland Police chief Bill Thomas encourages anyone coming to the festival and parade to come early to find a good parking space and enjoy the food and entertainment.

Second Street will be closed to traffic from Liberty Street to Center Street beginning at 9:30 a.m. Both Second and Third streets, from Omar Street to Alder Street, will be closed to all vehicles at 11 a.m. Traffic needing to bypass Oakland will be directed to detour along Fourth Street until the parade ends. Center Street will remain open until 12:45 p.m.

Memorial Drive also will be closed to through traffic from Fourth to Eighth streets. No one will be able to turn onto Fourth Street from Memorial Drive. Barricades and police officers will prevent access onto Memorial Drive from Fourth to Eighth streets. Emergency vehicles should use Kings Run Road or Eighth Street to Memorial Drive.

Parking along the parade route – which includes parts of Second, Third, and Alder streets – is prohibited prior to and during the parade.

Business owners or employees should contact Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691, Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100, or the Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386 in advance to obtain a pass to gain access inside the parade route; this includes the handicapped parking site at the Masonic Lodge along First Street.

Free parking will be available in the town parking lot near the end of Second Street across the railroad tracks.

Garrett County deputies, Maryland State troopers and State Highway employees will be assisting the Oakland Police Department with traffic control during the Autumn Glory Parade.

For questions or concerns, persons may call Chief Thomas, Oakland Police Department, or Oakland City Hall between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Argabrite Speaks At CDC's Nat'l Conference In Ga.

The Garrett County Health Department was represented at the recent Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) National Conference on Health Communication, Marketing, and Media, held in Atlanta, Ga.

Shelley Argabrite, M.A., health planner, pictured at right, was invited to speak based on an abstract she wrote highlighting the work of the county health planning council and planning team in the process of developing a rural Appalachian engagement strategy for the Community Health Needs Assessment.

The CDC, the National Public Health Information Coalition, and the Society for Health Communication brought together individuals representing academia, public health researchers, and practitioners from federal and state government and the private sector.

"This was a unique opportunity for the work being accomplished in Garrett County to be showcased on a national platform demonstrating leadership in the field of health communications, an area we've just begun to expand," said Rodney Glotfelty, health officer.

"Sharing strategies to enhance reaching under-served populations more effectively in order to reduce health disparities is a critical component not only to the field of health communications, but to our own community," said Argabrite. "It was an honor to represent Garrett County on a national platform and showcase the work of our county health planning council and residents."

Four major focus areas were identified by the data committee based on the Community Health Needs Assessment. They are as follows:

1. Chronic Disease and Common Risk Factors: Nutrition, Physical Activity, and Tobacco;

2. Behavioral Health: Mental Health and Substance Abuse;

3. Maternal, Child, and Adolescent Health;

4. Access to Care and Linkages to Community Resources.

The recognition of social determinants, specifically economic inequities and poverty, are woven throughout the Community Health Needs Assessment and continue to be a priority as the local coalition addresses each focus area.

To access the full Community Health Needs Assessment document, persons may go to garretthealth.org to download a digital copy, or visit the Garrett County Health Department at 1025 Memorial Drive for a condensed hard copy.

The Community Needs Assessment will be distributed this month, and a presentation highlighting the findings will be given.

John Corbin, a new hire, will be exploring innovative communication tools and technologies to incorporate the data from the assessment into a planning tool to create a Community Health Improvement Plan.

Open meetings are held on the fourth Thursday of each month in the main conference room of the Garrett County Health Department at 8 a.m. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

ANNUAL FALL FEST SLATED AT SANG RUN – The 7th annual Fall Fest celebration at Friend's Store, located along Sang Run Road and operated by the Deep Creek Lake State Park (DCLSP), will be held this Saturday, Sept. 24, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. This year's event will feature pumpkin carving and decorating, apple cider pressing and tasting, hayrides around the farm, Dutch oven cooking demonstration, candle dipping, sack races, and scarecrow making. The historic Friend's Store will be open and decorated for the holiday. For more information about this event or about the exhibits and programs offered at the DCLSP Discovery Center, persons may call 301-387-7067 or visit www.discoverycenterdcl.com.

Look Good, Feel Better Workshop Slated For Oct. 6

Garrett Regional Medical Center and the American Cancer Society will hold the next Look Good... Feel Better workshop on Thursday, Oct. 6, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Wellness Education Center located behind the hospital along Pythian Avenue. The workshop is for individuals currently undergoing treatment for cancer.

Look Good... Feel Better is a national public service program dedicated to teaching women and teenage cancer patients the techniques to help restore their appearance and self-image, and how to deal with the sociological side effects they experience during treatment. Volunteer cosmetologists help with the workshop that includes a 12-step skin and makeup program. Cosmetics for the program are free of charge, courtesy of the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetics, Toiletry & Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetics Association.

The program is offered free of charge, and each participant receives a complimentary makeup kit valued at $250. For those who cannot attend a workshop, self-help materials, including video and instructional booklet, are available. Preregistration is required. To register or obtain more information, persons are invited to contact Bev Rasel at 301-533-4366 or Gina Artice, RN, cancer patient navigator, at 301- 533-4133.

KNITTERS WARM UP CANCER PATIENTS – The Deep Creek Knitters, a local group of crafters, have committed to knitting hats, mittens, and throw blankets for chemotherapy patients at the West Virginia University Cancer Institute at Garrett Regional Medial Center. "In addition to the hats, mittens, and blankets to warm our patients receiving chemotherapy, which are given to patients to keep, the club has also raised more than $4,000 toward the Cancer Institute expansion project " explained Steve Bortz, vice president of the GRMC Foundation. Kendra Thayer, RN, vice president of patient care services at GRMC added, "Patients receiving cancer treatments and chemotherapy often get chilled or cold easier because of multiple reasons related to these treatments. There are also changes in circulation and the types of cells that help with temperature regulation. The hats and quilts that are provided really help these patients maintain their warmth and comfort during treatment." Christy Thomas and Bethany Beeghly of Traders Landing host the Deep Creek Knitters every Thursday morning from 7 to 10 a.m. at the Traders Coffee Shop. The knitters also meet on Monday afternoons at 4 p.m. at Ace's Run. The group members invite others to join them any time for "a lot of laughing and a little knitting." From left are Thomas, Kathy Brady, Judy Church, Pam Thank, Sue McQuaid, Kathy Newman, Merrily Clark, Sharyn Miller, Bortz, Edna Forsyth, and Beeghly. Group member Susan Keller was unavailable for the photo.

Street Closings Announced For Festival Parade

Several Oakland roads will be closed before and during the 49th Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, which begins at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 15, in downtown Oakland, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has announced.

Oakland Police chief Bill Thomas encourages anyone coming to the festival and parade to come early to find a good parking space and enjoy the food and entertainment.

Second Street will be closed to traffic from Liberty Street to Center Street beginning at 9:30 a.m. Both Second and Third streets from Omar Street to Alder Street, will be closed to all vehicles at 11 a.m. Traffic needing to bypass Oakland will be directed to detour along Fourth Street until the parade ends. Center Street will remain open until 12:45 p.m.

Memorial Drive also will be closed to through traffic from Fourth to Eighth streets. No one will be able to turn onto Fourth Street from Memorial Drive. Barricades and police officers will prevent access onto Memorial Drive from Fourth to Eighth streets. Emergency vehicles should use Kings Run Road or Eighth Street to Memorial Drive.

Parking along the parade route – which includes parts of Second, Third, and Alder streets – is prohibited prior to and during the parade.

Business owners or employees should contact Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691, Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100, or the Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386 in advance to obtain a pass to gain access inside the parade route; this includes the handicapped parking site at the Masonic Lodge along First Street.

Free parking will be available in the town parking lot near the end of Second Street across the railroad tracks.

Garrett County deputies, Maryland State troopers and State Highway employees will be assisting the Oakland Police Department with traffic control during the Autumn Glory Parade.

For questions or concerns, persons may call Chief Thomas, Oakland Police Department, or Oakland City Hall between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Civic Club To Meet; Election Board Rep To Present Prog.

The Oakland Women's Civic Club will hold its next luncheon meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 27, at Dutch's at Silver Tree (lower level), Deep Creek Lake. Lunch will be served at 12:15 p.m. The cost of the meal is $15.

Following the luncheon, guest speaker Chrissy Sharpless, Garrett County Board of Elections, will present a program titled "The Role of the Election Board in Local, State, and Federal Elections."

After her program, the club will hold a brief business meeting.

The luncheon is open to all interested persons. Those planning to attend are asked to call Jenny Schwartz at 301-387-5856 no later than this Friday, Sept. 23, to make reservations.

"Wellnesss With Essential Oils" Workshop Slated

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will offer a "Make & Take Workshop: Wellness with Essential Oils",at the main campus, McHenry, on Monday, Oct. 3, from 6 to 8 p.m.

"Essential oils are a great addition to one's family healthcare regime," said a GC spokesperson. "Ready-to-go and easy-to-apply rollerball remedies make favorite blends even easier to incorporate into everyday life, and are easy for everyone to use – even the kids."

During this hands-on workshop, participants will learn more about essential oils and make their own natural remedy rollerball blends, which, according to the spokesperson, can be used for protecting against seasonal threats; calming occasional skin irritations; boosting immune function; respiratory and digestive support; soothing sore muscles and joints; and promoting calm, relaxation, and restful sleep; and focus.

The course will be taught by Garrett County resident Kearstin Hinebaugh, a doTERRA Wellness advocate.

For more information on this course, persons may contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by contacting the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Ornamental Water Feature Course To Be Held Sept. 29

Garrett College, in coordination with the University of Maryland Extension, is sponsoring a one-session course titled "Adding an Ornamental Pond/Water Feature to Your Landscape" at the Southern Outreach Center, Oakland, on Thursday, Sept. 29, from 1 to 3 p.m.

"Ever wondered how you could add some excitement to your landscape?" a spokesperson asked. "This course will help participants understand the steps needed to install a water feature for one's own personal enjoyment. This class will take participants from start to finish of a real-life ornamental pond installation."

The instructor will be Ashley Bodkins, who received her bachelor of science degree in agronomy from West Virginia University and her associate's degree in horticulture from Potomac State College.

She works for the University of Maryland Extension, where she answers home horticulture questions and coordinates the Maryland Master Gardener Program for Garrett County.

Anyone with a disability who requires special assistance for participation in the program is asked to contact the local Extension office at 301-334-6960.

A NEW PASTOR recently took his post at Cornerstone Assembly of God Church in Boynton, Pa. Pastor Scott Gray and his wife Danielle, pictured above, have four sons, Noah, Zion, Caleb, and Kristian. Gray has been involved in various ministry positions for the past 18 years, including lead pastor, associate pastor, youth pastor, and chaplain/bereavement coordinator for a Hospice center. "Within ministry, both inside and outside the church walls, Pastor Scott hopes to utilize his skills, giftings, and knowledge to love and serve God's people, develop and invest in leaders, foster spiritual growth, care for spiritual needs, and equip people to be able to do the work of the ministry and evangelize the lost," a spokesperson said. Gray received his high school diploma in 1998 from Milton Hershey School, Hershey, Pa., and graduated cum laude from the University of Valley Forge in 2003, with a bachelor of arts degree in pastoral ministries, and became a licensed pastor with the Assemblies of God. In 2010, he earned his master's degree in theology from the University of Valley Forge, graduating summa cum laude, and became an ordained minister. Sunday school begins at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday at Cornerstone, followed by the worship service and junior church at 10:30 a.m. Nursery is provided. On Wednesday evenings, pre-service prayer is held from 6:30 to 7 p.m., followed by Bible study at 7 p.m. For more information, persons may visit the church's Facebook page or call 814-662-4235.

PROMISES

We read and hear of many promises for this or that magic potion to improve our looks...lose weight... straighten our hair... look younger! There's always a hidden cost. But one promise is tried and true...God's Holy Word. His promises do not appeal to vanity, for true beauty begins in the heart and soul. His promises are guaranteed to all who believe them and desire to be rich in the Spirit. No hidden costs; free to those with enduring faith and hope. Worship this week and learn about God's promises.

Living in Harmony with Others

We all know at least one person who seems to get along with everyone, the person who always has a smile on his or her face and who never has a cross word for everyone. What we should learn from them is that people are nicer the nicer you are to them. In other words, kindness is contagious, and people act as mirrors for other people's emotions. Good public speakers know that it's easy to get a crowd riled up, or calmed down, because we are emotional creatures who mirror the emotions of those around us. Modern neuroscientists have discovered that we have "mirror neurons" which trigger emotional responses in ourselves after seeing them in others. The practical import of this is that it's easy to improve our world by simply treating others with loving kindness and trying to live in harmony with those around us. When those around us are friendly and return our kindness this is quite easy, but it becomes considerably more difficult when those around us are angry or hostile, especially if they are attacking us. In that case we have to make a conscious effort to overcome what our brains and bodies are prompting us to do and to turn our scowls into friendly grins.

– Christopher Simon

"Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse. Rejoice with those who rejoice; mourn with those who mourn. Live in harmony with one another." —Romans 12: 14-16 NIV

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was ancient Stoic philosopher Epictetus -- who served as a slave to a freedman named Epaphroditos, who was himself a secretary to the infamous Roman emperor Nero -- who made the following observation: "Men are not disturbed by things, but the view they take of things." (In an interesting side note, upon hearing that quotation, a professor of psychology named Herb Kimmel reportedly responded: "What about things like bullets?")

* The next time you're outside enjoying a morning serenade, consider this tidbit: Most bird songs are cries of war, not courtship.

* Most people know "Mary Poppins" from the 1964 Disney film, but the character was created by author P.L. Travers and first appeared in a children's book published in 1934. Walt Disney loved the story and wanted to make it into a movie, but it took more than 20 years for him to convince Travers to approve the plan.

* Beloved American author Kurt Vonnegut studied biochemistry in college.

* You may think you know what color a polar bear's fur is, but you're probably wrong: It's not white; it's translucent. The fur appears white because it reflects visible light -- in fact, polar bears are nearly invisible in infrared photography. If you've seen a polar bear in a zoo, though, you may have noticed a greenish tinge to its fur; this color comes from algae, which tends to form when the bears are in warm and humid environments to which they're not accustomed.

* You might be surprised to learn that the first drive-in theater in the United States was opened all the way back in 1921, in downtown Comanche, Texas. Attendees parked bumper to bumper to watch screenings of silent films.

Moments in time
THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Oct. 2, 1836, British naturalist Charles Darwin returns to England after a five-year voyage surveying the flora, fauna and geology of the southern Atlantic and Pacific oceans. It would lead to his theory that evolution occurred by a process he termed "natural selection."

* On Sept. 28, 1901, Ed Sullivan, who will become the host of "The Ed Sullivan Show," is born in New York City. Sullivan's popular program showcased a wide range of entertainers, including Elvis Presley and the Beatles.

* On Oct. 1, 1918, a combined Arab and British force captures Damascus from the Turks, completing the liberation of Arabia. A key commander in the Allied campaign was T.E. Lawrence, the legendary British soldier known as Lawrence of Arabia.

* On Sept. 26, 1960, for the first time, a debate between presidential candidates is shown on television. John F. Kennedy, senator from Massachusetts, and Richard M. Nixon, vice president of the United States, met in a Chicago studio. Kennedy looked tanned and healthy, while Nixon looked ghostly after his makeup ran.

* On Sept. 27, 1989, actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, on trial for slapping a police officer, storms out of the courtroom. Gabor said her treatment by the police after being pulled over in her Rolls-Royce was "like Nazi Germany."

* On Sept. 30, 1999, large doses of radiation are released into the air at Japan's Tokaimura nuclear plant. Workers had mixed 35 pounds of powdered uranium instead of five, then forgot to turn off the plant's ventilation system.

Collecting
by Larry Cox

Q: I have some Chicago Cubs yearbooks from the 1950s. How and where can I sell them? -- Janet, Oswego, Illinois
A: I checked eBay and found dozens of Chicago Cubs yearbooks being offered for sale, including editions from 1948 ($35), 1949 ($26), 1950 ($20), 1955 ($27) and 1956 ($40). I suggest you sell your yearbooks there in order to get -- in my opinion -- the best possible price.

Q: My late uncle loved paperback novels and managed to collect several hundred titles, mostly from the 1940s and '50s. They are extremely interesting, and I understand some have become quite collectible. Can you recommend a good price guide? -- Art, St. Charles, Missouri
A: The mass-market paperback was introduced by Robert de Graff in 1938 with a special "Pocket Book" edition of "The Good Earth" by Peari Buck. It was such a success that other titles quickly followed. There are several references, but I especially like the "Collectible Paperback Price Guide," by Gary Lovisi and published by Krause Books. It features up-to-date values for thousands of the most collectible American mass-market paperbacks, each with three grades of condition. It also has more than 1,000 cover illustrations in full color. This nifty guide explains how to collect, value, buy and sell paperback books with special sections on cover art, key authors, important artists, hot series, pen names, how and what to collect, recommended dealers and book shows. It is $20 and should be a good resource for you and others who enjoy paperbacks.

Q: I have a radio that I listened to as a child. I am now 76 years old. It is a Philco Model 39-85 with three knobs: One is the off/on switch, the second for tuning and the third for short wave. Could you give me any information about it? -- William, Litchfield Park, Arizona
A: The model number is a good clue since it indicates that your radio was manufactured in 1939 and is identified as the production model 85. There were 20,050 of this model made with an original price of $52.50. For owners of Philco radios, I recommend an excellent Internet site, philcoradio.com/gallery. Incidentally, the first Philco radio was manufactured in 1928.

Cats in the Window

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I'm writing this not long after returning from the vet, where my cat "Trix" was treated after falling from my apartment's second-floor window. Fortunately his injuries aren't serious and he'll recover, but it was a scary day that was all my fault. Can you please tell your readers to make sure their cats cannot push through the screen windows? Many cats like to sit on the windowsill and watch the outside world, but if something attracts them or if they lean up against a loose screen, it could give way -- which is what happened with Trix. -- Jan in Quincy, Massachusetts

DEAR JAN: Thank you! I'm glad Trix will be OK. Readers, screen windows often aren't secured solidly enough to keep a cat from pushing or falling through one. Cats also can tear the screen with their claws (and sometimes get their claws tangled in the screen, another scary moment). The damage from a small screen rip may not seem like much, but over time constant clawing can open up the screen entirely. To keep your cat safe, try keeping the lower casement of windows shut, and screen the upper casement so you can open that part to let air in. If you have a screened-in porch that your cat likes sitting in, make sure the screen stays in good repair so it can't escape. Keep your cat even safer around windows by making sure curtain pull cords are either cut short to stay out of reach, or wrapped tightly around mounting hooks. Avoid floor-to-ceiling curtains that cats love to climb; use shorter curtains and make sure curtain rods are mounted securely.

Caterpillar Host Plants

Host plants are plants that caterpillars eat before they become butterflies. For example, monarch butterflies will lay eggs on milkweed leaves so the caterpillars have something to eat when they hatch. Host plants are important. Visit thebutterflysite.com for more information on what to plant.

Flagger Safety Training Slated In Grantsville

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a flagger training certification course for Friday, Sept. 30, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center (NOC) in Grantsville. Based on the number of participants, this course may be lengthened or shortened.

This certification course is required for individuals flagging along Maryland roadways. The primary objectives of the course are to train flaggers to provide safe passage through and around work areas and to minimize confusion by bringing standard procedures to the nation's highways.

The course is approved by the American Traffic Safety Services Association (ATSSA) and will be instructed by a certified flagger professional.

Topics will include flagging standards, flagger qualifications, proper flagging procedures, use of equipment such as two-way radios, signs, flags, and what to do in special situations.

Certification cards will be issued to those who demonstrate a competency and knowledge of proper flagging techniques and practices.

For additional information, one may contact Terry Beachy, NOC coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for the course, persons may call 301-387-3069.

RAILEY MOUNTAIN LAKE VACATIONS

DEEP CREEK LAKE, MD

Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, a vacation rental management company in Deep Creek Lake, MD, is looking for positive, energetic people with a strong work ethic to join our team!

Maintenance Technician - Full-time:

This position completes regular property maintenance and routine preventative maintenance of vacation rental properties. Some responsibilities include the following:

- Daily completion of assigned work order tasks and management; provide consistent communication and key details of work needed/provided through both written and verbal communications.
- Provide cross-departmental maintenance assistance when needed, working with various departments, owner special projects & requests, company affiliated projects & initiatives, as well as assisting all departments within the company, as a whole.
- Provide exemplary customer service to guests, owners, coworkers and vendors while providing expedient resolution of all needs.

Job Requirements:

- All technicians should possess a general skillset. It is preferred that technicians possess a more refined technical skillset in some capacity (painting, power washing, furniture repair, carpentry, hot tub and pool repair, minor electrical, minor plumbing, drywall repair, game table repair, etc)
- Must be able to pass pre-employment background check
- Must be able to lift at least 50 pounds.
- Tools and work phone are provided during term of employment.
- Must have valid driver's license. Company vehicle is provided for work use. (Employee should have vehicle available as backup in the event the company-provided vehicle requires service or is otherwise temporarily unavailable).
- Position will require working some weekends and holidays. Work may be performed outside and occasionally requires working in inclement weather conditions.
- Employee, once training is completed, will be required to participate in shifts on a rotational basis of emergency-after-hours pager. Time and mileage (for use of personal vehicle) will be reimbursed per company policy.

Maintenance Runner:

September 24 – September 30

Fox blends animation with live action in 'Son of Zorn'

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

It's an age-old story: absentee father appears out of the blue to make good with the wife and kids and winds up upending everybody's lives. Such a figure is seldom able to make a seamless re-entry into the lives of those he's been away from for years on end, but in some families it's an especially jarring event.

Like in "Son of Zorn," for instance. The partly animated comedy joins Fox's cartoon-packed Sunday night lineup this fall and features the voice talents of Jason Sudeikis. The "Saturday Night Live" alum stars as Zorn, an animated barbarian hailing from the far-off island of Zephyria, who returns to Orange County to reconnect with his live-action ex-wife and son. The series premieres Sunday Sept. 25, on Fox.

Poor Zorn. The long-haired, hulking, muscle-bound toon may be hot stuff in his homeland, but in suburban California, he's pretty much at sea. The animated island nation of Zephyria is located somewhere in the Pacific Ocean and is utterly chaotic. Its landscape is dotted with ice caves and lava pits, it's teeming with monsters, and killing and violence are part of everyday life.

What a shock, then, to make the move to sunny Orange County where he learns that his ex-wife, Edie (Cheryl Hines, "Curb Your Enthusiasm"), is engaged to a mild-mannered psychology professor named Craig (Tim Meadows, "Saturday Night Live"), and his teenage son Alangulon (Johnny Pemberton, "21 Jump Street," 2012) is a sensitive, slightly dweeby vegetarian.

Undaunted, Zorn is determined to establish himself in the 'burbs, where he can begin to be a father to Alangulon (who goes by Alan) in earnest, which is terribly entertaining. Evidently, what constitutes an impressive résumé in Zephyria doesn't go far in Orange County, but Zorn manages to land an assistant job at an industrial soap company, where he pairs an office-appropriate shirt and tie with his knee-high boots and furry briefs. He's delightfully oblivious to the fact that his boss is female, the concept of a woman being his superior being entirely foreign to him. For her part, Linda (Artemis Pebdani, "Scandal") takes her subordinate's eccentricities in stride, displaying the patience of a saint.

As for the fact that Zorn is clearly a cartoon, nobody in the live-action world is too phased by it, and that's exactly the way showrunners wanted it. Zephyria's a far-off land, but it's not a secret — the general population is aware that some of the world's inhabitants are simply animated.

"We never wanted to call him a cartoon," co-creator and executive producer Reed Agnew explained at this summer's Television Critics Association press tour. "We talk about it as if you were to see someone from Liberia who would seem strange and look weird."

Says Sudeikis of his character: "He wears a battle strap and furry underpants. Other than that, he's just a normal guy."

Ten years is a long time to be away, but Zorn's desire to be a father to Alan is sincere and fun to watch. He takes him to dinner, where Zorn is baffled and dismayed by his son's refusal to eat meat; he helps Alan with girl problems; he buys his son an enormous "death hawk" — which Edie quite understandably balks at — much as a father might buy his son his first car.

The series boasts some respectable star power in front of the camera, but there are some big names behind the scenes as well. Executive producers Christopher Miller and Phil Lord have their names attached to a number of funny and successful projects, and "Son of Zorn" isn't their first foray into the cartoon world. The pair wrote and directed the animated films "Cloudy With a Chance of Meatballs" (2009) and "The Lego Movie" (2014), both of which scored Golden Globe nods for Best Animated Feature Film. They also directed "21 Jump Street" (2012) and its 2014 sequel, and have several writing, directing and producing credits, including "Clone High" (which they also co-created and lent their voice talents to), "How I Met Your Mother," "The Last Man on Earth" and "Brooklyn Nine-Nine."

Artemis Pebdani as seen in "Son of Zorn"

Expect some big names on the list of guest stars this season, too. Sudeikis's "SNL" castmate Fred Armisen guests as Vulchazor, Zorn's evil, vulture-headed nemesis, who's been wreaking havoc in Zephyria since Zorn left. "Parks and Recreation" star Nick Offerman plays a cave-dwelling doctor, and "Key & Peele's" Keegan-Michael Key plays Zorn's warrior pal Gobos the Great. Sudeikis's fiancée Olivia Wilde ("House") voices Zorn's ex-girlfriend, Radiana, whom our desperate hero brings as a date to Craig and Edie's engagement party.

All in all, "Son of Zorn" sounds like a good time. After all, there's nothing like a good fish-out-of-water story, and this is one to a tee. "[Zorn] comes from a world where, every day, there's a battle and monsters to be slain," said Agnew at the TCA panel. "Now he can't figure out how to work a vending machine. These are the battles he's fighting now."

Don't miss the series premiere of "Son of Zorn" when it airs Sunday, Sept. 25, on Fox.

'Criminal' castings

New faces board CBS's FBI procedural

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

'Criminal' castings: There are baddies on the loose, and it's up to the non-criminal minds at the FBI's Behavioral Analysis Unit to deal with the fallout. CBS's procedural hit "Criminal Minds" is back for a mindblowing 12th season beginning Wednesday, Sept. 28, with new faces, continuing plots and all the criminal profiling that the show's many fans love.

The new castings were inevitable with two long-time cast members departing. Shemar Moore ("The Young and the Restless"), who had played Derek Morgan since the very first season, left partway through last season; Thomas Gibson ("Dharma & Greg"), who had also been with the show since the beginning, had a much-publicized falling out with the network and departed this past summer.

In the wake of the departure of these two juggernauts, a number of new actors have joined the BAU, and one of them should be very familiar to fans of the show. Paget Brewster ("Another Period") was a "Criminal Minds" series regular for several seasons before leaving the show at the end of season 7. Now, she returns to the role of Emily Prentiss as a full cast member in the new season.

Also joining as full-time series regulars are "The Talk" and "Whose Line is it Anyway" host Aisha Tyler as Dr. Tara Lewis and former "CSI: Miami" star Adam Rodriguez. The 12th season is expected to pick up shortly after the events that brought the last season to its intense conclusion. A shocking prison break has seen more than a dozen serial killers escape custody, and only the members of the BAU have the insight and the expertise required to round them up and get them back into the slammer where they belong.

After 12 seasons, "Criminal Minds" has seen plenty of casting changes, and it's unlikely that this season's changes will be the last. The series' new faces spring into action to round up some serial killers when the 12th season premieres Wednesday, Sept. 28, on CBS.

Sunday night sizzles: Sundays are going to be a hot night on ABC this season. The fall premiere season is well underway, and ABC is stacking three of its hit shows at the end of the weekend, beginning Sunday, Sept. 25.

First up in the night's lineup is "Once Upon a Time," back for a sixth season with two new classic Disney fairy-tale characters; the villainous Jafar and his nemesis Aladdin are finally making an appearance in Storybrooke. Jafar is played by Oded Fehr ("The Mummy," 1999), while the role of Aladdin is played by Deniz Akdeniz ("I, Frankenstein," 2014).

After the fairy-tale lead-in, "Quantico" steps up to the plate. The first season kept viewers guessing as to "whodunnit" until the very end, and the sophomore entry promises to do the same. New cast members include Blair Underwood ("L.A. Law") and Russell Tovey ("Being Human").

Finally, rounding out the night is the anthology series "Secrets and Lies." The first season revolved around the death of a young boy and the man accused of his murder, while the new one involves a woman's murder and the accusal of her husband. Juliette Lewis ("From Dusk Till Dawn," 1996) returns to the role of Det. Andrea Cornell, but this time she's investigating this very different case involving John (Teny O'Quinn, "Lost") and Eric Warner (Michael Ealy, "Seven Pounds," 2008).

Sunday nights aren't a traditional spot for a network's strongest shows, but ABC is finishing off the weekend with some heavy hitters this year. "Once Upon a Time," "Quantico" and "Secrets and Lies" all return Sunday, Sept. 25, on ABC.

Saturday

CBS This Morning Saturday
❷ ⑤ 8:00 a.m.
❺ ⑲ 9:00 a.m.
Co-hosts Vinita Nair and Anthony Mason kick off the weekend with a look at national and global news in this season premiere. The morning show also features interviews with popular chefs, authors, celebrities and musicians.

Rock the Park
❸ 11:00 a.m.
Get back in touch with nature as co-hosts Jack Steward and Colton Smith visit some of the world's most awe-inspiring destinations. The guys get up close and personal with some of America's greatest assets: its national parks.

Tour Championship
⓫ ⑪ ⓬ Noon
NBC brings viewers coverage of the third round of this year's Tour Championship from East Lake Golf Club in Atlanta, Georgia. In conjunction with this year's tournament, Jim Furyk is honored with the Payne Stewart Award.

Valerie's Home Cooking
⑥⓪ FOOD Noon
When Valerie's friend injures himself snowboarding, she prepares the perfect scratch-made supper he can enjoy at home in this new episode. The care package includes marinated olives, manicotti with Italian sausage and Tuscan kale salad.

Henry Danger
㊼ NICK 8:00 p.m.
Henry (Jace Norman) and Charlotte (Riele Downs) investigate when Captain Man (Cooper Barnes) suddenly announces he's getting married in this new episode. Their search for evidence reveals that things are not as they seem.

Dr. Dee: Alaska Vet
㊺⑥ ANPL 8:00 p.m.
Dr. Dee and her husband race to save six baby owls whose parents were killed by an eagle in this new episode. Later, at Animal House, Dr. Dee's dog becomes a blood donor for a lab with an auto-immune disease and a cat receives stem cell therapy.

48 Hours
❷ ⑤ ❺ ⑲ 10:00 p.m.
The network's best correspondents return with fascinating true-crime stories in this season premiere. An award-winning news magazine, the program delves into the nation's most intriguing crime and justice cases.

Anthony Mason and Vinita Nair co-host "CBS This Morning Saturday"

Sunday

Rock the Park
4 4 Noon
Get back in touch with nature as co-hosts Jack Steward and Colton Smith visit some of the world's most awe-inspiring destinations. The guys get up close and personal with some of America's greatest assets: its national parks.

60 Minutes
9 5 9 19 7:30 p.m.
This premiere kicks off another season of hard-hitting investigative reports, in-depth interviews and fascinating profiles. The legendary news magazine premiered in 1968, and has been recognized with more than 100 Emmys.

Once Upon a Time
9 4 4 8:00 p.m.
The Evil Queen (Lana Parrilla) has declared war on the heroes, and Storybrooke is threatened by Mr. Hyde (Sam Witwer) in the new season. New characters set to be introduced this season include Aladdin, Jafar, Princess Jasmine and Captain Nemo.

The Simpsons
9 10 53 10 8:00 p.m.
After Springfield burns to the ground, the Simpson family begs Mr. Burns to cough up the money to rebuild the town in this season premiere. Burns agrees, but there's a catch: he wants to put on a variety show at the Springfield Bowl.

Fear the Walking Dead
51 AMC 9:00 p.m.
As refugees flood into the hotel, Madison (Kim Dickens) struggles to deal with the situation in this new episode. A companion series to "The Walking Dead," the show chronicles the early days of the zombie apocalypse.

Caribbean Life
55 HGTV 9:00 p.m.
Marie shares her story of visiting Jamaica as a child in this new episode. She instantly fell in love with the island and has always dreamed of living there. Tired of battling Canadian winters with her children, she's eager to make her dream come true.

Quantico
9 3 4 10:00 p.m.
Priyanka Chopra returns as Alex Parrish in this season premiere. Last season, she cleared her name and saved millions of lives, only to be fired by the FBI. Now, she's been given another opportunity to serve her country working for the CIA.

The Strain
39 FX 10:00 p.m.
When Setrakian (David Bradley) gleans new information from the Lumen, he's forced to enlist the help of his lifelong nemesis, Eldritch Palmer (Jonathan Hyde). Also in this new episode, Eph (Corey Stoll) continues his experiments on strigoi communication.

Jared S. Gilmore stars in "Once Upon a Time"

WMHS IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Executive Director

GENERAL RESPONSIBILITIES:

This is a top level Executive position responsible for all aspects of planning, directing, and supervising the management of a multi-county, quasi-government Human Services organization involved in administering all aspects of workforce development programs funded by the US Department of Labor and the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation. This position supervises program operations staff units in three western Maryland county offices (Allegany, Garrett and Washington Counties) as well as the administrative staff operation located in the main office location in Washington County, that provide employment and training services to eligible customers (Adults, Dislocated Workers, and Youth) under the federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA). The position requires a high level of interaction with partner agencies/organizations involved in various aspects of transitioning unemployed/underemployed individuals into the workforce, as well as interaction with education and training providers, economic development partners, the Workforce Investment Board and state/local elected officials. Incumbent will be responsible for management of grants, including grant writing and budget development as well as fiscal and program reporting and performance.

Additional responsibilities involve oversight of the personnel system, employee benefits, pension program, health insurance and other necessary insurance coverage, property leases, procurement system, contracting processes, fiscal reporting, IT system, facilities, and all related aspects of a stand-alone organization.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Bachelor's Degree in Public Administration and/or Human Services and demonstrated work experience at a supervisory level in a related field is required. Experience in the administration of federal/state workforce development programs and/or human service programs are desirable. Knowledge of personnel practices, labor law, OMB circulars, general accounting principles, and grant management is preferred. Knowledge of Microsoft Office is required. Working knowledge of WIOA is a plus.

Interested candidates should forward a resumé for receipt by COB October 7, 2016 to:

Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND
Civil No. 11-C-16-014723
IN THE MATTER OF:
Haiden P. Hinebaugh
FOR CHANGE OF NAME TO:
Haiden P. Stein
BY AND THROUGH HIS MOTHER:
Ashley Stein
NOTICE
(Minor)
(DOM REL 65)
The above Petitioner has filed a Petition for Change of Name in which she seeks to change the name of a minor child from Haiden P. Hinebaugh to Haiden P. Stein. The petitioner is seeking this name change for the child for the following reason: "At child's request. Only recognizes step-father as parent and wishes for his legal name to reflect that."
Any person may file an objection to the Petition on or before the 19th day of October 2016. The objection must be supported by an affidavit and served upon the Petitioner in accordance with Maryland Rule 1-321. Failure to file an objection or affidavit within the time allowed may result in a judgment by default or the granting of the relief sought.
A copy of this notice shall be published one time in a newspaper of general circulation in the county at least fifteen (15) days before the deadline to file an objection.

Civil No. 11-C-16-014722
IN THE MATTER OF:
Madden K. Hinebaugh
FOR CHANGE OF NAME TO:
Madden K. Stein
BY AND THROUGH HIS MOTHER:
Ashley Stein

NOTICE
(Minor)
(DOM REL 65)

The above Petitioner has filed a Petition for Change of Name in which she seeks to change the name of a minor child from Madden K. Hinebaugh to Madden K. Stein. The petitioner is seeking this name change for the child for the following reason: At child's request - only recognizes step-father as his father and wishes to fix his legal name to reflect such."

Any person may file an objection to the Petition on or before the 19th day of October 2016. The objection must be supported by an affidavit and served upon the Petitioner in accordance with Maryland Rule 1-321. Failure to file an objection or affidavit within the time allowed may result in a judgment by default or the granting of the relief sought.

A copy of this notice shall be published one time in a newspaper of general circulation in the county at least fifteen (15) days before the deadline to file an objection.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY

132 SMEARMAN RD.
FRIENDSVILLE, MD 21531

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from David W. Smearman and Charlotte L. Smearman, dated September 22, 1998 and recorded in Liber 751, folio 464 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

SEPTEMBER 28, 2016 AT 1:25 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett Co., Maryland and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, easements, encumbrances and agreements of record affecting the subject property, if any, and with no warranty of any kind

Terms of Sale: A deposit in the form of cashier's or certified check, or in such other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine, at their sole discretion, for $9,000 at the time of sale. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid within fifteen (15) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Maryland. Interest is to be paid on the unpaid purchase price at the rate of 5% per annum from date of sale to the date the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees, if the property is purchased by an entity other than the noteholder and/or servicer. If payment of the balance does not occur within fifteen days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event settlement is delayed for any reason. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, and all other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, and front foot benefit charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to the date of sale, and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowners association dues, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale. The purchaser shall be responsible for the payment of the ground rent escrow, if required. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, and all settlement charges shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, the sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. FSU Online MBA Programs Among Best In Country

Two online organizations focused on helping prospective students find the best values in online MBA programs have ranked Frostburg State University's program among the top 50 in the nation in recent weeks.

Top Management Degrees has ranked FSU number 48 of the most affordable online MBAs of 2017. At the same time, Best Value MBA rated FSU's MBA number 46 among its top 50 best MBA programs that offer high value and affordability.

Top Management Degrees' ranking is designed to find the best affordable online master of business administration program available. A list of over 350 online MBA programs was obtained and then vetted based on accreditation and estimated tuition cost to find the most affordable program. Every program included in the ranking is regionally accredited by one of the six accrediting agencies recognized by the U.S. Department of Education, and additionally accredited by one of the top three business school accreditors – IACBE, ACBSP, or AACSB-International

Each MBA was ultimately considered based on the estimated total tuition of the program. The tuition information was gathered from the most recent data given on each specific program/school website.

Top Management Degrees noted that FSU, a member of the University System of Maryland, is a regionally accredited university and that its college of business is additionally accredited by AACSB-International. The company calculates that students can finish FSU's flexible online MBA program at an affordable resident tuition cost of $14,256.

Best Value MBA's 50 programs were selected for their affordability out of over 500 MBA programs offered online. All programs ranked are offered by regionally accredited public or private nonprofit universities. Many of the programs have additional accreditation from national and international accrediting bodies like AACSB, ACBSP, and IACBE. Schools were ranked solely based on their tuition.

Best Value MBA emphasizes that full-time students can complete FSU's AACSB-accredited online MBA in just one year and that applicants are not required to submit GMAT scores if their undergraduate GPA is 3.65 or higher, or 3.25 with two years of professional experience. In-state tuition is estimated at $6,876 and out-of-state tuition at $8,838.

More information about Top Management Degrees' Top 50 Most Affordable Online MBA Programs of 2017 can be found online at www.topmanagementdegrees.com/rankings/most-affordable-online-mba-programs-2017. More information on Best Value MBA's Top 50 Most Affordable Online MBA Programs can be found at www.bestvaluemba.net/rankings/most-affordable-online-mba-programs.

For information about FSU's MBA program, persons are invited to call the FSU Office of Graduate Services at 301-687-7053, email gradservices@frostburg.edu, or go online to www.frostburg.edu/grad.

SHS CLASS OF 1956 REUNITES – The Southern Garrett High School class of 1956 celebrated its 60-year class reunion on Aug. 20 at the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department. A social hour was held, followed by a buffet dinner. George Lee gave the invocation. A memorial service was held, with the reading the names of 43 classmates by Danny Garrett. Bagpiper Paul Browning played "Amazing Grace" at the conclusion of the service. Class president Bill Moore conducted a business meeting. Sam Moore, reunion chairman, and Elaine Roth, secretary-treasurer, were honored for their years of service, as Joanne Harsh presented them with framed certificates of recognition and gift certificates. The class agreed to hold the next reunion in August 2019, with Garrett serving as the chairman. Three teachers were present for the reunion: George Lipscomb and his wife Helen, Aurora, W.Va.; Bob Long, Joppa; and Carl Schooner and his son Bill, Parsons, W.Va. Classmates Gary Dixon and Ron Lewis, who joined the armed forces prior to graduation, also attended. Cake Decorating II Class To Be Held At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled a hands-on cake decorating course titled "Cake Decorating II – Flowers and Cake Design" on Wednesdays, Oct. 5–16, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville.

"In this course, participants will explore more sophisticated ways to bring cakes and desserts to life," said a college spokesperson. "They will create breathtaking Cornelli lace, brush embroidery, blossom flowers, royal icing appliques, rosebuds, half roses, Wilton roses, leaves and stems, pansies, violets, lilies, and poinsettias, plus the basketweave design, rope border, reverse shell border, and classic ruffle."

Students will also discover the "secrets" of arranging the flowers in a balanced cake-top bouquet, including how to arrange flowers to be framed by an impressive border treatment or basket weave design.

"Skills learned in this class will give participants the ability to make flowers in advance, using gum paste and fondant or royal icing, ready to place on any cake," the spokesperson said.

Wilton instructor Bonnie Goebel will also discuss how to assess the market and manage one's own business (or an employer's) effectively. A supply list is available upon registration.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, one may contact Continuing Education and Workforce Development at 301-387-3069.

PUBLIC SAFETY MURAL DEDICATED – A colorful, action-oriented mural has been placed on the side of the Oakland Municipal Building, located along Third Street, and the artwork, created by Mark Stutzman, was dedicated Sunday afternoon with a series of remarks from public officials, games and activities for children, and other events. The mural was done in the cartoon-like style for the purpose of attracting young people, and reminding them how so many adults work to keep the community safe, and who come running when fires erupt or other disasters strike. The dedication day was well-attended, with perfect weather. All residents and visitors are encouraged to come see the mural, and to celebrate the volunteers and service workers who continually give of themselves in times of trouble. State BOE Begins Process To Handle Hogan's Ex. Order

The Maryland State Board of Education has initiated the process to give school systems a way to seek waivers from Gov. Larry Hogan's recent executive order mandating that public schools stay closed until after the Labor Day holiday.

The board members voted unanimously Tuesday to ask state staff to draft guidance "that makes it clear to districts, charter schools, and the public that the board intends, beginning immediately, to approve expeditiously requests for waivers from the calendar limits" set by the order, provided there is sufficient educational justification for the waivers.

The governor announced his unprecedented mandate on Aug. 31 from the boardwalk in Ocean City, maintaining that a longer summer break for the state's public schools will result in an economic boon and will benefit families. Under the order, schools must start after Labor Day and end by June 15, but also may seek waivers from the order based on "compelling justification."

The order was met with immediate criticism by state educators, who are frustrated by the forced removal of county control over school calendars, and who are worried about the ramifications to students regarding testing dates, snow days, and other events that make each jurisdiction's calendar unique.

Doug Mayer, a spokesman for Hogan, said this week that regulations related to the order must precede the state board approving any waiver requests. Such regulations have not been developed and could take several months.

"Our office has been in touch with board president Andy Smarick and state superintendent Karen Salmon, who both assured that the board in no way will approve waivers prior to regulations being submitted and approved – as the executive order directly requires," Mayer said in a statement.

Smarick has publicly stated that he and the state board members want to move immediately on the process of developing the waiver process, as all jurisdictions will begin work on the 2017-2018 calendars soon.

"We needed to get the regulation process going and give

THE BALTIMORE CHECKERSPOT BUTTERFLY is Maryland's state insect, and was plentiful throughout the state when it received that designation back in 1973. However, loss of habitat and possibly other reasons have cut the numbers of the species significantly, to the point that only about 11 colonies of the butterfly are known in the state, with Garrett County still being one of its locations. Efforts are now underway to reintroduce the insect and improve existing habitats. See story on Page A-9.

Tickets Available For Autumn Glory Kick-Off Reception

Tickets are still available for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival Kick-Off Reception, to be held on Wednesday, Oct. 13, at Wisp Resort.

The reservation deadline for the reception is Friday, Oct. 7. Early-bird discount tickets are available only until Monday, Oct. 3. Tickets are available at visitdeepcreek.com or by calling 301-387-6171.

"This prestigious event provides an elegant, yet lively atmosphere to kick-off the Autumn Glory festivities," said Nicole Christian, chamber president/CEO. "We invite you to help us celebrate our 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival."

The reception will begin with a 6 p.m. social hour, featuring complimentary beer and wine. A cash bar will be available. A sit-down dinner begins at 7 p.m. The program will begin at 8 p.m., followed by dancing to music provided by DJ Gel Entertainment.

The dinner will have assigned seating.

"Reserve your seats or tables early for preferred seating, which is available on a first-come, first-served basis," Christian said.

Admission to the event is $195 per couple, $100 per individual, and $750 for a table of eight when purchased by Oct. 3. After that date, the admission cost is $115 per individual, $210 per couple, and $870 per table of eight. Reservations are required. There will be no walk-ins.

Along with the annual announcement of this year's Honorary Golden Ambassador, the reception will include the coronation of the Autumn Glory king and queen and recognition of the festival sponsors.

MDE Presents Its Oil, Gas Draft Regulations To AELR Committee

The Maryland Department of the Environment on Monday submitted its "Draft Regulations: Oil and Gas Exploration and Production" to the General Assembly's Administrative, Executive, and Legislative Review (AELR) Committee. In 2015, legislators tasked MDE with adopting regulations "to provide for the hydraulic fracturing of a well for the exploration or production of natural gas in the state" by Oct. 1, 2016.

MDE states on its website that the draft regulations "will ensure that any exploration and production of oil and gas is conducted in a manner protective of public health, safety, the environment, and natural resources."

Following the AELR Committee's review, the regulatory proposal will be published in the online version of the Maryland Register (http://www.dsd.state.md.us/MDR/mdregister.html) and be open for public comment for 30 days.

According to MDE, the following are the proposal's key provisions.

Protection of Drinking Water Sources

• Protection of fresh water aquifers during drilling: While drilling through potential sources of drinking water, the operator may only use drilling fluid that is air or fresh water-based, and may only use additives that are certified as safe for use as drinking water additives.

• Well construction: The proposal requires four concentric layers of steel casing and cement to isolate water- and gas-bearing zones. The depths of casings are set to protect ground water currently used as drinking water in nearby private wells, as well as deeper potential future underground sources of drinking water. Cementing standards ensure there is an adequate seal between the casing and the borehole to prevent underground migration of gas and other fluids.

• Integrity and pressure testing: An operator must conduct integrity and pressure testing at several points during the placement of casing and cement. After the well is fully cased, the operator must certify the well integrity and isolation of fluid-bearing formations before conducting any hydraulic fracturing. Ongoing integrity testing is also required throughout the life of the well.

• Well pad and chemical storage: In order to protect drinking water against the risk of surface spills, the proposal includes strong standards for the construction of the well pad and handling of chemicals. The well pad must be lined and capable of containing the volume of the 25-year, 24-hour storm event. Pollutants may not be discharged from the pad, nor may any storm water be discharged as long as fuel or chemicals are present on the pad. Liquid chemicals must be stored in watertight, closed tanks with secondary containment to capture any leaks.

• Setbacks and location restrictions: A well pad may not be located within 2,000 feet of a private drinking water well or within 1,000 feet of a wellhead protection area (for a public water supply well) or anywhere within the watersheds of Broadford Lake, Piney Reservoir, and Savage Reservoir. If oil and gas production ever occurs outside of Garrett or Allegany counties, the department may list additional reservoirs in this prohibition. A well pad may not be located within 2,000 feet parallel to and above the surface water intake of a public drinking water supply

Laws On Drunk Driving, Public Safety, Workers' Rights Take Effect Saturday

Beginning this Saturday, Oct. 1, various new laws will go into effect in Maryland, including laws to deter drunken driving, increase police accountability and public safety, promote workers' rights, establish opioid addiction outreach programs, and protect the freedom of the press.

The following is a summary of those new laws, presented by subject area:

COURTS & CIVIL PROCEEDINGS

Children in Need of Assistance, Guardianship, Adoption, Custody, and Visitation – Blindness of Parent/Guardian (SB765): In cases with disabled parents, disabilities – including blindness – cannot discredit the parent unless proven that the disability is not in the best interest of the child.

Divorce-Corroboration of Testimony (SB359, HB274): Reversing previous laws, this allows courts to enter decrees of divorce on behalf of one spouse without the agreement of the other. It also establishes that a separation agreement is no longer sufficient to show both spouses want an absolute divorce.

Testimony by Perjurer (SB150, HB237): People who have been convicted of perjuring themselves, or lying under oath, will no longer be prohibited from testifying in court.

CRIMES, CORRECTIONS, & PUBLIC SAFETY

Providing Alcohol to Underage Drinkers/Alex and Calvin's Law (HB409): Following the death of Alex Murk and Calvin Li in a 2015 drunken-driving accident after a party, this law prohibits a person from allowing underage individuals to consume alcohol if they should have known that individual would drive under the influence.

Justice Reinvestment Act (SB1005): The law expands drug treatment in the state health department, and treatment for substance abuse and mental health through the corrections department, including risk and needs assessments to determine risks of re-offending. The law also calls for plans for inmate rehabilitation.

Public Safety and Policing Workgroup (HB1016): This law enacts a number of suggestions from the Public Safety and Policing Workgroup, including protecting law enforcement officers from being penalized or retaliated against for

Roberto Rezek Is Given Credit For Time Served

Roberto Oscar Rezek, one of the two men convicted of murdering Garrett County sheriff's deputy David Livengood in 1979, has been granted an early release from prison, to which he had been sentenced for life. The proceedings took place Friday in Washington County Circuit Court, with Judge M. Kenneth Long Jr. presiding.

Rezek's conviction had been reversed in 2011 by now-retired Judge Daniel W. Moylan, who based his ruling on a change in the law by the Maryland Court of Appeals having to do with the way jury instructions are provided by judges during trials.

In this new trial Friday, Rezek immediately pleaded guilty to first-degree felony murder, and the judge gave a life sentence, but suspended it, giving him credit for the nearly 38 years he has already served. Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer-Welch was present at the trial, and requested that the life sentence be reimposed. Defense attorney Brian Shefferman asked Long for a time-served ruling.

Rezek was not free to go, however, as he faces other legal issues in Pennsylvania having to do with a 1977 criminal case.

The convict is now 68, and was formerly of Fairmont, W.Va. He and Richard D. Tichnell were convicted in 1980 of the Jan. 18, 1979, murder of Deputy Livengood, who had responded during a snowstorm to a burglar alarm at Davidson's

GC Commissioners To Hold Next Public Meeting On Oct. 3

The Garrett County commissioners will hold their next public meeting next Monday, Oct. 3, beginning at 4 p.m. at the courthouse in Oakland.

Agenda items are as follows:

• Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person 2016 announcement ceremony.

• A resolution regarding Grow West's purchase of property in the Keyser's Ridge Business Park for its medical marijuana facility.

• Proclamations for Domestic Violence Awareness and Breast Cancer Awareness months.

• A safety award presentation to the Garrett County Department of Human Resources.

• A bid award for road construction at the McHenry Business Park.

• A public hearing on the Southern Garrett Industrial Park's Enterprise Zone application.

Prior to the 4 p.m. meeting, the commissioners will hold a administrative session at 3 p.m., at which time they will approve appointments to the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals and the Health Planning Council. The session is open to the public.

The commissioners' next public meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 4 p.m. at the courthouse. Requests to be on the agenda must be made to Carol Riley-Alexander, executive assistant to the commissioners and county administrator, by 1 p.m. one week prior to the public meeting day.

ARC Awards $500K For Keyser's Ridge Treatment Plant

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) recently announced approval of a grant in the amount of $500,000 to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners for Phase 1 of the Keyser's Ridge Business Park Water Infrastructure Project.

The initiative involves construction of a 600 square-foot, 0.05 mgd (million gallons a day) water treatment plant at Puzzley Run and 950 linear feet of waterline to leverage private investment, create jobs, improve the local community, and provide 14 businesses, and 22 households with improved access to water infrastructure.

According to the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, construction of a plant at Puzzley Run will lessen the burden that is currently being placed on the existing Grantsville water treatment plant, which is operating with a negative production capacity. Utilizing Puzzley Run as a source for the new water treatment plant will more sustainably and efficiently

MDOT Officials To Hold Annual Tour Meeting On Oct. 7

Maryland Department of Transportation staff members recently began their annual tour of 23 counties and Baltimore City to update local officials and the public on the state's six-year capital investment program.

Transportation secretary Pete K. Rahn and other department officials will meet with the Garrett County commissioners and local residents on Friday, Oct. 7, at 10 a.m. at the courthouse, Oakland, in Room 207.

At each stop on the tour, transportation officials will review the fiscal year 2017–2022 Consolidated Transportation Program (CTP) draft and seek input on local concerns and projects. They will also be available to answer questions about potential impacts on counties as the result of Chapter 36, the new law that will require the scoring and ranking of major construction projects before they are added to the CTP next year.

After their statewide tour, MDOT officials will prepare their final budget to present to the General Assembly in January. The six-year draft budget invests $14.4 billion in Maryland's transportation network. Above and beyond this funding, the Maryland Transportation Authority is investing another $1.99 billion in toll roads and bridges, according to MDOT.

YOUNGSTERS READY TO GIVE A SHOW – As part of an ongoing project at Our Town Theatre (OTT), in association with the Women's Civic Club of Oakland, a cast of youngsters will this weekend present their own show. The kids worked together in OTT's Build-A-Play series throughout the year, meeting at the theatre and coming up with characters, themes, music, and dialogue. This weekend will mark the culmination of that work as the young people present Colon the Coal; an Original Rock and Roll Fable. Performances will be held this Saturday, Oct. 1, and Sunday, Oct. 2, at the theatre, located at 121 Center Street, Oakland. The show will begin at 1 p.m. both days, with the doors opening at 12:30 p.m. Admission is free, though donations will be accepted. This production is appropriate for all ages. The cast is pictured. In the first row, from left, are Savannah Hamilton, Rachel Mager, Kiara Perando, Isaac VanMeter, Connor Madigan, Evangeline Cedro, Sarah Mager, and Emilia Germain. Second row, same order: Conrad Pfaff, Samantha Mager, Arianna Kahly, Lia Rinker, Lillian Sadowski, and Adrienne Cedro.

Deputies Warn Local Citizens Of Phone Scam

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office received a complaint of a recent phone scam in the local area.

A local elderly female was reportedly contacted by a suspect claiming to be with a law enforcement agency and requested bail money for a family member whom the suspect told the citizen had been arrested. The woman was then advised to go to Walmart and purchase money cards with account numbers and then provide the account numbers to the suspect over the phone for the bail. The woman became suspicious and contacted police, who confirmed it a scam.

Deputies remind citizens to not provide any personal or banking information over the phone to any caller and to contact police if needed.

LOCAL BUSINESSES RECOGNIZED – The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Department of Economic Development held their fifth annual Business & Industry Appreciation event last week at Wisp Resort. The program was sponsored by Clear Mountain Bank and Railey Mountain Lake Vacations. The purpose of the event was to recognize local economic development, job creation, and investment. Honored during the event were 52 new business and eight expanding companies. The Garrett County Agriculture Fair board was also recognized for reaching the 50-year milestone. Pictured above are representatives from some of the businesses that were recognized for expanding their physical locations and/or workforce. Laws Take Effect disclosing information, and establishing the Maryland Police Training and Standards Commission within the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services.

Seizure and Forfeiture (SB161/HB336): This law outlines procedures for seizure and forfeiture of property from a vehicle or other location, such as notifying the owner that it has been seized, within a specific amount of time. The law also repeals a provision that allowed for the forfeiture of drug-related money and weapons.

Child Abuse and Neglect (SB310, HB245): Anyone involved in an investigation of child abuse or neglect must report suspicions of another individual knowingly failing to report child abuse to the appropriate board, agency, institution, or facility.

Criminal Law-Stalking (SB278/HB155): This law expands the definition of stalker from inciting physical fears or threats to include causing emotional distress.

Pretrial Release-Prior Crime of Violence (SB604): A district court commissioner may not authorize the pretrial release of defendants who have been convicted of a specified crime or a crime of violence.

ECONOMIC MATTERS

Equal Pay for Equal Work (SB 481): An expansion of the current law, this legislation prohibits employers from paying employees of one gender identity at a lesser rate than other employees. The bill also states that employers may not prohibit employees from discussing or disclosing salaries.

Minimum Wage for the Disabled (SB 417): Starting Oct. 1, the Commissioner of Labor and Industry cannot authorize a work activities center or other sheltered workshop to pay an employee with a disability a subminimum wage unless granted prior permission to do so. Until Oct. 1, 2020, however, employers with prior permission may continue to do so. Afterward, no employer – under any circumstance – can pay a subminimum wage to a disabled employee.

Apprenticeships (SB 92): Members of the Maryland Apprenticeships and Training Council and its consultants must reflect geographic, racial, ethnic, cultural, and gender diversity within the state.

EDUCATION

Student Journalists (SB 764): Student journalists in public elementary or secondary schools or public institutions of higher education have the right to exercise freedom of speech and freedom of the press in school-sponsored media, with some restrictions. Each county board of education and public institution of higher education must write a policy that may include limitations on abusive or threatening language or profanity.

University of Maryland Strategic Partnership Act (SB 1052): The law cements a partnership between the University of Maryland/College Park and the University of Maryland/Baltimore, and calls for them to be named the University of Maryland. Additionally, it calls for the University System of Maryland to create a headquarters in Baltimore by July 1. The alliance leverages resources on both campuses to improve academic programs, and economic and community development.

Consumer Protection Provisions (SB 427): Private career schools and for-profit institutions can no longer enroll students in programs that are intended to lead to employment in fields that require a license or certification in Maryland, but don't meet state requirements. Violations will be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

ENVIRONMENT & NATURAL RESOURCES

Greenhouse Gas Emissions (SB 323): This bill repeals the termination date of the current requirement to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by 25 percent from 2006 levels by 2020 and requires the State to reduce GHG emissions by 40 percent from 2006 levels by 2030.

Pollinator Protection Act – Bees (SB 113/HB 132) (SB 198/HB 211): Repeals the requirement that a person must request or provide an entry permit from the Maryland Department of Agriculture before shipping or transporting a honey bee colony or used bee equipment into the state. However, any colony or used bee equipment shipped or transported into the state must still carry an inspection certificate from the state of origin.

Solar Electric Generating Facility (SB 811/HB 440): Requires electric companies to issue final approval to operate a customer-generator's solar electric facility on the company's distribution facilities within 20 business days after the completion of the installation process and receipt of paperwork. An electric company must meet these requirements for at least 90 percent of installations during the year in their service territory.

Oysters: Aquaculture – Liability for Trespass (HB 799): Establishes that a person who willfully, negligently, recklessly, wrongfully, or maliciously enters any area leased to another person for aquaculture purposes to harvest, damage, or transfer shellfish or to alter, damage, or remove any markings or equipment is liable for specified damages, which may include attorney fees or court costs.

Oysters: Dredging (HB 319): Makes some provisions related to dredging for oysters, including limited authorization of dredge boats to be propelled by an auxiliary yawl boat, applicable only to vessels that meet specified standards. The law also repeals requirements for numbers that must be displayed on a dredge boat.

FISCAL MATTERS

Maryland Income Tax Refunds – Warrant Intercept Program (SB 425/HB 390): If an individual has an outstanding warrant, county officials may request that the comptroller withhold that person's income tax refund, including active duty members of the U.S. armed forces. The state must also study the program to ensure there is no racial bias.

Senior Citizen Activities Center Operating Fund (SB 98, SB 805/HB 262): This law increases, from $500,000 to $750,000, the minimum annual funding to the fund, requires additional expenditures under specified circumstances, and alters how the funds are distributed to jurisdictions.

GAMING, RACING, AND SPORTS

Gaming – Home Games (HB 127): Anyone 21 years or older can bet on home card games or mahjong as long as the games do not occur more than once a week and are played with friends. There is a $1,000 limit per 24-hour period and no fees may be charged.

State Lottery and Video Lottery Facility Payouts – Remittance of Intercepted Prizes (SB 78): The bill repeals the 15-day waiting period for the State Lottery and Gaming Control Agency to transfer the lottery prize payout of a winner who is overdue on child-support payments.

HEALTH CARE & HEALTH INSURANCE

Opioid-Associated Disease Prevention and Outreach Programs (SB 97): The bill repeals Prince George's County AIDS-related needle exchange program, and will instead authorize health departments or community-based organizations in every county to establish an opioid-associated disease prevention and outreach program, with the approval of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Hospitals – Designation of Lay Caregivers (HB 1277): A hospital is required before the patient is discharged to provide a patient or their legal guardian with an opportunity to designate a "lay caregiver."

State Board of Physicians – Licensing Exemption/ Physicians with Traveling Athletic and Sports Teams (HB 119): Physicians are exempt from state licensing requirements, including the requirement to submit to a criminal history records check.

STATE GOVERNMENT

Open Meetings Act – Agendas (HB 217): Agendas for public body meetings must be made available to the public at the time of the notice of the meeting or at least 24 hours before the meeting.

Open Meetings Act – (SB 17, HB 984): Public bodies will keep a written copy of minutes or video or audio recordings for five years instead of one of an open session.

TRANSPORTATION

Drunk Driving Reduction Act/ Noah's Law (SB 945): The Motor Vehicle Association will require people convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol or drivers found to have a blood alcohol level of .08, or higher to use the Ignition Interlock System Program for a specific amount of time. This bill was initiated after Montgomery County Police Officer Noah Leotta was struck and killed by a drunk driver. A sticker honoring the officer will be on each interlock device.

Death or Injury by Vehicle (SB0160, HB157). The law increases penalties for offenders who commit vehicular mansiaughter who have been convicted of driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol previously. Offenders can now face up to 15 years in prison and $15,000 in fines.

Motor Vehicle Insurance –Carrying Proof of Coverage (SB 0544, HB 0720): This law requires drivers to have a current insurance identification card – paper, plastic, or electronic – with them or in their vehicle, or face a $50 fine starting July 1.

Historic Motor Vehicles – Authorized Uses and Inspections (HB 0058): This law requires historic motor vehicle owners to certify that it will not be used for transportation to employment or school, or for commercial purposes. The law changes some requirements for vehicles from 1985 or earlier

HOV Lanes – Plug-In Electric Drive and Hybrid Vehicles (HB 1179): This bill issues an HOV permit to a "qualified hybrid vehicle," allowing the vehicle to be driven in the HOV lane on U.S. Route 50 between I-95 / I-495 and U.S. Route 301, regardless of the number of people in the vehicle.

Dove Center Invites Community To Celebrate 25-Year Anniversary

by Heather Hanline, MS, LCPC
Executive Director

In observance of Domestic Violence Awareness Month and in celebration of its 25-year anniversary, the Dove Center is inviting the community to an Awareness Ceremony, scheduled for next Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 5:30 p.m., at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot. The ceremony will represent the experiences of domestic-violence survivors through artwork, writing, the Clothesline Display, Silent Witness, and special speakers. Light refreshments will be served.

Through the years, the agency has enlisted the same survivor mentality that it instills in its clients – to survive the many challenges it has faced. Despite early funding challenges, less than ideal facilities, and community misperceptions that "those things don't happen here," the center has continued to expand and improve upon its programs, and has become a valued community resource.

In the early 1990s, two staff members worked from a tiny office in downtown Oakland, and began the uphill battle of increasing awareness of the issues in our community. These efforts continue today; however, the Dove Center considers the progress in community attitudes and understanding to be one of its greatest successes.

In 2002, a Rural Outreach grant allowed the agency to engage in extensive outreach and education. The agency began reaching out to the community in a variety of new ways. By the end of 2003, the number of clients served tripled. The staff began exhaustive efforts to develop a relationship with the community that would encourage receptiveness of the fact that domestic violence and sexual assault happen everywhere, including Garrett County, and do not discriminate based on any demographic. Everyone knows someone who has been affected. Each and every one of us has been affected, whether directly or indirectly. Abuse is never the fault of the victim, and society as a whole must become involved in ending it.

The positive changes in the community's outlook can best be demonstrated by a look at the agency's 10-year quest to build a facility that would adequately meet the demand for services. It was clear early on, that second to outreach and education, the issue of inadequate facilities had to be addressed immediately.

While the first shelter, which opened in 1997, met the need temporarily, it had only four small bedrooms, one bathroom, and a very small communal living/dining/kitchen area. However, there was no way to predict that it would take nearly 10 years to make a new facility a reality.

In 2003, the county commissioners offered to donate the former board of education property along Fourth Street in Oakland to the Dove Center on which to build a facility. In order to do so, a zoning variance was necessary, requiring a public hearing. That night, a standing room only crowd unanimously voiced their "not in my back yard" concerns. At that point it became evident that the success of a building project was going to be highly dependent upon the success of massive community outreach and education initiative. The zoning application was withdrawn to allow the agency to focus more on increasing the community's understanding of the agency and the issues of domestic violence and sexual assault, as myths and misconceptions were rampant.

That approach paid off. About five years later, after increasing awareness and building community relationships, the agency regrouped and began to pursue the project again. This time, the community embraced it with open arms, donating over $300,000 to serve as the match for the grant money that was obtained to build the agency's shelter/counseling facility, which is located in the service corridor along Memorial Drive.

At that point, it became evident that the community had started to see the agency's value, and to understand and support its mission to provide safety, advocacy, and counseling to individuals whose lives have been shattered by domestic violence and/or sexual assault, and to expand public awareness of those issues.

While the welcoming, secure facility may be seen as the Dove Center's crowning glory, there have been many other achievements along the way With its impressive outcomes, the center was able to increase its grant revenue by 10 times within a short time frame. Largely, those grant funds were used to increase staffing by six times, in order to provide 24/7 services by trained individuals.

However, shortly after the events of 9/11, grant funds began diminishing, as funds were diverted to Homeland

Dove Center

Security. The agency then faced the struggle of maintaining core services in the face of year after year of level funding. At times, expansion of programs seemed impossible. However, through creativity, passion, and dedication, the Dove Center has risen above those challenges.

In addition to the core services (shelter, hotline, counseling, advocacy, and accompaniment), the Dove Center has counselors in local schools in the county on various days of the week. Bi-weekly, two counselors are on campus at Garrett College, conducting prevention activities, and offering counseling services.

In addition to the 24/7 hotline, a Dove Center advocate is on-call, 24/7, to respond to the emergency room, Sheriff's Office, court commissioner's office, or shelter, to assist a victim who needs after-hours crisis intervention. An outreach office in Grantsville is staffed two days/week, and a legal advocate reports directly to the district court 4 days/week, to support victims through civil and criminal legal processes.

The center also offers the Abuse Intervention Program, the county's only counseling program for perpetrators of domestic violence, which is certified by the Governor's Family Violence Council.

Two years ago, in an effort to overcome barriers in escaping domestic violence, the center acquired a grant to begin sheltering dogs and cats of shelter residents, on-site. At the time, the Dove Center was one of two programs in the state of Maryland to offer this service, as an official Sheltering Animals and Families – Together (SAF-T) program.

Furthermore, the center has acquired a grant to assist with paying attorney fees for clients who do not qualify for legal aid or pro bono legal representation.

In order to increase overall community impact, the Dove Center believes in strong community partnerships and collaboration. In that spirit, the agency oversees the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition and Sexual Assault Response Team. These groups bring together a multidisciplinary group of professionals and community members to examine and address gaps in services. The Dove Center has provided significant support through the years, to the local Sexual Assault Forensic Examiner (SAFE) program, assisting with equipment, training, policy development, and nurse recruitment.

Additionally, the Dove Center is a part of numerous other community networking groups. The center works with the Maryland State Police through the Lethality Assessment Project to provide immediate hotline response to victims who screen in as high risk for homicide.

Through its local successes, the Dove Center has earned positive regards – statewide – and has been asked to provide several guest blogs for state agencies, such as Maryland Association of Nonprofits.

Plans for future expansion of programs include a transitional housing program, which will provide clients with a longer-term housing option beyond emergency shelter to conquer the many challenges that are part of escaping domestic violence.

These accomplishments would not be possible without the dedication and expertise of the agency's staff. Several have been recognized with Governor's Victim Assistance awards. Two have completed the Roper Victim Assistance Academy. One is a certified victim advocate. Three are master's level professionals, and one a licensed therapist. Most are certified Maryland Safe at Home application assistants, trained to enroll clients in the address-confidentiality program through the office of the Maryland Secretary of State. Five are certified to access the Domestic Violence Central Repository, a database for shielded court orders. All have extensive training and experience in victim services.

Over half of the employees have been with the agency for 10 years or more. As difficult as this type of work is, the expression "once an advocate, always an advocate" seems to apply. This can be seen in the agency's staff, as well as the long list of past board members, many of whom return to serve subsequent terms.

The Dove Center has since become a refuge, growing and improving local victim services and becoming a permanent source of safety and healing for families and individuals in crisis. An average of 525 victims per year come to the center to start a new life free of violence and fear. They begin that journey in a nurturing, safe environment, staffed by compassionate, trained professionals with a vast understanding of the dynamics of abuse. It is there that cycles are broken and the road to safety, self-love, and healing begins.

In addition to the ceremony next Tuesday, the Dove Center also invites the community to become involved in its mission by contributing $25 (or multiples of) to the 25 Years Fundraising Campaign. The Dove Center is able to piece 85% of its budget together with grants and support from foundations; however, the agency must still raise a significant portion of its budget through donations and fundraisers.

Client services are provided free of charge. If a dollar value were put on those services, it would likely be over 25 times the center's annual budget.

Donations can be made through paypal on the agency website, www.gcdovecenter.org; through the gofundme link on the Dove Center facebook page, or by mailing a check to Dove Center, 882 Memorial Drive, Oakland, MD 21550.

For more information about Dove Center services, individuals are invited to call the 24/7 hotline at 301-334-9000. For information on how to become involved through volunteering, persons are invited to call 301-334-6255.

Sierra Club To Hire Coordinator For Western Md.

The Maryland Sierra Club has announced that it is going to hire a western Maryland conservation program coordinator, and is currently accepting applications for that position, which will be based in either Garrett or Allegany County.

"For years, we've been hearing frustration that folks in western Maryland feel disconnected from decisions being made in Annapolis," said Josh Tulkin, state director of the Sierra Club. "Sierra Club felt that too. For several years, we've been working to bridge that gap, with phone calls, webinars, and Facebook. But nothing can replace a face-to-face conversation and a handshake."

Tulkin said that the organization is looking for "an energetic and inspirational" person to provide education and organize support for critical environmental issues facing western Maryland, including fracking, water quality, and public health.

He said that the position will be half-time, with salary commensurate with experience, and with a benefits package.

"We're looking forward to support efforts already underway in western Maryland, and to lend Sierra Club's name, relationships, and now staff support to the important fights just up around the bend," Tulkin added.

For more information about the position and/or to apply, persons are invited to go online to https://www.sierraclub.org/maryland/western-md-conservation-program-coordinator.

Oakland BASE Committee Hosts Monthly Meetings

The Oakland Building A Strong Economy (BASE) Committee continues to hold its regular monthly meetings, with Karen Reckner of the Garrett County Arts Council as the most recent guest speaker.

Reckner gave a presentation to the committee regarding what is required for the application for an Arts and Entertainment District Designation. The committee decided to pursue the application for this designation and intends to begin work on it in the near future.

The committee also finalized the process for Oakland businesses seeking incentives and recently drafted a new Oakland Business Guide, which is in the process of its final review and approval.

The following new businesses are either opening or relocating to Oakland: Edward Jones (financial services), Hospice of Garrett County (relocation and expansion), the new Cornish Café (expansion and relocation), the Bethel School (a nondenominational Christian school), Noonan and Noonan (legal services), and the Garrett County Board of Realtors (relocation).

There are several anniversaries, ceremonies, and ribbon-cutting events that are planned for the near future. Grand Central Home Furnishing will celebrate 25 years with a ceremony today at 3 p.m. at the Oakland location.

The town of Oakland will be receiving a "pay it forward" gift in effort to promote the revitalization effort of the BASE Committee.

The Dove Center will observe National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. The Dove Center will honor its survivors on Tuesday, Oct. 4, in the Oakland town parking lot from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center is renaming its organization the James Isaac House, Pregnancy Resource Center. It will host an open house and light refreshments on Monday, Oct. 17, beginning at noon. The center is located at 314 S. Second Street, Oakland. This event is in coordination with its annual fall fundraising banquet slated for later that evening at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Hospice of Garrett County will host a ribbon-cutting ceremony at its new location on Second Street on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 1 p.m.

The BASE Committee has collaborated with the Oakland mayor and town council, the Oakland Planning Commission, the Board of Realtors, and others assisting with the recruitment of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and its Sustainable Design Assessment Team (SDAT). The AIA/SDAT group will be in Oakland Nov. 2-4.

Those with questions or in need of additional details are invited to contact tthe Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691.

Saving Lives for 25 Years...

It would be wonderful if we did not need the various emergency service organizations that we have, including rescue squads and fire departments, because when these organizations are summoned, there has been an accident, there might be a raging fire, or someone is perhaps critically ill. Further, if human beings just didn't get sick or injured, there would be no need for hospitals, and virtually no need for physicians. If people could always get along and always followed the rules, there would be no need for law enforcement officials, nor a military, for that matter.

Reality, however, makes all of the above necessary and extremely important; the reality that unwanted fires do occur, people do get ill and become injured, and traits such as human greed, selfishness, and various other characteristics cause folks to break the rules and fight with each other.

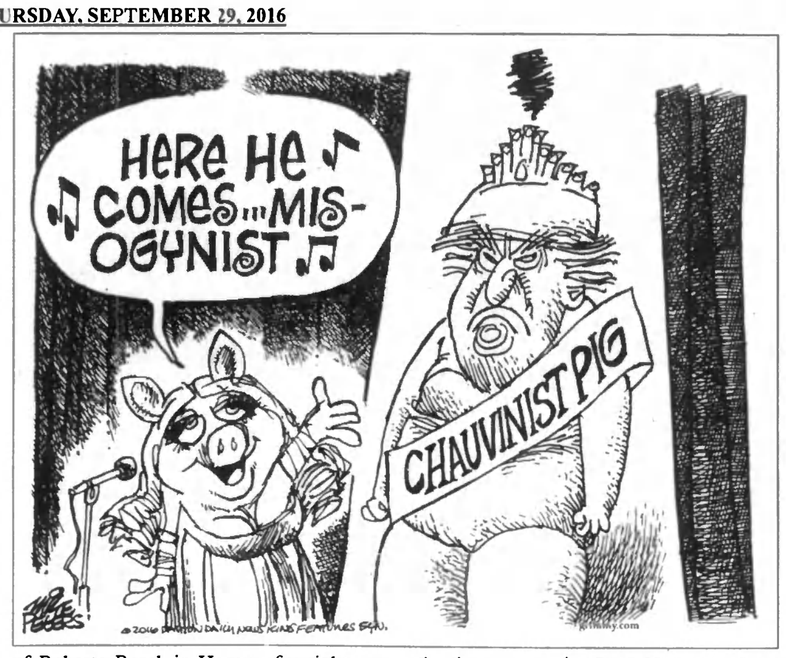
For similar reasons we also need in our community agencies such as the Dove Center, the county's safe haven for victims of domestic violence which will observe its 25-year anniversary next week. Many of our older residents remember a little girl named Brandy White, an innocent local child who became a murder victim as a result of domestic violence. Her demise so clearly indicated that there was a crucial need for a shelter where victims of such abuse could be protected, and it was roughly five years after her death that the Dove Center was born.

Throughout the past 2½ decades, the Dove Center has gone from a dream to a small operation with extremely limited space and staff to a state-of-the-art, spacious facility with a staff of competent, licensed professionals. There is no doubt that numerous lives have absolutely been saved by the center; if not saved from death itself, certainly saved from a life of continued abuse, heartache, pain, sadness, and depression.

Not only does the center serve as a haven for victims of abuse, but also as a place where others – such as victims of substance abuse – may stay temporarily until they can, it is hoped, get their feet back on the ground. The center and its staff provide not only a comfortable bed and a roof over their heads, but also all kinds of support and assistance to help get them on a road to recovery.

On the previous page in this section there is a feature article about the Dove Center written by Heather Henline, the center's executive director for many years. She gives a detailed history of the center and the tremendous growth it has experienced through the years. She extends much credit to the center's board of directors, to her outstanding, dedicated staff, and to the community for its support of the center over the years. There is one person she left out of her story, and that's because of her own modesty. So one of the primary reasons for this column today is to give Heather the recognition that she so richly deserves for her years of excellent leadership and dedication, without which the Dove Center might not have survived, let alone attain statewide regard as one of the finest shelters in existence.

Secondly, it almost goes without saying that the Dove Center deserves and continues to need support from the local community to help it meet its operational expenses. One never knows when he or she, or a friend or loved one, might need its vital, life-saving services, often at a moment's notice.



Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous. All letters must be type written or submitted via e-mail.

To the Editor:

In response to a letter of Sept 22 I start with a point of agreement. I saw the hanging dummy and I too found it disturbing. Now I will go to my issues with his letter.

The writer reports the "facts" of two shootings. His facts aren't supported by videos and police reports. In the first incident, the "victim" had put his hands down prior to the shooting. He was not following commands. Another officer fired a Taser, making one believe he also perceived a threat. The officer has been charged with manslaughter. This most likely was an overreaction to a perceived threat, and she will face justice.

In the other shooting, the disability the victim had was traumatic brain injury, which can't be visually perceived. A gun was recovered. It had the victim's fingerprints and DNA on it. Officers yelled "Drop the gun" multiple times. His wife yelled "Don't do it, Keith" several times. The writer links this shooting with racism, although the officer was black.

The writer characterized the shooting of Trayvon Martin as a "slaughter," but Mr. Zimmerman was acquitted due to self-defense.

Racism exists. Real racism needs to be exposed. The Charleston church shooting is an example. But, the writer sees racism in everything from flags to Halloween decorations. Falsely crying racism is counterproductive. At a time when white supremacy groups are at a point of irrelevancy, they are making a comeback. I suspect this is a backlash. I agree that the criminal justice system needs reform. But, no positive changes are going to come from this approach.

The writer claims there are limits to the First Amendment. Who should determine those limits?

The media selectively reports shootings and race. They create the false impression that these incidents are more prevalent than they are, and that they are racial. Is it important to report race when it isn't relevant? Would the news report that "a black man was promoted to president of the bank?" History repeats itself. This appears like McCarthy-ism, which falsely claimed that communism was widespread. Just replace "communism" with "racism" and you have modern day McCarthy-ism.

If the writer wants to make positive changes, I suggest he stop seeing racism in everything, stop pushing false stories, start seeing the good in people, and start encouraging positive dialogue.

To the Editor:

Having returned to Garrett County last Friday after attending the second trial of Roberto Rezek in Hagerstown, I must say I am truly peeved and dismayed with the Maryland courts that were involved in the murder case of deputy David Livengood. Rezek was sentenced to life imprisonment in his first trial in 1980. To let Rezek out of jail after serving only 37 years of his life sentence is an abomination and slap in the face of every law officer in this state.

We know the facts because of all the re-sentences of Rezek's partner in crime, Richard D. Tichnell, (now deceased). But everyone seemed to forget that Rezek was a member of the Pagans outlaw motorcycle gang when he and Tichnell murdered Deputy Livengood. Rezek was there as a Pagan witness of Tichnell committing a crime (the burglary of the Davidson's Army-Navy store) so that Tichnell could join the Pagans. The courts have forgotten this fact.

Everything done by the investigators of Livengood's murder was done right. It was hard work for all investigators, and the investigation – collection of evidence to bring these murderers to trial – was done right. Every court involved in this case, (excepting one) bent over backward to find miniscule reasons regarding instructions to a jury or procedural matters to sabotage the prosecution and convictions of these two murderers, Rezek and Tichnell.

The judge in Friday's court told us retired law enforcement personnel in the courtroom that his decision to release Rezek is not what we wanted to hear. Well, he's right about that! We believe the judge should have stuck to the unspoken rule that life imprisonment meant life imprisonment in the case of state of Maryland v. Roberto O. Rezek.

Peeved and dismayed,
Donald W. Tucker

To the Editor:

A half-century ago, I was a 17-year-old who had just been hired to do door-to-door canvassing for the Minneapolis Housing Authority. We held trainings to develop our team, and one of the supervisors, a somewhat chubby fellow, said he hoped in 10 years that the acceptance of heavy build – fatter – would apply to women as much as it did then to men.

I had never thought about that, but it made total sense. Overweight men were not nearly so rejected as were overweight women, and that would be a double standard that would evaporate as we created a new world based on equality.

Now, all these years later, we have the bizarre spectacle of Donald Trump as a viable candidate for the nation's highest office routinely expressing all the bad, old values we assumed were headed for righteous extinction, or at least extreme marginalization. Is this Trump's fault that he cannot go a day without saying that Miss Universe is "Miss Piggy," or that another woman's face is unacceptable, or that Rosie O'Donnell is a "slob?"

No, Trump is who he is. I never watched him on TV before this campaign and never patronized any of his businesses. He's in a world I have been able to ignore as crass, gauche, boring, patronizing, atavistic, juvenile, and shallow. Now it's clear that he is deeply hypocritical, racist, and misogynist.

Now I'm faced with the sad truth that millions of my fellow Americans support these views. The levels of voter incompetence and horrific mores revealed make me question the goodness of a huge swath of my own countrypeople. Seeing his support is what is painful, not his own puerile, adolescent behavior and character. That this spoiled brat born into privilege and clearly raised about as well as Uday Hussein can garner so much support from supposedly freedom-loving Americans is simply depressing. Hillary is problematic, but Trump is absolutely unacceptable.

I hope we begin some self-reflection soon in our country. The worst sexist and racist values of the 1950s are on full display and need to be soundly rejected. Trump stands for unfairness and he should be standing alone, not on the shoulders of real people who work for a living, who scuffle to make ends meet, and who know what unfairness feels like.

Leave Trump to his own devices. Let his poor values wither on his patriarchal bully vine.

Dr. Ketterman Appointed Garrett Co. UME Educator For Financial Literacy

The University of Maryland Extension (UME) office in Garrett County recently announced the appointment of Dr. Jesse M. Ketterman Jr. (pictured) as an educator for financial literacy. His work will focus on developing programs to enhance financial capability for youth and families. Programs will range from opportunities to earn more money, developing budgets, financial impacts of health insurance, borrowing money, and protecting one's identity.

Dr. Ketterman is a native of the western Maryland region. For nearly 17 years, he has worked in various roles at Frostburg State University, most recently as assistant vice president for student affairs, dean of students. He has participated in several initiatives to promote student wellness, student leadership development, alcohol prevention and education, and community development.

"During his time as chair of the President's Alcohol Task Force, FSU successfully implemented strategies to reduce the binge drinking rate to a level below the national average," said a spokesperson. "His combination of experience and education are ideal for community based programming."

He is the founding member of the Frostburg Community Coalition, which brings together members of the university community and the city of Frostburg to address high-risk consumption of alcohol.

After obtaining a bachelor's degree from West Virginia Wesleyan College, he pursued master's degrees in business and education from Frostburg State University. He then earned his doctorate in education from Touro University International.

After September 11, 2001, Ketterman served in the United States Army Reserve in Operation Noble Eagle. His honors include the Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award from Frostburg State University, the Mid-Level Professional Award from the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, and the VIP by 40 from the Maryland Daily Record.

The University of Maryland Extension Office, Garrett County, is part of a statewide, non-formal education system within the University of Maryland. It provides a broad range of outreach through workshops, seminars, classes, clinics, newsletters, consultations, and media efforts.

Those interested in working with Dr. Ketterman may contact him at 301-791-1304 or jketterm@umd.edu. To obtain more information on the UME, persons may visit https://extension.umd.edu/garrett-county.

McCabe Named COO Of Clear Mountain Bank

Clear Mountain Bank has announced that Clint McCabe, currently vice president of marketing, has been promoted to the position of chief operating officer (COO). In his new position, McCabe will be responsible for ensuring that the bank has the proper operational controls, administrative, and reporting procedures in place for financial strength and operating efficiency.

"We're very pleased to be able to promote Clint to the position of COO," said Roger Metheny, Clear Mountain Bank's interim president and CEO. "It's great to be able to promote from within, and his experience in banking, leadership and management will help us continue to grow and fulfill our mission of providing quality financial services as an independent, community bank."

McCabe began his career Clear Mountain Bank in 2005 and has more than 16 years of experience in management and marketing. A native of Blacksville, W.Va., he graduated with cum laude distinction from West Virginia University with a degree in advertising. He is also a graduate of the American Bankers Association School of Bank Marketing and Management, and is designated as a certified financial marketing professional by the Institute of Certified Bankers.

McCabe was named to The State Journal's "Generation Next: 40 Under 40" class of 2013, and he currently serves on the board of directors for Preston Memorial Hospital Foundation, Preston County Chamber of Commerce, and United Way of Monongalia and Preston counties.

Southern JROTC To Hold Take-Out Spaghetti Dinner

Southern Garrett High School's JROTC cadets will hold a take-out spaghetti dinner on Thursday, Oct. 20, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in Room 4121 at Southern Garrett High School.

Tickets are $7 for a meal of spaghetti with meatballs, a salad, and bread.

To order meals, persons can contact Verle Wright at verle.wright@garrettcountyschools.org.

Ashlee Boyd Named Director Of Garrett Trails

The Garrett Trails board of directors has announced that Ashlee Boyd has been appointed its new executive director.

"I am truly thrilled to be a part of such an inspiring organization that is not only important to the economic development of the area, but the overall health of visitors as well as the community," Boyd said. "I hope to become an integral part of Garrett County's tourism and development."

Boyd grew up in Cheat Lake, W.Va., where at a very young age she began her love, as well as respect, for the "great outdoors." She attributes her passion for fishing, hunting, hiking, kayaking, and conservation through education to her father and grandfather.

In 2007 she earned her bachelor's degree from West Virginia University. Her background is in business development, marketing, and events, as serving her community through fundraising and volunteering.

Garrett Trails is a nonprofit, volunteer organization dedicated to the development of a well-used network of high-quality, sustainable trails that provide access to Garrett County's historic, municipal, and environmental "treasures," and link to trails outside the county.

For more information about becoming a part of Garrett Trails, persons are invited to visit www.garretttrails.org.

Board Governance Training Event To Be Held On Oct. 7

In partnership with Garrett College, the Greater Cumberland Committee (TGCC) will host a board governance training event on Friday, Oct. 7, from 9 a.m. to noon in GC's Continuing Education Building, Room 205. This workshop is open to the public and offered free of charge.

"Existing board members, or those newly elected, as well as professional staff and/or volunteers who work closely with the board, are encouraged to attend," said Lisa Varndell, TGCC assistant director.

This program is designed to highlight the most important aspects of board governance universal to small and large nonprofits alike to build additional confidence in understanding the roles and responsibilities of individual members and the board as a whole.

This includes legal and social accountability, principles for sound financial management, fundraising, and the board-CEO/executive director relationship.

In addition, strategies for addressing conflicts of interest, board conduct, and board development issues will also be presented.

"All participants will receive the 'Board Excellence Handbook,' rich with tools and resources to take your board to a higher level of effectiveness," Varndell said. "This session is ideal for board members who have never received a formal overview of the board's role and their responsibilities as board members of a nonprofit organization, no matter how long they have been on the board."

Likewise, organizations that have participated in the Maryland Nonprofits Board Excellence program in the past but have added board members since their last training, are also encouraged to attend.

Participants will learn what their responsibilities are as individuals and as a group in relationship to other board members, professional staff, and volunteers. Specific responsibilities highlighted included individual "duty of care," fiscal oversight, resource development, and board performance evaluation. Participants will receive support and resources to help them in their role as board members.

Seating is limited and an RSVP is required. For more information, or to register for the workshop, persons are invited to contact Varndell at lvarndell@greatercc.org, 301-722-0090.

The training event was made possible through an Appalachian Regional Commission award.

The Greater Cumberland Committee is a not-for-profit member-based organization of 80 civic and business leaders representing Allegany and Garrett counties; Mineral and Hampshire counties in West Virginia; and Bedford and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania.

FREE VISION SCREENING is routinely provided in local elementary schools and day-care centers by members of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, who held their regular meeting Monday at the American Legion hall along Memorial Drive. A total of 226 children have been tested to date this school year, with 14 referred to an eye care specialist. All local pre-K, kindergarten, and first grade students have been or will be vision tested by members of the Oakland, Deep Creek Lake, and Kitzmiller clubs. The Lions currently use the Welch-Allyn camera, which will give immediate readings if a child has vision problems. The latest technology is a more modern/accurate camera, the cost of which is $6,500. Deep Creek Lions Club members will be participating in the purchase of this new unit if the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park club decides to upgrade to this new technology. Pictured above, from left, are club president Gene Flinn, Richard Harris, Porter Welch, and Tom Kennedy, who are among the members who conduct the vision screening. More information about the screening can be obtained by calling Welch at 301-334-4180. Also at Monday's meeting, longtime member Bob Huebner (pictured below with Flinn) was recognized for his years of service to the club and community. He is a past winner of the Lion of the Year award and the Melvin Jones Fellow Award, which is the top honor given by Lions International. Huebner and his wife Marcene are relocating to Ellicott City. Club members also heard from a member of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force concerning drug issues in the county and how they are being addressed. An update of all Autumn Glory Lions activities was given, as well as an update on the upcoming annual Halloween parade, games, and treats. Troop 22 Boy Scouts will once again be assisting the Lions with the games at the Oakland Community Center. Lion Leon Cardiff can be contacted at 301-471-1607 to learn more about the club's Halloween activities. Information about the club's annual 5-K run during the Autumn Glory Festival can be obtained by contacting Lion Frank Lewis at 301-316-0647.

RICHARD L. FOWLER JR.

Richard Louis Fowler Jr., 69, Miami, Dade County, Fla., formerly of Baltimore, died on Sept. 6, 2016, at Gilcrest Hospice Care, Columbia.

He was born on Nov. 27, 1946, in Yonkers, N.Y., and was a son of Richard Louis Sr. and Alta Harriet (Fredrickson) Fowler.

He was a fourth great-grandson of John Friend Jr., James McMullen, Robinson T. Savage, and John Enlow, pioneer settlers of Garrett County, through his maternal grandmother, Harriet Louise (Enlow) Fredrickson.

He was a U.S. Army veteran.

A licensed practical nurse by profession, he performed hospital nursing in the Miami area, and more recently, was a school nurse under the supervision of the school's student counselor, Dr. Mariela Matamala, who became a caring friend as his health deteriorated.

He received his nurses training in Miami. Prior to nursing, he was a supervisor for National Airlines and Pan American Airlines, and earned his twin engine pilots license during these years.

He spent many hours assisting in the updating of the Enlow family history from the original publication of his first cousin three times removed, E. E. Enlow, benefactor of the Ruth Enlow Libraries of Garrett County.

He was preceded in death by his mother in 1999, his father in 2002, and most recently by his wife, Myriam, last year.

He is survived by, one brother, Jeffrey Fowler, and one sister, Audrey Fowler, both of Baltimore; many nieces, nephews, and longtime friends and fellow church members at the South West Community Church in the Kendell, Fla., area that he thought so highly of, especially Joan Fowler, who was always available to assist him as needed. He especially enjoyed the sermons of retired Pastor Chip Birch.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be given in his name to either the American Cancer Society, American Lung Association, American Diabetes Association, or the SPCA.

Funeral arrangements were handled by McNabb Funeral Home, Catonsville.

A memorial service was held at the cemetery. The Rev. Sue Dheedene officiated at a graveside service. An honor guard was provided by members of the Maryland National Guard.

His remains were cremated, and he was interred with his wife's cremains at the Baltimore National Cemetery, Catonsville.

WILLIAM K. UMBEL

William K. "Bill" Umbel Jr., 94, died on Friday, Sept. 23, 2016, in Marquis House, Uniontown, Pa.

He was born on Oct. 30, 1921, in Markleysburg, Pa., a son of the late William K. Umbel Sr. and Ada (Rush) Umbel.

He attended a one-room schoolhouse in Markleysburg. Later, he graduated from Uniontown High School with the class of 1939. He then graduated with a master's degree in education from West Virginia University.

He was a lifetime member of the Markleysburg Union Church, where over the years he held every office in the Sunday School and church.

He married his first wife, Florence Beerbower, in 1946. They owned and operated a farm along Friendsville Road in Markleysburg, Pa., for 58 years. During that time, he also taught math at Northern High School, Accident. He was also a Nationwide Insurance Agent. He was a charter member of Markleysburg Henry Clay Volunteer Fire Department.

He married his second wife, Clarissa D. Sessler, on March 7, 2006, and she died on Nov. 26, 2014.

In addition to his parents and wives, he was preceded in death by nine brothers and sisters.

Surviving are two children, Ernest Umbel, Friendsville, and Kathy Deal, Addison, Pa.; four grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Crawford Funeral Home, Farmington, Pa.

A service was held on Tuesday, Sept. 27, at Markleysburg Union Church, with Rev. Michael Grantz and Rev. John DeVincent officiating.

Interment was in Thomas Cemetery, Markleysburg.

EVELYN J. HEISE

Evelyn Juanita Lambert Heise died on Sunday, Sept. 25, 2016, at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, where she had been a resident for approximately four years after a fall that fractured her hip, complicated by loss of memory and speech impairment.

Evelyn was the eldest child of the late Wilma Rae Bell Lambert and Joseph George Lambert, born on Jan. 19, 1928, in Terra Alta, W.Va.

Both her brothers, Franklin and Clifford, preceded her in passing, and her youngest sister, Gladys Lambert Shaffer, lives in Corinth, W.Va.

Also surviving are her two sons, Martin Helmuth Heise, who continues to live at her home at Will O' the Wisp on Deep Creek Lake; and Gary Lambert Heise, a resident of North Wales, Pa.

She is also survived by her grandchildren, Leah Heise Johnson and Devon Heise, daughters of son Gary and wife Laraine; and recently arrived great-grandchild Jacob Johnson.

Evelyn considered Jennifer McDonnell Beard, the daughter of Martin's wife, Brenda McDonnell, to be her grandchild also, surviving her with husband Jedidiah and their two daughters, great-grandchildren Eve and Ruth, who all live in Swanton.

She is also survived by numerous nieces and nephews, begotten of her sister and brothers, and their children; and by Larry Smith, the child of her husband's sister, Doris Heise Smith and the late Carroll Smith, and his family.

One year after graduating from Terra Alta High School in 1946, Evelyn married the late Helmuth Martin Gustav "Ace" Heise. Together they bought Will O' the Wisp on Deep Creek Lake from Helmuth's parents, returning from Philadelphia where they lived while Helmuth attended Temple University.

Evelyn and Helmuth worked together to expand and improve Will O' the Wisp, along with developing Wisp Resort. Their efforts are considered pivotal in nurturing tourism as a bona fide year-round industry in Garrett County.

Evelyn was active in the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and its predecessor, the Promotion Council. She and Helmuth were the first recipients of the Helmuth and Evelyn Heise Award for Entrepreneurial Spirit given annually thereafter by the Chamber, and she was an Autumn Glory Honorary Golden Ambassador.

Recently, Evelyn was inducted into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame. This award fosters a wider appreciation of the significant achievements of women in all endeavors, and confirmed the convictions of Evelyn's husband, family, many co-workers, friends, and colleagues that she did, indeed, accomplish many positive things and enrich their lives.

Evelyn retired from business shortly before her husband Helmuth's death in 2009. She spent her last active years enjoying her family, which continually grew larger.

Friends will be received at Newman Funeral Home, Oakland, on Saturday, Oct. 1, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Evelyn's funeral service will be held on Sunday, Oct. 2, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, 6 S. Second St., Oakland, of which she was a member, at 2 p.m., with Rev. Dr. Scott C. Robinson officiating. Friends may call 1 hour prior to her services.

A reception will be held at Will O' the Wisp following interment in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

For those who might wish to honor Evelyn with a charitable donation in lieu of flowers, contributions to the House of Hope, to St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, or to any worthy charity are respectfully suggested.

COLLABORATIVE TEAM PLANS WORKSHOP – A collaborative effort between the Garrett County Board of Realtors®, the town of Oakland, Greater Oakland Business Association, On Track Oakland, and Oakland BASE (Building A Strong Economy) will culminate in a public economic revitalization workshop, scheduled for Nov. 2–4 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. See story for details. Pictured are members of the event's planning team. From left are Fred Gregg, GOBA president; Michelle Ross, Oakland Main Street manager; Sandi Flockhart, GCBR public relations committee; Amy Zimmerman, GCBR president; Barb Butler, GCBR executive officer; and Bob Carney, GCBR vice president.

Oakland Economic Revitalization Workshop Scheduled Nov. 2–4

A collaborative effort between the Garrett County Board of Realtors®, the town of Oakland, Greater Oakland Business Association, On Track Oakland, and Oakland BASE (Building A Strong Economy) will culminate in a public economic revitalization workshop scheduled for Nov. 2–4.

The workshop will be conducted by the American Institute of Architects (AIA), who will bring a team of revitalization experts to Oakland to work with the community on ways it can reenergize its downtown core.

"AIA has successfully worked with many towns across the country to develop ideas and strategies that produce results when utilized for community revitalization," said an event spokesperson. "All of the sessions are open to the public and everyone is encouraged to participate and lend their voices to the discussion about ways that Oakland can revitalize its local economy."

The first public meeting will be held at 6 p.m. on Wednesday Nov. 2, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church. After receiving input from the public, the AIA team will meet on Thursday, Nov 3, with town officials and various stakeholder groups, culminating in a second public meeting on Friday, Nov 4, at 6 p.m. at St. Paul's.

The workshop is being made possible through a grant from the National Association of Realtors Main Street grant program.

The AIA Sustainable Design Assistance Team (SDAT) program is a community assistance program that focuses on the principles of sustainability. SDATs bring teams of volunteer professionals (such as architects, urban designers, landscape architects, planners, hydrologists, economists, attorneys, and others) to work with community decision-makers and stakeholders to help them develop a vision and framework for a sustainable future.

The SDAT program is based on the AIA's goal of helping communities create a sustainable relationship between humans, the natural environment, and place. By achieving balance between cultural, environmental, and economic systems, communities can sustain a place as a stage for human settlement, according to program officials.

Further information about the workshop can be obtained by contacting any of the planning committee members, or Paul Durham, GC Board of Realtors, at 301-334-8405.

PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971

Trustees Name Three Finalists In Search For New President

The Garrett College board of trustees has announced the names of three finalists who have been selected to fill the vacancy of college president

"We were able to recruit a rich pool of candidates from throughout the state, region, and nation," said Duane Yoder, chair of the presidential search committee and member of the Garrett College board of trustees. "Thank you to everyone who has contributed to the many accomplishments at Garrett College. These efforts have been instrumental in attracting very high-quality candidates."

The finalists for the president's position are as follows, listed in alphabetical order:

Lorrie Clemo, Ph.D., is the provost and vice president for academic affairs at the State University of New York (SUNY) Oswego, where previously she was the chief of staff and deputy to the president. She holds a bachelor of science degree from Le Moyne College, N.Y., a master of arts in political science from Binghamton University, N.Y., and a doctor of philosophy in political science and policy analysis from Binghamton University, N.Y.

Melissa Denardo, Ed.D, is the former provost/vice president of learning and student success at the Community College of Beaver County, Pa. She previously served as the assistant campus dean at Kent State University – Salem Campus in Ohio. She earned a bachelor of science degree in business education and a master's of education in business from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Pa., and a doctor of education in educational administration and policy studies/higher education administration from the University of Pittsburgh.

Richard Midcap, Ed.D, is the chief student affairs officer at Chesapeake College in Maryland, where he was previously the interim vice president for academic affairs. He holds a bachelor of science degree in secondary education and history from Salisbury University, a master of arts degree in history from Washington College, and a doctor of education in innovation and leadership from Wilmington University, Del.

Campus interviews for the three presidential finalists are scheduled for the week of Oct. 16 – 21. Each finalist will participate in forums and discussions with Garrett College board of trustees members, GC Foundation board members, faculty, staff, and members of local government and school organizations. In addition, open forums have been scheduled for the general public to meet each of the candidates, according to the following schedule:

Richard Midcap – Sunday, Oct. 16;

Lorrie Clemo – Tuesday, Oct. 18; and Melissa Denardo – Thursday, Oct. 20.

All three meetings will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Room 205 of the Continuing Education Building on the McHenry campus.

"I would like to thank the presidential search committee for their dedication, commitment, and hard work on behalf of Garrett College," stated Vianne Bell, chair of the Garrett College board of trustees. "We are looking forward to a successful completion of the presidential search process."

Persons with questions related to the forum schedule above are invited to contact Marcia Knepp, executive assistant to the president, Garrett College, at marcia.knepp@garrettcollege.edu or by calling the president's office at 301-387-3056.

College Expo Is Set For Oct. 10

The Garrett County College Expo, sponsored by Garrett County Public Schools and Garrett College, will be held on Monday, Oct. 10, at the Garrett College Community Aquatic and Recreation Complex (CARC) gymnasium on the McHenry campus. Attendees will have the opportunity to visit with college representatives from 6:30 until 8 p.m.

"Our annual College Expo provides a great opportunity for students and parents to learn about financial aid and to speak with a number of representatives from technical institutions and colleges, all provided locally in one evening," stated Dr. Phil Lauver, supervisor of pupil services for Garrett County Public Schools.

The event is free and open to the public, and students of all ages are encouraged to attend. Home-school and private-school students are also welcome.

The program will begin at 6 p.m. with a financial aid presentation, which will also be held in the CARC gymnasium. Financial aid representatives from Garrett College will be on hand to answer questions about federal, state, and local scholarships and aid programs, including the Garrett County Scholarship Program. A scholarship booklet with information on nearly 100 other scholarship opportunities will be available, courtesy of Garrett County Public Schools.

"The expo provides a great opportunity for students and parents to explore the many options for furthering education in the region," said a GC spokesperson.

To date, representatives from more than 30 colleges and universities from Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia have registered to attend the expo. The event usually attracts reps from approximately 40 institutions who will share information on a wide variety of programs of study, student support, athletic opportunities, and financial assistance.

"The College Expo provides a great opportunity for students and parents to be able to speak one-on-one with college representatives to get their questions answered," said Melissa Wass, GC's coordinator of admissions. "This is not only important for high school seniors and juniors, but also for freshman and sophomores, who may already be starting the process of gathering information and thinking about programs of study and/or institutions they are interested in attending once they graduate high school."

Students who attend the expo will be eligible to register for scholarship prizes. One senior from Northern Garrett High School and one from Southern Garrett High School will be selected to receive a $500 scholarship, which can be used at any college or university. Second-place winners from each school will be awarded a $250 scholarship. The Garrett College Foundation will also award two book scholarships.

The Garrett College CARC gymnasium is located along Mosser Road, just beyond the college's main campus in McHenry. For additional information about the expo, persons may contact the Garrett College Office of Admissions at 301-387-3044 or toll-free 866-554-2773, and/or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu.

ROTARIANS MAKE DONATION – The Grantsville Rotary Club recently made a donation to the Wayne G. Kelley Scholarship fund held by the Garrett College Foundation. The purpose of the fund is to provide support through a merit scholarship for Garrett College students who reside in Garrett County or Somerset County, Pa., and who are enrolled as engineering majors. Making the presentation to Cherie Krug, executive director of the Garrett College Foundation, left, was Linda Buckel, president of the Grantsville Rotary Club. The presentation was made at the club's recent annual picnic in Grantsville. For more information on the Garrett College Foundation, persons are invited to contact the foundation office at 301-387-3100.

GC Foundation Awards Scholarships

The Garrett College Foundation annually presents scholarships to Garrett College students. Following are the names of some of the scholarship recipients for the 2016-2017 academic year.

GRANDPARENTS TREATED TO LUNCH – Kitzmiller Head Start held its annual Grandparents Day luncheon on Sept. 12. Thirty grandparents were served spaghetti, salads, and desserts. "The Kitzmiller Head Start teachers have enjoyed hosting this event for several years as a way of starting out the new school year by getting families involved with each other and the Head Start," said a spokesperson. "Mr. Mark and Ms Cookie welcome the parent and grandparent volunteers to help in the classroom and with activities and field trips throughout the school year." The class is currently collecting soda can tabs and ink cartridges for Ronald McDonald House Charities. Every year more than 1,200 families, including some in Garrett County, stay at the Ronald McDonald House in Morgantown, W.Va., while their children are receiving life-saving medical care at West Virginia University Hospitals. Last year, Kitzmiller Head Start donated more than 30 gallons of tabs to the Ronald McDonald House. Pictured below, from left with the tabs are Peyton Tichinel, Mariah Wade, Ryleigh Sines, and Harper Upton. In the back are Gunner Armstrong, Levi Sharpless, Amelia Sweitzer, and Gabi Jackson. Garrett County Community Action is currently accepting applications for 3- and 4-year-old children for the Kitzmiller Head Start program. Parents are invited to contact Judy Fike, family development coordinator, at 301-334-9431, ext. 6129, to enroll their children or obtain more information. Kitzmiller Head Start can be contacted at 301-453-3595.

Weather Trivia

How was the ozone hole discovered?

Answer: The Nimbus 7 polar orbiting satellite first discovered the hole.

Weather History

Sept. 30, 1970 - A nineteen-month drought in Southern California came to a climax. The drought, which made brush and buildings tinder dry, set up the worst fire conditions in state history as hot Santa Ana winds sent the temperature to 105 degrees at Los Angeles.

Oct. 1, 1989 - Thunderstorms produced severe weather in the southeastern United States through the day and evening hours. Severe thunderstorms spawned 11 tornadoes, seven of which were in Georgia. A tornado near Moultrie, Ga. killed two people and injured 12 others.

Detailed Local Forecast

Today we will see mostly cloudy skies with a 60% chance of showers, high temperature of 64°, humidity of 74%. The record high temperature for today is 90° set in 1953. Expect mostly cloudy skies tonight with a 40% chance of showers, overnight low of 48°. The record low for tonight is 27° set in 1951. Saturday, skies will be partly cloudy with a high temperature of 68°, humidity of 57%. Skies will be mostly cloudy Saturday night with an overnight low of 50°. Expect mostly sunny skies Sunday with a high temperature of 68°.

Partnership To Protect Savage River Formed

The Potomac Riverkeeper Network has announced a partnership-based effort to preserve the pristine nature of the Savage River and its watershed.

For over a year, the nonprofit organization with three regional branches has been working with the Mid-Atlantic Council Trout Unlimited and the Savage River Watershed Association. According to a spokesperson for the network, the focus of this effort has been to explore options and strategies for protecting the waters – and the way of life – that characterize the picturesque, wild, and winding Savage River in Garrett County.

To move forward with this effort, a community organization called the Savage River Wild & Scenic Work Group was recently formed.

"Our goal is to develop a holistic management plan for the Savage River watershed that will preserve the natural wild beauty and maintain the pristine water quality for future generations," said Brent Walls of Upper Potomac Riverkeeper, a branch of the Potomac Riverkeeper Network. "We have spent many months researching ways to coordinate and align all those with a stake in protecting the river, and felt that the Partnership Wild and Scenic Rivers Program was a good fit because of the community-based approach."

The Partnership Wild & Scenic Program, which is coordinated by the National Park Service, is based on a locally responsive, cooperative, and collaborative process that reflects the specific characteristics of the river and surrounding communities, Walls explained, adding that the program is also paced slowly to allow time for careful consideration of all views and interests – and typically takes three to four years to complete.

In keeping with the slow pace of the program, Walls said that the first steps are modest, and involve sharing information with the community and making a request to have a study done on the Savage River to determine if it is eligible and suitable for consideration as a National Wild and Scenic River.

"We really want to take our time in this process and are working to share information with key stakeholders and collect community input and feedback," said Tom Wolfe, vice-president of the Savage River Watershed Association. "To help do this, we just mailed an information packet and short survey to all landowners who live right on or near the Savage River or Reservoir."

The workgroup is also planning to hold a public meeting by mid-November to talk about a Wild & Scenic Partnership opportunity and share the results of the property owner survey. In addition, the group recently launched its first website. More information on the Savage River, the Wild and Scenic opportunity, and a link to the survey can be found at: www.thesavageriver.org.

The Upper Potomac Riverkeeper branch is responsible for protecting the Potomac River and all its feeder streams in the region from the confluence of the Potomac and Shenandoah River all the way upstream to Fairfax Stone.

"Our mission is to protect the public's right to clean water in our rivers and streams," said Walls. "We stop pollution to promote safe drinking water, protect healthy habitats, and enhance public use and enjoyment."

Red Run Church Sets Fall Harvest Dinner Oct. 15

The Red Run Church, Grantsville, will host a Fall Harvest Turkey Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 15, from noon to 3 p.m. Donations are not mandatory, but will be accepted to raise money for the utilities and general maintenance of the church.

Meals will be served "to go," and will include turkey, stuffing, dressing, mashed potatoes, and coleslaw.

Dinners will be given away until all the food is gone.

"Everyone and anyone is welcome," a church spokesperson said. "Please come visit and take a meal to a friend."

The church is located at 670 Meyersdale Road.

Accident Church Sets Yard/Bake Sale Fundraiser

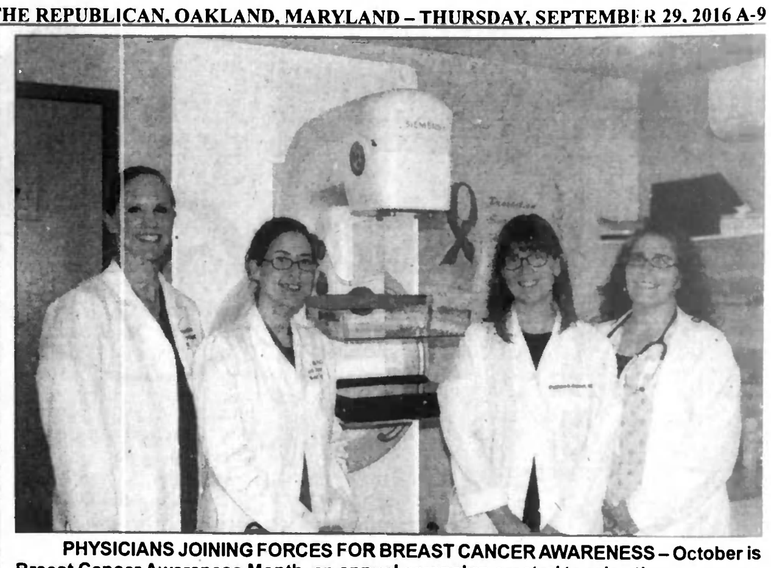
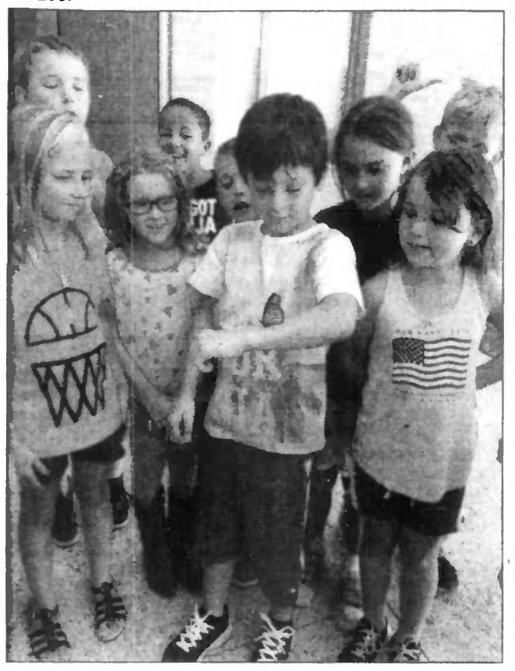
SEVERAL MONARCH BUTTERFLIES were recently raised and released by Friendsville Elementary School second and third graders. The students were able to observe the stages from caterpillar to chrysalis to butterfly. The students noted their appreciation to Jamie Fike and Pebbles Perez for giving them the caterpillars. Pictured above are members of the second grade class. Pictured below in the front row, from left, are Madeline Clevenger, Madi King, Chase Fike, and Ella Sines. In the back are Christopher Suter, Lorenzo McCarlin, Barclay Smith, Erica Mager, and Alex Cosner. At right are Alana Baker, Kendall Huber, Laila Shaffer, and Carley Frazee.



PHYSICIANS JOINING FORCES FOR BREAST CANCER AWARENESS – October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, an annual campaign created to raise the awareness of breast cancer risks. Some of the women in medicine at Garrett Regional Medical Center are joining forces in support of Breast Cancer Awareness and empowering women to be proactive about their health. Physicians Abigail Feathers, MD, Marjorie Fridkin, MD, Patricia Gotsch, MD, and Rebecca Crowell, DO, are pictured (from left) at the 3D mammography unit at the Oakland MRI Center. These physicians all agreed on the importance of screenings and early detection. "This October, we are proud to participate in National Breast Cancer Month," said Dr. Fridkin. "Breast cancer is the second most common kind of cancer in women. About 1 in 8 women born today in the United States will get breast cancer at some point. The good news is that many women can survive breast cancer if it's found and treated early." See a related story in today's issue about the opportunities for screening available to local women.



FRIENDSVILLE STUDENTS SOAR – Friendsville Elementary School has implemented a behavior incentive program called SOAR (Safety, Organization, Achievement, and Respect/Responsibility). When a student exhibits one of these character traits, he or she is rewarded a SOAR coupon. Students can then visit the SOAR store and spend their coupons. Pictured are the second grade students of Judy Livengood's class unloading all of the goodies for the SOAR store. In the front row, from left, are Emilee Bowman, Lorenzo McMarlin, Ella Sines, Kylie Taylor, Madeline Clevenger, Ainsley McHenry-Sorber, Jordyn Beiler, Christopher Suter, and Jeremiah Decker. In the back are Deggan Sharp, Rachel Dawson, Chase Fike, Aneaus Guthrie, and Erica Mager.

On a Personal Note
by Lucretia Sines

This has been a month of many emotions, and as I sit looking through the pictures on my phone of just this past summer, I find I am very blessed to have had the great times that I have had with my hubby. Thanks to all the prayers being answered on Kenny's behalf, we will have many more good times together. We have been very blessed by all the friends and family members who have helped us through this past month, and we are very grateful for each and every one of you. This past Saturday, seeing all the people who showed up for the spaghetti dinner was quite an emotional time for Kenny.

We would like to thank everyone for their support, and we would like to thank everyone who helped in any way to make the benefit a great success. You are all special people, and we want you realize what it means to us to have each one of you in our lives. Far more important than the money that was raised was the compassion expressed by so many. This healing process has been made easier just knowing that you care. Thank you to all and God bless.

4-H Club News

BEAR CREEK
by Rachel Bowser, reporter

The Bear Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on Sept. 18 at the Accident fire hall. A total of 11 club members were present.

The meeting was called to order by club president Adam Diehl. The secretary's report was read by Emma Carr, and Brooklyn Tasker gave the treasurer's report. Old and new business were discussed.

Some upcoming events include the Autumn Glory Parade, which will be held on Saturday, Oct. 15, and the beef weigh-in on Saturday, Nov. 5, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Diehl family provided the snack after the meeting.

The next meeting of the Bear Creek Club will be held at the Accident Fire Hall on Sunday, Oct. 16, at 6:30 p.m.

Efforts Ramp Up In Maryland To Bring Back Vanishing State Insect

by Hannah Lang
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – When Wayne Skinner started volunteering at Cromwell Valley Park in Baltimore County five years ago, he expected to see orange-and-black-spotted Baltimore checkerspot butterflies flying around the park.

"I really thought that they were here, they were just looking for places to call home, and then I found out they're probably not here," he said.

The Baltimore checkerspot butterfly – Maryland's state insect – hasn't just disappeared from Cromwell Valley Park.

When the butterfly was named the state insect in 1973, it could be found in most parts of Maryland. Now, only about 11 colonies of this butterfly are known in the state – in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Carroll, Baltimore and Montgomery counties – according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

"There are some sites that historically had Baltimore checkerspots that are just not there anymore," said Jennifer Selfridge, invertebrate ecologist at the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. "They're parking lots or shopping malls or they've just grown in."

The butterfly feeds on the white turtlehead plant, which thrives in wetlands and northern or mountainous regions, said Selfridge.

"If you lose the host plant, you lose the butterfly," she said. "That all happens when you lose the habitat."

The butterfly population might also be dwindling because of climate change, Selfridge said. While the Baltimore checkerspot is rare in Maryland, it does "really well" in places with cooler climates, like Canada, she explained.

Selfridge started the Baltimore Checkerspot Recovery Team in 2012 to consolidate statewide efforts to reintroduce the butterfly and improve existing habitats. The team's 18 member organizations – most in Maryland, but some from out-of-state – work to establish butterfly colonies, remove invasive species from wetlands and care for existing white turtlehead plants.

At Cromwell Valley Park – a member of the recovery team – volunteers have planted four white turtlehead enclosures with high fences to protect the plants from deer. Skinner regularly drags gallons of water to these patches in an attempt to replicate the wetlands the plants are accustomed to.

However, the state of Maryland owns the park and leases the property to Baltimore County, which is engaged in a reforestation project in the park. The county has taken over 28 acres and is planning to plant trees in the area, said Skinner.

"A lot of wildlife depends on fields, whether that be butterflies or birds or groundhogs, and we're concerned now that they're just not making a real smart decision," he said. "Here I am putting this in, but are they going to take it out and put trees in it? They're trying to do one thing but they're hurting something else, and I just don't like the idea."

Don Outen, the natural resources manager for Baltimore County, said he didn't think the reforestation project was "a major issue at all."

"They have a lot of land, you know, the park was acquired over the years through different funding sources and the interest is in contributing to the restoration of the county's canopy goal," he said.

The vanEngelsdorp Bee Lab at the University of Maryland in College Park hopes to eventually provide Baltimore checkerspot larvae to other members of the recovery team, said Dennis vanEngelsdorp, the project director for the Bee Informed Partnership.

"We want to do this really well so that we don't just have this project for the sake of it, but really do establish a habitat that's going to maintain a population," he said.

The lab was able to purchase white turtlehead plants and fences thanks to grants and a campaign in 2015 that raised more than $5,000 for the effort, and has planted more than 2,000 plants on campus, but they won't be ready to host the butterfly for another two or three years.

"Doing things in very sequential, logical ways is frustrating because it's slow, but it's responsible because that's the way we're sure that what we're going to do is going to be sustainable in the long term," he said.

In the next year, Selfridge will examine population distributions of the butterfly and ensure the existing colonies in the state are stable, she said.

"Our immediate goals are just kind of to figure out where they are on the landscape and to evaluate the habitat, and that means doing some minor habitat enhancement, so we might plant plants, or do invasive species removal," she said.

The long-term goal is to create self-sustaining butterfly populations that don't require constant habitat enhancement efforts, she said.

"[The butterfly] is rare and it is declining, but it's not so far gone that it requires a ton of work," Selfridge said. "Some species are just so rare, you're lucky if you have maybe one or two populations and generations."

Health Officer Says All Local Women Have Access To Breast Cancer Screening

This year approximately 4,880 Maryland women will be diagnosed with breast cancer and 820 will die from the disease, making breast cancer the second most frequently diagnosed cancer in women, according to the Garrett County Health Department.

"One of the best tools available to reduce breast cancer deaths is the screening mammogram. But only 56.1% of Maryland women report having a clinical breast exam and mammogram within the past year. We can do better," said Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty.

The public is invited to attend the signing of a proclamation by the Garrett County commissioners on Monday, Oct. 3, at 4 p.m. at the Garrett County Courthouse designating October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month in Garrett County.

The Maryland Breast and Cervical Cancer Program (BCCP) in Garrett County can help eligible women get recommended breast cancer screenings.

"Every woman is at risk for breast cancer even if she has no family history or other risk factors for the disease. Women who are 40 years and older need to get screened," said Caroline Evans, RN, local BCCP coordinator. Local women can use screening services available to them with or without health insurance coverage.

"There is no reason to go without a screening test," Evans said. "Women need to make time for themselves and make screening appointments. And we can help."

In Garrett County, BCCP provides screening tests at no cost to eligible women without health insurance. For eligible women with and without health insurance, the program may be able to help with the following:

- schedule their breast cancer screening appointments;
- find transportation to appointments;
- understand test results; and
- arrange any follow-up that may be recommended by a health care provider.

The BCCP is encouraging all residents to "Paint the Town Pink" by decorating front doors or windows in pink to show support of Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

For more information about available breast cancer screening services, persons may call 301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111.

Southern Class Of 1991 To Have 25th Reunion

Hummel Receives CGMA Awards

Loretta Hummel, Grantsville, received three silver heart awards during the 2016 Country Gospel Music Association (CGMA) Eastern Division Convention, held Aug 15 to 20 in Etowah, Tenn. The awards were Bluegrass Artist of the Year for "What A Day," which is on her next album, Fresh Water, to be recorded in Nashville; Lyricist for "The Heavenly Gates," and Yodeler for "My Shy Friend."

The words and music of these songs were written and composed by Hummel. Ballots were cast throughout the week-long event by the members in attendance.

As an award recipient, Hummel is automatically entered in the international awards process, with awards being given at the international CGMA Convention in Branson, Mo., at the beginning of October.

"It's a privilege to receive these awards," Hummel said. "The votes come from talented, spiritual musicians from across the eastern United States."

According to Billy Hale, president of the CGMA, the association was established to assist musical artists in gaining recognition from the general public and their ministry-oriented peers.

"For this cause, we formed the Silver and Golden Heart Awards so that they could endorse and recommend one another."

The convention consisted of morning worship and prayer and afternoon workshops. There were performances each night by the members of CGMA.

For more information about the CGMA, persons may visit www.country-gospelmusic.com.

Painter Byrd To Be Guest Artist At Spruce Forest

Artist Mary Bode Byrd will again be a guest artist at the Spruce Forest Artisan Village this year, on the campus of Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, Grantsville. Byrd will be in the red building (a prior blacksmith's shop built in 1835) throughout the month of October every day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Her collection titled County Fair Winners will be on exhibit throughout her time at the village. The idea for these paintings was conceived while driving through Garrett and Alleghany counties, she said.

"The garden produce paintings are to celebrate county fairs and victory gardens," she said. "Each painting has the winning garden item on a pedestal, celebrating winning in its category at the county fair."

Several of her paintings are named after family gardeners and their garden specialty, she said.

The paintings are acrylic mixed media with a pieces of a grocery produce bag and hand-altered papers incorporated in each work.

Byrd earned a graphic design degree from Michigan State University. She is a former artist with Hallmark Cards of Kansas City, Mo., and the former owner for 25 years of Mary Byrd Productions Inc. in Washington, D.C.

She paints weekly in one of her studios, either in Delaware or at Deep Creek Lake. She can be contacted via email at mary@marybyrd-productions.com.

Northern, Southern Marching Bands Now Engaged In Competitive Season

The marching bands of Northern and Southern high schools are now engaged in the fall competitive marching season, both having competed in two field show contests so far and faring well in their respective divisions.

The Northern band is under the direction of Duane Salisbury, and Southern is led by Joshua Elmlinger. The bands traditionally compete in a field show competition each Saturday in the fall, having held their band camps in August.

The bands both competed on Sept. 17 at Keyser High School, and on Sept. 24 at Preston High School. This Saturday, Southern will travel to Baldwin High School in Pennsylvania to compete, and Northern will be at Allegany High School in Cumberland.

Northern's band is once again in Chapter 13's Class 1-A division, and Southern is in the 1-Open division.

This year's show titles are Contraption for SHS, and It's All About Love for NHS.

The Northern Garrett show features the music of Jon Bon Jovi; Earth, Wind and Fire; Aerosmith; and Journey.

The songs played on the field are You Give Love A Bad Name, After the Love is Gone, Dream On, and Don't Stop Believin'.

Salisbury heads up the staff, which includes assistant director Baylee Canan; woodwind instructor Richard Clever; and color guard instructors Trisha Knox and Susan Bennett. Student leaders are drum major Robert Bittinger, assisted by Sally Bittinger and Olivia Bonitz. The soloists for this year's show are Madison Dolchan, Brian Tiemersma, Taylor Wertz, Robert Bittinger, Amariah Morris, Evan Beachy, and Olivia Bonitz.

This year's NHS band has 25 students, nine of which are7th and 8th grade students, Salisbury noted.

"Because of the declining number of high school students who are willing to try the marching band activity, we have incorporated several willing middle school students," Salisbury said. "The willingness to work, to grow, and to learn that they have shown has been remarkable. They are fully invested in this band program and should be a very positive example to their peers. We would not be capable of performing this year without them."

The field show music for Southern Garrett was again composed by Elmlinger. He described the show's theme as follows:

"An inventor has spent years working on her machine, watching it spring from a simple idea on paper into real life," Elmlinger explained. "She selected and measured each piece, making sure the parts belong together. Every circuit has been tested, all the keys are functional. The internal rhythm of the machine ticks like clockwork. Now the components will come to life. Under the expert command of the inventor, the gears and circuitry work in perfect harmony. The contraption is ready. It's time to plug it in."

The titles of this year's songs are Powering Up, Malfunction, and Full Steam.

The band is led on the field by drum major Stephanie Beeman.

Elmlinger's staff members are David Wall, music; Cristy Gank, color guard instructor and choreographer; Christie Elmlinger, artistic designer/costumes; Richard Clever, woodwinds; and Brent Furr and Kelsey Bosley, percussion staff.

The drill design this year was done by Dave Campbell, and the set pieces were made by Eric Robison and Mark Metz.

The 2016 design team seniors are Aaron Friend, BreAnn Robison, Olivia Shaffer, Stephanie Beeman, Brent Bemiller, and Dave Stephens.

Elmlinger reported that the band took first place in 1-Open class at Keyser with a score of 70.02, and first at Preston with an improved score of 73.25.

"The band has a lot of hurdles to overcome this year," the director said. "The show is difficult and the band is young. We've been working really hard on this show since May. There's still a lot of hard work to do!"

In the 1-A Class, NHS also fared well at its shows. In Keyser the band competed against Pocahontas County High School from West Virginia. Northern took 1st place with a score of 76.39 to Pocahontas County's score of 76.04. Northern also earned 3 of the 4 caption area with the Best Music; Best Color Guard Auxiliary; and Best Percussion Awards. Pocahontas County received the Best Marching Award.

At Preston, NHS took second with a score of 77.8, with Gilmer County taking first with 79.27. Third went to Pocohontas County with a score of 76.355.

"Northern Garrett's performance was overall better than the previous week, which shows progress," Salisbury said. "It is something we always want to do, to keep moving forward. Unfortunately, due to some injuries and absence because of illness, we came up a little short of our goal this week. But I am very proud of how hard the band and guard worked. We have made tremendous progress this year, and will most certainly continue to do so."

Auditions For The Nerd Slated At Our Town Theatre

Our Town Theatre will hold auditions for Larry Shue's play The Nerd this Sunday, Oct. 2, from 3 to 6 p.m. and on Monday, Oct. 3, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the basement of the theatre. This play will be directed by Richard Hill.

The story of the play is as follows:

"Now an aspiring young architect in Terre Haute, Ind., Willum Cubbert has often told his friends about the debt he owes to Rick Steadman, a fellow ex-GI whom he has never met but who saved his life after he was seriously wounded in Vietnam. He has written to Rick to say that, as long as he is alive, 'you will have somebody on Earth who will do anything for you.' So Willum is delighted when Rick shows up unexpectedly at his apartment on the night of his 34th birthday party.

"But his delight soon fades as it becomes apparent that Rick is a hopeless nerd, with no social sense, little intelligence, and less tact. And Rick stays on and on, his continued presence among Willum and his friends leading to one uproarious incident after another."

Persons who are interested in obtaining more information may email the theatre at ourtowntheatre@gmail.com, or visit www.ourtowntheatre.org.

Ag Hall Of Fame, Top Young Farmer Prospects Sought

To honor the leaders of Maryland's thriving agricultural community, the Maryland Department of Agriculture is accepting nominations of farmers and farm families for the Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame and the Outstanding Young Farmers Award. Both honors pay tribute to those who have dedicated their lives to one of the state's leading industry. Any farm family or young farmer who derives income principally from farming is eligible for the awards.

Nominations for both awards, which are due by Oct. 11, will be reviewed by the Governor's Selection Committee. The selection committee includes the dean of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, and members of the agricultural community.

The Hall of Fame induction ceremony will be held during the Maryland Agricultural Dinner in February 2017. For more information, persons are invited to contact the department at 410-841-5770 or contact a local Extension office.

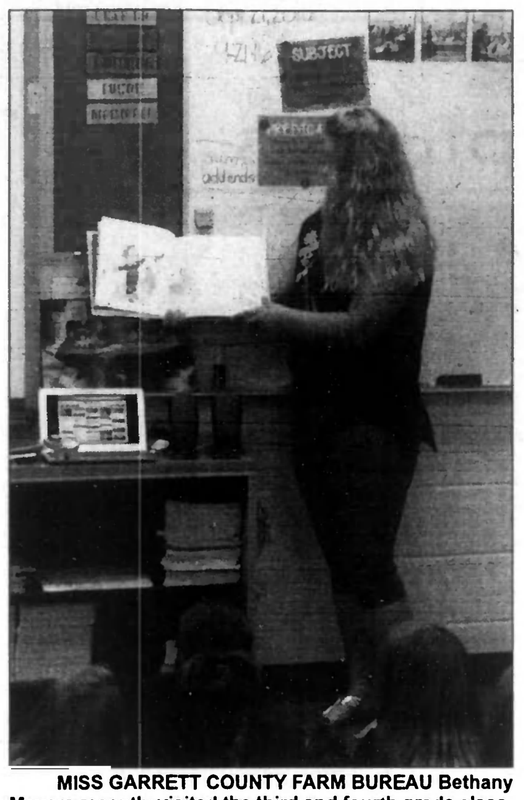
Since 1991, when the Ag Hall of Fame was established, 47 farm families have been honored for their high standards of conduct; personal values; contributions to their community; and performance, leadership, innovation, and achievement in agriculture. Nomination forms are available on the department's website or at local Extension offices, which serve as local nominating committee coordinators.

Each local nominating committee, which consists of the county Extension educator, county farm bureau president, county fair representative, and county soil conservation district chairman, reviews a pool of candidates from its county and forwards a selection to the Governor's Selection Committee. (Note: Applicants must work with their county Extension office in preparing the application. Only one nomination per county is permitted.)

To honor the "up-and-coming leaders" of Maryland's agricultural community, the Maryland Department of Agriculture is accepting nominations of young farmers for the Maryland Outstanding Young Farmer Award. The award pays tribute to a deserving young farmer who has demonstrated an exceptional commitment to agriculture in Maryland, progress in his/her agricultural career, use of resource conservation practices, and contributions to his/her community.

Farmers between the ages of 21 and 45 years old who derive at least 50 percent of their income from farming are eligible for the award. Nominations may be submitted by anyone, including the nominee. Awards will be determined based on personal contributions in the following categories: progress in agricultural career; use of resource conservation practices; and contributions to agriculture and community organizations.

Both applications can be downloaded at http://mda.maryland.gov/about_mda/Pages/young-farmers.aspx.



MISS GARRETT COUNTY FARM BUREAU Bethany Meyers recently visited the third and fourth grade classrooms at Friendsville Elementary School. She presented a lesson to the students about the importance of agriculture, then discussed and answered questions about how food is grown and raised in Garrett County.

Army-Navy Discount Store in Oakland.

The two had broken into the store, which was located where the Department of Social Services office is now, along Rt. 219, north of downtown Oakland. They stole a number of firearms from the store, according to reports. Prompted by the silent alarm, police officers responded, with one police officer going to the front of the store, and Livengood and his K-9 partner Sarge covering the rear. There the deputy found the two men. According to reports, Livengood was taking Tichnell into custody when gunfire erupted and the deputy was shot eight times, with fatal shots to the head and chest. He was left lying in the snow as the two men drove off in his police cruiser, leaving behind Tichnell's vehicle at the scene.

The convicts also stabbed the white German shepherd with a sword stolen fiom the store. Sarge was alive when others got to the scene, but died shortly after.

Rezek and Tichnell drove the cruiser to Deer Park, where they left the vehicle and entered the home of Clifford Friend's family. They tied up members of the family and stole money and a vehicle. They were apprehended later that day.

A number of Garrett County police officers, both retired and currently serving, attended the proceedings in Washington County Friday, as well as family members of Livengood and others affected by the events on that day in 1979. Carl Friend, one of the victims in the Friend home, was also present.

Edward Livengood, brother of David, addressed the judge before sentencing.

"I know he doesn't want to die in prison, and I know my brother didn't want to die in the street," he said. His brother was 31 when he was murdered, leaving behind a wife and two children.

Rezek expressed remorse at the trial.

"I was a punk and a hoodlum back in 1979," he said before sentencing. "I went out that night to steal guns ... and a good man died. I have spent the majority of my life in jail trying to change."

He then asked Livengood's family and Friend to try to forgive him, according to reports. Rezek said he and Tichnell were drinking and using drugs in West Virginia, when Tichnell suggested they go to the surplus store, which Tichnell had previously broken into, to steal firearms, according to case facts read in court by Thayer-Welch.

Felony murder is a killing committed during the course of another crime, in this case, the break-in. While Tichnell pulled the trigger in the killing, Rezek's presence at the scene implicated him in the murder. Tichnell was convicted and sentenced to death, which was later commuted to life in prison. He died in prison in 2006.

When released, Rezek will go to a transitional housing program in Baltimore. There is a possibility that he will request a transference of his probation to Sacramento, Calif., so he can live with a brother, Shefferman said.

Judge Long noted that Rezek earned an applied psychology degree and a master pressman certification while in prison, thereby making positive changes before knowing he might one day be freed from a life sentence.

However, Long warned Rezek there would be "zero tolerance" for probation violations, which could result in him returning to prison for life. Some of the probation conditions are that he is to be alcohol- and drug-free, have no contact with any victims, and never return to Garrett County.

Thayer-Welch said during the proceedings that Rezek has a robbery conviction in Pennsylvania from 1977. Shefferman told the judge that Rezek received a 6-to-12-year sentence in that case, which was imposed before he was sentenced for the Livengood murder. He contended that it is invalid because the sentence imposed was consecutive to any term he was then serving, and should already have expired.

AURORA/EGLON

Aurora School News

Representing Aurora School as junior princesses on the royalty court at the Buckwheat Festival this week are Savannah Hauser, daughter of Joe and Stephanie Hauser, Stemple Ridge, and Whitney Pomeroy, daughter of Kenny and Suenette Pomeroy, Eglon. Both are eighth graders.

Beginning in October and running through April, "Born Learning," "Parents as Powerful Partners," and "Little Learners" programs for preschool children and their families will be held at Aurora School once each month. Persons can call the school secretary, Cindy Stone, at 304-735-3781 to enroll. Questions can be addressed to Krista Hayes at the same number, or by email to kjhayes@k12.wv.us.

A Veterans Day celebration for area veterans is planned at the school on Nov. 10. Anyone who has a family member who is a veteran that he or she would like to see recognized can contact the Aurora School at 735-3781, or send a message on the Aurora School PTO and Community Facebook page before October 14.

Brookside Church Events

Brookside Church of the Brethren will sponsor a health program evening on Monday, Oct. 10, at 7 p.m. at the church. The topic will be heart health. The guest speaker is Kiara Thomas from Garrett Regional Medical Center, and her topic will be "Taking Care of Your Heart." There will be light refreshments following the program.

The Brookside Church of the Brethren Women's Fellowship will sponsor a free Community Soup and Salad Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 22, at the Aurora fire hall from 4 to 7 p.m. The event is free to everyone. Featured will be chili, potato soup, fresh salads, homemade breads, and desserts.

A revival will be held from Oct. 18 to 20 at the Brookside Church of the Brethren. The guest speaker will be Paige Dobson from Cranesville, and there will be special music each evening. Services will begin at 7 p.m., and everyone is welcome.

Aurora Project Barn Dance

The 13th annual Barn Dance sponsored by the Aurora Project at the Brookside Farm barn will be held this Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 6 p.m. It will feature Born Old and Aurora Celtic bands, as well as a live caller. There will be a silent auction, and refreshments will be provided. The cost is $15 per adult, with children under 10 admitted free of charge.

Celebrate 90th Birthdays

The children of Wilda and Dale Harsh will host a birthday party on Saturday, Oct. 8, at noon at the Aurora Memorial Building to celebrate the 90th birthdays of Wilda (Oct. 6), and Dale (Oct. 28). Family, friends, and neighbors are invited to join in. Cards will be appreciated, but the family request no gifts.

Personals

Leonard and Tammy Parsons hosted a family dinner on Sept. 18, to celebrate their son Daniel's 21st birthday. Also attending were Michael Parsons, Shirley and Steve Parsons, Gene and Bernadine Bachtel, Jack and Brenda Cassidy, and Scott, Teresa, and Stephanie Bittinger.

Texas Sing

It has been reported that there was a nice turnout on Sept. 25 at Bethel Texas Church for the All-Day Sing. Appreciation was expressed for everyone who came out to sing and those who came to listen. A spokesperson noted that the group looks forward to seeing everyone next year for the 94th annual sing.

TERRA ALTA

Terra Alta Public Library

Story Hour will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 10 a.m. for preschool children. Julie Adams will be the volunteer reader. The public is encouraged to attend.

Retired teacher/historian Alice Eary has donated yearbooks, class reunion booklets, and pages of information regarding Terra Alta High School. Some of the material dates back to 1943.

The library will celebrate its 44th anniversary in October. Plans are underway and more information with be coming soon.

Donating books, periodicals, DVDs, and pamphlets recently have been Carrie Sines, Brian Schoolcraft, Faith Riner, Doug and Pat Auvil, John Lotfink, Erma Funk, Jerry Nice, Harvey Galinn, Joyce Cotter, Linda Weaver, Cindy Cramer, Dr. Steve White, Brenda Mersing, and Hildegard May.

The Dolly Parton Imagination Library has reported that 59.5 percent of eligible children in West Virginia are receiving free books every month. Parents/guardians can sign up their children for the program at the Terra Alta Public Library. The form requires the child's birth date and the parent's/guardian's signature.

This free program is for children birth to 5 years. Age-appropriate books are mailed to the children's homes. Over 1 million books have been mailed to homes in West Virginia.

Corinth Church Slates Autumn Glory Bazaar

Corinth (W.Va.) United Methodist Church will hold its annual fall bazaar on Friday, Oct. 14, and Saturday, Oct. 15, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. each day during Garrett County's Autumn Glory Festival.

"There will be something for everyone," a church spokesperson said.

The fundraiser will feature handmade crafts and gifts, holiday decorations and ornaments, baked goods, and a soup and sandwich sale. Proceeds benefit the women's fellowship.

Directions to Corinth United Methodist from Oakland are as follows: Take Rt. 39 west past the Maryland/West Virginia line, where the highway becomes Rt. 7. The church is located on the right approximately ½ mile past the West Virginia line. From Terra Alta, W.Va., take Rt. 7 east. The church is located 4½ miles from the town on the left.

guidance to districts about what this regulation process is going to look like and what happens next," he said.

Nine members of the 12-member Maryland state board, including the student member, are Hogan appointees. The motion put forth this week was made by board member Chester E. Finn Jr., who was appointed by Hogan in 2014. He said he supports local control of calendar decisions.

Finn said that if school systems wish to apply for waivers and can show that a waiver would be in the best educational interests of students, these requests should be considered soon.

"Waiting until spring would be unhelpful to those trying to figure out the next school year," Finn said in a published report.

"Maryland has way too many disadvantaged kids who are not achieving enough in school, and for those kids, an extended school year is an educational option that should certainly be available," Finn said.

Garrett County superintendent Barbara Baker said she appreciated the state board's work.

"The action taken yesterday by the state board shows its commitment to allowing local school boards and system administrators to do what is best for the instructional needs of their students," Baker said.

Two Arrested On Theft, Possession Of CDS Charges

Following a report last week of a stolen truck in the Mtn. Lake Park area, two people were arrested last Thursday by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on vehicle theft, as well as controlled dangerous substance and paraphernalia charges. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office received a complaint of the truck being taken some time the night before.

Deputies stopped the stolen 2006 Ford Ranger along 11th Street near Southern High School on Friday, and the driver was found to be a 16-year-old juvenile. She was later released to the custody of her parents, pending charges through juvenile services.

The two passengers in the vehicle were identified as Timothy Alan Moats, 20, Oakland, and Dakota Lee Hinebaugh, 18, Oakland. The investigation revealed that Hinebaugh had taken the truck earlier in the day from the 400 block of N Street in Mtn. Lake Park. A search of the vehicle revealed quantities of marijuana, subutex, and related paraphernalia.

Hinebaugh was charged with motor vehicle theft, theft between $1,000 to $10,000, and contributing to the condition of a minor.

Moats was charged with contributing to the condition of a minor, possession with intent to distribute marijuana within 1,000 feet of a school zone, possession of marijuana, possession of zubsolv, possession of subutex, possession of CDS administering equipment (hypodermic needle), and two counts of possession of CDS paraphernalia.

The truck was reported to have two firearms: a Savage 22-250 and a Ruger 9mm handgun and two chain saws in it when it was taken, therefore, those items were reported stolen as well.

Judge Moylan Hears Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past week, with sentences handed down by Judges Stephan M. Moylan for a variety of offenses.

Dustin Michael Fike, 21, McHenry, pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree assault.

Fike was charged on July 14 by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after Lt. Zimmerman interviewed a 14-year-old victim regarding a sex offense.

According to the report, the defendant and the victim had met several times from May to July and had sexual intercourse

Moylan ruled the defendant guilty on Sept. 14 and sentenced Fike to 18 months in the Garrett County Detention Center, all suspended, and ordered two years of unsupervised probation. Moylan also issued a criminal fine of $500, $400 of which was suspended.

Michael Davis, 20, Westminster, entered an "other" plea for a charge of second-degree assault.

Davis was charged on Nov 1, 2015, after a statement from the victim was filed to the GCSO.

According to the report, Davis got into a fight with the victim about a project that the defendant was working on. Davis became upset and began to kick the victim.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict on Sept. 12, with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws and provide proof of treatment.

Marlin Lawson, Friendsville (no age given), entered an "other" plea on a second-degree assault charge.

Lawson was charged on July 16 after a statement from the victim was filed to the GCSO.

According to the report, Lawson parked behind the victim's car at the victim's house. The defendant proceeded to hit the victim in the nose after they confronted each other.

Lawson left after the victim threatened to call the police, according to the report.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict on Sept. 12 with the conditions that the defendant must obey all laws and have no contact with the victim.

Adorable Adoptables

PETS IN AUTUMN GLORY COLORS – "Fall is in the air at the Garrett County Animal Shelter," said a spokesperson. "Why not adopt these pets who have the colors of fall?" From left are Poppy, a very friendly feline who was given up by her owner; Pumpkin, a friendly calico who was found as a stray in Friendsville; Pocahontas, another calico who had her babies and is now looking for her forever home; and Homer, a shy but friendly canine who was found near Herrington Manor. For more information, persons are invited to call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MDE Presents

or the discharge of a spring used for drinking water.

• Water monitoring: An applicant must conduct one year of baseline monitoring of the surface and ground water in the vicinity of the well pad before beginning operations, including sampling of private drinking water wells within 2,500 feet of the proposed well pad. MDE will establish protocols for ongoing water monitoring throughout the life of the well.

• Replacement of contaminated water supply: If a water supply is contaminated within 2,500 feet of a gas well and within one year after drilling or hydraulic fracturing, the contamination is presumed to be caused by the permittee's drilling and operating activities unless the permittee can affirmatively show otherwise. The permittee must immediately replace the contaminated water supply.

Protection of Aquatic Habitat

• Stormwater: Stormwater discharges from the well pad are prohibited while chemicals or fuel are present on the well pad. During the production phase, the operator must follow an approved stormwater management plan.

• Well pad and chemical storage: In addition to protecting drinking water sources, the well pad design and construction requirements and the requirements for chemical handling on the well pad protect surrounding aquatic habitats from impacts to water quality from potential surface spills.

• Water withdrawals: If an operator seeks a water appropriation permit to withdraw water from a sensitive headwater stream or high quality water, MDE, in consultation with the Department of Natural Resources, may require additional studies to ensure the water withdrawal will not negatively impact aquatic life.

• Setbacks and location restrictions: A well pad may not be located within 300 feet from a stream or Wetland of Special State Concern, 100 feet from any other wetland, or within the watershed of Deep Creek Lake. An access road must be located at least 100 feet from streams and 25 feet from wetlands; if there is no feasible design to maintain these setbacks, the access road must be located to minimize impacts to aquatic habitats.

Protection of Air Quality

• Use of best available technology (BAT) for control of air emissions: The proposal requires the operator to use top-down BAT, as determined by MDE, including specific measures to reduce emissions from compressors, control devices, storage tanks, and pipelines, as well as a rigorous leak detection and repair program.

• Leak detection and repair: A permit applicant must submit a plan for leak detection and repair, including training, audits, monitoring, repair of leaking components, and electronic monitoring and storage of leak detection and repair data.

• Methane offsets: An operator must estimate the methane emissions from each well pad annually, and upon notification by MDE that allowances are available, must purchase allowances to offset methane emissions.

• Air toxics: MDE will amend its existing air toxics regulations to include equipment directly associated with hydraulic fracturing operations (e.g., drill rigs, glycol dehydrators, compressor stations and storage tanks). The air toxics regulations will require a company to estimate the emissions from those operations and to demonstrate that the ground-level concentrations, determined through modeling, are not harmful to neighboring residents.

Emergency Response and Public Safety

• Emergency response plan: Each permit applicant must submit a plan that provides procedures for preventing and responding to spills, releases, fires, or blowouts, including identifying specially trained and equipped personnel who will respond in the event of a well blowout, fire or other serious incident.

• Notification and cleanup: Any spill, release, fire, or blowout must be reported to MDE and the nearest downstream water supplier within 30 minutes of occurrence. The operator must immediately clean up any spill or release, properly dispose of waste, and report to the department on the cleanup effort and the causes of the incident.

• Site security: The site must be secured from public access and have appropriate signage.

• Blowout prevention: Each well must be equipped with blowout prevention equipment that has at least two redundant mechanisms and is tested regularly. Blowout preventers are used to shut off the flow at the wellhead in the event of a sudden, uncontrolled flow of gas from the well.

Public Participation and Access to Information

• Comprehensive Development Plan (CDP): A CDP is a plan for an operator's oil and gas development over a period of at least five years. The CDP is a useful tool that allows the operator to plan its development to minimize overall surface impacts before beginning development in an area. An applicant must complete a CDP before applying for a permit for certain types of wells, including those using hydraulic fracturing or a multi-well pad. The public and state and local agencies will have the opportunity to review and comment on the draft CDP, including in person at a public meeting in the area covered by the CDP.

• Permit review: An applicant must notify owners of land within 2,640 feet of the boundary of the proposed drillable lease area before the applicant files a permit application. MDE will publish a notice of each permit application it receives and hold a public meeting on the application. Members of the public may comment orally at the meeting or in writing.

• Disclosure of chemical information: Operators must disclose MDE, medical professionals, and public health professionals full chemical information, including names and concentrations of chemicals used in hydraulic fracturing. If a trade secret is claimed, the operator must create a second list that excludes only the concentrations and linkage to particular commercial products; this must be provided to the public and emergency response agencies.

Proper Management of Wastes and Radioactive Materials

• Management of wastes and wastewater: Flowback and produced water must be managed in a closed loop system of tanks and containers, and, unless demonstrated to not be practicable, 90 percent of wastewater must be recycled at the well pad. Flowback and produced water may not be land applied or used for de-icing, and may only be sent to a wastewater treatment facility if the discharge permit for the facility specifically allows acceptance of the wastewater. Detailed records on waste shipments must be kept, including through GPS tracking of trucks.

• Prohibition on disposal in a Class II underground injection well: The proposal prohibits disposal of flowback or produced water in a Class II underground injection well. Revisions to underground injection control regulations will also prohibit construction of a new Class II underground injection well in Maryland.

• Prohibition on use of radioactive materials at oil and gas wells: An operator may not use radioactive materials in its operations, such as radioactive charges for the perforation of casing and cement.

Well Plugging, Site Reclamation, and Financial Responsibility

• Plugging, abandonment, and bonding: The regulations contain detailed procedures for plugging wells and reclaiming the site, including deadlines, technical standards, and certification of proper plugging to MDE. A permittee must post a bond of at least $50,000 to cover the cost of plugging and site reclamation.

• Financial responsibility: A permittee must maintain insurance coverage for personal injury, property damage, and environmental pollution liability.

Department Oversight

• Oversight of drilling and hydraulic fracturing phases: The proposal requires MDE approval of an operator's proposed date to begin drilling a new well. The department will not approve drilling of a new well until that operator has completed the drilling and hydraulic fracturing of any other well it operates. This will allow the department to maintain a consistent level of oversight over the drilling and hydraulic fracturing of wells.

Blood Drive Set At Health Dept. By Red Cross

The American Red Cross will hold a blood drive on Friday, Oct. 14, from noon until 5:30 p.m. in the conference room at Garrett County Health Department, located at 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland.

The Red Cross recommends the following tips for a successful blood donation: Each donor should maintain a healthy iron level in his/her diet, stay well hydrated by drinking an extra 16 ounces of liquid before and after the donation, eat a healthful meal before the donation, and avoid foods high in fat just prior to donation. A valid identification is required for every donor.

To donate blood, a person must be healthy, weigh at least 110 pounds, be at least 17 years old (or 16 years old with parental consent form), and have not donated blood in the last 56 days.

The new RapidPass allows donors to start the blood donation process from their homes or offices, and save time at the donation site.

Persons may visit redcrossblood.org/rapidpass for more information. Rapidpass does not automatically create an appointment, so donors may choose to schedule an appointment as well to save time.

Northern Tackles Frankfort For Phil Carr's 100th Career Win

The Northern High School football team defeated Frankfort 32-13 on Friday, giving Phil Carr his 100th career victory as the Huskies' head coach, and the team's first 4-0 start since 2004.

The Huskies roared to a 26-0 lead behind a rushing attack led by Cayleb Broadwater and Calyb King, who each scored two touchdowns before the Falcons could respond.

Broadwater capped off the game's opening drive with a two-yard plunge into the end zone to give the Huskies a 6-0 lead midway through the first quarter.

The Huskies' defense stopped the Falcons on the ensuing drive, allowing Logan Yommer to return a punt 66 yards to put Northern in the red zone.

King navigated his way across the goal line a couple plays later, and Yommer threw a pass to Peyton Carr for a two-point conversion to make it 14-0 late in the first quarter.

The Falcons tried to keep the deficit within two scores in the second quarter, but King took the handoff on the last play of the half and sprinted 39 yards to give the Huskies a 20-0 halftime lead with all the momentum.

Broadwater scored his second touchdown on Northern's first offensive play in the second half when he took the handoff and raced 53 yards to extend the lead to 26-0.

Frankfort managed to get on the board after a 12-play, 80-yard drive was capped off by a 28-yard touchdown pass from Carter Houdersheldt to Nathan Streitbeck on the third quarter's final play.

The Huskies fumbled on the ensuing drive, and the Falcons capitalized midway through the fourth quarter to close the gap to 26-13.

Frankfort failed to recover the on-side kick, but forced the Huskies into a 4th-and-13 situation with less than three minutes to go at the Falcons' 22-yard line.

Yommer maneuvered 21 yards down the sideline to move the chains, and then scored on the following play with a one-yard dive up the middle.

The Huskies finished with 319 yards of total offense, with 289 coming from the ground.

Broadwater and King led the Huskies' rushing attack, accumulating 154 and 84 yards respectively while each earning 14 carries.

"We knew [Frankfort] was going to try and gang up on the line of scrimmage," said Carr. "They were trying to take away the outside early and we were able to run the powers inside."

The Falcons' attack mostly came through the air, with 141 of the 227 total yards coming from their passing attack.

Houdersheldt completed 11-of-21 passes for 141 yards and a touchdown. Strietbeck was the game's leading receiver with 42 yards on three receptions.

The Huskies return to action against Brunswick (0-4) on Friday, the first game in a three-game home stand.

Phil Carr's Road To 100

• Phil Carr began coaching the Huskies in 1997 as the eighth head coach since the program's inception in 1955.

• Carr led the Huskies to an undefeated regular season (10-0) in 1999, the team's first since Jack Lear's 9-0 team in 1964.

• The Huskies have made it to the playoffs six times during Carr's tenure, including four regional semi-final appearances, a state quarterfinal berth in 1999, and a state semi-final run in 2000.

• Coach Carr's regional championship in 1999 is one of only three times the Huskies won this title. Tom Vent (1992) and Jack Settle (1982) led the Huskies to the previous titles.

• Northern's only conference championship came under Carr in 1999, when the team won the Mountain Athletic Conference title.

• Carr's 100 wins is more than any other coach has accumulated with the Huskies. The next-closest is Lear, who racked up 60 wins during his tenure from 1961-1975.

Lady Huskies Fall To Morgantown, Smash Spartans

The Northern Huskies' girls, soccer team split a pair of matches over the past week, losing to the Morgantown Mohigans 3-0 on the road and bouncing back with an emphatic 5-1 romp at home over the Bishop Walsh Spartans.

NHS-0 at Morgantown-3

Northern was unable to find the goal as Morgantown out-shot the visiting Huskies 14-1 on Tuesday.

The Mohigans struck first less than three minutes after the opening whistle when Jahmia Bridgebutter knocked in an unassisted goal.

Sammie Brown and Miranda Kilwein extended the Mohigans' lead to 3-0 in the second half, each scoring unassisted goals with less than 15 minutes remaining in the match.

Carly Rodeheaver corralled 11 saves for the Huskies in the loss.

Bishop Walsh-1 at NHS-5

The Huskies bounced back to take down the visiting Spartans yesterday evening, scoring five unanswered goals after trailing 1-0 early in the match.

Rosie Duncan gave Bishop Walsh the lead seven minutes into the match with an unassisted goal.

Gracie Metz answered less than a minute later off a feed from Ginny Warn to score the equalizer for the Huskies.

Abby Burdock lifted Northern to a 2-1 lead on an unassisted strike, and Charity Moser made it 3-1 off a Caitlyn Smith assist with 17:56 remaining in the half.

Abby Schneider scored the first goal of the second half at the 26:07 mark off a feed from Warn, and Bethany Phillips scored the match's final goal with just under 20 minutes left on the clock on an assist from Metz.

The Huskies led 23-1 in shots and 10-2 in corner kicks.

Rodeheaver snagged four saves for the Huskies, while Maryam Klosterman tallied 18 saves in the loss.

The Huskies (5-2) play again tonight against Frankfort on Northern's home pitch at 6 p.m.

Northern Steelers Split Games With Braddock Warriors

The Northern Steelers split a pair of games with the Braddock Warriors in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action on Saturday.

The Steelers' CAYFL Division I team (1-3) fell to the Warriors 28-12.

Braddock's Matt Fuzie scored the game's first points in the second quarter when he sprinted 22 yards for a rushing touchdown. Grant Cain's conversion kick made it 8-0.

Zach Hallenbeck closed the gap to 8-6 for the Steelers when he connected with Jake Rush for a 54-yard touchdown pass before the halftime whistle.

The Warriors responded by scoring 20 unanswered points in the second half to run away with the game.

Trevan Powell marched into the end zone from 19 yards out, and Cain navigated his way across the goal line in a 6-yard run to make it 22-6 heading into the final quarter.

The Steelers scored the game's final points with a 61-yard dash from Rush to narrow the deficit to 28-12.

Isaac Bittinger and Ethan Fratz led the Steelers on the defensive side of the ball.

Northern's CAYFL Division II team (2-2) defeated the Warriors 25-13, thanks to Jamison Warnick's four touchdowns on the ground.

The Warriors dealt the first blow in the opening quarter when Malachi Dawson took a 6-yard plunge into the end zone, but Warnick answered with a 5-yard touchdown and a conversion run to put the Steelers up 7-6.

Dawson helped the Warriors retake the lead in the second quarter when he took a handoff and raced 67 yards for a touchdown. A Cayden Bratton conversion made it 13-7.

Northern tied the game late in the half when Warnick rumbled across the goal line from six yards out.

The Steelers regained the lead in the third quarter when Warnick took a one-yard dive into the end zone to make it 19-13.

Warnick put the Warriors to rest in the fourth quarter with a 60-yard touchdown scamper for the game's final points.

Northern's rushing attack amassed nearly 300 yards, with Warnick tallying 191 yards on 14 carries. Hayden Sisler also added 89 yards on 10 carries.

Chance Ritchey and Shane Fink were the Steelers' defensive leaders.

Northern will travel to face the Oakland Rams on Saturday. The division II game kicks off at 6 p.m., followed by the division I contest at 7:30.

Southern Gridders Downed By Spring Mills' Balanced Offense

The Southern High School football team was unable to stop Spring Mills' offense from netting 457 total yards, 250 from rushing and 207 through the air, as the Cardinals ran away to a 36-18 victory at the Rams' home field on Friday.

Spring Mills struck first midway through the opening quarter when Demetreus Jalepes knifed his way into the end zone from five yards out. Evin Hurt completed a two-point conversion pass to Jalepes, giving the Cardinals an 8-0 advantage.

Colton Henson added to the Cardinals' lead when he caught a pass from Hurt and galloped 30 yards into the end zone.

Guiliano Monetti III gave Spring Mills its second successful two-point conversion when he found Adam O'Donnell through the air to double the lead to 16-0.

A quick change in possession led to Jalepes adding to the lead just 46 seconds into the second quarter when he ran the ball from 17 yards away to record his second touchdown.

The Rams began to show signs of life toward the end of the half after Brad Davis took a handoff and scampered 18 yards for a score to make it 23-6.

Hayden McLaughlin continued to narrow the gap for the Rams after scoring a 9-yard touchdown run to make it 23-12 halfway through the third quarter.

Spring Mills' Monetti put the game out of reach in the fourth quarter with back-to-back touchdown passes to Hunter Mason.

The first connection came from a 15-yard strike with 10:52 remaining on the clock, and the second came four minutes later form 17 yards away.

Miguel Pereira knocked in the extra point to make it 36-12.

The Rams scored the game's final points when McLaughlin ran in from 10 yards away with 4:26 remaining to make it 36-18.

Southern compiled 190 yards of total offense while the defense recovered a pair of fumbles.

Davis tallied 43 yards on 14 carries to the lead the Rams on the ground.

Jace Guy led the Southern defense with eight tackles, followed by Joe Embleton and Cole Sweitzer who recorded six and five tackles, respectively

The Rams (0-4) will travel to Hambleton, W.Va. to take on the Tucker County Mountain Lions (2-3) tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Northern Jayvee Football Falls To Frankfort Falcons

Northern High School's jayvee football team was shut out as the Frankfort Falcons powered their way to a 34-0 win over the Huskies on Monday at Frankfort Stadium.

Nick Marley crossed the goal line from five yards away to give the Falcons a 6-0 first-quarter lead.

Marley scored another rushing touchdown in the second quarter with a four-yard plunge at the 5:11 mark.

Chandler Rhodes extended the Falcons' lead with a 26-yard jaunt into the end zone to make it 20-0 with four minutes remaining in the half.

A quick defensive stand for the Falcons allowed quarterback Kolton Kelly to connect with Kodie Slivoskey on a 4-yard touchdown pass with less than two minutes until the break to extend the lead to 27-0.

Noah Kiszka caught a 24-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter from J.J. Blank for the game's final points.

Ian Eggleston and Garrett Emory led the Huskies on defense with six tackles apiece.

The Huskies (0-4) travel to Clear Spring on Wednesday at 5 p.m.

YOUNGSTER "RUN FOR IT" – Rachel Felton (left) and Katie Hicks (right) raised support for Tucker County Youth Softball during the Tucker Community Foundation's annual Run For It race, held last weekend during the Leaf Peepers Festival in Davis, W.Va. Katie placed third in the female age 1–10 division. The foundation hosted a record number of racers and raised a record-breaking $230,000 for community causes throughout the Potomac Highlands region of West Virginia and Garrett County, according to Diane Hinkle, development director. "More than 1,300 runners, walkers, and strollers with babies – ranging from 5 weeks to 99 years young – covered the streets of Davis, vying for cash awards totaling $86,700 to donate to programs and projects they support," she said. Since the foundation started the program 10 years ago, the event has generated more than $1.2 million for the region. Executive director Robert Burns stated, "An incredible volunteer effort and strong support from race sponsors, team sponsors, and team captains continues to raise the bar for this program. The value of Run For It extends well beyond the money. Teams from eight counties have established partnerships and networks that continue to build, strengthen, and benefit our region." RAMS SOCCER FALLS TO ALLEGANY – The Southern Rams' boys soccer team fell to the visiting Allegany Campers 2-0 on Saturday. Will Baker (#22) begins to take an Allegany player one-on-one near the sideline in the above photo. In the background, Luke O'Brien (#23) marks an Allegany forward, and Lane Savage (#4) moves into open space to give Baker a passing option heading forward. Below, Southern's Michael Holllingsworth (#1) challenges three Campers for possession. See story for details. Photo by Lindsay Mulliken.

RUNNIN' RAMS BRING HOME GOLD – The Southern Rams' boys cross country team brought home the gold with a team score of 111 at the Progressive Physical Therapy Invitational on Tuesday evening at Allegany College. The Rams finished ahead of 21 other schools. Southern's Declan Horner finished second overall with a time of 16:22.4, and Ryan Hebb followed with a fourth-place time of 17:02.9. The Rams pictured above in the front row are: (from left) Kaden Taylor, Christian Jordan, Riley Drennan, Horner, Hebb, Michael Greene, Brady Horner, and Will Meagher. In the back row: Patrick Lee, Mason Wolf, Zach Warnick, Bryson Wilt, Drew Helbig, Ethan Schroyer, Patrick Duggan, and Brock Lewis. Team members Peyton and Sam Kennedy were not available for the photo.

Southern Soccer Blasts Keyser, Falls To Campers

The Southern Rams' boys soccer team split a pair of home matches over the past week, defeating Keyser 9-0 on Thursday and falling to Allegany 2-0 on Saturday.

Keyser-0 at SHS-9

The Rams featured six different goal scorers during last Thursday's romp over Keyser, with Parker Meyer, Devin Landers, and Michael Hollingsworth each netting two goals.

Southern held a 4-0 halftime lead after goals from Will Baker, Hollingsworth, Michael Duggan, and Landers.

Meyer earned the assist on the opening goal, followed by Jimmy Schwab on the second, and Baker on the third and fourth.

Schwab added his name onto the scoring column in the second half off a feed from Hollingsworth to make it 5-0.

Hollingsworth tallied his second goal of the night with an unassisted strike to extend Southern's lead to 6-0.

Meyer scored back-to-back goals, one unassisted and the next off a pass from Landers, widening the gap to 8-0.

The final goal of the match came from Landers on an assist from Meyer.

Logan Hinebaugh had six saves in the shutout victory for the Rams.

There was no box score available for this match.

Allegany-2 at SHS-0

The Allegany Campers (3-0-1) scored a goal in each half and held off the Rams' attack to earn a victory on Southern's home pitch on Saturday in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference clash.

The match remained level through the first 30 minutes of play, before Dylan Robertson received the ball from Clay Hoover and placed it into the net to give the Campers a 1-0 lead with 9:20 remaining in the half.

Allegany wasted no time doubling the lead in the second half as Hoover found Ryan Campbell who scored just 10 seconds after the break.

The Rams finished with eight shots compared to Allegany's 15 and trailed in corner kicks 1-2.

Drew Robertson corralled five saves for the Campers to give the team its fourth shutout of the season.

Southern's Hinebaugh also grabbed five saves in the loss.

The Rams (4-3-1 overall, 2-3-1 AMAC) return to action on their home pitch against Frankfort tonight at 6 p.m.

Garrett Athletes Shine In Summer Special Olympics

The summer games of the 2016 Special Olympics featured 11 Garrett County athletes in the events at Towson University in Towson, Md.

Many of the athletes represented Garrett County in the bocce events, while some participated in the aquatic games.

Bocce Doubles Results

• The duos of Dante Broadwater/Jeff Michaels and Kaleb Mearkle/Ian Riggleman earned a bronze medal.

• The teams of Laurie Bittinger/George Mattingly, Chris Kinsinger/Tom Savage, and Brenda Waters/Barry Frazee each scored a fourth place spot.

Bocce Singles Results

• Michaels and Mearkle earned gold in the singles' event.

• Riggleman brought home a silver medal.

• Bronze medalists included Mattingly, Broadwater, Kinsinger, Savage, and Waters.

• Bittinger held a fourth-place finish.

Aquatics Results

• Robin Fife was the gold medalist in the 100M backstroke, 200M backstroke, and the 50M backstroke events.

• Robert Broadwater won his way to a silver medal in the 25M freestyle and finished fifth in the 25M backstroke.

Husky Soccer Splits Results With Bishop Walsh, Frankfort

The Northern Huskies snatched a win from Bishop Walsh and lost to Frankfort in this past week's high school boys soccer action.

Bishop Walsh-1 at NHS-2

Austin Evans scored the winning goal in overtime to lift the Huskies over the visiting Bishop Walsh Spartans on Thursday evening.

Northern struck first when Joel Ross found the back of the net off a feed from Evans to give the Huskies a 1-0 lead with over seven minutes remaining in the first half.

The Huskies' back line and midfield held off the Spartans' attack for most of the match until Carson Steiner tied up the match with just 4:05 left in regulation.

The Huskies applied pressure at the beginning of overtime, allowing Ty Ulitis to find Evans for the match-deciding goal just two minutes into overtime.

Ty Kinzey had four crucial saves in the low-scoring match.

"Ty did a great job in goal for us tonight," said Northern's head coach Lynn Lais. "We've had struggles against their 3-4-3, but the whole defense did a good job of containing them. The midfield and Jaden Lais were tough for us all night."

Josh Dolan racked up 11 saves for the Spartans.

NHS-0 at Frankfort-1

Isaiah Dell's first-half goal was enough to lift the Frankfort Falcons over the visiting Huskies in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference match.

Dell's goal was assisted by Briar Cessna.

Northern had several chances to equalize, but was unable to put the ball in the back of the net despite leading in shots (9-5) and corners (5-3).

Chris Kenney recorded a shutout for the Falcons with five saves, while Ty Kinzey grabbed three saves for the Huskies.

Northern (4-3-1 overall, 2-3-1 AMAC) will travel to Greenway Avenue Stadium tonight to take on Allegany at 7 p.m.

Maryland Joins Suit Against Recovery-Drug Maker As Opioid Overdoses Rise

by Sam Reilly
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Attorney General Brian E. Frosh joined 35 other attorneys general in filing a multi-jurisdictional lawsuit last Thursday accusing the makers of Suboxone, an opioid addiction treatment, of conspiracy to monopolize and illegal restraint of trade.

British pharmaceutical company Indivior, which manufactures the drug, allegedly kept generic versions of the drug from competing with its tablet form, causing consumers and purchasers to pay "artificially high monopoly prices since late 2009," according to a statement from Frosh's office.

The opioid epidemic continues to swell, taking an average of 78 American lives each day, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and increasing steadily from year to year in Maryland.

Between January and June of this year, 920 people died of opioid overdoses in Maryland, a significant increase from the 601 overdose-related deaths that occurred in the same time frame last year, according to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Suboxone occupies opioid receptors, helping to reduce cravings and keep recovering users from suffering withdrawal symptoms.

"The defendants in this case have preyed on a vulnerable population –men and women trying [to] overcome the scourge of opioid addiction," said Frosh in the statement. "Free and fair competition is necessary to keep drug prices affordable and to keep much-needed prescription drugs accessible to those who rely on them for treatment."

Meanwhile, Indivior saw more than $1 billion in net revenue in 2015, and Suboxone maintained an average of 59 percent of the market share in the U.S. in 2015, according to the company's annual report.

Indivior, then called Reckitt Benckiser Pharmaceuticals, originally released Suboxone in the form of tablets in 2002, and secured a seven-year period of exclusivity protection, meaning no generic alternative could enter the market during that time.

The company continued to develop the film form of Suboxone, which was approved by the FDA in August 2010. The film resembles breath-mint strips, while generic alternative tablets were not on the market.

Through a series of unfounded safety concerns to the Food and Drug Administration, the attorneys general alleged in their lawsuit that the pharmaceutical company interfered in the sale of generic versions of Suboxone tablets until it eventually removed the tablet from the market completely, leaving consumers virtually no choice but to use the company's film.

"The alleged scheme the defendants utilized denied consumers the choice of a generic version of Suboxone," Pennsylvania attorney general Bruce Beemer said. "This conduct forced consumers to pay more for Suboxone and severely limited their options for treating their opioid addictions."

Indivior received notice of the suit, which is being brought by 35 states and the District of Columbia, and released a statement acknowledging the allegations Friday.

"The company intends to continue to vigorously defend its position," Indivior wrote.

Maryland Lead Poisoning Case Numbers Low

A report released yesterday by the Maryland Department of the Environment shows that childhood lead poisoning in Maryland remains near record-low levels. However, the 2015 Childhood Blood Lead Surveillance report also finds that the number of children tested for the disease has stagnated in recent years, and that the number of lead poisoning cases increased in areas of the state where testing was not mandated – underscoring the importance of the state's new lead testing plan.

The Hogan administration announced a new Lead Testing Targeting Plan for Childhood Lead, which calls for all Maryland children to be tested at ages 1 and 2 regardless of where they live. Regulations adopted this year to implement the plan also make it easier for doctors' offices to test for lead poisoning during routine visits, reducing the need for parents to make a separate trip to other medical facilities to have their children tested.

The report shows that the percentage of tested young children in Maryland with blood lead levels at or above the level that triggers actions under state law increased slightly compared to the 2014 record-low level, but remained at approximately 0.3 percent. The report shows that 1.2 percent of tested children in Baltimore showed elevated blood lead, a slight increase compared to the year before when the lowest percentage smce enactment of the law was recorded.

These findings represent a decrease since 1993 of more than 98 percent in the number of young children reported to have lead poisoning. Much of the decline in blood lead levels is the result of implementation and enforcement of Maryland's 1994 Reduction of Lead Risk in Housing Act.

In addition to the new lead testing plan, under the Hogan administration Maryland has moved to protect more children from the health risks associated with lead paint poisoning by enforcing an expansion of the type of rental housing covered by the state's lead law. Starting in 2015, rental properties built prior to 1978 are required to register with the Department of the Environment and comply with the lead law's other requirements. Before that change in the law, only rental properties built prior to 1950 were covered by the law. As of 2015, more than 50,000 units built between 1950 and 1978 were registered with the Department of the Environment, bringing the total number of units registered to more than 146,000.

The report also shows a continuing decline in the percentage of tested children exhibiting lead in their blood at levels that are below the state's legally defined elevated level of 10 micrograms per deciliter. Even blood lead levels below 10 micrograms per deciliter are of concern based on guidance from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The Maryland Department of the Environment and the Baltimore City Health Department are coordinating to investigate pre-1978 rental units in the city where children with test results of 5-9 micrograms per deciliter reside.

Humane Society Slates Fundraiser During Autumn Glory Festival

The Garrett County Humane Society will hold a fundraiser at two locations during the 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival.

Members will have a sales table set up on Friday, Oct. 14, and Saturday, Oct. 15, during the Glorious Harvest Farmers Market & Craft Show at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland.

They will also be set up at the Autumn Glory Craft & Gift Sale, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 15, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 16, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

"Please stop by and check out our tables, buy something for yourself or a friend, and help the Garrett County Humane Society in return," said GCHS president Lisa Baker. "All sorts of items will be available, including cookie cutters, ornaments, specialized Monopoly games, adoptable Beanies, homemade dog treats, and humorous wooden block signs.

The GCHS is a local nonprofit volunteer organization that has been helping homeless, abused, and neglected animals for over 30 years.

"To continue our important work, we depend on donations, contributions placed in coin cans at area businesses, and fundraisers," Baker said. "For more information visit us on Facebook or our website, garrettcohumanesociety.com."

SHELBY IS "WARMING UP" for the many Autumn Glory Festival activities by donning her best fall sweater. Her favorite group, the Garrett County Humane Society, will have numerous items available for purchase at two locations. See story for details.

'ACT Scores Up, SATs Down For Class Of 2016

Maryland student scores on the ACT exam hit a new high for the class of 2016, while scores on the SAT exam fell slightly for that same class.

In data released Tuesday, Maryland SAT scores dipped slightly, dropping 2 points in critical reading to 490, 4 points in math to 490, and 4 points in writing to 476. Maryland student participation in the current version of the SAT also fell, as the College Board began testing a new version of the exam with students.

Meanwhile, Maryland participation and success in the ACT assessment continues to rise. More than a quarter of Maryland's graduating seniors took the ACT last year, according to data released late last month – more than triple the number of students taking the exam in 2005.

Maryland student scores on the competing ACT exam continue to improve. Maryland's composite ACT score hit 23.0, compared to 20.8 for the nation. Maryland's composite score was 20.5 in 2005, compared to a national composite of 20.9.

Participation on the current SAT exam has dropped for the past two years, from nearly 50,000 students to 47,449, mirroring a trend found in other parts of the country.

Scores on the SAT assessments also have been on a modest decline for several years, both in Maryland and throughout the nation. The critical reading score dropped 3 points nationally (compared to 2 points in Maryland), while math dropped 4 points (4 in Maryland) and 5 points in writing (4 points in Maryland).

The national mean score for 2016 was 494, compared to 497 last year; math mean score was 508 compared to 512; and writing was 482 compared to 487.

The College Board is shifting its attention to what it has dubbed "the new SAT," which has a new design and officials say is better aligned to other exams offered by the organization, such as the PSAT. The College Board also launched a partnership with the Kahn Academy last year to provide free online tutoring services.

More than 36,000 students took the new version of the SAT between March and June of this year. Board officials said that this transition to the new test makes it difficult to compare this year's results with those of previous years.

SAT results can be found online at www.collegeboard.org.

While the SAT has been Maryland's dominant college readiness exam for decades, the nation's other major college readiness exam – the ACT – has been making dramatic gains in participation. At the same time, scores have risen.

Nearly 17,000 Maryland students (16,769) took the exam in 2015, compared to 15,753 last year and 13,334 in 2012. Numbers of test takers have been on the rise across all race categories.

According to the recently released data, Maryland's ACT scores improved in every subject. English jumped from 22.3 in 2015 to 22.6 this year, mathematics improved from 22.5 to 22.7, reading increased from 23.2 to 23.6, and science moved from 22.5 to 22.8.

Maryland students rank ahead of the national averages in all four testing categories. National average scores are as follows: English, 20.1; mathematics, 20.6; reading, 21.3; and science, 20.8. All four scores fell for 2016.

ACT results are available on its website.

Legion To Serve Turkey Dinners During Festival

Turkey dinners with "all the trimmings" will be available during the 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival on Saturday, Oct. 15, at American Legion Post 71, Oakland, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The post is located along Memorial Drive across from Garrett Regional Medical Center.

The cost of a meal is $9 for adults and $5 for children. Proceeds benefit Post 71.

Parking will be available at the legion for those attending the Grand Feature Parade. The cost is $8 per vehicle.

Volunteers Being Sought For Income Tax Prep Program

Garrett County Community Action is looking for volunteers to assist low- to moderate-income Garrett County residents through its Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program.

Located at the Mary Browning Center in Oakland, the VITA site not only offers free income tax preparation, but also assists clients with financial counseling and asset building strategies.

The agency needs volunteers to prepare tax returns from Jan. 30 through April 13, 2017. They will be trained and will have a choice of taking the certification exam either online on their own or in a classroom setting.

"Although the best part about volunteering as a tax preparation counselor is the appreciation we receive from the public, I have to say it is also fun throughout the tax season," said a volunteer from the past tax season. "We become like a family by April 15."

Persons interested in volunteering are asked to contact Kristian Weigman at 301-334-9431, ext 6142, or kweigman@garrettcac.org.

Harvest Festival Slated At Crellin Assembly Of God

Crellin Assembly of God Church will hold a harvest festival this Sunday, Oct. 2, from 2 to 4 p.m. Food, games, a bounce house, obstacle course/slide, cake walks, face painting, and door prizes will be featured.

"Everything is free," a spokesperson said. "There will be something for all ages. Come and enjoy the afternoon."

The church is located at 2220 Hutton Road. For more information, persons are invited to call 301-334-3867.

Philippine Church To Hear Trinity Choir On Sunday

The choir of a congregation in Garrett County will be singing a Sunday anthem in a small church on the China Sea in the Philippines via the internet.

Trinity United Church of Christ (UCC) recorded the anthem last week, alongside its sister congregation, St. John's United Church of Christ in Salisbury, Pa., in preparation for World Communion Sunday on Oct. 2.

A UCC congregation in the Philippines is doing the same – sending music through the internet to the mountains of western Maryland and southwestern Pennsylvania.

"World Communion Sunday is a global celebration," said Rev. Dr. Alexa Smith, pastor of the two "yoked" congregations.

The local churches will unite in worship at 11 a.m. this Sunday at St. John's UCC, located at 153 Ord St.

"So many barriers separate people in this country and around the world, whether it is color, class, language, national borders, rich or poor," Smith said. "This day marks the church's commitment to global community and it gathers members around the communion table despite all of those obstacles. It breaks the barriers down."

For members at Trinity and St. John's, the day is an introduction to a small congregation that invited the two churches into a partnership a few months ago.

"Music is a language that speaks universally," said New Germany resident Gale Keller, choir director at Trinity and the organist at both churches. "You might say that it speaks to the soul, which is why it is the perfect way for us to meet our Philippine partners and for them to meet us."

This is the first congregationwide activity to begin that exploration, assisted by Salisbury sound engineer Joseph Valo.

Five years ago, the Penn West Conference, a regional body of the UCC, began a study, exploring ways to engage in global partnership that are more congregation based. The conference recently formalized a partnership with the United Church of Christ in the Philippines.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. The center is open on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

Friday, Sept. 30

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Sang Run. Guests are invited to come learn tips to birding by ear and to listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through Friend's Delight. All should meet at the kayak launch with binoculars and waterproof hiking boots. This walk is of medium difficulty and will last approximately 2½ hours.

Saturday, Oct. 1

• 10 a.m. – Indoor Hawk ID Class. Guests are invited to join the staff of the Discovery Center for an indoor hawk identification class. The characteristics of flight, and the wing beat and shape will be studied for identification from a distance.

• 2 p.m. – Hungry Critters. Guests are invited to meet the naturalists inside the Discovery Center as they feed the center's animals. Participants may be able to touch a live reptile or amphibian. Free.

Sunday, Oct. 2

• 11 a.m. – Monarch Madness. All are invited to join the naturalist on the deck for a tagging and release of a Monarch butterfly. Then participants may color a butterfly to send to children in Mexico.

• Throughout the Afternoon – Hawk Watch at Dan's Mountain State Park. Bird-watchers can put their identification skills to the test by joining park staff on the rocks at Dan's Mountain State Park for an afternoon of hawk watching. Staff members will be on hand to help with spotting and identifying. The Discovery Center Nature Store has field guides and other gear in stock.

Amish Church To Host Annual AGF Breakfast Buffet

Amish residents of the Pleasant Valley area will host their annual Autumn Glory Breakfast Buffet on Saturday, Oct. 15, from 6 to 11 a.m. in the community center.

Pancakes, sausage, biscuits, sausage gravy, scrambled eggs, hash browns, cheese sauce, fruit, bacon, coffee cakes, cinnamon rolls, cottage cheese, and beverages will be available.

The cost is $12 for adults, $6 for children 4 to 10 years of age, and free for children 3 and younger.

Proceeds from the event go to pay hospital bills and/or charitable causes.

Directions to the community center are as follows: from Oakland, take Rt. 219 south for 3½ miles and turn left onto Paul Friend Road, turn right onto Joni Miller Road for ¼ mile. The Pleasant Valley Community Center is on the right.

Bethel UM Church Schedules Annual Craft Show, Sale

Bethel United Methodist Church, 512 Dave Turney Street, Mountain Lake Park, will hold its annual Autumn Glory Festival craft show and sale from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 13, Friday, Oct. 14, and Saturday, Oct. 15. Admission is free.

Available will be crocheted and other needle crafts; loom-woven rugs; American Girl doll clothes; thrown pottery; country, floral, wooden, and holiday crafts; baked goods and much more.

Drive One 4UR School Event Set For Oct. 1

Diehl's Ford Sales, Grantsville, will host a Drive 4UR School event to benefit Northern Garrett High School on Saturday, Oct. 1 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"Come out to Diehl's Ford Sales on this day, take a short, absolutely no-pressure test drive in a new Ford, complete a short survey, and Ford Motor company will donate $20 to Northern High School," said Vivian Diehl, office manager/vice president. "There is absolutely no cost to you except a few minutes of your time."

Various groups from the school will also be present, conducting individual fundraisers for their group. There will be a car wash, bake sale, fall decorations for purchase, 50/50 raffle, and food.

"Please come out and support our students," Diehl said. "We need 300 test rides to earn the maximum $6,000 of Ford Motor Company's donation."

Through these events, Diehl's Ford has helped to raise in excess of $50,000 for Northern High School alone, and additional events have also been raised funds for other local organizations, according to Diehl.

Persons must be 18 years of age or older and have a valid driver's license to participate in the test drive.

OCTOBER SUN AND MOON – At the start of October, Garrett County sunrises are at about 7:15 a.m., with sunsets at about 7 p.m. In October, the sun appears in the star group Virgo until Oct. 30, when it moves into Libra. At the end of October, local sunrises are at about 7:45 a.m. with sunsets at about 6:18 p.m. During October, the amount of daily sunlight drops by 1 hour and 20 minutes. The moon shifts from the morning to the evening side of the sun on Oct. 1 (new moon). On Oct. 3, the moon may be seen below and to the left of the brilliant planet Venus (look around 7:30 p.m.). The crescent moon appears near the planet Saturn on the evenings of Oct. 5 and 6. On Oct. 8, the half-full moon appears above the yellowish planet Mars. The moon is fullest on the evening of Oct. 15, shining in front of the stars of Pisces. The distant planet Uranus then appears several degrees above the moon. (Uranus is about 2 billion miles from the sun and Earth, so it is barely visible to the eye.) For the next three nights, there will be some extra evening moonlight. October's full moon is known as the Hunters' Moon. Two days after full, the moon will be at its closest to the Earth for the month, making it a little brighter. By Oct. 22, the moon will have shifted into the morning sky, appearing half-full at dawn. On Oct. 28, a slender crescent moon will appear near the bright planet Jupiter in the 6:30 a.m. southeastern dawn. On Oct. 30, the moon again shifts from the morning to the evening side of the sun.

OCTOBER PLANETS – Mars can be seen as a "yellowish" star low in the southwest dusk. The dimmer planet Saturn appears to the right of Mars. Each night, Saturn drifts a little farther from Mars and closer to the horizon. In the last few days of October, Saturn and brilliant Venus can be seen together low in the western dusk (try about 6:50 p.m. from a place with a flat western horizon). The planet Jupiter's angle to the sun increases in October. Jupiter will be tough to view in early October; in late October, it will be higher and easier to spot. The innermost planet Mercury may be seen in early October, low in the 6:45 a.m. eastern dawn.

OCTOBER STARS & GROUPS – The brightest star pattern in October is the Summer Triangle, appearing high in the western evening sky. It's brightest star is Vega, appearing high in the west. Above and to the left of Vega is Deneb, the highest of the triangle stars. Then below Vega and Deneb is Altair at the tip of the triangle. The long sides of the triangle point roughly south. On moonless evenings (late October), the Milky Way can be seen as a delicate glow running near the Summer Triangle. Near the eastern horizon is the bright golden star Capella. Further to the right is the Seven Sisters star cluster, resembling a tangle of lightning bugs.

At 5 a.m., the brightest jewels of the winter evening skies are on display, including Orion, the brightest night star Sirius, and Taurus. The Big Dipper seems to be standing on its handle. In the east, Leo is prominent with his sickle (head and chest) climbing into the sky.

OCTOBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium has free public programs each Wednesday at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. There will also be a Saturday program on Oct. 8 at 8 p.m. The planetarium is in Room 186 of the Gira Center. The October feature is "The Lives of the Stars – Part One."

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

"Maryland Proud" License Plate Is Now Available

Marylanders can now display their pride in their home state with the Maryland Department of Transportation's Motor Vehicle Administration's new "Maryland Proud" license plate. The plate "hit the streets" on Monday.

Gov. Larry Hogan unveiled the design last month, which prominently features the state flag. The new standard-issue plate is available for all passenger cars, SUVs, trucks, motorcycles, and multipurpose vehicles.

"From the driver's license to the license plate, Marylanders can show their state pride wherever they travel," said transportation secretary Pete Rahn.

The new plate meets all state standards and has passed all law-enforcement testing for readability.

The Maryland Proud plate will replace the War of 1812 plate, but customers who want to keep their existing plates do not need to get the new plate. Those who want to replace their existing license plates will pay the current $20 replacement cost. Registration renewal costs remain unchanged.

All vehicles purchased on/after Sept. 26 will be issued the new plate unless customers want to transfer their existing plates to their vehicles.

"We anticipate that the beautifully designed Maryland Proud plates will be very popular and strongly encourage our customers to order them online," said MVA administrator Christine E. Nizer.

To order the new Maryland Proud plate, residents can visit the MVA website at mva.maryland.gov and click Online Services. The new plates will arrive in the mail within seven to 10 business days.

All Maryland license plates are manufactured by Maryland Correctional Enterprises, a division of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services. MVA issues approximately 740,000 sets of license plates per year.

Earlier this year, the MVA launched the new Maryland-themed driver's license and identification card. The new cards feature multiple layers of security to help prevent identity theft and fraud, and are one of the most secure products in the nation, according to the MVA.

Jones To Lead Men's Rally At Church Of God

DR. AARON JONES

Men of all ages are invited to attend a men's rally titled "Rise Up" this Saturday, Oct. 1, at the Loch Lynn Church of God, beginning at 6 p.m. The guest speaker at the event will be Dr. Aaron Jones, senior pastor of New Hope Church of God in Waldorf.

The church is located at 8649 Gorman Road, Loch Lynn.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221 or visit the website at www.llcog.org.

Nazarene Church To Host Annual Fall Revival

DAN FREDERICK

A fall revival will be held at Oakland Church of the Nazarene Sunday through Wednesday, Oct. 2–5. The services will be held at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sunday, and 7 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

The guest speaker and soloist for the event will be evangelist Dan Frederick of Grayson, Ky.

The public is invited to attend all of the services. The church is located at 203 S. 8th Street, Oakland.

Capps To Be Guest At Loch Lynn Church

Tony Capps will be the guest speaker at Loch Lynn Church of God on Sunday, Oct. 9. He will be ministering in the 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m. services.

Capps is the president and chief executive officer of InVision Ministries Inc., a church-support organization committed to strengthening local churches and to helping pastors clarify and fulfill their visions.

With a background in business management and in denominational and local church ministry, he views pastoral work from a unique perspective, a spokesperson said. He maintains that sound principles from the business world can be integrated into spiritual work "with impressive results."

He and his wife Pam reside in Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Pastors Ivan and Cindy Ackerman and the congregation at Loch Lynn invite the public to attend. The church is located at 8649 Gorman Road, Loch Lynn, beside WKHJ radio station.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

THROUGH THE GATES

The afternoon sun spotlights the majestic façade of a mansion, seen through the gates that keep out all but the chosen. The gates of heaven are never closed to anyone; our Father opens His arms to us all. He only requires that we trust in Him. He wants us to join Him in His mansion. We strive to reach our spiritual goals, but often our human nature gets in the way. Learn how to reach your goals with God's help at your house of worship; walk through His gate, it's always open.

Low People in High Places

A person's position in society or in an organization doesn't always correlate with his or her moral stature. The CEO of the company is sometimes a jerk while the cleaning lady or the guy who runs the mailroom may be the nicest person you'd ever meet. The ambition which it takes to get to high places may induce some people to cut corners or treat others poorly, whereas the person who does the so-called "menial" work may realize that she serves others and thus act accordingly. There is a spiritual lesson here which it behooves us to pay attention to. That is, we should be willing to do menial work and also be willing to associate with "lowly" people. People who work in the caring professions (doctors, nurses, teachers and social workers, among others) know that everyone has their cross to bear, and even the lowliest among us have a story to tell. So take time to hear their story and don't be afraid to associate with the lowly. Angels have been known to come among us in the form of wayfaring strangers.

— Christopher Simon

"Do not be proud, but be willing to associate with people of low position. Do not be conceited."

— Romans 12:16 NIV

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was 20th-century Florida politician Claude Pepper, member of the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives, who made the following sage observation: "If more politicians in this country were thinking about the next generation instead of the next election, it might be better for the United States and the world."

* Those who study such things say that the letter "s" begins more words in the English language than any other letter. The letter "c" takes second place, followed by "p" in third.

* In 1958, a woman named Ella Petry, then residing in St. Leonardson-by-the-Sea, England, spent 21 days carrying an egg around in the bosom of her dress, successfully hatching a chick at the end of the three-week period.

* It's been claimed that English is the only language that capitalizes the pronoun "I."

* It may be difficult to picture a pope in anything other than the robes of office, but they certainly lead normal lives when they're young. Pope John Paul II reputedly was an excellent soccer goalkeeper, and he worked as a playwright -- and even performed as an actor in some productions.

* When black sheep get old, their wool turns gray.

Thought for the Day: "Moral certainty is always a sign of cultural inferiority. The more uncivilized the man, the surer he is that he knows precisely what is right and what is wrong. All human progress, even in morals, has been the work of men who have doubted the current moral values, not of men who have whooped them up and tried to enforce them. The truly civilized man is always skeptical and tolerant, in this field as in all others. His culture is based on 'I am not too sure.'" -- H.L. Mencken

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Oct. 6, 1866, in Indiana, the Reno gang carries out the first robbery of a moving train in the U.S., making off with over $10,000. Holding up moving trains in remote locations soon became popular in the American West.

* On Oct. 5, 1947, President Harry Truman makes the first-ever televised presidential address from the White House, asking Americans to cut back on their use of grain in order to help starving Europeans. He asked that the public voluntarily forgo meat on Tuesdays, eggs and poultry on Thursdays and to save a slice of bread each day.

* On Oct. 4, 1957, the "Space Age" begins with the Soviet Union's launch of Sputnik, the world's first artificial satellite. Other firsts for the Soviet space program included first man in space, first woman, first three men, first space walk and first to orbit the moon.

* On Oct. 3, 1961, the United Auto Workers union goes on strike at Ford plants across the country to win higher wages and better benefits. It was the first company-wide strike since Ford had agreed to a collective-bargaining deal in 1941.

* On Oct. 8, 1970, Matt Damon, the future star of a long list of hit movies, including "The Bourne Identity," is born in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Damon, who left Harvard University before graduating to pursue an acting career, made his big-screen debut with a small role in 1988's "Mystic Pizza."

* On Oct. 7, 1984, at Soldier Field, Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton runs for 154 yards to become the NFL's all-time rushing leader, breaking the record set by Cleveland's Jim Brown in 1965.

Cat on a Leash

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I was at the park across the street the other day and saw my neighbor there. Get this: She was walking her cat. With a collar and leash. I didn't know that was even possible, but the cat looked pretty content. How did my neighbor do that? -- Gerry in San Diego
DEAR GERRY: It's something you'll probably see more of, especially in cities and anywhere that pet owners live in smaller spaces with indoor cats. Bringing one's cat outside on a leash allows it to roam around outside, supervised, for a little while each day. Naturally, most cats don't take well to a leash and collar setup. A collar, when tugged on by the leash, can be really uncomfortable for cats. So cat owners should use a harness instead, which is more comfortable and stays secure when properly put on. Getting the cat into the harness may take a little time, but with repeated sessions and lots of rewards, many cats get comfortable enough with the harness to walk around (rather than flop down and play dead until it's removed, for example). Walking a cat is done only to get it outside, exploring the landscape. Cats don't typically go pee or poop on command, and rarely in strange places, so don't expect that to happen -- the litter box needs to stay in place. And you won't see them heeling or doing tricks on command either. That's more of a dog thing. Of course, owners still need to brush their cat's fur to make sure no fleas or ticks hitch a ride into the house, and check their paws for cuts or burrs. That's a small inconvenience in return for a happier cat. Send your questions or pet care tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Q: I have a disc water pitcher made by Fiesta. I purchased it at a flea market for $75 and would like to resell it. I understand these pitchers are now selling for as much as $300 each. Mine is cobalt blue. -- Nancy, Reno, Nevada
A: Your pitcher might be worth that much if it was authentic. It isn't. What you purchased is a reproduction. Color is often a tipoff for Fiesta fakes and reproductions. One of the better references is "Fiesta: Identification and Price Guide" by Glen Victorey. Four of the original colors for the disc water pitchers are forest green, chartreuse, turquoise and rose.

Q: I have a secretary desk that my parents purchased at auction in 1943. It is identified as being made by the Hekman Furniture Company. It has become a family heirloom but has been refinished and is not in its original state. Should I take it and have it professionally restored? -- Carol, Bloomington, Indiana
A: The Hekman Furniture Company was founded in Grand Rapids, Michigan, in 1922 by three brothers: Henry, Jelle and John Hekman. The first pieces produced were occasional tables. In 1942, the company relocated its main show room to the Merchandise Mart in Chicago. During World War II, the plant made glider bottoms and ammunition boxes. The 1960s and '70s were a period of great expansion, and the company still exists.
I have examined the picture you sent me of your desk, and I think it was probably manufactured during the 1930s. Only you can determine if you want to have it professionally restored. Consider the cost of this service against the current value of your desk.

Q: I have a pair of plastic salt and pepper shakers that look like Phillips 66 gasoline pumps. Are they worth keeping? -- Betty, Buffalo, New York
A: Your salt and pepper shakers were manufactured during the 1950s and were given away as premiums by Phillips 66 stations. They are valued in the $25 to $35 range by the "Salt and Pepper Price Guide," by Mark Moran and published by Krause Books.

Birding BITS
BY Cindy Brook

Monarch Protection

A chemical in milkweed causes monarch caterpillars to be poisonous to birds. While these caterpillars will not kill a bird if eaten, they taste pretty bad and birds will spit it out. This offers great protection for caterpillars, since birds will not try to eat them again.

Coach Carr's 100th Win

Coach Carr recently celebrated his 100th career win as the head football coach.

Relay for Life – Girl's Varsity Club

During home sporting events this week, members of the Girl's Varsity Club will be collecting donations for their Relay for Life team. To go along with the NHS Relay for Life event, the FOR Club (Friends of Rachel) will be making a chain link for everyone who makes a donation to RFL. Rachel wanted everyone to start "a chain reaction of kindness and compassion." All classes were challenged here at NHS to build a chain in their classrooms.

Kids Helping Kids Food Drive

The SSA is sponsoring a Kids Helping Kis Food Drive with food scheduled to be collected Oct. 3–28. Students are asked to bring donated food to their enrichment teachers. The class that collects the most items will receive a huge prize. The most needed food items are: canned tuna, pasta, rice, canned vegetables, canned fruits and juices, and nonperishable breakfast items. Food and funds collected during the drive will be donated to community food banks for distribution to shelters and food pantries.

Juniors – PSATs

The Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) is a program co-sponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC). This standardized test will be offered at Northern High School on Wednesday, Oct. 19, in the morning. The PSAT provides first-hand practice for the SAT and gives students a chance to enter NMSC scholarship programs and gain access to college and career planning tools. The cost of the exam for juniors is $15, and checks can be made out to NHS. Any junior interested in taking this exam needs to sign up in the Counseling Office by the end of Thursday, Oct. 13.

Selective Service Registration

Any male interested in registering for Selective Service may do so within a month of his 18th birthday. Selective Service now accepts early submission of registration when an applicant turns 17 years and 3 months old. This is a federal law, and those who fail to do so may be denied student loans, job training, government jobs, and driver licenses in most states. Those interested in signing up or who have questions may see Mr. Hummel or Mrs. Shirko.

ASVAB Testing

The ASVAB (Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery) test will be administered at NHS on Thursday, Oct. 13, during first and second periods. The ASVAB is a timed multi-aptitude test, which is given at over 14,000 schools and is developed and maintained by the Department of Defense. Any student interested in taking this exam needs to sign up in the Counseling Office or with SGM Hoffman by Friday, Oct. 7.

Important Senior Meetings

All seniors will be met with to go over senior information (scholarships, FAFSA, post-secondary planning, etc.) on Monday, Oct. 3, and Tuesday, Oct. 4, during enrichment period (1:15 to 1:50 p.m.) in the lower cafeteria. Seniors with the last name A through K will meet on Monday, Oct. 3, and seniors with the last name L through Z will meet on Tuesday, Oct. 4. All seniors, even those on a modified schedule, must attend one of these two meetings. Those with questions or concerns may contact Mr. Hummel or Mrs Shirko.

NHS Yearbooks

There are a limited number of 2015-16 yearbooks available for a cost of $70. Any student interested in purchasing one should see Mrs. Fleming with cash or checks made payable to Northern High School.

Sales for the 2016-17 yearbooks will begin next week. Students will receive flyers in homeroom. The discounted fall price is $57, and the price continues to rise throughout the year.

Garrett County College Expo

The annual Garrett County College Expo will be held on Monday, Oct. 10, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Garrett College Community Aquatics and Recreation Complex (CARC). Students can meet with over 40 college, military, and technical school representatives. There will be a financial aid workshop offered from 6 to 6:30 p.m. Four scholarships will be awarded for use at any college to two Northern Garrett and two Southern Garrett seniors. For more information about the College Expo, persons may call 301-387-3044 or contact the NHS Counselor Center.

MVA Forms

Any student going to the MVA for his/her learner's permit, must take along the Verification of Identity and/or School Attendance Form DL-300. These forms are available online at the MVA website or can be picked up in the counseling center or outside the main office in the forms holder. This form must be completed and signed by the parent and student and then a school signature is required, and it must be placed in a sealed envelope for delivery to the MVA.

Music Boosters Jewelry/Cash Bash

A Music Boosters Jewelry/Cash Bash will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Garrett College Special Events Center (old gym). All proceeds will benefit Northern High Music Boosters, which supports both the band and choral programs. Tickets are $25 and are available for pre-order now. Tickets must be presented for admission. All jewelry prizes are final, and additional jewelry and cash will be chanced off. Winners not present will be notified. The doors will open at noon, and food and refreshments are included in the cost of the ticket. Entertainment will be provided by NHS band and chorus, and the jewelry is provided by Terry's Jewelry. Questions can be directed to Darlene Bonitz at tabfloorz@yahoo.com or band director Duane Salisbury at duane.salisbury@garrettcountyschools.org. Readers are also encouraged to check out the Music Boosters Facebook page to see all the beautiful jewelry items that can be won. Ticket holders are eligible for a 25% discount off the retail price of any purchase at Terry's Jewelry, 41 Baltimore Street, Cumberland.

Senior Class

The class of 2017 officers and advisors will soon be asking their fellow seniors for ideas for class colors, flower, song, and motto. After ideas are collected, seniors will be voting on them.

NHS Relay for Life

The first team meeting of Northern High School's Relay for Life team will be held on Monday, Oct. 3, beginning at 5 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The group is always looking for new teams, ideas, and participants to help organize/plan the event. Questions can be sent to debra.ahern@garrettcountyschools.org. Any help is greatly appreciated.

The new season website that is normally up and running by the first week of September has been delayed. In response to many complaints about the websites, ACS has been working to redesign the websites from the ground up. It is hoped that by Oct. 1 they will be live. The site will display the 2017 shirt designs. The Hope Lives Here campaign will be held again this year, which gives everyone the opportunity to earn additional shirts. Because of the website delay, the Nov. 14 deadline will be changed likely to some time in December.

Senior Parents

The senior class will be selling Krispy Kreme donuts starting Sept. 30 through Oct. 13. The delivery date is Oct. 26. Each senior is asked to sell five boxes of donuts, so all seniors will get their senior T-shirts for free.

2016-17 Essay Contest

A.I. robots are all too human in 'Westworld'

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

With "Game of Thrones" just two short seasons away from the end of its run, HBO has turned its sights on another large-scale epic to fill the upcoming void. With that in mind, prepare to get hooked on "Westworld," an ambitious sci-fi western thriller based on Michael Crichton's 1973 movie, and positively teeming with star power. The highly anticipated series premieres Sunday, Oct. 2, on HBO.

We know this about Crichton: he knows how to make a cutting-edge theme park dissolve into utter calamity. Two decades before dinosaurs rampaged across Isla Nublar in "Jurassic Park" (1993), androids ran amok in "Westworld" (1973).

HBO's version of "Westworld," like the film, takes place at a theme park in the near future, where technological advancements have allowed for the creation of near-human robots known as "hosts." The hosts populate the park — Westworld — and are programmed to believe that they live in an American frontier town during the late 19th century. For a hefty sum, visitors can act out their wildest fantasies, however base, salacious or violent, in a totally safe environment: the hosts can be hurt or killed, but they can't hurt or kill back. Needless to say, it doesn't stay that way.

The creator of these lifelike machines is the brilliant Dr. Robert Ford, played by screen legend Sir Anthony Hopkins ("Hannibal," 2001). Hopkins is joined by an all-star cast, and the series boasts enough A-listers to populate a Hollywood blockbuster. Ed Harris ("A Beautiful Mind," 2001), Evan Rachel Wood ("The Wrestler," 2008), James Marsden ("X-Men," 2000), Thandie Newton ("The Pursuit of Happyness," 2006), Jeffrey Wright ("Casino Royale," 2006) and Rodrigo Santoro ("300," 2006) all grace the screen, with J.J. Abrams — who seems to have a hand in just about every sci-fi production these days — among the show's executive producers.

Artificial intelligence is always a fascinating subject to explore — and kind of a spooky one, particularly with how advanced we already are in the field. Westworld is essentially a pleasure island where filthy rich adults can do whatever they like to the hosts, who look, sound and feel completely human — as, indeed, they believe themselves to be. The series looks at the nature of humanity and sentience, and what exactly makes something alive.

When a glitch in the hosts appears to cause true sentience, they suddenly have an awareness of what's happening to them and the ability and desire to fight back — and that's where things get sticky for the park visitors.

"We're dealing with human nature from two perspectives," co-creator Jonathan Nolan told the Los Angeles Times. Unlike the film, which is told primarily from the perspective of two human visitors to "Westworld" who get caught up in the breakdown of the system, the series lets us see into the realities of both the humans and the hosts. The story opens on Dolores (Wood), a naive prairie girl who comes to recognize that the world and life she's always known are a complete lie. The viewer is fully immersed in this western frontier world before we even get the broader view of what it actually is.

From there, the story goes back and forth between human and host — and we don't always know which is which. Indeed, certain actors aren't even sure whether their character is "alive" or not, so secretive are the showrunners.

It goes without saying that Crichton was years ahead of his time: he cooked up the idea of a computer virus before the first occurrence of the real thing. Now, however, artificial intelligence isn't a sci-fi concept, it's all but upon us.

"Picture your neurosis," Nolan said to Entertainment Weekly. "Picture the things that keep you up at night — human behavior, artificial intelligence — any of those things that trouble you, worry you. That is exactly what the show is about."

In terms of production, the series is drawing a lot of comparisons to "Game of Thrones" — another large-scale series with a massive cast, set in a place where very little is black and white (the same composer, Ramin Djawadi, even scores both series). Like "Game of Thrones," showrunners also have the majority of the series mapped out from the get-go — yet, unlike that series, "Westworld" has only a screenplay to work from, rather than a seven-book novel series and the writer himself.

"We wanted a big story," Nolan told Entertainment Weekly. "We wanted the story of the origin of a new species and how that would play out in its complexity."

To that end, production went on a brief hiatus back in January to lay all the groundwork — both short term and long.

"It wasn't about getting the first 10 [episodes] done, it was about mapping out what the next five or six years are going to be," Marsden said in the same EW piece. "We wanted everything in line so that when the very last episode airs and we have our show finale, five or seven years down the line, we knew how it was going to end the first season."

That's good news for "Westworld" fans-to-be. Assuming the show takes off, we can expect at least five seasons. The series premieres Sunday, Oct. 2, on HBO.

Legal 'Conviction'

ABC's latest drama gives things a topical twist

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Legal 'Conviction': Hayes Morrison was once the president's daughter, with all the trappings and glamor that living in the spotlight as the nation's first daughter brought, and there's a good chance that she will be again, now that her mother is running for the highest office in the land.

Sound familiar? On the surface, ABC's latest drama, "Conviction," might sound like a documentary about Chelsea Clinton, but the similarities stop right there.

Premiering Monday, Oct. 3, "Conviction" stars "Agent Carter's" Hayley Atwell as Hayes, a young woman who grew up in the spotlight but now finds herself locked in a struggle with drugs — and also with keeping herself out of trouble.

With her mother running a presidential campaign, familial connections are used to land Hayes the thankless job of working as a member of a conviction review team under Manhattan's district attorney — a job that is supposed to keep her out of trouble.

It's a case-of-the-week procedural that has the familiar trappings of any legal drama, but it's Atwell's wide acting range that makes "Conviction" stand out from the crowd.

While reviewing court cases and exonerating the wrongly convicted, Hayes starts to find a new respect for herself — a respect that isn't always shared by others on the tight-knit team she must work with.

Of course, Atwell isn't acting alone. She's backed up by a strong supporting cast. Eddie Cahill ("CSI: NY") stars as DA Conner Wallace and Daniel Franzese ("Mean Girls," 2004) as Hayes' brother, Jackson. Shawn Ashmore ("X-Men: Days of Future Past," 2014), Merrin Dungey ("Alias"), Emily Kinney ("The Walking Dead") and Manny Montana ("Graceland") help to round out the cast of characters around the former First Daughter.

Watch the premiere of "Conviction," airing Monday, Oct. 3, on ABC.

Morgan's justice: Morgan Freeman is robing up for a second time. The Oscar-winning actor has starred in some of Hollywood's biggest hits, including "The Dark Knight" (2008) and "The Shawshank Redemption" (1994), and currently serves as an executive producer on CBS's "Madam Secretary," the political drama that follows the secretary of state as she tries to balance her work life with her family life back home.

Just as he did for the second season's premiere, Freeman is stepping out from behind the camera and appearing on screen for the third season's premiere, airing Sunday, Oct. 2, on CBS. He's returning to the role he played previously, donning the robes of the Supreme Court's Chief Justice Frawley.

And that's not all. In another déjà-vu moment that harkens back to last season's premiere, Freeman also directs the episode.

He's appearing alongside the series' star, Téa Leoni ("Fun with Dick and Jane," 2005), who plays Secretary of State Elizabeth McCord. The series also stars Tim Daly ("Private Practice"), Keith Carradine ("Fargo"), Geoffrey Arend ("500 Days of Summer," 2009), Patina Miller ("The Hunger Games: Mockingjay - Part 1," 2014) and Erich Bergen ("How Sweet it Is," 2013).

The third season is expected to pick up right where the second left off: with McCord considering the president's offer of becoming his pick for vice-president.

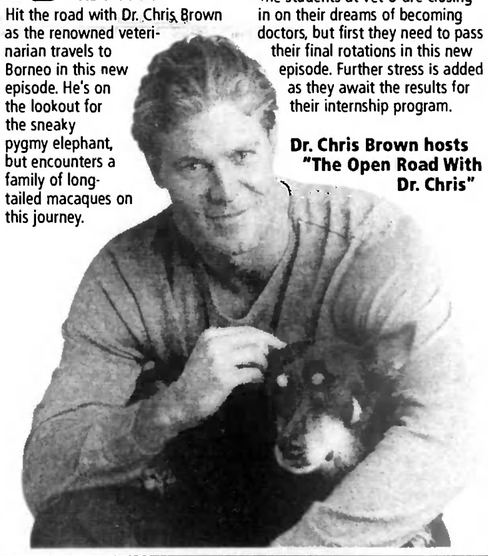
The Pioneer Woman
(60) FOOD 9:30 a.m.
While shopping for a wedding gift, Ree finds some great tools at a local kitchen store in this rebroadcast. She purchases the tools and then shares some of the great dishes she can make with each. Later, Ree cooks up fun spicy sausage dogs.

SpongeBob SquarePants
(47) NICK 10:30 a.m.
Nickelodeon serves up back-to-back new episodes of this animated series. First, SpongeBob posts a community bulletin board in the Krusty Krab, but some anonymous reviews lead to trouble. Also, Pearl wants to get a job to be cool.

The Open Road With Dr. Chris
(5) (19) 11:30 a.m.
Hit the road with Dr. Chris Brown as the renowned veterinarian travels to Borneo in this new episode. He's on the lookout for the sneaky pygmy elephant, but encounters a family of long-tailed macaques on this journey.



Dr. Chris Brown hosts "The Open Road With Dr. Chris"

Ghost Adventures
(49) TRAVEL 9:00 p.m.
Cameras follow the Ghost Adventurers as they return to Virginia City, Nevada, where they investigate two properties once owned by the legendary mining tycoon John Mackay.

Gamer's Guide to Pretty Much Everything
(45) DISN 10:00 p.m.
The Thumbs of Fury crew find out where they rank in the International Gaming League in the Disney Channel premiere of this episode. Unfortunately, their ranking causes problems for the team. Cameron Boyce, Murray Wyatt and Sophie Reynolds star.

Life at Vet U
(58) ANPL 10:00 p.m.
The students at Vet U are closing in on their dreams of becoming doctors, but first they need to pass their final rotations in this new episode. Further stress is added as they await the results for their internship program.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE TO PUBLIC
OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND
NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

Date: September 30, 2016
Name of Grantee: Board of County Commissioners
Address of Grantee: 203 South Fourth Street, Room 207, Oakland, MD 21550
Phone Number of Grantee: 301.334.8970

The purpose of this Notice is to satisfy two separate but related procedural requirements for activities to be taken by the Garrett County, Maryland.

On or about October 17, 2016 the above named Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) release funds of the Maryland DHCD to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Keyser's Ridge Business Park Water Infrastructure – Phase 1
Purpose of Project: To construct water treatment plant and associated infrastructure which will serve the Keyser's Ridge Business Park and surrounding Keyser's Ridge community to create new jobs.
Location: Parcel 0145 on National Pike, Grantsville, MD 21536
Total Project Costs: $1.3M

Finding of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the above named municipality has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined that said project(s) will have no significant impact on the human environment Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required and no further environmental review of the project is proposed prior to requesting the Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following: The Maryland Historical Trust has determined there are no historic properties affected by this undertaking. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Maryland Department of Environment (MDE) found this project to be consistent with their plans, programs and objectives, contingent upon actions being performed (1) in conformance with State regulations, to include Maryland's anti-degradation policies for special protections for high-quality waters and Maryland Stormwater Management Controls, and (2) remain consistent with the Garrett County Water and Sewer Plan. Other factors required to be reviewed in the assessment also resulted in a finding of no significant impact.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of these project(s) is available for public examination at the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County offices during normal businesses hours.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments regarding the environmental impacts of the described project(s) to the offices of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County and to the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than October 17, 2016. All comments will be considered and the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the project(s) prior to this date.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County will undertake the project(s) described above with Appalachian Regional Commission funds. This Notice also certifies that Paul C. Edwards, serving in the official capacity of Chair, Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews decision-making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County may use the Appalachian Regional Commission funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if one or more of the following apply: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer, or (b) that the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County has omitted a step or failed to make a decision or finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58; or (c) the grant recipient or other participants in the development process have committed funds, incurred costs or undertaken activities not authorized by this part before Release of Funds and approval of the environmental certification by DHCD; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County and to the CDBG Environmental Officer, MD Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, Maryland 21032-2023. All such comments must be received no later than November 4, 2016. 9/29

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AND ANY IMPROVEMENTS THEREON

306 SHADY ACRE LA.
MT. LAKE PARK A/R/T/A OAKLAND, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust dated November 30, 2006 and recorded in Liber 1275, Folio 369 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, with an original principal balance of $260,800.00 and a current interest rate of 7.5% default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

OCTOBER 19, 2016, AT 1:30 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with any buildings or improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, and any improvements thereon, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $25,000 in the form of certified check, cashier's check or money order will be required of the purchaser at time and place of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year's real property taxes are adjusted as of the date of sale, and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Taxes due for prior years including costs of any tax sale are payable by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for any recapture of homestead tax credit. All other public and/or private charges or assessments, to the extent such amounts survive foreclosure sale, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale to be paid by the purchaser. All costs of deed recordation including but not limited to all transfer, recordation, agricultural or other taxes or charges assessed by any governmental entity as a condition to recordation, are payable by purchaser, whether or not purchaser is a Maryland First Time Home Buyer. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, subject to order of court, purchaser agrees that property will be resold and entire deposit retained by Sub Trustees as liquidated damages for all losses occasioned by the purchaser's default and purchaser shall have no further liability. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Sub. Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if ratification of the sale is denied by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. TAKING A TOUR of a local ginseng farm recently were students of Frostburg State University who are majoring in ethnobotany. Above, student Madison Lawrence of Lonaconing looks at a ginseng plant and its berries held by Larry Harding, owner of Harding's Ginseng Farm near Friendsville. Below, students look for a worm inside of a ginseng plant being held by Harding. See story for details.

Frostburg Ethnobotany Students Gain Insight Into Local Ginseng Operation

Frostburg State University ethnobotany students found out that while money doesn't grow on trees, it might grow in the ground in the form of American ginseng, cultivated near Friendsville.

Introduction to Ethnobotany students traveled to visit Harding's Ginseng Farm in Friendsville where the family business operated by Larry Harding is still going strong today, thanks to increasing Asian demand and a corresponding surge in price for American ginseng, which is endangered in the wild.

Ethnobotany major Laura Price of Fayetteville, W.Va., said she was fascinated with the local pride in ginseng.

"The owner mentioned that ginseng is not only a part of Asian culture, but also Appalachian culture, which is something you don't hear too often," Price said. "He's right; it has been an integral part of our culture here, and it was really exciting to see someone embrace that."

Price already earned a bachelor's degree in sociology from West Virginia Wesleyan College and decided to attend FSU for its ethnobotany program after being inspired by a botanist at Wesleyan. FSU has the only undergraduate ethnobotany major program in the U.S. that is still accepting students.

"I feel very grateful and proud to be in this major, and hope that I can make just as much of a difference one day," Price said.

Ethnobotany students study the relationships between plants and how people use them in the program. The tour of the ginseng farm demonstrated how a local crop is maintained and cultivated for a national and international demand.

Ginseng, considered to be sort of a wonder drug in Asia, is believed to have numerous benefits, ranging from lowering blood sugar and cholesterol to helping relaxation, and can be used as an aphrodisiac.

The root is anything but easy money, as the students found out from Harding, who grows wild and wild simulated ginseng.

Maryland has its own regulations and permits for ginseng harvests. Also, the federal government only allows wild and wild-simulated American ginseng roots to be exported if the plants are five years old or older, which isn't a concern for Harding. The Asian market will pay a premium for older roots, which are more potent.

"When it hits Asia, it is an ungodly price," Harding, 59, told the students.

Even on the West Coast, where American ginseng doesn't naturally grow and cities have a large Asian population, the price will be high.

"In San Francisco, one half pound of wild American ginseng root will sell for $7,000," Harding added. "It's mind-boggling that this root sells for $500 to $1,000 a pound here."

About 200 to 300 roots make up a pound of ginseng, Harding said, and the market price depends on the type of ginseng (cultivated, wild-simulated, and wild).

It's a small miracle if a ginseng root can reach older ages, Harding explained, adding that ginseng grows best under a tree canopy's shade and a dry fall could ruin the crop. It has to be protected from fungus and disease, worms, and wildlife eating the crops. Harding has probably seen it all since he learned the business as a child from his late father, Kenneth Harding.

If nature doesn't take it, man will. The high price of the crop makes it susceptible to poaching, prompting Harding and other growers to be armed with ammunition and security cameras. State and federal park rangers are also patrolling government-owned forests to help prevent ginseng poaching, too.

Hearing Harding weave in poaching tales in with the education of a ginseng economy and agricultural management helped ethnobotany student Brian Maurice relate to his coursework on medicinal plants.

"It's invaluable to have an immersive experience," said Maurice, a Chicago resident also majoring in computer science. "If I were to study all of this in a textbook, it wouldn't stick as well. I wouldn't have anything to connect it with, but Larry has all this heritage and has this story behind it. If I didn't have it, it wouldn't be as easy to understand why things are the way they are."

More information about FSU's ethnobotany program can be found online at www.frostburg.edu/home/academic/majorminors/bachelor/bachelor-in-ethnobotany.
